Never Again

Walter Fullen and his wife examine a lawn chair made of horseshoes at their Woodstock, Ont. home. Mr. Fullen used horseshoes from around the world — including one from the horse ridden by Lorne Greene in the television series, Bonanza — to construct the 30-pound chair. But he said he'd never build another one — it takes too much time. (CP Photo)

Library Corner

ANTIQUES FROM THE VICTORIAN HOME — Bea Howe.

Bea Howe has been a collector of Victoriana for many years and is recognized as an authority on the subject. Here she considers the furniture and decorative objects in a Victorian home as they would be used room by room. Many small items are included, such as bird cages and visiting-card cases, door knockers and shaving mugs. Quotations from literature of the period make this book a pleasure to read.

DOCTOR TAYLOR'S GUIDE TO HEALTHY SKIN FOR ALL AGES — Robert B. Taylor.

A successful family physician answers the hundreds of questions he has been asked about skin care and problems of everything from cancer to cold sores, from boils to baldness. As well, he has emphasized prevention of problems and describes how to acquire a healthy skin.

LEATHERCRAFT BY HAND — Jan Faulkner.

Tells you how to produce attractive, practical garments and accessories quickly and without a sewing machine; at reasonable prices. Hundreds of diagrams plus step-by-step instructions for making garments together, decorative stitches, etc.

THE KEEP IT SHORT AND SIMPLE PARTY MENU BOOK — Ruth H. Brent.

Here are twenty-four complete parties for all ages and seasons plus many tips on becoming a proficient host or hostess. There are menus and recipes for dishes requiring at most, four ingredients, followed by how to serve each dish. Table settings and ideas for decorations are also given.

STABLE MANAGEMENT FOR THE OWNER-GROOM — George Wheatley.

Mr. Wheatley, who has been associated with horses since the age of two, and is now a riding instructor in England, feels that a large part of the pleasure of owning a horse lies in looking after it, grooming, handling and feeding it. He has written a book aimed at those acquiring a horse for the first time. It is detailed, clearly written and well illustrated.

Solzhenitsyn Book Removed From List

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia department of education has decided to remove a book by Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn from the list of books available for reading by high school students from the provincial book bureau.

Education Minister William Gillis says his department reached the decision after some parents complained about the kind of language contained in the English translation of One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich.

Mr. Gillis said, however, there were not "a large number of complaints" and those filed were mainly from a handful of parents and a couple of community organizations.

The minister agreed that students should be mature enough to decide on their reading material but "parents want to have some input as to what their children read."

While no new copies of the book will be circulated to school libraries, those that have the book can continue to use them in the library.

Mr. Gillis said also that the decision does not mean that the book could be put back on the list again in another year.

Solzhenitsyn's book about Ivan Denisovich is considered by many authorities to be a classic in depicting the harsh treatment and brutal punishment that was life in Soviet prison camps.

Saint John Zoo Animals Arrive

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—(CP) — Camels, zebras, leopards and other animals were unloaded from a Canadian National boxcar here recently to form the nucleus of a zoo in the city.

The animals travelled in style.

Their car, known as a Palace Horse Car, was attached to the CN's top Trans-Canada passenger train for the trip from a Winnipeg zoo to Moncton. Their car was then attached to the Halifax-bound Scotian passenger train and switched at Moncton to a fast freight for the trip to Saint John.

Truck Driver Students Find Jobs Plentiful

EDMONTON (CP) — Graduates of a truck-driver training program at Grant MacEwan Community College aren't having any problems finding jobs.

"Ninety per cent of the graduates are able to get immediate employment because of the increasing shortage of qualified truck drivers in the industry," says R. J. Pacey, co-ordinator of the provincial Priority Employment Program (P.E.P.) at the college.

The training costs of $650 a student are paid by P.E.P. or federal Manpower offices. More than 70 students already have graduated from the program.

The students get instruction in everything from gasoline to tires. Behind-the-wheel training is offered on five different types of trucks.

Few Repeaters

Cliff Pope, "a recovered alcoholic," is co-ordinator of Alberta's program for persons convicted of impaired driving. Mr. Pope, who was convicted of impaired driving four times, says the course is working. More than 2,400 persons have taken the course and "we've had few repeaters." (CP Photo)

'Sober Drunk' Directs Alberta Safety Drive

EDMONTON (CP) — Cliff Pope has a wealth of unhappy experience to draw on when he talks to motorists in Alberta's impaired driving program.

"I'm a 'sober drunk' . . . a recovered alcoholic," says Mr. Pope, co-ordinator of the program run by the Alberta Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Commission.

"When I talk about impaired driving, I know the effects."

Mr. Pope was charged 17 times with impaired driving offences, had four convictions and spent time in jail. With several of his business ventures ruined by his bouts with alcohol, he decided to reform and got interested in the commission's innovative program for persons convicted of impaired driving.

With only a Grade 8 education, Mr. Pope went back to school, became involved in the program and now plays a big part in its development.

Based on a pilot project in Penticton, Ariz., the Alberta program started in 1970, the first of its type in Canada.

Persons convicted of impaired driving, refusing to take a breath analysis test or failure to pass the test may be ordered to participate in the program by a judge as a condition of probation. The judge is not obligated to force all convicted impaired drivers to take the course.

Mr. Pope is convinced the program works and hasn't much time for judges who won't use it. "Any judge who knows about the program and doesn't put people on it, shouldn't be on the bench."

The four-night program, spread over a month, consists of discussions and films on the consequences of impaired driving. Any skilled into the average class of 25 motorists. If program directors think a motorist needs treatment for alcoholism, they recommend treatment through one of the commission's counselling services.

Individuals must go for the treatment or face having their driver's licence suspended. "That's our big stick," said Mr. Pope.

More than 2,400 persons have participated in the program. "We know the course is working," said Mr. Pope. "We've had few repeaters."

A survey by the University of Alberta over a 12-month period showed that 18 per cent of the drivers throughout the province who were convicted of impaired driving or breath analysis offences who didn't take the course were arrested again on the same charge. But only 3½ per cent of the motorists who took the course were second offenders.

"There's a lot of resentment the first night of the program," said Mr. Pope. "Many people are just damn mad at the world and the police for dragging them in here. We feel they should be mad at themselves."

The attitude usually changes by the second week and Mr. Pope reports that by the end of the month, most motorists are glad they had an opportunity to take the course.

Most accept Mr. Pope's admonition "You're a damn idiot if you think the program and then go out and drink and drive."

The course is offered in 16 Alberta communities and Mr. Pope estimates that about 15 communities in other provinces have followed Alberta's lead and started a similar program. Several communities in the United States also have established courses based on Alberta's experiences.

Foster Mausoleum Ontario's Taj Mahal

UXBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — On the brow of a hill about three miles north of this town about 30 miles northeast of Toronto stands Ontario's answer to the Taj Mahal — the Foster mausoleum.

The Thomas Foster Memorial Temple is a marble-domed, Byzantine structure, built in the 1930s by a former mayor of Toronto as a mausoleum for himself and his wife and daughter.

Tom Foster was elected mayor in 1915 at the age of 72. He was mighty noted for his position ig, spending, a reputation built up during 11 years as an alderman and nine as a controller.

He made his own money in real estate and by tight-fisted frugality.

He bought butter by the half-pound in order to insure it was used before spoiling and when he travelled to Ottawa, with an official or civic business, he reserved one room for them to share and packed a lunch for the rails.

His wife and daugh ter had both died before he became mayor and he brightened his later years, following his defeat in a mayoral race at age 78, by travel.

While he was in India, standing at the Taj Mahal, the idea of the temple came to him.

The temple was completed while he was 87, one of the wonders of the time.

The structure, 60 feet high, 80 feet deep and 35 feet wide, cost $250,000 and the price tag likely would be millions today.

It stands on a terrace 97 feet long and 87 feet wide and is surrounded by a cedar hedge.

When Tom Foster died in 1945, at the age of 93, he left other memorials, including a $600,000 trust that still pays interest to the University of Toronto for cancer research and almost $100,000 for picnics for Toronto children that are still held.

An $80,000 fund provided for the upkeep of the memorial.

Today, the tomb is open to visitors on the first and third Sundays of the month between June and September and thousands visit it annually.

The one question that many of them ask is: "Just who was Foster."

Kerry and Friend

Kerry O'Neil (left) plays with a kitten on the farm at Clarkburg, Ont., with Pat Parker, a speech and audiology student at the University of Western Ontario. Pat is working with 19-year-old Kerry, who suffers from autism, a severe learning disorder. Kerry's father is building a $130,000 addition to the farm as a treatment and research centre for autistic people. (CP Photo)

Centre Planned For Autistic Folk

CLARKSBURG, Ont. (CP) — Kerry O'Neil is 19 and can't speak. To communicate, she uses her hands.

Kerry suffers from autism, a severe learning disorder that hinders her ability to use and understand language.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Val O'Neil, believe Kerry can be helped but say there are no proper facilities to help a girl her age.

"A lot is being done for autistic pre-schoolers in Ontario," Mr. O'Neil said in an interview, "but nothing is available for them when they become adolescents."

But the O'Neils plan to take the matter into their own hands by building a $130,000 addition to their farm—a treatment and research centre for autistic people.

The centre, to be called Kerry's Place, will be used by nine other autistic people when it is completed, perhaps by October.

"We are limiting the number of children to 10 because any more and it will be just another institution," Mr. O'Neil said. "This way, it has the large-family atmosphere."

The children will live at the centre five days a week, 11 months a year. They will spend weekends at home.

The school will be staffed by part-time psychiatrists, psychologists, speech therapists and a full-time teacher, employed by the Grey County board of education.

Kerry has had no schooling, except four years in a school for retarded children where she was asked to leave because she wasn't improving and couldn't be helped there.

Her problem was first noticed when she was three months old.

Mrs. O'Neil said the family thought Kerry was "one in a million; that we were the only ones with an autistic child."

When she was a year old, Kerry's parents took her to doctors and institutions but to no avail.

"Medical authorities don't fully understand the problem," Mr. O'Neil said, "but they believe it could be biochemical."

A two-week pilot project at the O'Neil farm last summer for seven autistic youths was encouraging, Mr. O'Neil said.

"The psychiatrists and psychologists said they learned more about autistic people in those two weeks than in five years in an institution."

Margo Bartlett, professional director of the Ontario Society for Autistic Children, said the youths were more relaxed on the farm and tried things they would not have done in an institution.

"Most of the children lost some of their behavioral problems," she said.

The purpose of the new centre will be to treat the youths so they can be placed into society, either in a normal school or a job, Miss Bartlett said.

"There will be a turnover, but we'll no doubt run into a few cases where they will remain on the farm."

The ministry of health and the Ontario Society for Autistic Children will finance the staff of the school.

The pilot project last year was financed by a research grant from the ministry and was under the auspices of the society.

Last year, the society was made a non-profit private corporation with the aims of getting a program for autistic children and to disseminate information to the public.

"The society hopes to set up schools like ours all over Ontario and eventually become nationwide," said Mr. O'Neil. He and his wife are both society members.

Billie Jean and Julie Lead the Freedoms

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Billie Jean King and Julie Anthony downed Toronto's Laura Sessoms and Wendy Overton 6-1 Tuesday night to lead Philadelphia Freedoms to a 22-18 win over Toronto-Buffalo Royals in World Team Tennis action.

The victory doubled the win-doubled which enabled the Freedoms to hand the Royals their 13th defeat in a row although the Toronto team won three of the night's five matches.

A crowd of 5,895, largest of the season in Toronto, saw the Royals come within a game of winning when a mixed doubles team of Miss Overton and Mike Estep downed Miss Anthony and Buster Mottram 6-3 in the final match of the night.

In Tuesday's other matches, Pittsburgh Triangles edged Boston Lobsters 29-27, Cleveland Nets clobbered New York Sets 33-19 and Denver Racquets defeated Chicago Aces 32-22.

Peggy Michel and Gerald Battrick defeated Janet Newberry and Roger Taylor 6-3 in the final match to give the Triangles their win over Boston.

Nancy Gunter beat Wimbledon semi-finalist Virginia Wade, then teamed with Peaches Bartkowicz for a double win as the Sets swept all five matches at Cleveland.

Francois Durr defeated Sue Barker 6-4 in women's singles, then teamed with Kris Kemmer to defeat Rita Bentley and Janet Young-64 in women's doubles to lead Denver to its win.

Ruben Wins Boxing Title Featherweight

INGLEWOOD, Calif (AP) — Former bantamweight champion Ruben Olivares of Mexico City knocked out Zenroku Hasegawa of Japan in the seventh round Tuesday night to win the World Boxing Association's featherweight title.

Olivares, 25, had the 135½-pound Hagawa down twice earlier in the seventh round before knocking him unconscious with the right one minute and 37 seconds old.

Uzagawa was on the canvas about three minutes before being revived.

A crowd of 13,300 watched Olivares, 26, dominate his foe from Tokyo, many times slamming home a right to the body an left to the head.

Uzagawa entered the ring with a 25-2 record claiming never to have been knocked down during his professional career.

Olivares, who held the world 118-pound title on two occasions between 1967 and 1972, scored the 67th knockout of his career and it was his 75th victory. He has lost four times and fought one draw.

The WBA crown was vacated with the retirement of Ernesto Marcel of Panama. Olagawa was rated the No. 1 contender and Olivares No. 2 when they signed for this scheduled 15-round title match.

Stingers Spoilers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last-place Syracuse Stingers spoiled the comeback bid of Philadelphia Wings to move into first place Tuesday night in the National Lacrosse League.

The Stingers upset the Wings 16-14 at Philadelphia, leaving them one point behind first-place Rochester Griffins, who dropped a 17-16 decision to Toronto Tomahawks in Philadelphia's other game.

The Griffins, who have played one less game than the Wings, were without goalie Merv Hammell, who was sidelined by a back injury, and leading scorer Rick Dudley, who missed the game at a one-game suspension.

Jim Higgs scored two goals and picked up seven assists for the Stingers, whose win was their sixth in 22 tries this season.

Gaylord Powless and Pat Dilfer scored three goals each for Syracuse, with Bill Hope, Robbie Patten and Paul Cicci adding two each.

Terry Lloyd scored three goals and Garry Cloutier and Mike Collins two each for the Wings before a Philadelphia crowd of 7,396.

A crowd of 4,466 saw Brian Thompson score four goals and pick up three assists and goalie Bob McKenzie make 40 saves for the Tomahawks.

Bob Clarke, Jim Wilson, Larry Bell and Gilchrist Marlowe had two goals apiece for Toronto. Rick Bisson scored three times and Dave Johnston twice for Rochester.

The Tomahawks are at Syracuse for tonight's only scheduled game.

Stukus Leaves The Jets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association and general manager Annis Stukus have parted company, Stukus said Tuesday.

The general manager said he has reached a "mutual agreement" with club president Ben Hatskin regarding the time left in his contract.

The team has been sold to a community-based group in Winnipeg, and Stukus said he understands he was to be offered a job with the new owners as a public relations man—a job he said he is not interested in.

The new owners have indicated they will do away with the general manager's job once Hatskin finally talks over the club and will rely on businessmen to handle its business affairs.

Stukus said Tuesday he has not yet decided what his next job will be but said he is considering a move to the West Coast and going back into radio work.

History of Lawn Bowling

By AUSTIN WATKIN

The history of lawn bowling in Belleville dates back to the early 1900s when the greens were located on the lower end of William Street, opposite Queen Alexander School.

Lack of records and the fact that there are no club members from that era, means very little is known of the club in those years.

The lawn bowling club has been at its present Yeomans Street location since 1933 when a 12-green layout was available for use. A few years later, four more greens were added and the club boasts 16 today.

Clubhouse facilities have been improved in the several years over the years. Most of the work has been done by club members.

In the late 1930s, it was not unusual to see the greens being used by 136 bowlers for an after supper jitney. Participation has declined since those days with so many activities occupying the time of everyone.

This has not dampened the enthusiasm of the local lawn bowlers who are not lacking in competitive spirit.

One of Ontario's premier lawn bowling weekends takes place annually every Civic Holiday with the Watkin Memorial mixed doubles being played on the Saturday.

This tournament is in memory of the late George Watkin who helped get the greens started and their present location. A son, Gordon, is also remembered in this way. He was a top competitor with the club in the 1950s and 60s.

On the Sunday, the outstanding Curtis Cole Trophy Tournament which has survived the years, takes place.

Its founder and chairman for many years through the 30s was H. Clifford Argue, who, along with former member Jerry Hyde, was honored by being named president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association.

Mr. Argue held that position in 1959 and Mr. Hyde in 1966.

The Curtis Tournament is sure to be 100 this year. Ever after year, the event has brought the best in the sport not only from Ontario but Quebec and the U.S. as well.

Belleville's club has been host at a host for champion ship competitors.

Into what was considered to be an old man's game, over the scene younger enthusiasts of the sport who began to make their presence felt, taking prizes which had been, until then reserved for older, more experienced lawn bowlers.

In 1955, Carl Watkin skipped for Bruce Miller to win the first ever Ontario Championship for the local club. The pair repeated the performance in 1959 and went on to add the Canadian Championship award to the trophy case.

These wins were a first for the club but since then, Jerry Hyde and Miller have taken the Provincial title in 1967 and Miller, Lloyd Avery and John Sager repeating in 1968.

The club is justifiably proud of these accomplishments by its members.

Not to be outdone, the ladies of the club have also had their share of championship honors.

In 1971, Mrs. George Watkin, Mrs. Orlo Smith and Mrs. Goldie Fitzgibbon won the Provincial Championship in Hamilton.

Sinatra Quits Tour

MELBOURNE (Reuter) — Frank Sinatra has called off his Australian tour and will not perform at a sell-out concert here tonight, a spokesman for his entourage said today.

The announcement came at Sinatra's hotel just hours after a theatrical union slapped a ban on his tour unless he apologized for an alleged assault by his staff on a photographer and for calling women reporters here "hookers."

Sinatra's spokesman said the singer will not apologize and is demanding that the Australian press apologize to him.

He said Sinatra has ordered his private jet to be prepared at a Melbourne airport as that ju can fly back to the U.S. tonight, but did not say whether Sinatra will leave.

Sinatra was scheduled to give five concerts in Australia, two in Melbourne and three in Sydney. He performed only the one, at Melbourne's Festival Hall Tuesday night.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, July 11

Aries (March 21-April 19) Personal plans will not be exercised as freely as you'd like due to some restrictions forced on you by others.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You are going to be disappointed with one you have treated generously who will reciprocate in a miserly fashion.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) In making any purchases, be sure to check the items or materials over thoroughly to be certain you are getting all you have paid for.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You know what you'd like to achieve and how you should go about it, yet it isn't likely you'll take any positive action now.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't be too hasty to agree to something you haven't thought through clearly from all angles, or you will regret it later.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A door will be closed to a source that is usually available when you are in need of help. Look for other means quickly.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The other party is taking a much sterner view than you think regarding something you are collectively involved in. Be careful.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The person you are doing a service for does not place as high a value upon it as you do. Get it clear on terms.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep everything out in the open in all your activities. You are apt to get caught if you resort to trickery.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's better you don't make any promises at all than to promise one thing and deliver something else.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Putting things off until the last minute is going to catch up with you shortly. A big, fat headache will result.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Your desire for something you want badly may tempt you to spend a trifle more than your budget can safely handle.

Switch-pitch Act Baffles Rollins

Bob Ethier started on the Howard and Robert Printing mound in their contest with Rollins Construction last night. And he finished the game, allowing only two hits in taking a 4-1 victory. But in between, he also played first base, sharing the pitching chores with Scott Reid, who also shared in the win, allowing three hits.

The pair alternated positions in the game on fewer than 17 times, switching back and forth between the pitching and infield spots, keeping the Rollins hitters off guard, with the left-handed Ethier pitching to left handed batters, and Reid, the righty, to the right-handers.

It was the fifth win in a row for the Printers who have given up four runs in the stretch. Opposition batters have collected only 12 hits in the stringe, with five of them coming last night.

Ethier pitched to a total of 14 batters, fanning three of them, while Reid managed two strikeouts in the 13 batters he faced. Neither gave up a base on balls.

Ken Demille took the loss. He managed three strike outs, walking two.

Ken Greenwood had the big bit for the Printers, a fifth inning home run over the left field fence.

The Printers collected seven other hits off Demille, all singles. Larry Potter and Wayne Woods each stroked a pair, with Reid, Pug Keller, and Ethier each adding one.

Dale Howard had a triple, off Ethier, for the only extra base hit Rollins could muster, with Wayne McTaggart reaching Reid for two singles. Other hits went to Carl Boomhower and Glen Carlton.

The loss was the third in the last four games for the manufacturers, leaving them only six points up on Howard and Robert, the Rollers team has 26 points, with H and R in at 20.

The second game, although closer in score, was more concentrated in play. In it, the Ellis Printing Juniors shaded Bardon Supplies 3-2 to move into a tie with Auger Men's Wear for third place. Each team has 16 points, two ahead of fifth place DeVolin Motors.

Winning hurler John Sprackett gave up four hits to Bardon batters, leaving seven splashing third strikes and walking only one. It was his fifth win of the season, against only two defeats.

Wayne McConnell took his fifth loss of the year, nicked for seven hits. He struck out two and gave up three walks.

The Juniors hits were all singles, but were well timed to produce the three runs, including the winning hit by Bob Campbell in the fourth inning which drove in Dave Demille from second base.

Wayne Andrews had a pair of safties to pace the attack, with Jim Richardson, Peter Stalikovich, Ken Vos, Demille, and Campbell each poking one.

Ted Wallwork was tops at the plate for Bardon with a pair of triples, with McConnell and Gary Clinton adding the others, both singles.

In Thursday's games, Auger Men's Wear takes on the Juniors in the opener, with the red hot Howard and Robert team meeting Devolin Motors in the nightcap.

McDonalds Tournament Attracts 10 Top Teams

By ALAN TEBWORTH
Sports Staff

This weekend's First Annual McDonald's Squirt Softball Tournament is shaping up to be one of the best tourneys ever presented by the Belleville Minor Softball Association.

According to the president of the Association, and convenor of the tournament, Don Smith, everything seems to be falling exactly into place, right from the organization to the actual calibre of the 10 teams coming in.

McDonald's has thrown their full support behind the tournament, including developing a full scale advertising this week towards the tourney right down to providing of food vouchers for the players, coaches, managers, heads, convenors and others involved in the day long event.

The tournament has been set up in a slightly different style than conventional ones, with the result "to present a worthy and deserving champion", according to Smith.

Most other tournaments, and as Belleville has in the past, use the method of an A and B sides to the draw. This one is set up quite a bit differently, with the two sides of the tourney abandoned in favor of a winners versus losers allusion.

After the first round, which will start at 8:30 Saturday morning the winners will meet the losers, except in the case of the Richmond Hill — Woodstock game. The two teams will receive a bye past the second round. Richmond Hill is the defending championship.

From then on in, however, it's winners only, with the final four games hopefully pitting only the top teams against each other.

The championship match will have one of the finalists having played back to back matches, the only drawback to the system, which organizers could not get away from.

Richmond Hill, the defending tournament champions, are back to put their title up for grabs. They will meet Woodstock in the first game of the first round, in a match at the Alemite at 10 a.m.

In other first round games, Belleville Kinsmen take on Springbrook at 8:30 at the Alemite, Napanee Ryan Color and Sound, meets Stirling Legion, at Queen Victoria North at 8:30, Aldewood takes on Malton at Queen Victoria at 10 a.m., and Glenfield comes up against Lindsay at the North diamond of Queen Vic also at 10 a.m.

The Richmond Hill and Woodstock teams have been installed as the pre-tourney favorites by local observers. Richmond Hill has maintained the same basic team they won with last year, and has added some strong first year players as well, shaping up to be a likely contender.

Woodstock, on the other hand, is somewhat of an unknown quantity, although they did upset the Richmond Hill club in tournament action a couple of weeks back.

Many volunteers have donated their services to the cause as well, including the men behind the grader and patrolling the bases. The Quinte Umpires Association will provide the calling of the balls and strikes free of charge for the day.

Action will commence at the Alemite at 8:30, with the championship games scheduled for 4 p.m.

Cowan's Chances Good

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — "I haven't played in a tournament this season," said Gary Cowan of Hamilton, Ont., after he completed a practice round for the Ontario amateur golf championship opening today at Hamilton Golf and Country Club.

Cowan declined to give his score Tuesday, saying "I just went around to see what the course is like."

The former Canadian and United States amateur golf champion, who last won this 54-event title at Lambton Golf and Country Club in 1971, gave the impression he will be a force to be reckon with.

Dick Thomas scattered seven hits for the win. His record now is 3-6 while loser Reg Martin is at 5-6.

Hames struck out eight and Martin fanned two.

Charlie Winger led the London team with three hits. Gould and Cord Pearman and Jim Schoenfeld had two hits each for the losers.

Art Hames singled home Jim Gordon run and Bill Fairburn knocked in the other.

London plays at Wyandotte in a doubleheader in today's only league action.

Trade OFL Wins

Pete Landers of Toronto Globals and Wayne Coley of Oshawa each fanned eight times and gave up two hitters, respectively, Tuesday to lead their teams to victory in an Ontario Football League doubleheader baseball series.

Coley lost his chance for a no-hitter in the final inning of the first game, won by Oshawa 3-1.

In the nightcap, Landers, with batting help from Tom Gould, shut out the Tonys 4-0 in a game halted by rain in the fifth inning.

In the only other league game, London Dukes shut out Hamilton 2-0.

Gould singled and Mel Stein-berg doubled to score the Globals only run in the first game and spoil Coley's no-hitter.

Coley struck out seven for the win and losing pitcher Mike Molun gave up six hits.

In the second game, Gould led off with a double and scored on Stu Allen's single. Gould then honored in the third inning and the Globals added two more runs in the fifth on singles by Landers, Marty Trymaine and Gould.

Losing pitcher Barry Gould gave up five hits in the game.

At London, a two-run sixth inning gave the Dukes their win over Hamilton.

London scattered seven hits for the win. His record now is 3-6 while loser Reg Martin is at 5-6.

Hames struck out eight and Martin fanned two.

Charlie Winger led the London team with three hits. Gould and Cord Pearman and Jim Schoenfeld had two hits each for the losers.

Art Hames singled home Jim Gordon run and Bill Fairburn knocked in the other.

London plays at Wyandotte in a doubleheader in today's only league action.

Sue Solid In Defeat

COBOURG (Special) — Belleville Yardmen's Sue Morton fired a solid five-hitter against Cobourg in an exhibition encounter here last night, striking out 13, but still lost a tight 3-1 decision.

The home team scored single runs in the third and sixth inning to edge the visitors, who scored their only marker in the second.

Judy Day gave up 10 Belleville hits, while striking out two and walking one.

Maureen Smith had three of the five Cobourg safeties, with Judy Day and Judy Hall each over adding the others.

For the Yardmen, it was Donna Preston with a trio of singles, with Carol Reid and Morton adding two each. Wendy Corbay, Donna Lucas, and Judy Bryant-Hall were each good for one base hit.

The game scheduled in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League between Belleville Secretarial Centre and Quinte Antenna was called because of rain after four innings.

Thurlow Stirs Up Fifth Inning Storm

Not to be outdone by the elements, Thurlow Yardmen beat a steady tattoo with their bats in a fifth-inning shower of their own which matched the rain of thunder, Tuesday, as the team scored a come from behind 7-6 win over Trenton Seal Farm in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association bantam action at Canniffton.

Heavy showers have donated their services to the cause as well, including the men behind the grader and patrolling the bases. The Quinte Umpires Association will provide the calling of the balls and strikes free of charge for the day.

Action will commence at the Alemite at 8:30, with the championship games scheduled for 4 p.m.

Thurlow batters found the range and, aided by Trenton fielding errors, used 4-1 support to turn defeat into victory.

Tim Palmer drove in the winning run with a two-out single which plated Terry Guay, aboard with a double. Winning pitcher Dave Robinson also poked a double during the fifth inning rally.

Chisholm allowed eight base hits, including a pair of triples by Webb, while fanning four and walking one.

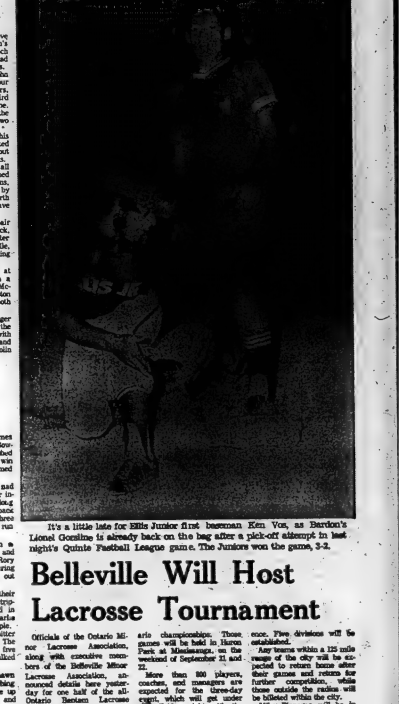
Whole defensive effort better-rate. Touched for five base hits, he retired eight batters on strikes and walked five.

Belleville's UAW Local 1628 Peewees were turned back twice in ECHA road games last week, Monday in Bowmanville, Joe Brust pitched the team to a 7-4 win and Tuesday, Oshawa claimed a 13-4 decision.

At Bowmanville, Brust and Belleville shut out for the longest time before he was tabbed with a 6-0 lead. UAW got back in the ball game with a rally in the fifth and a single run in the sixth.

Brust finished up with a six hitter, fanning five and walking four. Steve McHoy took the loss. Surrendering seven safeties, he struck out five and walked four.

The pitchers helped their cause at the plate. Brust tripled and McHoy clouted in with a pair of singles. Charlie Doran had a Belleville triple.



John Samanski's four-hitter stopped UAW in Oshawa. The winning pitcher retired five on third strikes and walked four.

Steve Carr and Shawn Mahaffy shared the batting for the losers. They gave up seven, struck out two and walked six.

A nine-run outburst in the fourth inning highlighted the winners' attack.

Samanski had a triple while Scott Mann chipped in with three singles to pace the Oshawa batters.

Carr unloaded a home run and single for Belleville. Mahoney cracked a double, and Shawn McDonnell supplied a single.

It's a little late for Ellis Junior first baseman Ken Vos, as Bardon's Lionel Gosbine is already back on the bag after a pick-off attempt in last night's Quinte Fastball League game. The Juniors won the game, 3-2.

Belleville Will Host Lacrosse Tournament

Officials of the Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association, along with executive members of the Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association, announced details here yesterday for one half of the all-Ontario Bantam Lacrosse Tournament, which will be held here in Belleville on the weekend of August 23, 24, 25. Bob Oliver, president of the OMLA, along with Ralph Barber, executive secretary were on hand from the provincial organization.

The tournament, which will attract close to 40 teams coming into the city, will coincide with a similar tourney being held in Stratford, for the western half of Ontario.

Each tourney will decide finalists in five different categories to play for the all-Ontario championships. Those games will be held in Huron Park at Mississauga, on the weekend of September 21 and 22.

More than 800 players, coaches, and managers are expected for the three-day event, which will get under way Friday night with the closest teams to the area meeting.

Teams from as far west as Toronto, Thorndale, and Orillia will meet teams from as far east as the Quinte border, including Ottawa, Cornwall and Brockville, north from Kapuskasing, and Sudbury.

The categories will be decided by the OMLA Original seeding will be done on the basis of the number of players in the community organization, and the number of years that operation has been in existence.

Brian Plumbe Leads CNR

Brian Plumbe was his own best helper in Industrial Softball League action last night, pacing the CNR team with a three and double home run, to back up his brother Dave's pitching even-TPUC.

The homer was one of only four hits the Trainmen got off losing hurler Ron Waite, but they made, two of 10 walks and seven PUC errors to roll up the 13-4 win.

Plumbe struck out one and walked four in picking up the win, while Waite fanned one and gave up four hits.

Warren Hay, Barry Tamlin, and Zane Plumbe were the other CNR batters, all connecting for two base hits.

Waite and Jerry Smith collected singles in the sixth inning for the Utilities.

Despite a late comeback in the seventh inning that potted them three runs, the Independents came up a run short in a 6-5 loss to Black Diamond.

Jack Francis went six and one-third innings for the Diamond rubber, nicked for 10 hits. He struck out three and walked four. Ron Bateman came on to put out the fire, walking one before retiring the side.

Jim Northey and Earl Colton shared the loss, giving up 13 hits, walking four and walked three.

Howie Meeks paced the winners' attack with a home run and double, with Dave Francis and Jack Francis each contributing four singles and two singles. Bob Jones had one of each, with Bob Henderson, Myles McDonald and Wayne Shandrew each striking out base hit.

Paul Trumpour had a home run and two doubles in a losing cause with Ken Sergeant collecting two safeties. Bob Casselman Doug Boomhower, Dave Skelly and Colton each had one single.

Mead Johnsen stopped a possible tie game with Stewart Warner, Tuesday night, giving the Bears at the plate in the fifth inning, as he connected to stretch his hit into a four bagger. Mead's came up with a 5-1 win in the game at CNRA field.

Vern Whalen had a two run double in the third inning to account for all of the Mead runs, with Jim Wood, Tim O'Connell, and Paul Burley each adding a single.

Ken Campbell had a bit of each variety to pace the winners, with Wayne May poaching a homer, triple and single. Ken Kerik and John Thompson added four baggers, with Mike Callaghan stroking three singles, Jim Clare had two singles—with Jim Thompson doubling and Ed Hall and Bob Bellis singling.

For the Intell, it was Terry Hiddleston crunching a home run out of the park, and adding a double, with Fred Sinkie connecting for a four bagger and single. Ron Cudden had a circuit blast, with Bill Casey contributing a triple and double.

Dave Mowbray had two singles, with John Edwards and Rick Hall each batting for one.

Ken Kerik and Bellis shared the win for Constellation, striking out seven and leaving two bases on balls.

Ron Cudden fired six of the seven innings for the Printers, giving up 10 hits. He struck out three and walked the same total. John Edwards pitched for seven hits and eight runs in the inning he worked, walking one.

Canadian Team Shows Superiority

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AFP) — Canada won its first game Tuesday in the first round of the world amateur basketball championships, defeating Spain 96-73.

•The Canadians showed superior team and individual skills as they shot their way to victory, running up a 52-41 half-time lead.

•The Canadians lost 115-95 Monday to the United States.

In another game Tuesday, defending champion Yugoslavia defeated the Soviet Union 83-78.

Virdon Puzzled By Yank Surge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suddenly the runs are coming for New York Yankees, but manager Bill Virdon still doesn't know why.

The Yankees, who scored only 19 runs in 11 American League baseball games long ago, have produced 45 in their last five outings, including Tuesday's 8-2 win over Kansas City Royals.

The runs helped Canadian-born rookie Dave Pagan to his first victory as a major league starter.

"I wish I knew," said Virdon, when asked to explain the scoring splurge. "Whatever it is, I'd keep doing it.

In Tuesday's other American League games, Boston Red Sox nipped Texas Rangers 2-1, Milwaukee Brewers shaded Chicago White Sox 8-5, Minnesota Twins trimmed Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 11 innings, Oakland A's blanked Cleveland Indians 7-0 before firing two coaches, and Baltimore Orioles beat California Angels 3-2.

Pagan, 23, who was in the Yankee bullpen earlier this season, was making his third start. He scattered six hits, walked five and struck out seven.

The native of Ridgewin, Sask., appeared in four games with New York last season between stints with their West Haven, Conn., and Syracuse, N.Y., farm teams.

"He has a good arm," said Virdon. "He threw great baseball."

The Yankees jumped on the Royals for six runs in the first inning, four of them on the first grand-slam home run of third baseman Graig Nettles' career.

Luis Tiant of Boston won out over the Rangers' Jim Bibby in a pitching duel. Tiant, 12-7, allowed four hits and Bibby six. Carl Yastrzemski tripled home the winning run in the second.

George Scott drove in four runs for the Brewers, beating the White Sox with his leadoff homer in the ninth.

Harmon Killebrew drove in the Twins' winning run in the 11th with a single off Detroit relief star Mike Kilkenny as the Tigers lost their fourth in a row.

Boog Powell drove in two runs and Mike Cuellar and Bob Reynolds combined to limit the Angels to four hits as the Orioles moved into a tie with Cleveland for first place in the American League East.

Jim Hunter pitched a three-hitter and Joe Rudi drove in three runs to lead the A's past the Indians.

After the game, Oakland manager Alvin Dark announced the firing of coaches Vern Hoscheit and Irv Noren.

Dark said he wanted his own coaches and had been given permission to make the change by owner Charles Finley.

Hoscheit, the bullpen coach, and Noren, the third base coach, were holdovers from the staff of Dick Williams, who led the A's to their second World Series victory in a row last fall and then quit.

Dark said he was replacing the two with Bobby Winkles, recently replaced by Williams as manager of California Angels, and Bobby Hoffman, who has been manager of Oakland's farm team at Lewiston, Idaho.

It was not immediately clear what assignments Winkles and Hoffman would receive.

There was speculation that Noren would join Williams at Anaheim, where he had a clash with Dark earlier in the season when the Oakland manager accused him of giving the wrong signals.

Hoscheit responded to his firing by saying:

"He (Finley) promised we would all get raises. We didn't get raises. His word isn't worth a damn. The manager is no good either."

TO REGULATE SPORT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed legislation Tuesday to create, a federal government agency to regulate United States' amateur sports. The bill calls for binding arbitration in sports disputes. The bill proposes a five-member independent board with authority to issue and revoke charters of non-profit organizations and governing bodies.

Rookie Wins Third

Expos Shade Giants

MONTREAL (CP) — Tim Foli's two-run single capped a four-run rally in the third inning that carried Montreal Expos to a 5-4 win over San Francisco Giants Tuesday night in National League baseball play.

Winning pitcher Dennis Blair, 3-2, started the rally with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt. A walk to Larry Lintz and an intentional walk to Ken Singleton loaded the bases.

Giants starter Tom Bradley, 7-6, then surrendered back-to-back walks to Bob Bailey and Mike Jorgensen to force home the first two Montreal runs, setting the stage for Foli's hit, a sharp single left.

The Giants scored in the fifth when relief pitcher Charlie Williams walked with two out, advanced to second on a walk to Mike Phillips and scored on a single by Steve Ontiveros.

Jorgensen hammered his fourth homer of the season in the bottom of the fifth but the Giants came back with a pair of runs in the top of the next Montreal's lead to two runs.

Ed Goodson led off with his second single of the game and went to second when Blair hit Gary Matthews on the left arm with a pitch. Garry Maddox then forced Matthews at second and Chris Arnold followed with a double, to the left-center field gap to score both runners.

San Francisco added their fourth run in the eighth off relief pitcher Chuck Taylor when Matthews doubled, went to third on a single by Maddox and scored on Arnold's single.

The Giants threatened in the ninth when Thomasson drew a with two out off Taylor, who was replaced by John Montague. Montague hit Goodson with a pitch but got Matthews to pop up to end the game to gain credit for his second save of the season.

It's Back to Work for Mike Marshall

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Relief pitcher Mike Marshall of Los Angeles Dodgers had a whole day off, so manager Walter Alston didn't hesitate to put him back to work Tuesday night.

Alston brought in Marshall for the 28th time this National League baseball season to finish up a 5-4 win over Philadelphia Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati Reds outhit Chicago Cubs 8-5, Houston Astros beat St. Louis Cardinals 5-2, Montreal Expos edged San Francisco Giants 5-4, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Atlanta Braves 5-4 and San Diego Padres shaded New York Mets 5-4.

The Dodgers were leading 3-2, but Al Downing had given up a pair of two-out singles when Alston brought in Marshall in the seventh. He got out of that jam, but gave up two runs in the eighth.

"I told him (Alston) I could get the next batter (Dave Cash) out," said Downing. "He thought I could get Cash out, too, but he didn't want to take a chance and let a big inning get started."

Bill Russell drove in three Los Angeles runs with a single and a homer and Steve Garvey also homered.

The Reds hit six home runs, including a three-run blast by George Foster in the sixth inning following five solo homers in the first three innings by Joe Morgan in the first, Tony Perez and Cesar Geronimo in the second and Dan Driessen and Johnny Bench in the third.

Lee May hit two home runs and Dave Roberts fired a six-hitter as Houston banded St. Louis its fourth consecutive setback.

Manny Sanguillen's two-run double keyed a four-run fourth inning outburst that helped Ken Brett to his 11th victory for the Pirates.

Fred Kendell drove in three runs with a double and single and Dave Roberts socked a two-run homer for San Diego. The Padres built a 5-1 lead and then withstood a three-run homer in the ninth by New York's Ron Hodges.

10 WFL Teams Open Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The World Football League begins play tonight in five United States cities with an anticipated attendance of 167,000 in parks with a total seating capacity of 297,000.

Tonight's openers have Houston Texans at Chicago Fire, Detroit Wheels at Memphis Southmen, Portland Storm at Philadelphia Bell, Southern California Sun at Birmingham Americans and the Hawaiians playing Florida Blazers in Orlando.

The schedule continues Thursday night with New York Stars at Jacksonville Sharks.

The crowd forecasts range from 30,000 to 60,000 at Birmingham's to 70,000-seat stadium to 19,000 in Orlando's 27,000-seat Tangerine Bowl.

General manager Leo Cahill of Memphis predicts 25,000-30,000 will be on hand at 55,000-seat Memorial Stadium.

The Southmen started out in Toronto as the Northmen but president John F. Bassett moved the team south this past spring when federal legislation was introduced aimed at keeping United States football league out of Canada.

The legislation was never passed.

Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder, Las Vegas oddsmaker, predicts the WFL won't live past this season.

But the league, including WFL commissioner Gary Davidson, feels optimistic that an innovative WFL will draw support.

And the league has owners willing to absorb first-year losses in anticipation of picking up some really big names in 1975.

Teams will play a 20-game schedule, with most of the games at night during the week. A new orange and black football designed to be seen more easily under floodlights will be used.

The players will wear uniforms described by the league as color coordinated. Even the coaching staffs will wear official team colors.

Touchdowns will be worth seven points and the fair catch for punt returners will be eliminated.

Kickoffs will be made from the 30-yard line and missed field goals beyond the 30-yard line will be returned to the line of scrimmage.

Wide receivers will be able to make their catch with one foot out of bounds and running backs will be allowed to go in forward motion before the ball is snapped.

Points after touchdowns must be run or passed instead of kicked.

The season ends Nov. 29 with the World Bowl championship at Jacksonville, Fla., in the Gator Bowl.

Fred Shero – WHA Offer

Fred Will Stay In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fred Shero of Philadelphia Flyers said Tuesday night he expects to return next season as coach of the National Hockey League team, despite a $100,000 offer to jump to the World Hockey Association's Minnesota Fighting Saints.

"I'd say that it is now likely that I will remain in Philadelphia," said the 45-year-old Shero after a long-distance telephone conversation with his boss, Ed Snider, who was vacationing in Idaho.

"I have always said that I don't want to leave Philadelphia as long as the compensation is acceptable," Shero said. "Ed Snider is a very generous man and I think we will get together."

Shero is on the second year of a three-year contract with the Flyers.

The Toronto Star reported earlier Tuesday that Shero was considering a $100,000-a-year offer from the Saints, which apparently prompted the Shero-Snider conversation.

GOT $28,000

The newspaper said Shero's contract with the Flyers was worth $28,000 last year and would pay him $35,000 next season and $40,000 the third year.

Commenting on the salary offer from the Saints, he said:

"This may become a breakthrough for coaches. It's about time we started getting the money that's been lavished on untried junior graduates.

"It's ridiculous how much money they've been signing for, while men who've dedicated their lives to this game have been paid like poor relations."

Shero, a long-time minor league coach before he took over the Flyers, guided them to the Stanley Cup this year.

TRADE ANNOUNCED

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Quebecois of the National Lacrosse League announced Tuesday they have traded Bill Langley and the rights to another player—Bob Boitho—to Toronto Toros in return for the Toronto club will send Sandy Lynch to the Quebecois.

Tony Jacklin Picks Tom Weiskopf

LYTHAM St. ANNES, England (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, the American golfer who likes to talk when things went wrong, was calm today as he opened his defence of the British Open title.

"The man who is going to win over these next four days will be a patient kind of fellow," said Weiskopf.

"I don't worry so much any more. I don't get hung up and I feel good," said Weiskopf, who has yet to win a 1974 tournament but claims his game is sharper than it has been for years.

The third favorite to win his second straight British championship at bookies odds of 10-1, Weiskopf is a player the 153 other competitors fear.

Tony Jacklin, who became the first Briton to win the home championship for 18 years at Lytham in 1969 and went on to the Dallad States Open crown in 1970, picked Weiskopf to repeat his 1973 triumph over the par 71 courses.

"Tom is playing better than anyone I've ever seen play in practice for a major championship," Jacklin said.

"This is despite the fact Weiskopf is nursing a baffling fracture of a bone in his left wrist and playing against doctors orders.

Weiskopf, 33, picked Jack Nicklaus or Lee Trevino to win. Nicklaus was the 5-1 choice for the title he has won twice before.

Gary Player of South Africa was an 8-1 second favorite, along with Johnny Miller of San Francisco, who tops the U.S. money list with $240,000 after five major 1974 victories.

Weiskopf was listed at 10-1 to win the Open as he did at Royal Birkdale in 1971 and Scotland's Muirfield the following year.

Riders Top Stamps On Late TD Drive

REGINA (CP) — Backup quarterback Bob Pearce dialled a 75-yard touchdown march in the dying minutes of the final quarter Tuesday night to give Saskatchewan Roughriders a 16-15 win over Calgary Stampeders in a Western Football Conference Exhibition game.

Pearce, who faces competition from four veterans for the role of understudy to veteran Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster, was lacklustre in the first quarter as Calgary piled up a 9-0 lead.

But Pearce, took over in the fourth quarter and brought Saskatchewan from behind. The winning touchdown, by fullback George Reed on a four-yard run with 31 seconds left, came after Pearce had put together a series of passes to wide receiver Dennis Maurigan.

Calgary's first touchdown came on a 45-yard pass play from Peter Liske to Rudy Linka. Leary Robinson missed the convert but a few minutes later made a 46-yard field goal to give Calgary a 9-0 first quarter lead.

Then newcomer Randy Mattingly took over as quarterback for Saskatchewan in the second quarter and soon hit Leif Pettersen for a touchdown on a 23-yard pass play.

Ralph Galloway missed the convert but added a 30-yard field goal to tie the score at half-time.

Joe Piaseczk acted as Calgary quarterback for the second half.

In the third quarter it was Lancaster against Liske, with the latter coming out on top as the only scoring was an 11-yard field goal and a 36-yard single by Robinson.

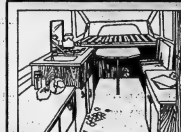
Mattingly was back for Saskatchewan early in the fourth quarter, again facing Piaseczk, but Saskatchewan got nowhere until Pearce took over.

Brian Berg kicked a 42-yard field goal for Saskatchewan that was nullified by a 10-yard Robinson field goal.

Besides the three Saskatchewan quarterbacks used in the game, coach John Payne has three more who didn't dress—Van Brownson, Dave Pickett and Jim Lindsey.

Saskatchewan had 23 first downs to Calgary's 11, with 140 yards rushing and 208 passing to Calgary's 94 yards rushing and 183 passing.

RAIDERS TAKE KELLY



OAKLAND (AP) — Leroy Kelly, 31, who amassed more rushing yardage than any other active National Football League player in his 10 years with Cleveland Browns, has been acquired by Oakland Raiders for the $100 waiver price. He will be used as kickoff and punt return man as well as in the back field. Kelly's 7,274 rushing yards and 90 touchdowns are top marks among active NFL players.

Argonaut Defenders Get Test

TORONTO (CP) — Rookie defensive backs often find themselves under heavy fire from opposition quarterbacks who try to take advantage of their inexperience.

This year, the whole right side of Toronto Argonauts's defence may face such a test beginning with tonight's Canadian Football League (CFL) exhibition game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

At cornerback, Tim Anderson is unsigned and asking for his release, leaving rookie Charlie Penn from the Univ. of Ohio in the lurch.

At safety, Gerry Stershic and Peter Pacquette have been cut, leaving rookie Leary Cloud from Sir Wilfrid Laurier University first in line.

Linebackers Dick Aldridge and Mike Blum were released and rookie Rick Konopka, also from Wilfrid Laurier, could take over.

Defensive end George Anderson, obtained in a trade from British Columbia Lions, may take over the position left open by Bruce Bergey's departure in the World Football League.

Middle linebacker has been a weak spot for Argos for several years and the search for a full-time employee in that spot continues with Sam Cvijanovich, Fred Surlan, John Phillips and Dale Fairley getting tryouts.

Vasectomy Label Worn By Many

TORONTO (CP) — If you've noticed the tiny gold and blue pin bearing a V you won't worry by a large number of men, you may have wondered what it represents. To the initiated, it means the men have received a vasectomy—the male sterilization operation.

In Canada and the United States the men display the pin on their lapel. In the United Kingdom a legion of British males wear a tie with a V motif woven into it.

They advertise this personal and intimate bit of medical history to promote the cause of voluntary sterilization and perhaps to assure the girls they meet that they won't get pregnant.

Between March 31, 1972, and March 31, 1973, 30,000 vasectomy operations were performed in Ontario. The operation costs about $75, of which the Ontario Health Insurance Plan pays $45.

A University of Western Ontario sociologist with a special interest in family planning, Dr. Carl Grindstaff, said:

"Vasectomy will gain increasing acceptance among males in the years ahead."

PAINLESS, SIMPLE, SAFE

The operation is almost painless, safe and simple. The surgery is performed in the doctor's office in 15 or 20 minutes, under a local anaesthetic. The process consists of cutting and tying off the two narrow tubes, the vasa deferentia, located near the surface of the skin, which carry sperm from the testes to the seminal fluid.

A survey of 3,000 Toronto vasectomies, conducted by Dr. Marion Powell, a University of Toronto expert in population control, showed that the average age for men who had the pill and now sought an alternative birth-control method.

Vasectomies have occasionally been challenged by research reports claiming that the operation significantly decreased male hormone production, caused cysts in the sperm ducts, and augmented the combined men to an increased risk of arthritis, rheumatic fever and multiple sclerosis.

The claims were based on speculation arising from animal experimentation," said Dr. Ross Prince of Chicago, who has sterilized 3,500 men.

"They have not been substantiated. The prevailing opinion is that the vasectomy is perfectly safe."

Sugar Loaf Gets Shave

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Rio's famous Sugar Loaf Mountain is getting a shave.

The barbers, dozens of men with scythes and workmen's caps, are stripping away grass that has spread over much of the hill's sides overlooking Guanabara Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

Years ago, the mountain was covered with lush forest. Today little vegetation except for Loaf's cable car hardly noticed because its small area of grass that served for life at the foot of the mountain.

The weed dried with the summer heat and easily caught fire. The fire killed almost all of the grass remained rooted in the earth and showed up after the rain.

The once insignificant grass spread over the mountain's surface, threatening it with total extinction.

Alarmed by the situation, Rio's Institute for the Maintenance of Nature elaborated a reforestation plan. Now, the Botanical Garden agreed to provide cuttings and seeds to be planted in the area. The cable car company put the plan into practice.

Operations started a year ago. The first measure was to separate the grass from the remainder of the area to avoid new fires. Fire-yard-wide clearings were opened through the area, isolating the trees and dividing the grass in 50 square-yard sections.

Workers now are spraying a strong herbicide on the grass, careful not to destroying other plants which may be near.

Militia Supervises Projects for Students

HALIFAX (CP) — Two national defence department programs, one militia and one supervised by Atlantic militia units, will give 676 students in the Atlantic region the opportunity for summer work, the department says.

The programs, named Student Summer Employment Assistance, have been designed to give students between 17 and 20 eight weeks of summer work.

One two-part program involves about 353 trainees. Those participating will receive general military training, recreation, militia trade training and will take an annual training unit.

The training takes place in local units ending with a week-long bivouac or exercise at Aldershot, N.S., with the exception of 25 Newfoundland students who will have a week-long bivouac and exercise in their home province.

The second part involves students taking part in training for the second and third years. These students will spend the summer at Camp Aldershot for advanced training, in military trades, survival and first aid.

The second program will involve 80 students in community assistance projects in Halifax and St. John's, Nfld. About 35 students will form a guard dressed in 1870 uniforms at the Citadel in Halifax.

The remainder will take part in a military pageant honoring Newfoundland's 25th year as a Canadian province.

Soaring Imagination

Vancouver Man Hunts to Sketch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Helmut Hirnschall's favorite hobby is stalking and sketching small creatures of the woods.

When Mr. Hirnschall, 41, starts producing charts and graphs for technical books and commercial art for magazines he draws and paints realistic and fantasy animals for children's books.

"I like to do something where I can let my imagination soar into the fantasy world that only children understand," he says.

"There's enough child left in me that I have a feeling for the kind of art they like. And I've always liked watching animals."

There was a lack of wildlife in downtown Toronto, where Mr. Hirnschall was raised, and although he found domestic animals fascinating, he regarded them as tame beasts.

He had read about North America's wolves and bears, and dreamed of wild adventures when he emigrated to Canada in 1966.

His first adventure began when a squirrel scampered over some dry leaves near a camp site where he was sketching. The sound was magnified in the stillness of the forest and Mr. Hirnschall froze in fear, expecting a savage beast to pounce on him. His silence drew the squirrel near and it stayed long enough to be sketched.

With help from a fisherman friend, Mr. Hirnschall gained confidence in the surrounding wilderness and watched and sketched the rookie movements of beavers, deer, porcupines, racoons, frogs and weasels.

Mr. Hirnschall, a self-taught artist, says the obvious difficulty in sketching creatures in the wild don't pose for portraits.

"And you have to be really silent and more skilful than a hunter, who doesn't have to be close to an animal because he has a high-powered gun.

Mr. Hirnschall says you can't write down to children because they are easily distracted if they find the stories and pictures unbelievable.

"I'm amazed by the things kids see that adults miss. A three-year-old asked me to draw something for him, so I drew a mouse. Then the child took the pen and drew a door, with a small hole at the bottom and two dots in the hole to represent eyes.

"He could see that I had missed a basic idea in not giving the mouse a place to hide."

Mr. Hirnschall says he keeps in touch with his young readers by studying children's books and talking to children, into the fantasy world that only children understand," (CP Photo)

"I feel most comfortable with kids up to age six or seven. After that their language changes so much that I'm out of touch."

Mr. Hirnschall has illustrated about a dozen books so far, including Do You Know When The Big Lake Is, an illustrated biography of a frog, for which he wrote the text. The book is intended for the nursery-rhyme set, which Mr. Hirnschall believes is his most critical audience.

EXPANDS CURRICULUM

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatoon public board of education has approved an inquiry option program to give senior students in Bedford Road Collegiate courses on such topics as Greek drama, bachelor survival, karate and barbershop singing. The program aims to cover areas outside the conventional curriculum.

Madawaska Novelist Works with Prisoners

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An interview with newly-published novelist James Deners covers more than ground, such as life in a Northern Ontario company town, and participation in an Ontario government pilot project in the province's prisons.

Mr. Deners, a writer of medium-security prisons with training in skills of creative expression.

Neither subject has anything directly to do with The God Tree, a story of boyhood growth and love in the Ottawa Valley of the late '40s. It was to promote this first novel that the 31-year-old Deners recently was barnstorming Ontario.

Deners summed up the background to his novel succinctly:

"The time and the place are from personal experience; the characters are reflections from personal encounters that I've had; the plot involves a series of experiences that were very meaningful to me, but the whole package put together is not autobiographical at all."

His personal life history also was given in concise summary:

Born in Cadillac, Que.; his happiest childhood memories centred in pre-and early-puberty years spent in the Ottawa Valley; five years of educational and cultural "confinement" in a Northern Ontario company town he prefers not to name; a year in a university arts course in Thunder Bay, followed by teachers' college and then off-and-on teaching over a 10-year period, interspersed with writing, producing, acting in, directing and touring plays.

Currently, while "living with" two more novels, he's part of a four-member team conducting experimental video and drama workshops in the Thunder Bay correctional centre.

A strong sense of personal involvement is apparent when he discusses the prison project, even though he acknowledges that the "any" results that I get out of this experience, in terms of what affects me as a communicator through writing, will be a long time away."

In fact, he initially was concerned that the prisoners, realizing he was a writer, might feel he had come there merely "to rip them off for material that can be used commercially."

"I brought all my material to them, and I said: 'Look, this is what I've done; this is what I am; these are my products. Now, I've come here because to get these products I have certain skills, and I'm making these skills available to you. But if you think I'm here to write a book about you, come and talk to me about it.'

"Nobody took me up on it, but it took me two or three weeks to find out whether they trusted me or not. It turned out that they did."

The project, being carried on over a 12-week period to determine its value and then possibly be extended on a permanent basis, has been training prisoners in both technical and creative skills related to television, theatre and other media of communication.

The project team, in addition to providing nine-to-12 hours a week of participation and instruction, also tries to set up contacts within the outside community for further training and/or experience once prisoners are released.

Deners feels he has "a few things to say to people who are in confinement," arising out of his own experience in that company town.

"Being in a school is in a company town and being interested in the things I was interested in, I didn't fit.

"I go back now and see that town through eyelashes that changed and the school is 10 times bigger and 20 times more innovative, people with interests in writing and theatre and that sort of thing still don't have a place there. Every time I see a novel, it's nice to say here's a story to tell about that sense of suffocation and confinement that they they had when they were there."

He came in contact with another form of confinement when he worked with young people in a theatre project called The Children of Winter Theatre in Sault Ste. Marie.

This was in the isolation and restrictions felt by the young persons of cold-European backgrounds and traditions.

So, in his work with the prisoners, 58 per cent of whom are Canadian Indians, he says he's not "thinking of it in terms as helping me as a writer."

"I'm thinking that in experiencing the people in there as individuals that I will get a little bit closer to understanding human motives and that will serve me in all types of fields.

"That's what characters are all about; that's what human relations are all about—understanding motives, especially what the motives of a person are when he is in a confining situation."

He turned from writing plays to novel writing because the novel "is a permanent record."

"Other people can pick it up and read it, but other people aren't going to pick up my play scripts and read them. A play is not a reading form.

"And in terms of playwriting, I've got all the experience I wanted and dealt with to date all the material that I really wanted to deal with."

Altogether, he figures he's written a couple dozen plays, "the bulk of them for young people just getting into acting," and all of them in settings in which he was able to use them producers although none of them have been published.

His ambitions as a novelist include getting published two more works to complete a "Madawaska trilogy." (The Madawaska countryside is the particular setting of The God Tree.)

He also is working on a "novel centred in Toronto," dealing with the experiences of an individual trying to cope with Canadian in 1974 and handling his catalogue of guilts from the last 25-to-30 years."

If I can bring that together and make it meaningful and have the book read accepted and understood, then I will certainly have felt that I have done all I want to for now."

King of Herm Rules Island

NEW YORK (AP) — He was wearing a pink shirt and pink and black tie and there was no crown on his silver hair.

But the "King of Herm" had a regal demeanor. Riding the "ruler" of the smallest of British's Channel Islands.

As such he presides over a school, a hotel, a quaint pub, a 900-year old church, 41 residents and more than 100 purebred Guernseys.

When he isn't being addressed by his unofficial title of King Peter, he is known as Maj. Peter Wood, Tenant of Herm, an island a half-mile wide and 1¼ miles long.

It was in an effort to lure more tourist to the Channel Islands, which are located between England and France, that he was visiting New York.

Wood, former major in the Royal Engineers, leased the island in 1949 from the state of Guernsey, with whose help he has changed it from a wave-grown eyesore to a successful farming and vacation spot.

"Everything was completely in ruin—derelict after Herm's occupation by the Germans during the Second World War," he said. "There was no electricity and we had to have drinking water shipped in. There were so many things to be done."

His priorities inclu[de] "establishing a water supply ... then putting in a sewa[ge] plant and underground electric cables, rebuilding the ... establishing communications such as telephones and ferry to Guernsey and developing a means of earning a living.

"We have the biggest milk producing farm in the Channel Islands," Wood said. "Besides the raw milk, we export dairy products, cheese.

"I converted the cottages around the harbor into [a] row of hotel bedrooms, all operating around the canopy honey which is the main building. There are [fi]ve [a]bout 10 beds for overnight visitors, but we have 500 or 600 daily visitors from Guernsey."

What to do on an island without cars, without organized activities or formal entertainment?

"There is nothing to do there at all but to walk and make your own entertainment," Wood said.

"There are hills and valleys, absolutely clear air, heavenly silence, unbelievable seal. There are dances in the evening. We have a gramophone and a piano and the guests themselves get things going. And there's a sweet little fisherman's pub."

There are some dozen families residing permanently on the island, with all the men working for Wood in various capac-

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Many motorists lose some of their belongings on vacation trips because they are careless. If you are going on a trip this summer, the Ontario Motor League urges you to follow these four basic rules to discourage thieves.

1. Always remove the keys from the car when you leave it parked, including any spare keys you may keep around for emergencies. The first thing a professional car thief does when he enters your car is to look in the most likely hiding place for the spare key — under the floor mat or sun visor.

2. When you leave your car, make it a habit to close all windows and lock all doors.

3. Keep luggage, cameras, and clothing in the trunk, not piled on the front or back seat where they are an open invitation to thieves. Cars often are stolen only for valuable articles that can be seen from outside the car.

4. Park in a garage or parking lot where an attendant is on duty, especially at night. If this is not possible, try to pick a well-lighted, well populated street. The ideal mark for a thief is the car parked on a dark side street where there is little likelihood of interruption.

Properly adjusted and efficient brakes may save, your life in an emergency. The brake fluid in the master cylinder should be checked every time the car is lubricated. Fluid leaks or other possible defects may develop unexpectedly if brakes are neglected.

When you're driving and you intend to stop, turn or change lanes, give the proper signal first.

Everyone knows a red light means stop, but some drivers are not aware that a flashing red light calls for a complete stop too. When you approach an intersection with a flashing red original, come to a complete stop and check for passing cars and pedestrians before you proceed.

When you drive off a freeway, it's difficult to adjust to the slower tempo of congested areas. Remember this, and be especially alert.

On your summer vacation do not try to set an endurance record. If there are passengers in the car who drive, let them take regular turns at the wheel.

Drive defensively! Always watch several cars ahead of you and not just the one directly in front of you.

When you're walking across the street, watch closely for turning cars. Don't rely upon a motorist seeing you. Make sure you see them by looking at all directions.

Spare the glare. Be considerate and let safe — dim your lights for approaching vehicles.

Safety measures prescribed by experts when a flat tire occurs while driving, are to steer firmly, brake gradually and move completely off the road onto the shoulder before stopping.

If you are pulling a trailer behind your car this vacation, don't forget it for a minute. Remember to account for its extra bulk in every driving decision ... especially where distance is involved. It's generally a good idea to double your estimation of the distance you'll need for stopping, for passing another car, and for judging the space to leave between you and the next car. A trailer can be pretty unwieldy in tight situations — avoid such situations with this "double" safety habit.

SELF-COMMUNING

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (CP) — Union official Fred Griffiths has been getting more and more mail—most of it from himself. Griffiths now holds two big union jobs. "As acting district secretary I have to inform the divisional organizer—that's me, again—of the Wolverhampton district policy decisions," he said. Sometimes this and other such exchanges with himself are "very confusing," he conceded.

Australian Floods Make Desert Bloom

CP correspondent Alan S. Harness crossed Australia from Sydney to Perth on what has been called "one of the world's great train routes." This is one of a series of reports on the 2,461-mile journey.

By ALAN S. HARMAN
CP correspondent Alan S.

ABOARD THE INDIAN-PACIFIC, Australia (CP) — The pride of Australia's railway fleet was about to break the time barrier.

Since leaving the famed Blue Mountains of coastal New South Wales the trans-Australia express had been running through flat scrub country.

As the train passed, kangaroos and emu disappeared into the saltbush, mulga, beth and rosewood scrub which finds a precarious existence in the sand and red soil.

In its last few hours in New South Wales on the run from Sydney to Perth, the Indian Pacific passed the clock.

The train arrives in Broken Hill five minutes before it leaves.

This is achieved by a 25-minute stop at Broken Hill where clocks are put back 30 minutes.

And as the sleek silver train approaches Broken Hill it wound its way through vast slag piles of the mining operations as reminiscent of Sudbury, Ont., and other Canadian mining centres.

But away from Broken Hill the 80 first class and 70 economy class passengers watched a lush Australian landscape that even bad the locals talking.

For the torrential rains that have flooded vast areas of this continent turned many areas of the interior from dust brown to bright green and abounding in bird life.

Many Australians said they had never see it before—and they watched with as much interest as the tourists.

The Indian-Pacific has been operating only for four years. Until November, 1988, a trans-Australia train was an impossibility. Each Australian state has its own rail width, ranging from three feet six inches to five feet 3½ inches.

Although some attempts were made at standardization as early as 1917, it was not until the late 50's that real progress was made.

Then, three months after completion of the standard five-foot-eight-inch line, the Indian-Pacific made its first 2,461-mile, 65-hour crossing of the continent.

Regular state trains still operate on their own railroads. But border-area tracts have as many as four train catering to the idiosyncracies of early, independent-minded railway construction engineers.

The Indian-Pacific is operated by four independent railway companies: South Wales, South Australian, Commonwealth and Western Australian railways.

As it crosses each railway company's territory, engine, crew and cabin staff are changed. Cabin staff are friendly, efficient and mostly non-Australian. English, Greek, Italian and Scots are predominant.

Australians take pride in the novelty of their long-distance train. But until the devaluation of the United States dollar and the revaluation of its Australian equivalent American tourists made up the big proportion of the travellers.

Now Australians predominate, paying about $188 Australian (bout $136 Canadian) for a one way first-class ticket and about $88 for economy class.

The difference between classes is negligible. Both classes share a common dining car with the same menu. One cynic said the difference between classes is that first class cabins have carpets, blacks are served in three sittings and the third-sitting passengers there's a danger some cockroaches will be off the menu.

But as the vastness of Australia unfolds time seems to speed on the journey of the Indian-Pacific.

Canadian Women Die In Norway

BERGEN, Norway (Reuter) — Two Canadian women and two Norwegians were killed when a gondola broke loose from a funicular railway Tuesday, fell down a mountainside and was destroyed.

Police identified one body as that of Mrs. Helen Fleruk, 32, of Toronto, but that of the other middle-aged Canadian woman had not been identified.

The gondola broke loose from one of its cables when reaching the top of the 650-metre Ulriken mountain, overlooking the city of Bergen. The gondola plunged down 100 metres of the steep mountainside before crashing against a plateau further down. Cause of the accident is still unknown.

Garages Fail To Meet Laws

TORONTO (CP) — A violation by 79 landlords whose underground garages are not meeting the standards of North York borough bylaws has brought a warning of follow-up inspections, Samuel Beckett, borough building commissioner, said Thursday.

In a memorandum to Mayor Mel Lastman, a property standards officer describes the problems encountered as inadequate lighting, ease of entry to garages and an accumulation of rubbish.

Harry Doan, former York County crown attorney, said Monday he believed rape victims attacked in poorly-lit underground garages could sue apartment building owners for damages.

Mr. Lastman said he intends to press for special provincewide legislation setting minimum standards of security in underground parking.

Hunger Strike

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — More than 100 American and Canadian prisoners began a hunger strike here Tuesday to protest the severity of their sentences and the time spent awaiting trial, a Canadian embassy spokesman said.

The men and women, about 108 from the United States and seven Canadians—are being held in two jails. About 70 men are in one jail and 40 women in the other.

Most are serving three-to 15-year sentences for importing drugs or are awaiting trial on drug-related charges.

The Canadian spokesman said his nationals are specifically protesting against being kept in prison for up to a year before being sentenced, as allowed under the Mexican constitution.

He said some also are protesting because they were sentenced for importing drugs rather than transporting them inside Mexico, a charge which carries only a one-to 12-year sentence.

Friends of the U.S. prisoners said they were also protesting violent treatment on arrest and extortion demands from police. There was no confirmation of this from the U.S. embassy.

Accept Contract

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Peel region's 1,400 secondary school teachers accepted a new contract Tuesday which gives them a nine-per-cent salary increase Sept. 4.

The agreement will bring the starting salary for teachers in the region just west of Toronto to $7,800 a year from $7,200. A teacher with 14 years of experience will receive a top rate of $19,200, an increase of $1,700 a year.

Secondary school principals will receive $27,700 compared with $24,600 under the former contract and salaries for vice-principals will increase to $23,-900 from $21,500.

In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Takako Shimazu, 35, fifth daughter of the emperor and empress of Japan, arrived here Tuesday to attend the opening of the Prince Hotel tonight.

Mrs. Shimazu married Hisanaga Shimazu, a director of the Seibu Group which owns the Prince Hotel, in 1960.

Police Service Worsens

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Police service in Peel region has significantly deteriorated since last year when five police forces were amalgamated, join a regional force, Mississauga's engineering and works committee was told Tuesday.

The committee decided to hold a strongly-worded letter to Police Chief Douglas Barrows demanding that the new department enforce municipal bylaws after learning that local traffic bylaws are no longer being enforced in the region just west of Toronto.

One councillor making complaints against the force said that the regional force covered the same area previously served by the five municipal forces and that it was costing 28 million to do it compared with 16 million lst year.

If the region force refused to enforce bylaws in Mississauga its budget should be cut so the 16 million last year.

the councillor said.

Forest Fire Worries Switch to Red Lake

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — Ministry of natural resources officials are keeping a watchful eye on the still-smouldering forest fire south of Vermilion Bay but now are casting cautious glances at a series of fires west of Red Lake.

The fire south of Vermilion Bay, about 25 miles east of here, has burned more than 57,-000 acres, but for the last two days has been held in check by a force of nearly 600 men and a sizable contingent of aircraft.

That situation has remained stable since late Sunday and with favorable weather conditions expected again today, officials were optimistic the fire could be brought completely under control.

But near Red Lake, a town with a population of about 2,100 about 120 miles northwest of here, four major fires are burning onto f the control, as they have been for the last week, with the forecast calling for hot, dry weather in that area for the next two days.

The fires—three to the west of Red Lake—have burned over more than 5,000 acres and 200 firefighters have been unable to halt their advance.

A total of 63 fires, were still burning in northwestern Ontario Tuesday night and many were being allowed to burn unchecked.

Fire 18, the blaze that threatened Vermilion Bay and forced a three-day evacuation of the area, destroyed nearly 800,000 cords of marketable timber, about 180,000 cords from standing trees and the remainder from salvagable trees blown down in a hurricane July 7, 1973.

Firefighting operations at Vermilion Bay has cost an average of nearly $30,000 a day and the cost in the district is more than $125,000 daily.

Remand 7 In Arms Seizures

TORONTO (CP) — Seven men charged with conspiracy to export arms following police seizure of 2, were remanded Tuesday to Oct. 21 for trial.

The men were arrested after an RCMP investigation that turned up a variety of guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition, hand grenades and other weapons which they believed were bound for Ireland.

Charged are: Joseph Myles, 51, of Garden City, Mich.; Philip Anthony Kent, 31, of Tynstock, Ont.; Patrick Clarke, 40, of St. Catharines.

Also charged are William Gilroy, 39, Robert Gray, 31, John Gerald Beany, 38, and Daniel McNamara, 34, all of Toronto.

In addition, Myles, Gilroy, Gray, Heany and Kent are charged with exporting arms contrary to section 13 of the Export and Import Permits Act.

Flood Control Not Priority In Grand River Development

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Flood control has not been a priority in the construction of dams and reservoirs along the Grand River, members of the Grand River flood inquiry were told Tuesday.

James Bauer, chairman of the Grand River Conservation Authority, said that while flood control has not been a priority, the drainage of rural land, together with increasing miles of drained urban streets, has altered the river flow.

"I'm not saying it's bad to drain farm land or pave streets. The authority isn't opposed to drainage," he said. "What we're saying is if drainage is speeded up, there must be compensating works built into the system to prevent serious damages and loss of life."

Mr. Bauer said the policy for the authority's operation originated in a 1931 report, released by William Finlayson, then minister of lands and forests.

The report said there was a need for storage reservoirs on the Grand and Conestogo Rivers to control flood peaks, augment river flows or sewage effluent dilution, provide alternate water sources and possibly to be used as a source of hydro power.

It was not until 1939, however, that the first engineering report on the feasibility of constructing on what became the Shand Dam and Luther Reservoir was produced.

The Shand Dam creating Belwood Lake Reservoir was built in 1941 and the Conestogo Dam in 1967.

Mr. Bauer said that he did not think communities in the region have the money to spend creating a major dam for the flood control alone.

He said flood control protection benefits are relatively few in the area compared with the other benefits that came with augmenting the summer flow. This enabled several municipalities to save money by postponing construction of sewage treatment plants, he said.

Mr. Bauer said the danger of floods such as those that occurred May 17 at Bridgeport and Cambridge causing an estimated $18-million damage, also are increased by the construction of new bridges and channel improvements.

Older bridges had older dikes or levees that impeded the flow of rivers, but new stands do not, he said. When river channels are widened or deepened, places for ice to thicken are created and breakups are worsened.

Cambridge was the hardest hit by the flooding. An association of several hundred businessmen and residents was among those whose complaints led to the public inquiry established by the province.

The residents charged that flooding was a result of mismanagement by the conservation authority. They also criticized the city's flood warning system.

The hearing is expected to continue, with adjournments, until September. It is set up under the Public Inquiries Act with Haldimand Judge W. W. Leach as the commissioner.

The hearing continues today.

Losers Lick Their Wounds And Lapse Into Silence

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Now that the battle has subsided and the July 8 federal election has become material for political analysts and history books, one interested in the less happy side of events might well ask: What are the losers doing?

In campaign offices all over the country telephones Tuesday were being disconnected in rooms where the night before there were shouts, groans and curses.

A few party workers willing to talk sounded as if there had been a death in the family.

It isn't easy reaching political losers the day after an election—even illustrious losers. After weeks of accessibility their become understandably reclusive.

Asked about his plans, Paul Hellyer, Conservative candidate who lost in Trinity to Liberal Aideen Nicholson, said he'd like to go swimming first and then think about his career.

Mr. Hellyer, who became a Conservative after resigning from the Liberal caucus in 1971, was calm about his loss and said he was not prepared to rush into any hasty decisions.

"I think its a great mistake to try and make your decision in the first 24 hours when you feel more like going swimming," the 50-year-old Hellyer said Tuesday.

"But I'm looking at journalism—print or television. It doesn't matter. I haven't talked to anyone yet, but I have done some writing for respectable newspapers—the Toronto Star and the Vancouver Sun."

Mr. Hellyer said he will spend three or four weeks at his cottage before making a final decision.

Environment Minister Jack Davis, the only Cabinet minister defeated, said after resuming cane in Monday that he would continue in public life.

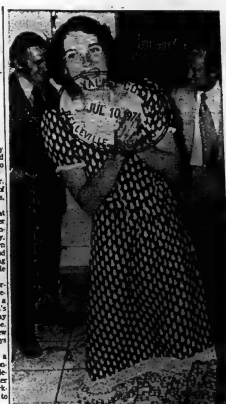
"I'm not sure what I'm going to be doing in Crescent month or two, but in the long run I'll be involved in political life," he said. Asked whether he would run again as a Liberal, he replied: "When I get a chance."

Mr. Davis said his defeat in Capilano by 33-year-old Conservative businessman Ron Huntington can be attributed to a Liberal government that ignored British Columbia. Government spending also angered high-income voters in the riding, he said.

Senator Raymond Perrault, Liberal campaign manager in British Columbia, said Mr. Davis "has no shortage of opportunities. He is a top-line economist and engineer."

Senator Perrault called the New Democratic Party collapse "an incredible phenomenon," and added: "It's going to be a big chance of a second crack at the Tory leadership. In 1967, he placed second to Robert Stanfield in the party's leadership convention, and a victory this time in Peterborough would have made him a contender to succeed Mr. Stanfield.

To run in the election, Mr. Robin resigned as president of Canadian Pacific Investments. His future?



"I don't think he knows what he's going to do," Alexander Flemming, Mr. Robin's campaign chairman said Tuesday. Mr. Robin, who plans to return to his Montreal home at the end of the week, went swimming Tuesday and was unavailable for comment.

Mr. Flemming said the former Manitoba premier had received a job offer from a Peterborough company. "It's not definite, and I can't say who made it, but he's had one. I think he's going to write a few letters and take a few days off."

Broadcaster Ron Collister, a bright hope of the Conservatives who was handily defeated by Revenue Minister Robert Stanbury in York-Scarborough, will soon return to the CBC.

Mr. Collister, who was on leave of absence from the CBC during the campaign, could not be reached Tuesday, but Cecil Smith, assistant director of publicity for CBC, said the first step is to discuss Mr. Collister's next assignment.

"It will not, of course, be his previous assignment on Parliament Hill," Mr. Smith said. "But we will discuss with him what is of interest to him and to us." Mr. Smith said that a Washington posting is a possibility.

Sheer Delight

Trudeau Savors Victory Ere Return to Business

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau savoured his majority election triumph while the first rumblings of lead-ership discontent surfaced Tuesday in the defeated Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Trudeau, credited with a stunning personal victory for pulling the Liberals back from their near defeat in 1972, spent a relaxing day at home with family returns and talking by phone to party officials across the country.

He made no public appearances but a spokesman said he likely will call a news conference before the end of the week and meet members of his cabinet Tuesday.

The number of elected Liberal candidates rose to 141 from 109 during the day with the news that final counting in the Quebec riding of Drummond had given Yvon Pinard a sixvote win over Social Credit incumbent Gilles Loiavert. Mr. Boisvert was the leader on election night.

The final standing:

	1974	1972
Liberal	141	109
Conservative	95	107
New Democrat	16	31
Social Credit	11	15
Independent	1	1
Total	264	264

Robert Stanfield, stinging from his third loss to Mr. Trudeau since taking over the Conservative leadership in 1967, returned to Ottawa from his Halifax riding Tuesday to visit workers and assess his future.

Only a handful of Conservative officials and supporters were at the airport to greet him. Although solidly beaten, he appeared in good spirits during the flight, thanking crew members on his election plane and mingling with reporters assigned to his campaign.

His wife Mary, who smiled gamely election night, went out of her way Tuesday to shake hands with curious onlookers when the plane landed at Uplands airport.

Meanwhile, at least two Conservatives raised the subject of leadership.

John Diefenbaker, re-elected in a record 11th time in Prince Albert, demanded the removal of Dalton Camp from any position of influence in the party.

Mr. Camp, former party president and a key architect of Mr. Stanfield's leadership victory over Mr. Diefenbaker seven years ago, has been a detriment of the party, the 79-year-old former prime minister said.

Mr. Diefenbaker also criticized the party for relying so heavily on wage and price controls—the main Conservative anti-inflation proposal.

"If you carry only one basket and the only contents of that basket is one egg and everybody is throwing stones at it, sooner or later it will be hit."

Duncan Sinclair, defeated in his bid for re-election in Hamilton Mountain, said Tuesday he has never been a supporter of Mr. Stanfield.

"I'm an anti-Tory vote, not a pro-Liberal one," he said of the electorate.

"People here in this riding as well as right across the country were afraid of this wage and price freeze."

Mr. Stanfield has side-stepped all questions on his future, saying only that he wants to discuss it with party officials.

The Conservatives lost ground Monday in their traditional Atlantic stronghold, failed to make headway in inroads in Quebec, lost badly in Ontario and dropped marginally on the Prairies. Only in British Columbia, where they won 13 from five seats, did the party move gains.

The Liberals, led by a new and fighting Prime Minister Trudeau, made gains in seven of 10 provinces—most in Ontario where they swept Toronto area ridings and cut into traditional rural Conservative support.

The New Democratic Party took the worst beating in the election, losing 15 of its 31 seats and watching Leader David Lewis go down to personal defeat in Toronto York South.

Leadership also surfaced in comments by NDP members Tuesday but there was no direct criticism of Mr. Lewis, national leader since T. C. Douglas stepped down in 1970.

Ed Broadbent, national NDP caucus chairman and a winner again in Oshawa-Whitby, said he would give "serious consideration" to running if Mr. Lewis steps down. But the leadership question is "overwhelmingly up to David's own judgment," he added.

Mr. Broadbent said the party suffered the same experience when Mr. Douglas was beaten personally in 1968 but did not resign. Mr. Douglas was later returned to Parliament in a by-election.

Four Saved

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Four persons were rescued early Tuesday from a 23-foot motorboat stranded on a reef in the upper Niagara River about 1½ miles above the American Falls.

A U.S. Coast Guard officer, using a smaller outboard motorboat, brought the four to shore. They had been in the boat about four hours 100 feet from shore.

DON'T MAKE A FOOLISH MISTAKE

such as waiting for mortgage rate to drop before you purchase. Should rates drop by as much as one per cent, you would save $350.00 per year for five years or $1,750.00. Last year in 12 months the average house in Canada went up about $4,000. In that case you would be $4,250.00 further behind. If rates could continue, and it seems likely they will, the same thing can happen year after year, so — don't get caught in the trap — the time to buy a new house is now. Call us for an appointment without obligation to discuss housing for your family.

That's No Hot Rod

An ice-coaled Capri II undergoes cold testing at the research and engineering centre of the Ford Motor Company in Essex, England. Vehicles may spend days in the chamber in temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero while performance checks are carried out. Engines are expected to start at the second attempt — failure means a return to the chamber for more adjustments. (CP Photo)

Moroccans Again Grow Sugar Cane

RABAT (Reuter) — For the first time in 400 years Moroccans will harvest their own sugar cane this year.

They will revive an ancient tradition going back to the 15th century when a sultan used to refine sugar, weight for weight, for Italian marble to build his palaces.

Sugar cane will be cut on 3,-800 acres and processed in new factories.

Moroccans probably hold a record for sugar consumption. They eat 450,000 tons a year, 66 pounds for each man, woman and child.

Their taste for sugar is a recent phenomenon. It began in the 19th century when English merchants introduced tea into Morocco.

The Moroccans evidently found the tea too bitter because they laced it with sugar. Since the 2 has become the national beverage, a syrupy sweet concoction flavored with fresh mint.

When Sultan Ahmed el Mansour el Dehbi traded sugar for marble, the cane was grown in the Souss Valley of south Morocco, but apparently not much of it was eaten.

In recent times sugar consumption became a drain on Morocco's foreign exchange resources since it all had to be imported. But since independence in 1956 it has been homegrow in increasing quantities

More than 200,000 tons a year are produced in dozen factories, mainly from sugar beet. By 1977 output will reach 300,-000 tons — equal to about two thirds of present consumption.

If this, about 40,000 tons will come from sugar cane, most grown on irrigation networks in the north instead of in the south as in Sultan Ahmed's time.

To encourage cultivation of cane, the government is granting credit to peasants who plant it.

Tea and sugar have become so important that a government monopoly has been set up to handle imports, distribution and sales in order to eliminate private speculators who pushed up prices.

Tea imports from China cost nearly $20 million a year and sugar imports are still around $40 million.

AD MISLEADING

TORONTO (CP) — Dominion Stores Ltd. was fined $8,000 in provincial court for misleading advertising in the sale of hockey helmets. A newspaper advertisement in November 1972, described the helmets as having "approved safety design" among its features. Court was told that no authoritative body had approved the design.

Blind Student Gets Radio Station Job

TORONTO (CP) — A blind student enrolled in a radio broadcasting course at a Toronto college is working in a radio station this summer.

Cliff Lorimer, a 53-year-old student at Humber College, became interested in radio through a study of modern music while in Grade 13.

"After visiting several radio stations in the Toronto area, I realized I would like nothing more than to work in radio," said Mr. Lorimer.

"At that time, however, it seemed like an impossible dream. There were too many problems. I was told, for blind people to cope with."

It became less of an "impossible dream" when Mr. Lorimer enrolled in Humber College's radio broadcasting course in 1972 and found that his blindness was not an impossible handicap.

"All of us were astounded by his remarkable ability to get around the campus," said Phil Stone, who created the Humber course. "And when it came to operating the intricate broadcasting console his facility was nothing short of uncanny."

Students in the course operate the broadcasting console and announce on the air at the college's FM station.

"Just when you've got your albums sorted out and your public service announcements all set, the phone will ring with another problem." Mr. Lorimer said CKEY disc jockey Keith Rich.

CKEY employed Mr. Lorimer as a student in Toronto and its affiliate stations.

"Radio is always looking for good people and it is a joy to meet someone like Cliff who is really involved," said Mr. Rich.

Mr. Lorimer types commercial and service announcements at 50 words a minute on a regular keyboard.

He also contributes articles to Canadian musical publications and has sold several interviews with pop artists to local stations.

"I feel I can do a good job for a station now," said Mr. Lorimer.

America Can't Match Europe's Appreciation

EDMONTON (CP) — As far as pianist Keith Jarrett is concerned, North America is missing a lazy second to Europe in its approach to jazz concerts.

Jarrett, 28, says that to perform on a gold show a musician must have a suitable sound system "and a place where it isn't completely impossible to hear or feel the music."

"There's a certain way to deal with those things and it's just not done in North America anymore," he said here after finishing a 90-minute concert.

"No one realizes how bad it is because everyone is willing to play under any circumstances."

Jarrett, who plans to spend more time composing in future, can sometimes get wrapped up in his own performance—so much so that he is almost playing only to himself.

"I know it feels good to me," he says, "but then I start getting concerned about what's happening to the audience . . . where are they?"

In a recent release, In The Light, Jarrett has broken away from the traditional jazz rhythm section and features an orchestral background with most of the composing done by himself.

"People think you're not supposed to do anything but the same thing all the time," he says.

"But I need this to complete my spectrum. If I took one piece out it would fall apart."

A resident of New York, Jarrett says he stopped making compromises for public taste or money early in his career.

"I gave up the commercial world in Boston where I was playing six nights a week every week at local spots.

"I started getting popular and I knew it was wrong because I wasn't doing what I wanted to do."

For Jarrett, who started playing piano at the age of three, it probably is the most versatile instrument played.

Or, as he puts it: "The piano is the universe."

MEMO FROM HELEN GAGEN, CONSUMER ADVISOR MIRACLE FOOD MART

UNIT VALUE PRICING CAN SAVE YOU MONEY

Now, that unit value pricing has been in Miracle Food Mart for over a year, shoppers are growing more aware of its usefulness in comparative shopping. The bold, legible, red, black and white labels carrying unit value pricing information are found beneath more than 3,300 items. Information on the labels includes product name, size, price, store inventory number, and — most important, of all — price per unit in quarts, pints, fluid ounces, pound, or dozen.

By consulting the information on the labels you can compare the dollar and cent value of the various sizes or brands of a product on the shelf. Unit value pricing does the arithmetic for you to help you save money. It does not compare quality, however. It's left to you to try, then decide your family's preference for one brand over another.

Next time you are shopper in a Miracle Food Mart check shelf extra time to compare prices by using the unit value tickets on the grocery shelves. The time will be well spent, and you may be surprised at what you discover.

Polaroid guarantees

every picture you take with this camera.

If you don't like it, you can take another one free.

Model 420 without Focused Flash $64.95

If you buy one of Polaroid's Focused Flash 400 cameras during this special offer, every picture you take until next year will be guaranteed. It's true. Polaroid guarantees you'll be delighted with all the pictures you take—or you'll get free film to take them over again.

Here's how it works: You'll receive a coupon when your purchase your camera. It entitles you to return to Polaroid any color pictures you take and judge to be unsatisfactory for any photographic reason for free replacement of Colorpack film.

Polaroid can offer this unusual guarantee because they feel the Focused Flash Land Camera and Colorpack Land film make an almost foolproof combination. Focused Flash keeps your flash shots from coming out too light or too dark. An electric eye and electronic shutter automatically control your other shots. Indoors or out, there's never an exposure calculation to be concerned with.

There are four models to choose from packed with features, and they all take pictures that are guaranteed.

Capture the fun while it's still going on with Polaroid's Square Shooter 2.

Square Shooter 2 is Polaroid's lowest priced all-purpose instant color camera.

The Square Shooter 2 uses Polaroid's square color film so you save with every instant color picture you take. And it uses inexpensive 4-shot flashcubes.

There's an electric eye and electronic shutter for automatic exposures. Sharp 3-element focusing lens. Fast, pack film loading.

Square Shooter 2 may be inexpensive, but it's fully-equipped to give you beautiful color pictures in a minute—at a lower price than ever before available.

Polaroid Colorpack Land Film.

Type 88 for Square Shooter 2 $3.99 per pack

Type 108 for the 400's $4.99 per pack

OUT OUR WAY — by Neg Cochran

Stress Good for All Maintains Dr. H. Selye

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stress is good for all of us, says Dr. Hans Selye, an expert in the field of experimental medicine. And the only way to avoid it is by doing nothing.

Dr. Selye, director of the Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery at the University of Montreal, writes about stress in his book, Stress Without Distress.

He defines stress as the consequence of any demand made upon the body. It can be associated with pleasant experiences, such as the safe return home of a lost child, or unpleasant experiences, such as the death of a close friend. In other words, stress is not necessarily distress.

Everyone needs an aim in life, Dr. Selye says. In general terms, he says, it is to maintain a person's identity and to express his innate abilities and drives with the least possible frustration.

His says the individual's ultimate aim must have two dominating characteristics: "It must be something that requires hard work (otherwise it would give no outlet to self-expression) and its fruits must be sufficiently permanent to accumulate as life goes by (otherwise it could not be a long-range aim)."

But Dr. Selye says neither short-ranges nor long-range aims are the ultimate aim of man. "I feel we should always strive for what we ourselves—not the society that surrounds us—regard as worth while. But we must, at all cost, avoid frustration, the humiliation of failure; we must not aim too high and undertake tasks which are beyond us."

He maintains that egoism is an inherent and unavoidable characteristic of life. But altruistic egoism is a system that works. "Individual people have formed the co-operative 'mutual insurance' groups of the family, tribes and nations within which altruistic egoism is the key to success."

One important thing, he says, is not to run away from stress but to realize that the stress of frustration is particularly harmful.

Stress Without Distress, by Dr. Hans Selye; $6.95; MacClelland and Stewart.

Roger Lovin describes motorcycles as both freedom symbols and the most absurd form of transportation yet devised.

"In The Complete Motorcycle Manual he gives motorcycle enthusiasts advice on everything from buying the proper bike to equipping it as your home-on-wheels for a lengthy tour.

A veteran motorcyclist, Lovin...tells how to cope with hundreds of problems likely—and not so likely—to arise when riding a motorcycle.

His tips cover city riding, highway touring, trading and bartering on the road and cultivating the skills necessary to put yourself in the ranks of an experienced motorcyclist.

The 300-page book, interspersed with personal experiences and humorous anecdotes, also deals with disasters—how to avoid them and how to handle those you can't avoid.

An unlikely situation, but well-covered in Lovin's book, is brake loss.

He explains that in most cases, brake loss is caused by excessive moisture, over-use or snapped control cables.

Losing your brakes in city traffic, which Lovin has experienced, can be a harrowing situation.

"The best advice I can give is to lean on the horn, aim straight across the intersection, and lift the leg on the side the traffic is going to hit you from.

"If you have that leg up you'll not only save it from being minced, you'll be more likely to be thrown on to the hood of the car that creams you rather than out into the street for the other cars to play with."

Lovin's book also contains a list of places to get further information before leaving or while on the road, a log to record your trips and rate camping facilities and a daily check list to ensure your mount is in good, running condition.

The Complete Motorcycle Manual, by Roger Lovin; $3.95; Little, Brown and Co.

Hotel Site Not Picked By Instinct

HALIFAX (CP) — Do you build a multi-million-dollar hotel 20 miles from the centre of a city on instinct alone?

No, says Donald Curtis of Toronto, president of CP Hotels.

Asked about the possibility of the national hotel group building a hotel near the Halifax International Airport 23 miles north of the city, Mr. Curtis replied:

"My instincts tell me it's right . . . that we should be there."

However, instincts have to be backed by shareholders who make decisions on black-and-white figures, Mr. Curtis said.

For that reason, he said, CP Hotels must carry out further studies before deciding whether a hotel in the airport area is economically feasible.

Mountie Found Not Guilty Of Negligence in Shooting

OTTAWA (CP) — RCMP Constable Robert Dennis was found not guilty Tuesday of criminal negligence in the Feb. 1 wounding of Rustiy Kennedy of Fergy, Ont.

But, while provincial court Judge Bernard Ryan found Dennis, 21, not guilty of negligence in the shooting which took place during a drug situation in Ottawa, he was strongly critical of the RCMP for allowing an officer with as little experience as Dennis on such a case and of two other RCMP officers who shot at the car Kennedy was driving.

While Judge Ryan said the shooting was not a wanton and reckless act—which would make it criminally negligent—he said "there should have been no shooting at all that night."

He noted that the two senior officers with Dennis had fired five times before Dennis shot at Kennedy and said, "Surely the officers should have known they would set off a chain reaction."

He also questioned their wisdom in firing at a car with only one occupant, when there was no evidence he was dangerous or armed.

The stakeout was a joint RCMP-city police operation, and when several other officers were available to help them.

Dennis, only a few months out of training, was normally employed in a clerical capacity at force headquarters here and took part in narcotics investigations on his own on a part-time basis.

He admitted in testimony that it was his shot which struck Kennedy.

After the Ottawa shooting Kennedy drove to Hull, Que., where he sought medical aid from city police. His car was searched there by RCMP officers and a quantity of cocaine was reported found under a seat.

Kennedy, 21, committed suicide the day before he was to appear in Hull court on a possession charge, but before he died he was reported to have told relatives he was not involved with drugs and that because he thought he was being attacked by a group of ruffians. The police were in plain clothes for the operation.

Expressing sympathy with the difficult task faced by narcotics investigators, Judge Ryan maintained that "officers must remember their first duty is the protection of the community."

Fall Disregarded

TORONTO (CP) — A patient at the Lakeshore Psychiatric Hospital lay in bed for more than 15 hours after suffering a fall last April without hospital staff thinking it abnormal, a coroner's jury was told Tuesday.

Kenneth Way, an attendant at the hospital, said he found Douglas Harris, 23, in the hallway near his bed April 21, and asked the patient if he was all right.

"He indicated he was by nodding his head," Mr. Way said.

Monday, a pathologist said Mr. Harris died from fluid in his lungs resulting from a blow to the side of the skull.

Mr. Way said he and another attendant carried Mr. Harris to his bed and told duty nurse Sheila Bartlett of the incident. Mrs. Bartlett testified she did so mark the fall on her nurse's log when she was off shift that afternoon.

"Possibly it was an oversight and possibly we felt there may have been no need for it," she said.

Other staff members told the jury that the afternoon shift did not think it abnormal that Mr. Harris lay in his bed from 3 p.m. until 6:30 a.m. the next morning when he was found dead.

Player Loses Appeal

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The appeal of a 19-year-old hockey player against his conviction on a charge of assault in connection with an attack on another player during a game Jan. 26 was dismissed in county court Tuesday.

Charles Irvine, a member of the Morrisburg team in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B league, was charged following the game with Cardinal.

Judge W. M. Dubrule ruled that the conviction was valid and the conditional discharge granted Irvine would be upheld.

Irvine was convicted of assaulting Gerald O'Brien of the Cardinal team by spearing him during the third period of the game at Cardinal Arena.

No penalty was called on the play because both the referee and linesman said they did not see it.

Police laid the charge after witnesses complained about the incident.

Trailer Tossed By Wind

WILBURY, Ont. (CP) — Ann Billaway, 30, of Callcider, Ont., was injured Tuesday when strong winds struck a trailer being near here and tossed her against trailer about 50 feet.

Ambulance crews worked for 45 minutes to free Mrs. Billaway from the trailer.

She was taken to the intensive care unit at St. Joseph's Hospital in Chatham.

The high winds also demolished the trailer of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allison of Wyoming, Ont. The Allisons and their daughter Roxy, 8, received cuts and scratches.

Starts Dip

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing starts are dipping below last year's record levels, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. (CMHC) said Monday.

CMHC said in a news release preliminary figures for June indicate housing starts in urban areas reached 19,361, down eight per cent from 20,946 in the same month a year ago. Starts for the first six months of the year were 80,840, about one per cent below the 81,722 total in the same period last year.

CTV Sues

TORONTO (CP) — The CTV television network has instituted legal proceedings against Systems Dimensions Ltd. of Ottawa which provided computer statistics for the network's federal election coverage, CTV spokesman said Tuesday.

Tom Gould, vice-president of news features and information programs, said the network is seeking $2.5 million damages.

He said the computer system failed repeatedly during the election coverage.

The network, he said, was competitive with or ahead of the CBC through the Atlantic provinces but computer breakdowns began when returns started flowing in from Quebec and Ontario.

Index Rises

OTTAWA (CP) — The wholesale price index rose by one-tenth of one per cent in May, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

The relatively small May change compares with a 1.7-per-cent jump in the consumer price index during the same month.

That was the month during which gasoline and fuel oil prices at both retail and wholesale levels went up sharply.

U.S. and Russia Conduct A-tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The United States conducted an underground nuclear test Wednesday and the Soviet Union also was reported to have conducted one, only a week after the two countries signed an agreement to limit such tests.

The U.S. test scheduled in advance, was conducted at the Yucca Flat area of the Nevada test site, sending out shock waves that were felt in Las Vegas 90 miles away. The AEC said the device was detonated at the bottom of a 2,100-foot vertical shaft 46 inches in diameter.

The treaty signed last week does not take effect until 1976.

An Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said there was no radiation leak from the U.S. weapons — related test, codenamed Escabosa. The agency had said previously the device was expected to have a yield in the range of 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT.

The Nuclear Seismological Observatory in Oslo reported that the Soviet Union apparently conducted an underground nuclear test as well, although there was no official confirmation.

The two superpowers signed an agreement in Moscow last week to limit underground nuclear weapons test after March 31, 1976, to detonations not exceeding the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT.

Nixon's Lawyer Calls Dean

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Dean, who once said his most difficult problem was "how I could end this mess without mortally wounding the president," faces questioning today in the impeachment proceedings he helped to initiate.

It was Dean's Senate testimony a year ago linking President Nixon with the Watergate coverup that helped set the stage for the current inquiry by the House Representatives Judiciary committee.

His testimony now has been requested by James St. Clair, Nixon's impeachment defence lawyer, who wants to examine him on a $75,000 payment he helped arrange for Watergate conspirator Howard Hunt.

The former White House counsel played a leading role in all phases of the cover-up until he decided to tell his story to the Watergate prosecutors in April, 1973, and he faces intensive questioning by committee members.

Dean pleaded guilty last October to conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States. His sentencing has been delayed as he has been cooperating with the Watergate prosecutors.

Senator Indicted

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Senator Edward Gurney has been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with a $233,000 fund-raising effort involving contractors and lawyers seeking influence in getting federal housing contracts.

The Florida Republican was charged with conspiracy, conspiracy, taking part in a coverup, and lying to the special grand jury. The federal grand jury returned the indictment Wednesday after a 2½-year investigation.

Conviction on all counts could bring a maximum prison term of 61 years.

Kissinger in Court

Nixon and Kissinger Provide Facts to Defend Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and State Secretary Henry Kissinger have provided evidence to the defence of John Ehrlichman in the plumbers trial.

The jury of six men and six women hears final arguments today from defence and prosecution lawyers.

Ehrlichman, a former White House aide, is accused of conspiring with three others of violating the rights of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Kissinger, who has repeatedly denied any knowledge of the special White House investigative unit known as the plumbers, was called as a defence witness by Ehrlichman's lawyers.

The plumbers, under co-directors Ehrlichman and Egil Krogh, planned and carried out an illegal search of Fielding's office on Sept. 3, 1971.

Kissinger, called to damage Young's credibility, testified he knew nothing of, let alone suggested, a plan to gather psychological information on Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers study of the Vietnam war to the press.

A CIA memo had quoted Young as saying Kissinger and Ehrlichman requested that the agency prepare a psychological profile on Ellsberg.

A few hours after Kissinger's appearance, Judge Gesell read to the jury six written answers to questions submitted to President Nixon by Ehrlichman's lawyers.

The president said he never authorized the break-in and didn't learn of it until March 17, 1973.

O'Brien Disgusted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic chairman Lawrence O'Brien says he is "completely appalled and disgusted" by a report that White House aide Alan Ehrlichmin pressed the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to "dream up some" reasons to have audited before the 1972 presidential election.

The Senate Watergate committee staff quoted Ehrlichman as saying, in sworn testimony, "I wanted them to turn up something and send (O'Brien) to jail before the election and unfortunately it didn't materialize."

The staff's report, made public Wednesday, said Ehrlichman succeeded in speeding up an IRS audit of O'Brien, but the audit turned up nothing wrong in O'Brien's taxes.

The aide said Ehrlichman tongue-lashed the head of the IRS for taking too long to hand O'Brien in for an interview, and that Ehrlichman passed along sensitive tax information about O'Brien to President Nixon.

O'Brien, told about the Watergate report by a reporter, said: "I can't comprehend a president or an assistant using an agency of the government to destroy an individual."

Denturist Course Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. M. D. Charendoff, president of the Ontario Dental Association, says the province's proposed course for denturists is "a far cry" from what the public has been led to believe would be implemented.

The 2,500-member association, in protest of a 12-month course for denturists who would be qualified to provide full denture services without supervision of a dentist. The course will last for only three or four years, not the five denturists said in a news release Wednesday.

"To try and abbreviate the process and to have a system which will start and finish in less than a week is utterly foolish and unfair," Dr. Charendoff said.

He said the association proposes to qualify denturists for such procedures in "a sham."

He said the association would reconsider its decision not to provide services if the provincial government "would ignore" the concern for the public interest."

Zionism Assailed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia says Zionism and communism aim to destroy the United States and foment world tensions. "Zionism created communism and works against Jews themselves. The Saudi people will work with Americans against the threat, and also to build our relations," Faisal said in the interview at his summer palace in Saudi Arabia.

Just Wet Your Lips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy smokers and drinkers run a 15-times-greater risk of developing cancer of the mouth and throat than abstainers, says a new federal report sent to Congress Wednesday. Three ounces of whisky, a half bottle of wine, or four glasses of beer daily were described as the upper limits of moderate drinking. Heavy drinkers, in a statistical group, live longer than abstainers or ex-drinkers.

Hydro Route Chosen

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Energy Minister Darcy McKeough said today that cabinet has chosen the route for the controversial 1,200-million hydro transmission line from Nanticoke to Pickering. He said the government "is choice substantially follows the recommendations of the Solandt commission which suggested the line follow the Parkway Belt "whenever possible" to cause the least damage.

Breathe Deeply

TORONTO (CP) — Feel lethargic or on the brink of a cold. Don't worry, says York University sociology professor Ted Mant. Just take 25 deep breaths and energy and sense of well-being will be restored. Prof. Mant, speaking at an international festival of esoteric sciences and yoga, said the units of energy that power life may come from the sun or some other cosmic source and are called orgones. He said he has been able to collect orgone in the mass and has used orgone-charged wool or in blankets made of wool and steel wool.

Irish Mob Taunts Two

BELFAST (AP) — Four hundred angry Roman Catholics shaved the heads of two 15-year-old Catholic girls, tied them to railings and hung placards on them reading "Self-Confessed Tout." (informer).

"They were crying and covered in spittle," said a British army spokesman, after a patrol rescued the girls in the Lenadoon Falls area of Belfast Wednesday. They were obviously terrified out of their minds."

Reactor Partnership Would Delight Gray

LONDON (CP) — Dr. Lorne Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada (AECL), said today he would "love it" if in the long term Canada and Britain made a joint effort in tackling the world nuclear reactor market but "I suspect eventually we will be in competition."

Gray told a news conference he was "delighted" with the announcement Wednesday to develop with Canada co-operation its own nuclear system rather than import a United States system.

He said Canada is "prepared to co-operate in whatever extent the British want" in developing as their next generation of reactors the steam-generating heavy-water reactor, similar to basic technology to Canada's highly-regarded Candu system.

Both use heavy water, which initially will be provided by Canada, while the U.S. system, which has recently been criticized on safety grounds, uses ordinary water.

He said the announcement is "too new" yet for him to give firm details on the various agreements that need to be made but three or four Canadian engineers may be posted here to work with the British—people from the design office of the AECL.

Also it was possible that the principal customers for British nuclear energy, the Central Electricity Generating Board and the South of Scotland Generating Board, might call on Ontario Hydro for personnel to help with management and other technical aspects of the new development.

A big plus for Canada in the British decision is that if it had gone the other way, and the American system was imported, it would have left Canada virtually alone in developing a heavy-water system.

Now, he said, the British have given a great psychological boost to the heavy-water system which may help Canadian attempts to market its system as such countries as Denmark are likely to do. "There is no doubt (the decision), will be very beneficial both to Canada's and Britain's good.

He said Canadian and British officials have discussed, and will continue to discuss, the eventual possibility of jointly seeking to market both the British and Canadian systems jointly and Candu.

"I don't know if we will do that. I would love it. It would give us the best of both worlds in that we could offer countries a choice.

"But I suspect Britain might want to market separately and eventually we would be in competition with each other."

Indignant Australian Unions Make Peace With Frank Sinatra

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australian unions today lifted their bans on Frank Sinatra, hired a fair promoter said the singer will resume his concert tour and go ahead with a television show.

The unions said Sinatra will be allowed to leave the country when he wishes, and the singer said in a joint statement he has "regretted" name-calling and rough-house incidents during his visit. However, he did not issue a general apology as the unions had demanded.

The agreement was reached after a three-hour meeting between Sinatra's lawyer, the promoters of the tour and Robert Hawke, Australian labor top union official and president of the governing Labor party.

The statement said Sinatra did not intend "any general reflection upon the moral character of the working members of the Australian media."

But it added: "He, of course, reserves the right to continue to comment upon the quality of the professional performance of those working members of the media whom he believes are subject to criticism on professional grounds."

In their part of the statement, the unions said they had no desire to embarrass Sinatra, and "any express their regrets for any physical inconvenience that may have been caused to him by journalists."

"It's smiles all around", said Robert Raymond, "one of the tour promoters. "There was no apology. The unions have really shown a lot of understanding and deserve complimentary comments for their display of proportion."

Hawke flew to Sydney to meet with Sinatra after a number of unions demanded that the singer apologize for insults to Australia's journalists.

The promoter also had said that Sinatra could not appear again in the country until he apologized, and the transport union had said its members would not service any plane the singer was booked on.

Hawke had said previously that Sinatra would never get out of Australia unless the contracted remarks he made during a press conference in Melbourne and apologized for the rough treatment his bodyguards gave a television crew.

The hotel employees' union had threatened to boycott Sydney hotel where Sinatra is staying.

The singer had scheduled five concerts—two in Melbourne and three in Sydney—at $125,000 each. He still has four to go.

Sinatra's lawyer, Milton Rudin, told a news conference his client "regretted the incident" but will not accept culpability.

The trouble started Tuesday when Sinatra arrived in Melbourne by private jet from Sydney. Motioning reporters, he brushed past reporters and was whisked off in a fast car.

That night, he interrupted a concert before 2,000 people with a monologue aimed at the press in which he said he had "run all day because of the parasites who chased us."

"They won't quit; they wonder why I won't talk to them.

"It's the scandal men that they can't get you crazy, and the hookers—the broads of the press are the hookers of the press, used I explain like to you.

"I might offer them a buck and a half—that's true," Sinatra continued, "if once had a brood in Washington D and I overpaid her. She didn't even balbe—most of them don't anyway."

Sinatra had clashed with Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire in Washington, D.C., at the time of President Nixon's inaugural in January, 1972.

The Washington Post account at the time of the Cheshire incident said the cotelather noticed Mrs. Cheshire in a hotel lobby late on the Friday night before the inauguration and yelled at her: "You scum, go home and take a bath."

The Post said that he continued to berate her with four-letter expletives, repeatedly calling her a "tit brood," and as he left, the lobby stuffed two dollar bills in her empty glass, shouting: "Here's $2 baby. That's what you're used to."

After the Melbourne concert, security guards hired by the promoter of Sinatra's tour targeted with television crews trying to film the singer. One televi-examin was cut on the face. A bodyguard wrapped an electric cord around another's neck and warned him: "You've got a thing to get physical."

Radio and Australian reporters the security men were hired because someone had threatened the entertainer in the leg when he entered the hotel.

Immigration Minister Minister Clyde Cameron called for a report on the bodyguards' actions. He said that if Sinatra wanted to come to Australia again "and I could stop him, I certainly would."

"We do not like the say form of thuggery, and if it has occurred, I can understand the unions being very upset about it," Cameron told the House of Representatives in Canberra.

Industries Opposing Hydro Rate Proposal

TORONTO (CP) — A proposed increase in Ontario Hydro's wholesale power rates was described Wednesday as unacceptable by an organization representing 27 industrial power consumers.

In a submission to the Ontario Energy Board, the body to which Hydro has applied for permission to increase its rates, the Association of Direct Customers of Ontario Hydro agreed some increase in power rates there was necessary but disputed the need for increases averaging 19 per cent.

"After all relevant factors are tabled, we would expect to find that an over-all increase in the order of seven per cent will be more appropriate."

Court Favors Nuns In Land Sale

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge has ruled against a City of Toronto attempt to prevent the Sisters of St. Joseph from selling three acres of land in the city for $2 million.

In a decision released Wednesday, Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes rejected Wednesday a city bid to set aside a Supreme Court decision two weeks ago that the nuns were not in breach of their agreement to give the city 30 days' time to match or better any offer for the land.

The city sold the land in downtown Toronto to the nuns three years ago for $2,087,312 as a new site for St. Michael's Hospital.

The brief said the current Hydro application is part of a long-term plan to raise rates annually by about 16 per cent. In the case of direct industrial customers, the effect would be to raise the rates 242.8 per cent between 1972 and 1979, it said.

"Many of the individual members operate in highly-competitive markets and will be unable to pass these cost increases on to their customers," the brief said. "The net result must inevitably be a substantial of two profit margins and loss of competitive position."

Robert Macaulay, energy board counsel, told the hearing Wednesday he would be asking the association to document its statements by providing details of its members' operations.

The brief said the organization represents half the direct customers of Hydro with power loads in excess of 5,000 kilowatts and more than 17,000 employees. The combined power bill paid by the members last year exceeded $28 million.

The association also was critical of the role played by municipal utilities at the current hearings and said there is a distinterest lay in the fact that the rate increase discriminates against municipal customers.

In another brief to the hearings, the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, representing the province's 313 municipal utilities, said the rates to the direct industrial customers are too low in comparison with the rates they pay.

The utilities' brief said any municipal utility would see a substantial reduction in its power costs if it could purchase at the rate now available to Hydro's direct customers.

The hearing continues.

Third Escapee Avoids Capture

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A police hunt for James Barkwell, 19-year Huntsville, continued today in the Frankford area, seven miles north of here.

Barkwell is the last of three prisoners still at large after the three were spotted the wall at Warkworth Penal Institute, Monday.

Provincial police from Brighton Wednesday on Woodchuck Island owned by David Frederick Dancey, 19, and Dwayne Norman Shaw, 20, Trenton.

Police crash a Niagara Falls cottage owner, Louis Chambers, with the capture of the two men. Mr. Chambers, owner of the island, is holiday at his summer home there.

He could not be reached for comment. No telephone is available and only communication with the island is by two-way radio.

Albert Stanley, Mr. Chambers brother-in-law, holds the other terminal of the radio.

Mr. Stanley said he received a call by radio from Mrs. Chambers.

MORE

Third Take 2

She said her husband was holding a shotgun on two escapees who had just walked out of a marsh area onto the island.

Mr. Stanley immediately called police and the medium security prison at Warkworth.

Shortly after, Barkwell also walked out of the marsh and found himself covered by Mr. Chambers shotgun.

OPP Constable Kenneth Pratt said Barkwell stayed under the gun for some 15 minutes before "calling his (Mr. Chamber's bluff" and returning to the marsh.

When police arrived, Constable Pratt said the two men had "had enough". No resistance was offered police.

He described them at the time of arrest as mosquito-bitten, hungry and soaked.

Police say the last sighting of Barkwell was made by a prison guard after the near-capture on the island, approximately 15 miles south of Meyersburg on the Trent River.

The guard saw the escapee a half-mile, from the prison, but Barkwell quickly ducked back into the underbrush.

Barkwell is considered dangerous by police.

Latest Provincial Park Is in Trent Valley

CAMPBELLFORD — The Trent Valley's newest park and is now in operation near here.

Ferris provincial park is on property which once was almost abandoned.

In 1960, 53 acres was transferred to the province as a memorial to pioneers and the long-established pioneer Ferris family. The province acquired other abandoned properties along the scenic Trent waterway and eventually developed the facilities in an area that combines plants, stone fences and the Trenton River into a pleasant vista.

The properties mostly had been unused for year — a decline that continued sharply with their early settlement.

In a way the slowdown trend paralleled the boom story of Campbellford which saw quickly accelerated, spectacular growth from 1960 to the turn of the century.

It was the Trent which first attracted the lumber industry to Campbellford. With expanding markets in Great Britain and an apparently endless supply of high-quality timber, prospects looked good. Logging drives were essentially stimulated development of Campbellford. Lumber camps required machinery and manufacturing — meeting food requirements needed mills to provide flour.

The logging industry, however, moved elsewhere when forest reserves were exhausted. The Trent, however, proved to be a major hydroelectric power. It was not distanced by its major competitor, the Welland Canal.

The Grand Trunk Railroad built to facilitate transportation of lumber, livestock and dairy produce from Seymour township in the large southern section, could not challenge the transcontinental railroads and soon passed into history.

Campbellford's industries were then installed.One by one they collapsed or were bought by larger firms.

Campbellford thus has an interesting past, which visitors to Ferris provincial park share. Once, on the north east area of the park the veteran from the Pioneer Cemetery Cross laboured. Cock and other pioneer farmers were laid to the initial wave of immigration to this largely undeveloped area. Their high hopes were largely disappointed.

J.M. Ferris, merchant politician arrived in Campbellford to take part in the boom period of the area's history. Now both of these pioneer eras are in the past.

Although only limited facilities are available at Ferris this summer, it's anticipated visitors who to camp at Ferris next year will find complete facilities to meet requirements.

Permit Raises A Rumpus

MARMORA — Robert Starr, a newcomer to Marmora township has accused Township Reeve Graham Bell of having a stop order issued to prevent him from installing a trailer on his property near Crowe Lake.

Sometime ago while on a road inspection tour Reeve Bell noticed that there wasn't a building permit and warned the man to get one.

Mr. Starr's and councillors' version of what happened after that differ.

Mr. Starr complained that he paid County Building Inspector George Caves for a building permit but was unable to produce a receipt to council when asked to show it. Then he insisted that his application and money was sent Mr. Caves a month ago.

Niall Carney, county planning director was also present at the council meeting and said the information he had from Mr. Caves was that no money or application had been received from Mr. Starr for a building permit.

Mr. Starr charged Mr. Caves, Mr. Carney and Reeve Bell of obstructing him when he was trying to bring business into Marmora township.

There was a heated exchange of words that only subsided when Mr. Carney said he would discuss once again with Mr. Caves.

Canada's Future

Now that we have a Liberal majority government it will be the responsibility of the Opposition and a watchful citizenry to ensure that such a mandate is exercised in the realm of Government spending.

Indeed if it continues unchecked, supported by a public which also seems bent on spending itself to inflationary collapse, then the threat of recession could be that much closer.

Nothing has worked thus far where balancing the books is concerned. But this time around the Government will have to tackle it seriously. At the same time the country must work toward increased production, as a further hedge against inflationary pressures.

Let's not overlook either the Government's huge foreign aid bill — something in excess of $600 million this year alone, and some of it earmarked for what is called "humanitarian" aid in areas of Southern Africa where Communist-backed guerrillas are operating.

Far from "liberating" countries such as Mozambique, there is documented evidence that the guerrillas have engaged in acts of barbarism that have brought appalling misery and eventually death to their own kith and kin. All this, for so much of what is done in the name of "liberation" actually is a ruthless Communist-backed campaign that has little to do with democracy or the peaceful working out of problems in that part of the world.

Whenever the Government here says it has no money for legitimate needs at home, whether it be for housing, or for senior citizens, or for the manifest needs of our native peoples (who rated little or no mention during the election), then let's remember the funds that are going toward such dubious causes overseas.

And this, quite apart from the fact that we should be asking why Canada is giving the nod at all to anything which the Communist world seeks to exploit, and is in fact devoting much of its propagandist and material resources to that end.

Let's keep an eye on this new Liberal majority government for what it does in this regard, and be ready to make any necessary protests.

Storm Hits Tweed

Few mind a routine electric storm and there have been a couple in Belleville this summer.

But the battering the elements meted out north of here Tuesday night, bringing a measure of devastation to the village of Tweed in particular, is the proverbial "something else."

The signs of these vagaries of nature can be strange indeed. Visitors to The Outlet for instance heard distant thunder and looked up at a threatening sky. But the skies cleared and gave way to a watery sun set with no stronger an accompaniment than a brief flurry of rain.

If there is to be compensation from the provincial government a hope Tweed will fare better than did Brighton in similar circumstances a year or two ago. We recall there was some politicking and hair-splitting over compensation and that village was thrown back moreorless on its own resources.

Strong Opposition

Conservative strength in Quinte and neighboring ridings, despite inroads, held firm against the Liberal tide in the July 8 election. Indeed, while the Trudeau government has a majority, there is enough Conservative, NDP and Creditiste strength in the Commons to make its presence felt on the issues of the day. As ever a strong Opposition is necessary to the working out of democracy in this country.

Little Money in Ottawa's Kitty as Bonds Are Unloaded

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The Trudeau government's political troubles may be ended—but its financial troubles are getting deeper by the day.

The immediate problem is a shortage of cash in the till. The reason for the shortage is that the public, for the past three months, has been unloading Canada Savings Bonds at an unprecedented rate.

And the reason that savers are cancelling their money back is that it can earn much more for them elsewhere—despite Finance Minister John Turner's action increasing the yield-to-maturity on CSBs to an inadequate nine per cent.

"Clearly the priority task for fixing the Bank of Canada and department of finance following the election is to restore the government's cash position in a more comfortable level and devise a method or program to revive the relative attractiveness of CSBs as a savings medium," says Brian Steel of Fry Mills Spence Ltd., investment dealers.

Canada Savings Bonds, which holders may redeem at face value at any time, represent nearly one-third of Canada's national debt.

Ottawa's markers of monetary policy apparently never foresaw a time when CSB holders would redeem en masse.

The authorities depended, vaguely, on CSB holders' "loyalty," on the interest-component building gradually and perhaps on what they considered to be the average saver's lack of sophistication in assessing alternative investments.

But the experience of nearly 30 years of CSB sales did not prepare Ottawa to anticipate this year's rush to cash CSBs, nor to consider how those redemptions might destabilize the public-debt structure.

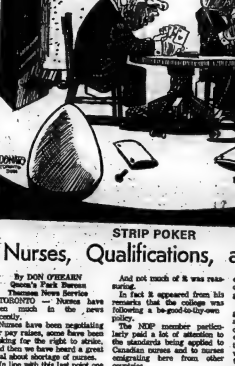
The lessons that are being so forcibly learned in Ottawa this summer will no doubt be reflected in next October's annual issue of CSBs. Imaginative and generous new features will be offered to attract investors.

But the money from 1974-75 CSB purchases won't start going into the government treasury until November—and the cash crunch is here now, today.

To carry out the Trudeau-Turner campaign promises (estimated to cost $1,100 million a year), to restore the government's dangerously low cash balances, and to combat foreign-exchange pressure on the Canadian dollar, Ottawa will have to go to the bond market, for at least $1.7 billion and perhaps more than $2 billion in new borrowings.

And the bond market is already so saturated that yields are starting at about 15 per cent (on the safest of government issues) and going up from there.

The key plank in the Liberals' successful campaign was that they would be tough on taxables of natural resources. Their victory ensures that they will be top-level indeed despite the resistance of Saskatchewan and Alberta—particularly because the government so badly needs the $650 million that the proposed royalties and mining taxes could bring in annually.



Another plank that is sure of being implemented early—as a quick, sure way of raising it an extra $100 million—is the proposal for a one-year 10-per-cent surtax on corporate earnings.

Income of small businesses and from manufacturing and processing would be exempt.

One way or another, the government will weather the financial storm—if only because it is the ultimate source of power.

But Canadian business faces a squeeze on profits throughout 1974 and 1975, not only from higher taxes but also from persistent wage demands.

For investors, any real improvement in stock values could still be a long way off.

STRIP POKER

Nurses, Qualifications, and Politics

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Nurses have been much in the news recently.

Nurses have been negotiating for pay raises, some have been looking for the right to strike, and then we have heard a great deal about shortages of nurses.

In line with this last point one has to wonder whether this is one more profession to which we have given too much power: to much of an opening to run a closed and dictatorial shop.

At the session, during debate of the Health Disciplines Act, Michael Cassidy, the stipendiary who young NDP'er from Ottawa Centre had quite a bit to say about the College of Nurses.

And not much of it was reassuring.

In fact it appeared from his remarks that the college was following a be-good-to-thy-own policy.

The NDP member particularly paid a lot of attention to the standards being applied to Canadian nurses and to nurses emigrating here from other countries.

Here what he had to reveal certainly appeared as discrimination.

First of all, he said that when graduates of the two-year Ontario Nursing School had to write for their certification as RN's they had a multiple-choice examination in which the passing mark was less than 50 per cent.

That is they could pick and choose, know less than half the questions put to them, and still get the qualification.

When it comes to an immigrant nurse the passing standard and is higher (though Cassidy doesn't think even it is high enough), but beyond this a couple of hurdles over those who can write the examination in English the decided implication of discrimination.

Some of the applicants with established backgrounds in other countries, for example, are told they don't have the necessary academic background for Ontario.

In general, there seems to be a bad attention and it would appear that at the very least the college should do some explaining.

Terrorist Sentences Are Commuted

Peterborough Examiner

For a concrete example of why terrorism continues to flourish in certain parts of the world, one need only look to Sudan.

In Khartoum recently Sudanese President Gaafar Nimeiri commuted to seven years the life sentences passed on Palestinian guerrillas who killed three Western diplomats last year.

Within hours, the guerrillas had left the country. A plane carried them out of Sudan into the "custody" of the Palestinian Liberation Organization as an undisclosed destination.

Sentenced to life imprisonment, commuted to seven years and essentially set free on the same day — it's no wonder the eight guerrillas smiled and joked when they appeared for sentencing. The sentence itself is a farce.

Perhaps their crimes were not as monstrous as they had appeared to western eyes last year. They murdered an embassy in Khartoum during a reception. Under siege for 60 hours, they killed U.S. Ambassador Cleo Noel, his charge d'affaires' Curtis Moore and Belgian charge d'affaires Guy Eid.

While conduct of a similar nature would be considered deplorable in a few other countries, it is apparently nothing more than a minor misdemeanor in Sudan.

This is not the first instance of convicted murderers being set free under the guise of serving their sentences in PLO care. There have been good reasons for its repeated occurrence.

Small countries — or even large countries with weak security systems — are offered the "privilege" of the guerrilla force.

Rather let the convicted guerrillas pass into the custody of the PLO or a country experienced in the form of terrorist attacks.

Few countries have the will to do that. It makes a firm stand against the guerrilla tactics. Instead they assume the safety of their own people by commuting sentences and packing convicted murderers off to their Palestinian hosts.

In the absence of any united stand against the terrorists by many nations, the victim countries have little choice but to capitulate.

The result is flourishing terrorism and healthy terrorists. When they face a world that is unwilling to work in concert to halt terrorist activities, the guerrillas have nothing to fear when they are captured.

Chances are, they will spend little time in jail for their murders.

400-Mile Fishing Zone: Canada Puts Its Case Before UN Parley

By RENNIE MACKENZIE
Thomson News Service

OTTAWA—When Iceland extended its fishing limits to 50 miles, a shouting war developed with trawlers from her major trading partner, Britain. When Ecuador established a 200-mile fishing zone, that country came into open conflict with the United States.

Now Canada has as much as announced her intention to extend her authority to manage fisheries out as far as 400 miles in some places. It is the edge of the continental shelf, but no less than 200 miles.

And chances are Canada will succeed where Iceland and Ecuador failed. Iceland failed because she unilaterally declared the extension of her sovereignty, ignoring the events in international agreement. Canada is seeking international approval for the extension at the United Nations Law of the Sea conference now under way in Caracas, Venezuela.

Federal environment personnel are optimistic about approval by other countries. Len Legault, director-general of the international fisheries and marine directorate, who leads Canada's delegation at the current department, feels there is not that much opposition nowadays to expanded fishing zones.

In fact, Mr. Legault feels that if there is any issue at the Law of the Sea conference upon which there is consensus, it is that of the fishing zone. However, recent reports from Caracas indicate that the major fishing countries of the world feel Canada is asking the impossible.

Mr. Legault believes the U.S. will accept Canada's extension proposal so long as they are guaranteed special dispensations on such things as tuna fishing. The U.S. has been taking a special approach in the matter of fishing, not recognizing the right of coastal countries to impose management jurisdiction over anadromous species such as salmon throughout their range on the high seas, but on the same time insisting that highly migratory species, such as tuna, should be managed by international or regional arrangement.

Even the U.S. Congress itself desires a 200-mile limit and on May 3 this year, then acting secretary of state Kenneth Rush had to confirm opposition to enacting legislation which unilaterally declare such an "economic sea."

The outlined extension of jurisdiction he said before the senate commerce committee, "would pose serious foreign policy implications which would pre-empt the negotiations at the nationally."

The U.S. is no stranger to international tensions arising over extensions of fishing zones. In the still unsettled dispute with Ecuador, 165 American fishing vessels were seized between January, 1971, and February, 1973. Fines totalling $1 million were paid to Ecuador for the recovery of the vessels.

But neither is Canada a stranger to the concept of authority on the high seas. We were among the first to declare a 3-mile territorial limit and declare fishing zones, specifically in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Queen Charlotte Sound, Dixon Entrance and Hecate Strait. Canada led the way in establishment of a pollution prevention zone, a 100-mile limit around the Arctic archipelago.

Earlier in this decade, Canada proposed an immediate ban on the high seas fishing of Atlantic salmon. International agreement was reached through the commission for north-east Atlantic fisheries on phasing out salmon fishing in the northwest Atlantic, and now only native Greenlanders are allowed to harvest fish.

On the Pacific, Japan, which constituted the only high seas threat to salmon stocks, has agreed not to fish eastern half of the north Pacific.

Concern for conservation and economics has prompted the Canadian government to seek an extension to 200 miles of the 100 edge of the continental shelf.

If it succeeds in gaining international recognition it could lead to increased stocks, a greater supply for industrial processors and provide room for expansion of the inshore open fishing industry, as well as providing an enormous boost to the endangered species.

However, if it fails to leave many of the foreign fisheries, these perhaps unwilling to recognize Canada's new regulations, out in the colder parts of the North Atlantic, only 10 per cent of the fish catch is taken beyond the continental shelf.

"We intend to take everything we can catch ourselves," states Mr. Legault. "We would allow foreigners to fish but we would make under our authority and subject to our terms and control."

Although some countries have expressed preliminary opposition in Caracas, to Canada's proposal, the government does not anticipate it will need to have it implemented. Rejection at the conference table in Caracas will mean that the Canadian government will abandon the proposal,

Tariffs on Soviet Goods Becomes Political Football in the U.S.

By AL COLLETTI
NEW YORK (CP) — A sampling of American business opinion suggests strong opposition to barriers imposed by the Senate on trade between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Congress has kept the president from making good his offer of Soviet trade because a strong bloc in the Senate, led by Democrat Henry Jackson of Washington state, won't let the Soviet Union Jewish emigration issue.

Legislation before Congress introduced by Jackson would deny most-favored-nation treatment to any country that restricts emigration of its citizens. The Jackson amendment is directed principally at the Soviet Union.

Nixon told the Russians at the summit talks that he would lower tariffs but he is at an impasse with Congress over the issue.

The Russians have been hoping State Secretary Henry Kissinger will persuade the Congress, especially Jackson and his supporters, to work out a compromise.

Nixon did sign a 18-year trade agreement with the Soviets Union this time providing for cooperation on various peaceful industrial and technical matters.

But this is regarded aimed at a freer exchange of economic and shipping goods rather than may stimulate trade between the two countries.

Industrialist Armand Hammer recently signed contracts with the Soviet Union for the exchange of chemicals by Moscow and U.S. Occidental Petroleum Corp.

But the trade pacts signed in 1972 still must be implemented by the Senate. They contain important concessions and credits.

Business International, a New York-based firm which advises multinations, says a poll it took of businessmen and government officials of U.S. business executives with international responsibilities showed 75 per cent opposed attaching trade benefits for granting of such special treatment.

Eighty-six large properties of these polled were against use of the Jackson amendment on Soviet trade, preferring quiet diplomacy rather than benefit to their companies.

Most-favored-nation treatment in operation on goods from Communist countries the same tariff treatment that is generally accorded to those from non-Communist countries.

Seventy-seven than 55 per cent of the executives felt that the most favored treatment is granted, the Communist countries should agree to mutual tariff reductions, equal treatment in the granting of visas, access to market and trade data, and direct contact with U.S. companies rather than no-dumping safeguards and better copyright and patent protection.

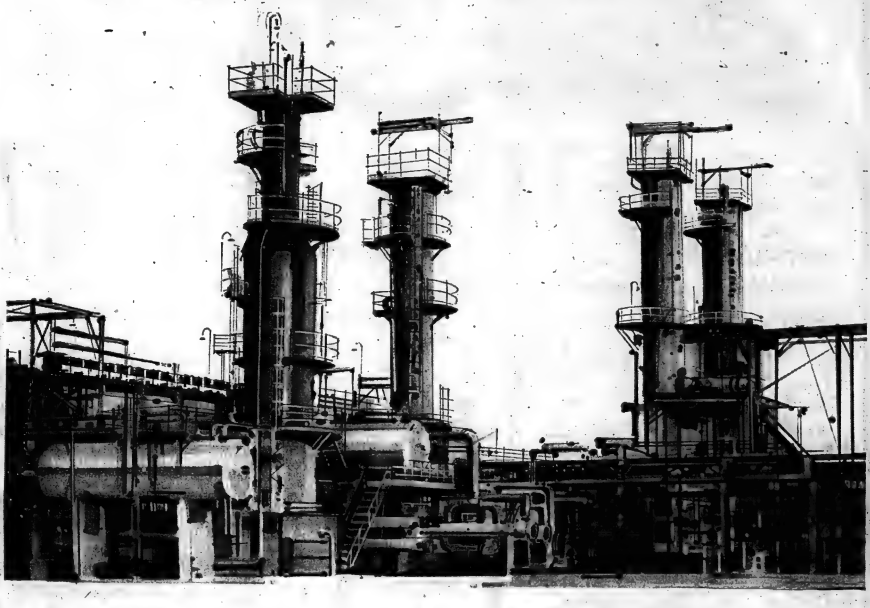
Police Links with the Media

Cambridge Reporter

An official of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association has criticized newspapers for printing false stories because they are "good reading."

Leo Seguin, Ottawa police chief, referred to cases where a newspaper printed a story it knew was untrue and retracted it the next day. He didn't name any newspaper but implied there were more than one.

His criticism may have stemmed from differences between his office and the Ottawa press, but because he made the statement in an official of a national association, it throws suspicion on the whole profession.



If there is even one instance of story reporting, Chief Seguin should substantiate the charge. Severe legal action should be taken against any newspaper guilty of such irresponsible reporting.

The chief also said recent news reports of a police raid in Fort Erie where no arrests were stripped and search-warrants became more distorted as they moved across the country.

This type of reporting, he said, "damages the police image," he said.

As the story was moved across the country by Canada's two national news services and Canadian Press, it is unlikely it could have been distorted by the statement to

What has Canada's oil industry done for you?

How soon everyone forgets. Not many people remember that Canada was not a major oil producer until late in the 1940's. Before then, Canada produced some crude oil, but 90% of its needs were imported.

It took a search lasting more than 20 years—and well over 100 "dry holes"—before the discovery in Alberta of a new and important oil field in 1947.

That was 27 years ago. Since then the oil industry has grown by leaps and bounds. More than 70,000 wells have been drilled in Western Canada alone. 24,000 have produced crude oil. To process this, 40 modern refineries were built, over 18,000 miles of pipe lines laid, and hundreds of millions of dollars spent for the storage terminals, tankers, trucks, rail cars and service stations needed to create a fully effective oil industry.

To serve you.

Canadians enjoy today a very significant benefit from these industry accomplishments. You are in an enviable situation with regard to crude oil production. The quantity produced in Canada equals your total needs! Canada is the only Western industrialized country so fortunate.

There are other benefits. The oil industry is a good employer. 275,000 men and women get their pay directly from the oil industry. Also, it is a good customer of other Canadian businesses—and the vast amounts spent annually on exploration and drilling equipment, ships, trucks, refining equipment and supplies of all kinds, make an important additional contribution to employment in Canada. The 35,000 service stations the industry has provided to serve you, all across Canada, is one of the best gasoline distribution systems in the world.

This amazing growth could not have been accomplished under any other system than that which we now have—private enterprise. Competition has made each member of the oil industry operate in the most efficient manner. Each company constantly improves its products and services. No other system, or form of governmental control, could have resulted in Canada achieving the enviable position of being self-sufficient.

And Tomorrow?

Yes, we must and do think and plan for the tomorrows to come. The oil industry has the will and desire and, above all, the experience to meet Canada's future petroleum energy requirements better than anyone else.

To do this requires some understanding on your part. Some sources would have you believe that "big oil" is bad—that we are "price gougers" and "rip-off" artists and that our profits are "too high".

Harsh words for responsible companies to swallow because they are simply not true. We wouldn't be in business long if we acted badly or treated you unfairly. We also wouldn't be in business long if we didn't make a profit. Clear-thinking people know that all industries, ours included, must have profit incentives sufficient to provide an adequate return on investments in order to finance developments to provide for your future needs.

We've come a long way together—and we've got a long way to go.

Whelan Says Food Prices Not High Enough

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan continued his campaign Wednesday for higher food prices, hours after Statistics Canada reported rising food cost had pushed the consumer price index to its highest annual rate in 23 years.

Mr. Whelan told an Ontario Agricultural College audience that farm incomes, which rose sharply last year, "are not high enough."

"Some people say the trend has already gone too far, and that food prices are too high. "I say nonsense!"

The trend "needs to continue to the point where farmers can pay more to keep land in agriculture, and keep it producing food, than the developer can pay to turn it into parking lots."

In Guelph, at ceremonies marking the agricultural college's centenary, Mr. Whelan said farm incomes must continue to rise "to the point where farmers can afford to pay top-notch wages so they can hire the top-notch people we need to produce and harvest our food."

"Surely farm workers are just as important as the people who slap doors on a car in an auto assembly plant.

"And if that's the case, then farmers should have an income that will enable them to pay the kind of wages earned by automobile assemblers."

Mr. Whelan said land speculators still can offer farmers three and four times as much money for land as farmers can earn using that land for food production.

"As long as our society and our economy will pay more money for a paved parking lot than for an acre of food, we are guilty to continue to lose top-notch farmland at a rapid pace.

The country also had to regain that farmers "must begin to receive a level of income that will enable them to hold resources in agriculture, and produce the abundance of high-quality food the world needs."

More Women Win — Many More Lose

Another election over.

And whatever you may think of the political results, you've no doubt been happy at one major development: a record nine women candidates were successful.

(This beats the previous high of six women in Parliament, achieved in 1963.)

Even more significant this year was the number of women who stood for election: 135, almost double the 71 who were candidates in 1972, then a record.

If you're thinking that at last this means recognition by male voters and politicians that women make god MPs, think again.

According to reports, most of the women were nominated to contest what were thought to be "impossible" seats where another party had the votes all sewn up.

One newspaper referred to these women as "sacrificial lambs."

Of course, as we saw Monday night, some of the impossible dreams came true, and some of the lambs turned out to be tigers.

But the fact still stands that more than 100 women allowed themselves to be thrown into the political arena, to have their own and their families' lives disrupted for two tough, tiring months of campaigning, knowing deep in their hearts they didn't have a chance.

Why?

Was it to prove something for their sex — that they can handle the rigors of an election as well as men?

Was it because with each decade that passes, women are becoming more confident, and conscious of their ability to confront problems and change the world?

Was it because they felt that the major issue of this election — inflation — was one they are equipped to deal with through personal experience budgeting (family accounts? (A great number of the women candidates listed "homemaker" as their occupation.)

Or was it merely a case of grasping at a straw, reaching out to the first opportunity that could pull them out of the monotonous round of fighting small battles and getting nowhere? Even losing, a woman could achieve some recognition for her talent and political worth.

A question for women to ponder — between now and the next time opportunity presents itself — What would you do?

If you were offered the nomination for your party in a riding where the incumbent is firmly entrenched, would you accept it?

You know it's going to disrupt your life. You know it's going to cost you money and wear and tear on your mental and physical well-being.

And you know the odds are that two months after your first speech you'll be at home again, an exhausted also-ran.

But you know that by your very presence in the campaign you'd be encouraging other women to gain self-respect, to think, "Yes, I could do that too."

It's a tough question, isn't it?

Yet 135 women single, married and widowed, have it square on and said, "Okay, I'll take the challenge."

Whatever their reasons, and whether elected or not, it must be fine to be one of them at this moment.

Successful Living

We're All Responsible For Canada's Young

By DORIS CLARK

How do we provide support services (not necessarily financial) for young parents not qualified to be parents because of their own unconducive backgrounds?

This was the question raised by social worker Barbara Chisholm, MSW, at a meeting of the Ontario Status of Women Council. She suggested several partial answers: infinite, generic services to the whole community; not substitute care, but a rediscovery of the value of tribal parenthood; a rediscovery that the children of our nation belong to all of us.

Look what Margaret Mead found out on her travels: The whole community in Samoa was concerned when children got sick, and rallied around; there was normally there, of a good kind, and all mothers felt the comfort and help of the other mothers.

We try; but I wonder, sometimes, how concerned we are as individuals about the the welfare of our country's children.

Dear Doris: I read the letter you in the column who complains about the lack of communication between her children and herself, leaving her lonely.

Frankly, I think this lack of communication starts the day a child is born. It is not promoted, necessarily, because of lack of love, but by mothers who are too busy keeping the house tidy, working, or failers who are too wrapped up in their self-made work and worries to be interested in their children.

All of us who have raised children know how busy we mothers are trying to keep the house in order, or working. We are too busy providing for the physical needs of our children, as well as teaching them our own personal values.

We spend much too little time listening to our children as interesting little individuals. Instead, as soon as they open their mouths, they are told they are interrupting, are ignored, or corrected for their ideas or manner of expression.

How often do we honestly respect our children as worthwhile individuals to listen to? — Also Guilty.

Dear Also: You've made your point. We should spend a good deal more time listening. And this means being available in quiet, unrushed periods, when there is space for easy self-expression.

We wouldn't want our little ones and young people to be doing no thinking, or to be having no ideas, would we? Yet, as you say, in the rush of our days, it is fair to remember to listen enough. A great sky, since being able to express that their thoughts is an important means of growth.

Dear Doris: I want to let my hair grow long as I have never had real long hair before. My Mom and sister think my hair is too long (neck length) now for my face, which is quite small. My boy friend thinks long hair is great and wants me to keep it growing. — Desperate.

Dear Desperate: My beauty consultant says you can have your cake an dest it too! She agrees that if your face is quite small, very long hair will make it look even smaller. But she says that a long shag should look really great. She suggests that you have it cut and shaped by a good hairdresser. Everyone is bound to be satisfied.

(Leaflets mentioned by Doris are available to readers for 25 cents and a large, stamped, self - addressed envelope. If you have not received a leaflet requested, it may be that you have neglected to include the necessary eight-cent stamp. Write to Doris in car of this newspaper.

International Fashion Fair

The London Fashion Fair became in international event this season with over 300 companies from all parts of the world arriving to view the Autumn '74 styles. Typical was this evening dress in a taupe polyester crepe, sculptured into a dramatic batwing shape and highlighted by brown and gold embroidery on the bodice.

Fashion Award Given For Classic Elegance

DUSSELDORF, Germany (CP) — Fashion is important to this city on the Rhine.

It is one of seven European fashion trade fair centres with international status. It also has a fashion school housed in a palace. Its multi thoroughfare, Konigsallee, is lined with shops on one side of the old town moat, now part of the tree-lined boulevard.

Dusseldorf not only pioneered the idea of fashion fairs but is one of the largest and most modern fashion markets in the world. The four-a-year, three-day fairs now are held in the new (1971) Fair Grounds with 13 restaurants, a doctor and medical centre, sauna and massage, indoor swimming pool, hair salons and post office. It is self-sufficient in community playing host to many types of fairs, not just fashion.

The first fashion fair in March, 1949, drew 60 manufacturers, most of them German store buyers. Last March there were 1,700 clothing and accessory manufacturers, including 170 from foreign countries, to welcome more than 30,000 buyers. They came from 56 countries, including Canada.

Feminist Bookmobile Tours Small Towns

TORONTO (CP) — Feminism is literally on the move in southern Ontario.

The mobility is supplied by the Feminist Bookmobile, a converted school bus stocked with about 200 books and pamphlets on the history of women in Canada, birth control, day care, food pricing and even feminist poets.

The bus is a summer project operated by two Toronto women, Judith Quinlan and Ellen Woodsworth.

The 25-year-olds take their bookmobile on trips through southern Ontario, offering their literature in small towns where libraries rarely stock such matter.

The women spent about two years planning the project, but it was only this summer they had saved enough money to buy the bus and stock it.

"The response so far has been great," said Miss Woodsworth. "We just got back from a fair in Galt where several women came to the bus."

One problem is that the customers rarely can afford to buy the literature, "even though we're selling at cost price."

They two plan to photostat many of the pamphlets and articles and sell them for pennies.

They hope to raise enough money to travel to Northern Ontario, but if they don't, they'll go back to work—Miss Quinlan is a physiotherapist and Miss Woodsworth a health care worker—to raise enough money to head out again.

Child's Plea To Parents

Dear Readers: When I spoke in La Porte, Ind., several weeks ago, a kindly gentleman handed me an envelope and said, "I think this is useful. I hope you will print it one day." He was right—and here it is:

A Child's Plea to His Parents

Give me more than food to nourish me. Give me the warmth and the security of your love.

Let me enjoy all five senses. Give me plenty of things to look at, to feel, to smell, to listen to, to taste. And even some things to break.

Teach me to take my turn. Watch me play so you can see how am trying to work out my problems and what I am up against.

When you tell me to do something, please tell me why I should do it. Let me feel that I am a contributing member of the family. And be sure to include me in making the family plans when you can.

Please don't keep me your baby when I want to feel grown up. Don't transfer your fears to me. I have enough of my own to cope with and I don't need any more.

Help me not to act when I am angry. But don't make me so afraid of showing anger that I lose my capacity to feel strongly about anything.

Let me learn bit by bit to bear pain. Or want things but to be strong enough to postpone gratification of certain feelings I am not yet ready to experience.

Let me try out my new powers as my body develops—to crawl, to stand, to walk, climb, jump and run when I am ready. Don't limit the natural needs of my body because you have some unresolved hang-ups.

Give me a little corner in the house that is all mine and nobody else's. I need moments of peace and quiet that cannot be invaded by anyone.

Give me my share of consideration and attention. I must know every day, even if for just a few moments, that I am the only one you are thinking about and loving.

Let me ask any question that pops into my head. Don't make me ashamed for having asked it, even if it seems stupid. And give me as honest an answer as you can. If you don't know the answer, please say so. It's good training to hear someone say, "I don't know, but I will try to find out for you."

Be patient with me when I don't do things very well at first. Remember I have so many things to learn and almost everything takes some practice.

Let me bear the consequences for whatever I do. I need to be punished as well as rewarded. And when you punish me, make sure the punishment fits the "crime."

Above all, grant me, without reservation, your debt to me—unconditional love. For if I know it is there, I will be able to give the same to my children—and they will be able to give it to their children—Your Child

Dear Friend in La Porte: The Child's Plea contains some lovely bits of wisdom. It is an excellent guide for rearing gentle, independent, loving children. I hope many readers will clip it and read it from time to time. Thank you so much for sharing it with us.

At first they were only for women's and children's clothing but during the years they have added boutique-type merchandise, knitwear, millinery accessories and, recently, foundation garments and swimwear.

Design schools now are established in Canada and have been an important factor in Europe for years. Not many, however, are housed in a palace. Dusseldorf's Modeschule, started before the Second World War, was destroyed by bombs and, after several moves, settled in Ellen Palace, a short drive from the city.

It sits in a park, with one entrance through a 13th-century gate tower.

There are some 130 students including several young men. It offers a three-year course with emphasis on practical techniques.

Konigsallee and the streets leading off are the expensive shopping area. Here are two of Dusseldorf's couturiers Tony Card who has been here nine years and worked previously with a well-known Berlin designer, and Marie Rokstein who has been here since before the Second World War. There's also Rene Kern, a jewelry designer with an international reputation.

One of the boutiques is Herpick, featuring Parisian and Italian imports. Schaffner is an excellent men's shop.

Fall is expected to bring back classic and conservative styling. Callers, for example, will be shorter, away from the French and Italian and back to English conservatism. About 30 per cent of pants will have cuffs. Ties will have smaller, neat designs and will be narrower.

Pinball Like Golf Court Told

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A provincial court hearing on the legality of four pinball machines similar to ones already declared legal by a provincial court in Ottawa adjourned Wednesday and will resume Monday.

The machines were seized April 27 by provincial police during a pinball tournament at the Lucky Seven billiards parlor.

Charged with keeping a common gaming house are John Lucas, proprietor of the Lucky Seven, Orianna Currie of Campbellville, Ont., and Peter Davis of Toronto.

The same charge against five others who kept score before the raid ended the tournament were withdrawn by Assistant Crown Attorney Peter Speyer who said they were "involved in a relatively minor way."

The case was adjourned after testimony by constables Mace Armstrong and Peter Thompson of the provincial police anti-gambling squad, who took an undercover part in the tournament.

Constable Armstrong, who described himself as a non-expert, testified that in his opinion, the type of machine used involved a mixture of chance and skill. He said none of the 40 to 50 competitors did no better than he did and he felt the scores obtained were spotty.

He said the scores run up by one competitor ranged between 30,000 points and 130,000 points.

Constable Thompson also said he felt that the pinball machines used in the tournament offered a mixture of chance and skill. But, he said, the machines were not much different in this regard than golf. The chance involved was similar in both games, he said.

He said the only control a pinball player has over the ball occurs when he hits it with the flipper, "and you have no control over a golf ball after you've hit it."

Oil Price Drop Seen as Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States Treasury Secretary William Simon, leaving today on a tour of the Middle East, said Wednesday he believes world oil prices will decline in the near future. Lower oil prices, Simon said in a news conference, will be in "everybody's best interest, producers and users alike."

Best Cocktail

TORONTO (CP) — Ottawa bartender Albert Charlebois has won a cocktail competition sponsored by the Bartenders Association of Canada. Mr. Charlebois beat out 23 other contestants in mixing the best blueberry cocktail.

PCs to Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, his Common ranks reduced in Monday's election, announced Wednesday he will meet Conservative MPs and senators Aug. 14 in Ottawa. A spokesman for Mr. Stanfield said he decides leadership will be discussed at the caucus meeting which will evaluate the election, the reasons for the Conservative loss and the attitude the party should take in the new Parliament.

Too Many Deer

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Archers will be invited to hunt deer this fall to control increasing herds in Halton, Hamilton-Wentworth and Wellington County, a spokesman for the natural resources ministry said Wednesday.

Harry Glogitch, the ministry's enforcement officer for the area, said the number of deer killed by cars recently indicates that the population is getting out of control.

Tax Bauxite

GEORGETOWN (CP) — Guyana became the third government in recent weeks Wednesday to put stiff new taxes on the production and export of bauxite, the raw material of aluminum.

Hubert Jack, minister of energy and natural resources, said Guyana's major bauxite producer, Reynolds Mines Ltd., has been informed of the new tax, which the government expects will bring in $15 million a year in new revenues.

Walks Out

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Whitby Mayor Desmond Newman walked out of Durham regional council Wednesday when it ruled that a motion authorizing regional participation in the Toronto Area Transit Operating Authority could be discussed.

"I can not serve the council at this point," he said calling the ruling a "total perversion" of council rules.

"No motion can be reconsidered more than once," he said.

Grand River Warning Given 8 Years Ago

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The federal government, Ontario and municipalities along the Grand River were warned in 1966 that flood controls on the river were inadequate, members of the Grand River flood inquiry heard Wednesday.

James Bauer, chairman of the Grand River Conservation Authority, testified that the governments were told flood controls are inadequate to cope with water flows of the magnitude that spilled over the banks of the river last May, flooding communities in its wake.

Mr. Bauer said the authority submitted a report in 1966 asking for federal and provincial assistance to build a $20-million system of five dams for flood control and pollution abatement.

One of the charts in that report estimated that a flow of 53,400 cubic fee a second in the river would cause an estimated $3.4 million damage in the former community of Galt.

Flow during the May floods was about 51,000 cubic feet a second, he said.

The proposed dams never were built.

Hunger Strike Ends As Probe Promised

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About half the 68 American and Canadian protesters ended their hunger strike inside Mexico City's Lecumberri prison Wednesday night, less than 24 hours after it began, a source with information from inside the prison said.

A government official promised the strikers an investigation into their allegations of torture and confessions forced through trickery if the hunger strike was postponed, the source said.

Locked Staff

TORONTO (CP) — Lakeshore Psychiatric Hospital, where a 43-year-old metally - retarded patient died unnoticed in April, is chronically understaffed, Joan Millard, clinical co-ordinator for the hospital, said Wednesday a coroner's inquest.

She testified that the ward where Douglas Harris was staying under a special suicide surveillance was short-staffed the night he died. She said that hospital has the funds to hire necessary staff but cannot find enough qualified persons.

Four Mexican lawyers showed up at the prison Wednesday and began taking statements from prisoners. About half the protesters then resumed eating, the source said.

The U.S. embassy declined comment but said a statement would be forthcoming about the prisoners' allegations that the embassy had turned a deaf ear to their complaints.

There are 72 Americans and Canadians at Lecumberri. Most were arrested at the Mexico City airport on drug charges.

A statement signed by James Morton—giving no home town—said that he and his wife were beaten and tortured for five hours at the airport and that police ripped off his wife's earrings from her pierced ears, tearing her ear lobes.

"For five hours we were both exposed to violent fist and club beatings, electric shock treatments by cattle prods even," Morton said.

Six spokesmen for the group of 68 prisoners said in an interview that the U.S. government not only has neglected to look into their claims but encourages cruel punishment.

A lawyer who asked that his name not be used said it is well known among Mexican lawyers that the U.S. government encourages maximum punishment for drug offenders.

The spokesman for the prisoners said most of the North American prisoners caught with drugs are not hard-core drug runners but young people who tried to pick up some easy money on a one-shot deal while returning to the U.S. from vacations or study tours.

Cowling Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday it is investigating the failure of an engine cowling on a National Airlines DC-10 Monday that knocked out one engine and forced the damaged plane to make a premature landing.

Front Street Fire Insurance Premiums Inflated by High Risk

By PETER GOODSPEED
Staff Reporter

Last week, fire once again left its cruel brand on downtown Belleville and underlined the fact that Front Street is a "high fire risk area" not a "hazard" but a "risk".

On July 1, a suspected arsonist destroyed the three-storey building that housed the Shana Fashion Boutique in the city's centre.

It was the second major fire on Front Street in less than eight months.

On November 28, fire destroyed a two-storey building at the foot of the street, leaving 11 people and leaving eight families homeless.

Combined, the two fires caused more than $725,000 damage and boosted the 15-year fire loss figure for Front Street well beyond the $2-million mark.

Shortly after the July 1 fire, a Front Street resident informed The Intelligencer of the difficulties he had encountered in trying to insure the contents of his apartment from fire loss. The company that had held his automobile insurance account for nearly 20 years had refused to underwrite a fire insurance policy for his Front Street apartment, saying that the risk was "too high" since his apartment was located in an old building above commercial premises.

Additional factors influencing the company's decision included the fact that the apartment was heated by a space heater and was located in a block where a number of old buildings were crowded close together.

The Intelligencer launched an investigation into the man's experience and discovered that, while some companies will not insure apartments located over commercial premises in areas such as Front Street, others will — at very high rates.

Interviews with six local insurance agents, fire department officials, and the city's assistant building inspector revealed two major problems related to the fire risk on Front Street.

Belleville does not have a code of minimum building standards that would enable building inspectors or fire department officials to force Front Street building owners to maintain a uniform standard of fire safety and, in some cases, insurance agents find that it is difficult to place a fire insurance policy for apartments on Front Street.

At present, the city is able to apply the fire safety building standards contained in the National Building Code only to new construction projects in the city.

In cases where plans are being drawn up for a new construction project or where an old building is being renovated, the builders are forced to conform to the building standards set down in the national code.

However, in the absence of a code of minimum standards, the city is powerless to control buildings that were built a long time ago when there was no building code.

Bill Board, the city's assistant building inspector, explained that the city's Human building inspection department is currently looking at a draft code of minimum building standards for the city.

The draft code is based on the minimum standards currently in force in Kingston and in general terms does deal with some fire safety problems.

However, the situation in Belleville now is such that if someone were to open up a disused apartment block anywhere in the city, the building inspector would be powerless to force conformity to existing building standards as long as the landlord failed to make any renovations.

The problem of connecting the fire safety regulations contained in the National Building Code with the system currently used for controlling existing buildings and new construction projects is complicated further by the fact that the city's professional firefighters have no direct influence on approving building plans as they relate to fire safety.

Unlike several other major urban centres in Ontario, Belleville's fire department is involved only indirectly in approving construction plans.

The fire department acts as an agent for the city's two building inspectors and serves as an informal consultant. It has no final say in approving building plans.

The problems raised by the absence of a code of minimum fire safety building standards have a direct bearing on the extent of the "fire risk" on Front Street.

The street is crowded with buildings that — house more than 150 residential apartments. In many cases, these are found in older buildings, encased in dry wood and mortar of another century.

Many of the apartments are situated above or next to some form of commercial premises such as restaurants, hardware stores and bakeries — all of which pose some form of fire risk.

Another factor that adds to the fire risk on Front Street is the fact that only two buildings on the street, Waller's Store and Waller's Hardware are equipped with sprinkler systems and alarm systems that ring in the fire hall.

As one Belleville insurance agent said, when asked to describe the insurance situation on Front Street . . .

"Insurance companies are a little afraid of Front Street."

"Front Street is a high risk because of the number of fires in that area in the past," he explained. "The division of the buildings there is a very important point also. Some buildings are old and are built close together. Fire insurance rates in such an area are high because they are tied to a building's use and construction."

If you live in a Front Street apartment, your fire insurance premiums will reflect the nature of the fire risk in the city's downtown core.

A survey of local insurance agencies revealed that general fire insurance rates for apartments over commercial premises on Front Street, with an average of $8,000 contents, are between 200 and 600 per cent higher than the rates charged for apartments in other areas of the city.

One Belleville insurance agent estimated that a Front Street resident would pay $150 for a three-year $6,000 fire insurance policy, while an apartment dweller somewhere else in the city would pay only $25 for the same policy.

The high rates raise the question of just how many Front Street residents can afford the security of having fire insurance.

When fire destroyed the building that housed the Marco Polo Pizzeria and eight apartments at 112 Front Street last November, firefighters discovered that only two of the eight families who lived there had fire insurance.

White Hose picked their way through the walls of one unit's kitchen as they stood outside watching and told firefighters that he didn't have any insurance because he couldn't afford to pay the high rates.

Major Housing Plan Approved

A Toronto developer may have won a rezoning bid Wednesday night — but it wasn't before city alderman Jack Corke told him what he thought of the Townsmead Jr. sales pitch.

In smooth, fluid style Evar Seasons Hotel Ltd. principal Fred Eisen explained his 165-unit project planned for the city's northwest corner — apologizing for not being clear enough in his explanation — jumping at the chance to be co-operative with planners.

Alderman Corke — admitting the idea was "intriguing and exciting," commented on the developer's approach: "I want to make it perfectly clear that Mr. Eisen hasn't sold me on his mission to help Belleville."

They're in the business to make money," said the alderman, "and the people who move in are going to have to pay."

"He's come up with a very saleable product that will help Belleville and the Four Seasons Hotel," did. Corke concluded.

The first portion of last night's subcommittee planning advisory committee was taken by a public session designed to give platform to area residents who wished to discuss the proposal.

One resident questioned park land dedication and the effect on the development on area property values but after receiving optimistic answers from Mr. Eisen, the resident conceded; "I can't raise an objection to these beautiful drawings. They're very nice."

Another resident conferred: "If these drawings are any justice to the finished product, it would make my house look pretty sick."

Mr. Eisen responded the drawings "as nice as they are" do not reflect the "warmth of the finished product."

"The Four Seasons—or to be selfish — I, stake my reputation that we will build what we are showing you here," said Mr. Eisen. "My company has a reputation to keep."

The development is slated to be the new next door neighbor to Stanley Structures on Palmer Road, including a total of 136 condominium townhouse units and nine single family dwellings.

Mr. Eisen's statement for a speedy decision met with some indignation from Alderman Jack Ireland who pointed out the plan has already received attention than normal, noting the proposal must first before a committee before it was submitted.

Alderman John Stock, chairman of the advisory committee, in his resume of the evening's discussion, said close attention to the need for more housing units in the city; that the plan was attractive and had "it seems like good planning to me."

Alderman Joe Cox asked planning staff to hurry paper work connected with the development so that city committees would be able to send their reports and recommendations back for the July 15 meeting of council.

If the reports are not in, official approval will be held off until late August.

"We'll expedite the plan as quickly as possible," a planning staff member said.

If all runs smoothly — including provincial government and Ontario Municipal Board approvals (necessary in rezoning changes) — Mr. Eisen says he is hopeful construction could begin next spring.

Hungerford Hard Hit By Storm

TWEED — A provincial government official met Tuesday with municipal councils of this village and neighboring Hungerford township to discuss possible aid for this area in the wake of Tuesday night's bruising windstorm.

The meeting was set in the village council chambers for 10 a.m. and was arranged Wednesday as local government officials pondered solutions for financial victims of the squall.

Reeve Barbara Allen told councillors were "anxious" to hear details on government guidelines on which disaster funds would hinge.

Meantime, the extent of damage in rural Hungerford became more clearly defined as telephone service was restored throughout Wednesday.

Township William McKee reported loss of crops and damage to silos, barns and other farm buildings throughout his township.

One farmer, he said, may have lost 75 per cent of a big sweet corn.

Other damage might not be so visible — such as scattered fences — but could be fairly costly to replace, he said.

He said he'd been receiving "numerous" reports of damage throughout the day as communications were restored in the township.

"I couldn't put an estimate on them but they could be anywhere between $100,000 and $200,000," he said.

Hungerford council hastily called a meeting and declared the municipality a disaster area.

Tweed municipal offices opened a damage-reporting centre in its council chamber to record reports from both village and township residents of damage not covered by insurance.

Berry-pickers' Transport Queried

Transportation of students hired as crop-pickers should be watched by authorities, Belleville and District Unemployment Committee was told Wednesday.

The suggestion followed a letter published in The Intelligencer Tuesday from a parent who claimed her daughter and 14 other student workers were taken to a strawberry farm in a pickup truck. The woman also complained the girl worked six hours and was paid $2 for picking 25 baskets of strawberries in a field without toilet facilities.

Mrs. Stanley, committee member, said transportation for such jobs from Canada Manpower student centres, should be "looked into." Students shouldn't be transported in a way that's "going to endanger their lives."

The committee was concerned because it is helping pay for publicity encouraging summer job opportunities.

Reg Loader, committee member, was concerned resolution to such a letter might undo the group's publicity efforts.

James White, Canada Manpower manager in Belleville, said berry pickers were paid piece rates — about eight cents for each box — not regular hourly wages. The pay would depend on how many berries were picked and also crop conditions. Minimum wage laws do not apply.

He said farmers also complained that younger people hired for picking often just "fool around."

New farm management labor office now being organized will be examining conditions and pay of all farm work, he said.

Motorbikes In Parks Break Law

Mini-bike operators have found another spot for the city to run their machines.

And the practice is causing more worry for city officials.

The latest place of concern for parks officials is the beach area at the West Riverside Park where the bike owners run their machines with apparent disregard for the safety of sunbathers and swimmers.

Parks director Lloyd Syer told board members Tuesday that the bikes pose a definite threat to other persons using the area.

Under a city bylaw, operators of motorized vehicles are called upon to use only established roadways in city parks.

The bylaw was drafted following complaints from residents about bikes using Stanley Park in the city's east end to run their machines.

Signs will be erected at the West Riverside Park area, advising of the bylaw.

The parks director said that bike riders not obeying bylaw regulations are having themselves open to stiff fines.

Final Tribute

Members of the Belleville Fire Department, police, city officials, and dignitaries paid final tribute to former Fire Chief Gerald Vance Wednesday. The flag-draped casket bearing the body of the retired fire chief is seen leaving the John R. Bush Funeral Home on a city fire truck flanked by an honor guard of firemen. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The Cleanup Begins

The long, laborious task of cleaning a community from the debris of a bruising windstorm continues at Tweed. Mobile crane had to be used Wednesday to move this tree threatening motel. Council of village and Hungerford township today were meeting with provincial government officials to discuss aid.

Marshall Loses

Think Positive —Dave Cash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Everybody makes mistakes — even Mike Marshall.

The seemingly perfect relief pitcher of Los Angeles Dodgers showed Wednesday night that he's only human after taking a 5-4 decision to Philadelphia Phillies.

Marshall, who has been dazzling in the clutch this season, gave up the winning run on Dave Cash's single in the ninth inning—the first time he's lost in more than a month.

Cash credited his game-winning blow to "positive thinking"—the same quality that has kept Marshall on top all season.

Before Wednesday night, the Dodger relief star had won 11 games in 14 decisions and posted 13 saves. In his last 18 appearances, Marshall had allowed just 10 earned runs in 59.2 innings.

Cash drove home Tommy Hutton with the game-winner.

"I told Hutton I'd bring him in or he could get to second base," said Cash. "This is nothing more than positive thinking."

In the other National League games, San Diego Padres trimmed New York Mets 8-1, Chicago Cubs blasted Cincinnati Reds 11-3, Atlanta Braves hammered Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5, San Francisco Giants turned back Montreal Expos 4-3 and Houston Astros nudged St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

It was Marshall's 25th relief appearance since losing to the Cubs on June 2. Along with his nine victories, he had saved five games in that span.

A pair of two-out singles by Greg Gross and Roger Metzger produced the run in the seventh inning that gave Houston its victory over St. Louis.

Dave Winfield hit two home runs and Willie McCovey clouted a two-run single, leading Bill Greif and San Diego over New York.

Greif, 4-11, checked the Mets on seven hits, striking out five batters and walking three. He gave up a fifth-inning run on Wayne Garrett's two-out triple and Felix Millan's single.

Chicago scored three runs in the second inning and Andre Thornton slugged a three-run homer in a six-run eighth that carried the Cubs past Cincinnati.

Two-run homers by Dusty Baker and Dave Johnson keyed a 15-hit attack that carried Atlanta over Pittsburgh.

Steady Diet of Golf Not for Gary Cowan

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — Gary Cowan rebounded Wednesday his decision to compete only in select tournaments.

"There's no way I'm coming back to a steady diet of golf, even if I win this one," Cowan said after firing an opening-round one-under par 69 to take a two-stroke lead in the 52nd Ontario amateur golf championship.

The former Canadian and United States amateur champion decided last year he was cutting back on tournament play to give more time to his expanding business and his family.

"What I'm looking forward to though is the day when I can compete in this kind of event with my sons."

The Cowans also have a daughter. It will be another two years before the oldest boy, Robbie, is old enough to join a recognized club.

Cowan, four-time winner of this 54-hole event that concludes Friday, had four consecutive birdies on the front nine at Hamilton Golf and Country Club's 6,795-yard layout.

He held a two-stroke margin on Toronto's Mike Meale and Sin Hamilton of Brampton.

Defending champion Kelly Roberts of Toronto was in a group at 72 with 1972 Ontario junior champion Sandy Bilyard of Fonthill; veterans Nick Weslock of Burlington and Mel Dog of Seaforth; Harry Five and Wayne Kitmura of Toronto; Larry Chrowski, Roberts' Sunningdale clubmate and Gary Bartlett of Dundas.

"It's not an easy course at any time and the pin placements today were ridiculous," Cowan said of the par-70 course.

Ross Thomson, executive director of the Ontario Golf Association, confirmed tactfully the OGA sets them," but refused to say who was responsible for the pins himself.

Roberts, who has been having trouble at the greens in recent weeks, said "I can't think of a word bad enough to describe my putting."

He had two birdies and four bogeys on his round while Cowan was in with five birdies and four bogeys.

Mealia, a freshman at Indiana University, said he was satisfied with his round.

"I clubbed the ball solidly and hit all the greens."

Ademir Vieira, a native of Brazil who signed two days ago with Toronto, wasted little time making his presence known when he scored the winning goal Wednesday night in the Metros' 2-1 victory over Philadelphia Atoms in North American Soccer League action.

Vieira, scoring with less than four minutes to go in the game, was aided in the play by Scots-men Jim Douglas and Ian McPhee as the Metros gained second place in the Northern Division with 50 points, 10 behind leading Boston Minutemen.

In the other game played, Pat McBride's penalty kick goal gave St. Louis Stars a 2-1 win over Vancouver Whitecaps.

Fernando Pinto of the Metros and Atoms' Andy Provan exchanged goals in Toronto in front of 4,500 fans, setting the stage for Vieira as the Metros held a 22-8 advantage in shots during the game.

11-game Losing Streak

Angels in a Tailspin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

California Angels will not lose today a little present from the schedule maker.

The Angels have an off day today, which should not be confused with off days, which they've been having most of the season.

"Maybe a day off will help,"

ROSS GRIMSLEY

said California manager Dick Williams. "A lot of them need us."

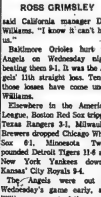
Baltimore Orioles hurt the Angels on Wednesday night, beating them 9-1. It was the Angels' 11th straight loss. Ten of those losses have come under Williams.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston Red Sox tripped Texas Rangers 3-1, Milwaukee Brewers dropped Chicago White Sox 8-1, Minnesota Twins pounded Detroit Tigers 11-6 and New York Yankees downed Kansas' City Royals 8-4.

The Angels were out of Wednesday's game early, and Williams was out of there even earlier. The Angels were looking up from a 8-0 deficit after five innings, while Williams was in the California clubhouse after three.

Home plate umpire Armando Rodriguez threw Williams out when the Angels' manager claimed third baseman Brooks Robinson dropped Ellie Rodriguez' foul pop. Rodriguez, the umpire, saw things differently.

"It had no bearing on the outcome of the game," Williams said of the incident. "But I can't understand why he threw me out."



Either my Spanish is getting better or his English is getting better."

Ross Grimsley, 11-7, who posted his seventh straight victory, limited the Angels to six hits. Bobby Grich's two-run homer for the Orioles and Rich Coggins added a two-run shot.

Nolan Ryan was the loser, his third in a row, as his record dipped to 10-9.

Billy Champion pitched on-hit ball for 5 1-3 innings and settled for a four-hitter. The Brewers scored enough to win with two runs in the second inning when Don Money's RBI single capping the rally.

The Yankees, retired in order through the first five innings by

BOOG POWELL

Royals' Marty Pattin, picked up a pair of two-run homers from Bobby Murcer and a three-run home run by Thurman Munson to beat Kansas City.

Chris Chambliss stroked a single to lead off the sixth inning, ending Pattin's bid for a perfect game. Munson then followed with his ninth homer of the year.

Canadian Reggie Cleveland, 7-6, tossed a six-hitter as the Red Sox overcame Texas southpaw David Clyde.

Carew's run-scoring double started a five-run offensive inning, and Minnesota beat Detroit for the Twins' fourth straight victory.

Jim Ray, the third Detroit pitcher and the loser, suffered a seven-run eighth inning pounding in giving up five runs on four hits and four walks as the Twins sent 10 men to the plate.

Giants Whip Expos 4-2

MONTREAL (CP) — San Francisco Giants scored three times in the third inning Wednesday night and held on to defeat Montreal Expos 4-3 in National League baseball play.

Winning pitcher Jim Barr, 5-5, started the rally by drawing a walk and moved to second on Willie Davis' single.

Chris Speier then banted and Montreal pitcher Steve Renko fielded the ball and threw into the dirt at third in an attempt to get Barr. The ball bounded away and Barr scooted home while Phillips went to third and Speier took second.

Gary Thomasson grounded to the right side of the infield to allow Phillips to score and Dave Kingman singled to score Speier.

San Francisco scored their fourth run in the sixth inning on some daring base running by speedy Gary Matthews. Matthews threw drew a walk with two outs and raced to the plate on a single by Gary Maddox to right. The relay throw arrived at the plate before Matthews but the Giants runner kicked the ball out of catcher Barry Foote's glove.

The Giants had a run called back in the top of the second when Matthews belted a Renko pitch into the left-field bleachers. Third-base umpire Chris Pelekoudas ruled the ball was fair initially but after the Expos protested, Pelekoudas consulted with plate umpire Paul Pryor and the ball was ruled foul.

San Francisco manager Wes Westrum charged out of the Giants dugout to protest the reversal and was thrown out of the game by Pelekoudas.

The first Montreal run came in the bottom of the fifth when Pepe Frias singled, advanced to second on Renko's hit, went to into a double play and scored on a single by Larry Lintz.

The Expos added their second run in the eighth inning on a run-scoring single by Mike Jorgensen.

Barr went the distance for the Giants, spacing 10 hits, walking two and fanning four as the Expos wasted several good scoring chances.

In both the fourth and fifth innings, the first two Montreal batters reached base with singles, but only in the fifth could the Expos score.

Renko suffered his ninth loss in 15 decisions. The Montreal right-hander gave up six hits, walked four and struck out eight but still went down to his second loss to the Giants this season.

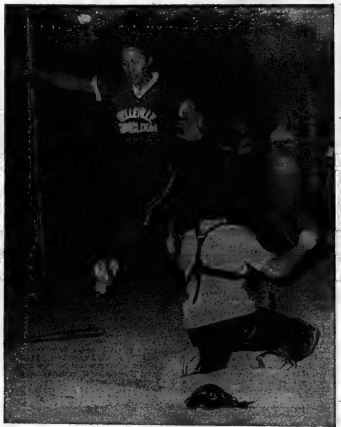
2-hit Shutouts Highlight Action

A pair of two-hit shutouts were recorded in the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League at Alemite Park Wednesday.

Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund's Sue Morton accomplished the feat in a 16-0 defeat of Robert Lambert Construction and Mary-Anne Sills followed suit as Belleville Broadloom stopped Simpsons-Sears by an identical 16-0 count.

Morton struck out 11 and walked only one while handcuffing the Construction squad. Sandra Claus took the loss allowing 12 hits fanning four and walking two.



Sheila Smith topped the hit parade with two doubles and a single for the winners. Donna Preston had one of each while Judy Pultz and Marj Reid had two singles apiece.

Claus and Nancy Birch took care of the only Lambert hits. Sandra belted a double and Nancy collected a single.

Doubles by Brenda Wood and Rosemarie Cookan accounted for the Simpsons-Sears output off Mary-Anne Sills. While twirling shutout ball Mary-Anne got third strikes past four batters and walked two.

The loss was Joanne Garvin who gave up 11 hits. She did not walk a batter while fanning two.

Janet Smith led the charge for Broadloom hammering a double, triple and two singles. Chris Smith had a double and two singles and Norma Fuller checked in with two doubles and a single. Roseanne Hovings slammed the game's only home run and added a single.

It looks like the hurdles event at a track meet, as Norma Fuller of Belleville Broadloom has to go high to avoid the tag by Simpsons — Sears catcher Lynn Wood in last night's game in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League. Broadloom won the game 16-0 in five innings.

Consecon Climbs Back To PENSSL Top Rung

Consecon moved back into sole possession of first place in the Prince Edward North Shore Softball League Wednesday night with a 12-1 victory over O'Brien's Tree Service. The win gives Consecon a two point edge over third place Archer and Holly Stables.

In the other game played last night Reserve doubled the count over the Gems 12-6.

Wayne Clarke fired a five hitter on the Consecon pitcher striking out three and walking two in taking the win. Gary Mailer was nicked for 12 hits fanning four and walking three, on the O'Brien's mound.

George Phillips paced the winners' attack with a triple and three singles, with Ted McDonald adding a home run and two base hits. Dale McCaskey had a double, with Dave Phillips striking one safeties. Other hits went to Wayne Clarke, Stan Clarke, and Bob McLeod.

Jim McCormick had three for O'Brien's, with Jerry Weymark and Pete Meens adding one each.

In the second game, Reserve scored seven times in the top of the seventh inning to come back from a one run deficit to win 12-6. The 12 runs came on only six hits, but the winners made use of six walks loaded by Gems' pitchers.

Lyell Shaver and Pat Marcelle Jr. had two hits apiece for the winners, with Doug Green connecting for a double and Pat Marcelle Sr. a single.

For the losers, it was Bernie Sagriff with a pair of doubles, Ken Kerik three singles, Charlie Clapp with two, and Neil Goyer and Sonny Holloway one each.

Jim McKay and Maracle Sr. combined for the win on the Reserve hurler, giving up nine hits. They fanned six and walked five.

Kevik and Holoway were touched for only six hits on the Gems rubber, fanning nine.

Early Production

Brooks Bond scored 90 per cent of their runs in the first inning to down Industrial Softball League encounter with Mead Johnson, scored once more, and then held off a charging Meads' team to take a 10-9 win.

The Bondmen jumped to Mead starter Larry Wilkins for five hits and nine runs, with only one man out in the first inning. Included in the nine-run outburst was a three run home run by Bond first baseman Larry Bilham.

They went on to collect six more hits, but could manage only a stand losing run, but it was enough to take the win.

Meads scored two runs in on six hits, fanning six and came up with a five run rally in the top of the seventh, but fell one short.

Ron St. Jules struck out three in going the route for the Bondmen, touched for 12 hits.

Earns 4-4 Tie

Bruce Pascoe Delivers

It took a last ditch effort by Bruce Pascoe as Melcone managed to tie Latta 4-4 in a South Hastings Baseball League game played last night.

Pascoe cranked a two out triple in the top of the seventh inning to score two runs and give them the tie.

Larry Wilcox punched a home run, with Rick Meagher adding a double and single, with Ted Abrams connecting for a pair of singles, Dave Bates rounded out the hitting with a single.

Leading the 11 hit Latta parade was John Masterson who stroked three base hits. Dale Bamber connected for a double and single, with Dennis Richardson, Bob Smith, Barry Culbits, Reg Abrams, Dale Turnmur, and Roy Allison all drawing base hits.

John Turner was on the mound for Melcone, striking out four and walking three. John Masterson fanned eight and walked five in going the route for Latta, giving up seven hits.

In Shannonville, Glen Barberstock threw a three hitter at Read to take a 14-3 win. He struck out seven batters while walking three. Harold Brennan was on the mound for Read, fanning three and walking 10 in taking the loss.

Bill Barberstock had a double and three singles to pace the winners, with Glen Barberstock adding a pair of singles. Other hits, all singles, went to Blaine Loft, Bernard Brant, Jason Morris, and Leroy Maracle.

Harold Brennan, Gerald Brennan, and Gerald Farrell were the only Read batters to reach Barberstock.

In the third game, Canniffton were outhit by Reserve 11-7, but came up with a 9-7 win.

Ken Abrams had two home runs for the winners, with Warren Hay adding another to lead the Plane's team. Steve Bedard stroked a double, with Barry Dale, Bob Nelson, and John Tweedy each adding a single.

Ron Maracle had a double and two singles for the losers, with Mike Murphy adding three safeties. Steve Barnhardt had a double and single, with Bob Green, Murray Maracle, and Wayne Lloyd adding base hits.

Larry Adams went all the way for Canniffton, striking out three and walking one. Barnhardt and Glen Maracle combined to take the loss, striking out seven, but issuing six bases on balls.

Parson's in the Hunt

Two Belleville teams improved their standing in the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association Wednesday night, scoring important wins at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, and the Ontario School for the Deaf pitch.

At CFB, Belleville Parson's stayed in the hunt for first place honors with a 5-1 decision over the home side. Parson's now owns a 6-3-1 record and 13 points, two fewer than second place Trenton Whitby's and three off the pace of front running Cobourg Tony's.

Belleville United created a three-way points-tie for fifth place by shading Cooney's Haulage of Bayside 3-2 at OSD. United joins Cooney's and Brighton at the eight-point level in the standings.

In Wednesday's third match, Trenton Spartacus held Brighton to a 2-2 draw at East Northumberland Secondary School.

Parson's owned a 3-0 lead at half time at the CFB pitch and outscored the home side 3-1 after the interval.

Jeff Hockley got the winners' offence rolling early in the game and before the teams retired to the sidelines for a breather, Ralph Killars and Tom Britton had added to the Belleville club's total.

Killars added his second of the night and David Powell blasted a hard shot from outside the penalty area to run Parson's production to five before Andy McWilliams spoiled goalkeeper Al McNeil's shutout bid.

Centre half Brian Preston came through with another solid performance for Parson's and Paul Brown supplied a strong effort at his fullback position.

Two games are scheduled tonight with Whitby's meeting Belleville Golden Mile Olympics at Albert College while Wartworth Institution plays host to Cobourg.

ANDRUSYSHYN
15-Point 70pt4

Big Z Leads Argos to Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Z gets a kick out of football, perhaps because he's put pass as much boot into the game as anybody.

Zenon Andrusyshyn was at his best Wednesday night at CNE Stadium, leading Toronto Argonauts to a 27-17 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

That victory, coupled with Ottawa Rough Riders 29-27 home win over British Columbia Lions gave the Eastern Conference teams a hot streak in the Canadian Football League pre-season schedule.

The East now has won five and tied one of six interlocking exhibition games.

Andrusyshyn booted 15 points for the Argos, including a club record 57-yard field goal—one of four field goals he kicked in the game.

The Big Z, as he's called by his cohorts, also added a single and converted Toronto touchdowns by Bobby Taylor and Ed Shuttleworth.

His other three-point efforts were from 22, 26 and 37 yards, but Andrusyshyn's work didn't particularly impress the Calkins, Ont., native who learned his football skills on a high school scholarship at U.C.L.A.

"This was a personal high," he admitted, "but it was not my best by much. I once tied one at UCLA from 5 yards that ground the goalposts."

His best previous efforts in a Toronto uniform were 51 and 52 yards last year. The field goal, however, is still shy of a CFL record 59 set in 1976 by Edmonton Eskimos' Dave Cutler.

John Biedrzycki and Jeff Kolberg scored touchdowns for the Rough Riders, Walt McKee converting both and adding a field goal.

At Oshawa, Gerry Organ made it a night for kickers.

The defending EFC scoring champion kicked five field goals, the last with four seconds remaining in the game to give the Grey Cup champion Riders their margin of victory.

The Rough Riders now have run up a 3-0 pre-season won-lost mark that doesn't include their win over the CFL All-Stars on June 26.

Rick Cassata tossed touchdown passes to Hugh Oldham and Terry Wellesley. Organ converted one of the major scores in addition to crashing through a successful field goal try from the 23, 18, 22, 44 and 23.

Brock Strom threw two passes from quarterback Don Moorehead, and running backs Maurice Eley and Leo Harris scored touchdowns for Ottawa. Mike McIlhargey converted only one of the touchdowns, but added two field goals and a single off a wide field goal attempt.

Slade Willis scored the other B.C. point on a 46-yard punt single.

Tomahawks' Comeback Spoiled by Powliss

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Gaylord Powliss' second goal of the night turned back a Toronto rally and provided Syracuse Stingers with a 10-9 upset of the Tomahawks in National Lacrosse League action Wednesday night.

The Stingers, who led 5-3 after two periods, rallied in the third period and Toronto tallied six unanswered goals to tie the game, setting the stage for Powliss' heroics with less than three minutes to go in regulation time.

Pat Defler and Bruce Mac-Donald also hit for two goals each for the Stingers who moved to within one point of fifth-place Montreal Quebecois.

Jim Higgs, Jerry Kostenuk, Robbie Moores and Paul Cheevers scored one each for the Stingers.

Brian Thompson and Brian Wilson collected three goals apiece for the Tomahawks. John Sheffield, Graham Wilfong and Bill Langley adding the others.

League action resumes tonight at Montreal where the Quebecois entertain league-leading Rochester Griffins.

Muhammad Preparing For Last Fight

DEER LAKE, Pa. (AP) — Muhammad Ali says his Sept. 23 bout in Zaire will world heavyweight champion George Foreman will be his last fight.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, in a copyrighted story in today's edition, said Ali's main reasons for quitting are his desire to retire as a champ, his age and his religion.

"This is my last fight," Ali said.

The last, wh or loser?

"Yup. But I ain't gonna lose."

Ali speaks age in Louisville. Ali said he would fight after the Foreman bout. But in recent views at his training camp here over the last three days, the newspaper said, Ali repeatedly stressed his decision to quit after the September title fight.

Yugoslavia And U.S. Teams Are Undefeated

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (Reuter) — The United States and Yugoslavia are the only undefeated teams in the world basketball championships.

The distinction came after Yugoslavia, the defending world champions, defeated the Soviet Union 82-79 Tuesday night after scoring 10 consecutive points in the second half.

The two winning teams are scheduled to meet Saturday in what could be the decisive match of the championships.

WFL a Hit At the Box Office

By THE ASSOCIATED-PRESS

It was novelty night in the world of professional football and the gimmick was a bigger hit than the organizers of the World Football League had expected.

At four of five sites for the first football games in the new professional football league, crowds were bigger than originally anticipated—although at no site did the demand outstrip the supply of tickets.

The WFL got a starter test tonight during the telecast of the game between New Orleans and Jacksonville Sharks which will provide the armchair fans with a chance to judge the merits or demerits of the infant league.

In the first night of WFL activity Wednesday, Chicago Fire defeated Houston Texans 17-8, Florida Blazers edged Memphis Southmen 24-23, Philadelphia Bell trounced Portland Storm 33-3, Memphis Southmen beat Detroit Wheels 34-13 and Birmingham Americans beat Southern California Sun 31-7.

Birmingham drew the biggest crowd, where 53,331 fans, long hungry for a football franchise, saw their dream come true and gave the Americans an exuberant ovation before the game.

"I was awed and impressed with the enthusiasm of the Birmingham fans," said league president Gary Davidson who was attending the game. "I was expecting a crowd of perhaps 40,000 and to get a crowd of 53,000 is just wonderful."

Club officials earlier had said they had hoped for a crowd of 25,000 in the 70,000-seat stadium. Philadelphia drew 45,000, almost 13,000 above what had been expected, but still way short of a sellout in mammoth 102,000-seat John F. Kennedy Stadium. Chicago drew 42,000 to 55,000-seat Soldier Field, well over its anticipated crowd of 30,000. Wills Pickett drew the fans to the Tangerine Bowl which holds 30,000.

A crowd of 46,000 is expected for tonight's game in the Gator Bowl between Jacksonville and Florida Blazers, the team Shark coach Bud Asher rates as tops in the new league.

What the fans saw Wednesday ranged from artful dinkars by Philadelphia's Klug Corcoran and Chicago's Virgil Carter, who each threw two touchdown passes, to low-scoring efforts by Birmingham and Florida, whose efforts belied the WFL promise of "more wide-open football."

Even in rolling up its big score, Philadelphia, which some observers, appeared well below the standard of the established National Football League and not even as good as the old American Football League in its first season.

The Blazers suffered a loss of the playing field Wednesday when they released linebacker Bill Bergey from his WFL contract, allowing him to be traded from the NFL Cincinnati Bengals to Philadelphia Eagles.

"Bill had not received his July 1 bonus payment from the WFL and Orlando was willing to release his contract with Bergey," said Bengals' coach Paul Brown, who added the release enabled Bergey to be traded with no strings attached.

Player, Morgan in Front

British Open Scores Balloon in the Wind

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (Reuter) — South Africa's Gary Player and a former high school teacher from northern England, John Morgan, head the field at the start of today's second round in the British Open championship.

Both shot two-under-par 69s Wednesday in rain and wind which gave the 6,625-yard course and sent the scores of many of the world's best golfers soaring.

Among those battling to survive the 36-hole cut today will be the 1971 and 1972 champions, Lee Trevino of the United States who took a 79 and then said he has lost all interest in golf since playing so much.

"I'd like to take a couple of years off," he said.

Others whose scores balanced as the winds shifted direction were five-time Masters Barber and Gay Brewer and 1961 winner Arnold Palmer of New Zealand—all with 78s; U.S. Open champion Tommy Aaron with 83 and Australian Bruce Crampton, who had an 84.

Player and Morgan led the small field who bettered or equalled par on the first day afterwards: "I played as well as I could. I am satisfied. It was a perfect round of golf in those winds and rain."

One stroke behind them are Danny Edwards, a former American Walker Cup player and South African Bobby Cole. Another stroke back are four-par—are Briton Peter Oosterhuis, Hubert Green of the U.S. and Ireland's John O'Leary.

Johnny Miller, five-time winner on the U.S. tour began his quest with a 72 and immediately himself satisfied.

"I'm playing well enough to win. The green light is on. I can feel when I am going to win," he said.

Joining him were, defending champion Tom Weiskopf of the U.S. and Liang-Huan Lu of Taiwan, along with Britons David Chilles and Neil Coles.

Jack Nicklaus had a 74. With him were Britain's Tony Jacklin, the 1969 champion, and fellow American Ben Crenshaw, a 19-year-old rookie professional.

"I was totally inexperienced," was how Crenshaw described his first round in Britain. "It's as everyone told me. You need to be able to invent shots."

U.S.-Open champion Hale Irwin had a five-over par 74.

Many of the clashers were in a position to do better until they were driven to their holes. Only three golfers from the field of 154 were able to better par over the last four, Aaldert Kiemel six matched par.

Mississauga And Etobicoke Score in OLA

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Randy Novak scored seven goals and Paul Murdock and Mike Fillmore added three each to lead Etobicoke PCDs to an 18-10 victory over Toronto Cubans Legionaries in one of two Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A games Wednesday.

In the other contest, Mississauga PCDs defeated Malton Warriors 16-5.

Novak had two goals for Etobicoke with Bob Hart, Merv Mecenzie and Brian Howe adding one each.

Mike McGrath scored five times for St. Catharines with Tom Patrick and John Howes getting four each. Del Jacobs and Ted Howe got the others.

Dave Lagrow paced the Mississauga attack with four goals and John Campbell and three. Ian Joyce, Bob Gemmell and Rob Young scored one each.

Bill Bolitho fired three goals for Etobicoke with Bob Hartson and Blair Campbell getting the others.

St. Catharines is at Peterborough in tonight's only scheduled game.

Campaign Gifts Bought Earrings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee says contributions to President Nixon's 1968 campaign were used to buy his wife expensive diamond earrings and may have financed thousands of dollars of luxury items for his Florida home.

The committee said its investigators also built a strong circumstantial case suggesting, but not proving, that C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo, the president's closest friend, may have diverted for his own purposes at least part of a $100,000 contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes.

A White House spokesman called the report "warmed-over baloney" based on "unsubstantiated allegations."

The 356-page report said investigators circumvented Rebozo's refusal to co-operate in furnishing requested financial statements by subpoenaing the records of Key Biscayne contractors who might have worked either for Rebozo or the president.

The effort produced information that in the 1968-1972 period Rebozo spent more than $50,000—much of it in $100 bills—for the president's benefit, buying such items as a 29-by-45 foot swimming pool, a fireplace, major architectural changes and a $1,200 pool table.

It also led to the discovery that Rebozo was using four separate trust accounts, not in his name but in that of his lawyer Thomas Wakefield, the report said.

It was through these accounts that money was channeled to buy the diamond earrings for the 60th birthday of Patricia Nixon on March 25, 1972, the report said.

Federal campaign law does not prohibit using campaign funds for personal expenses, but the Internal Revenue Service says any funds so used would have to be declared as taxable income for the individual involved.

President Nixon's income taxes for the years 1969 through 1972 do not list any such gifts.

The earrings, containing 20 diamonds mounted in platinum, were ordered from New York jeweller Harry Winston and cost a total of $5,850.

But the president said only $200 With a personal cheque drawn on a Washington bank, the committee said. It said his secretary, Rose Mary Woods, supplied another 200.

The remaining $5,000 was supplied through the Rebozo-Wakefield trust accounts in the Miami area and most of that amount originated in the 1968 Nixon campaign, the report said.

It traced this complicated series of transactions:

Following the 1968 Nixon campaign, Rebozo closed out the account in his Key Biscayne Bank of the Florida Nixon for President Committee and transferred $6,000 to a special account in Wakefield's name.

Small parts of that total were used to defray certain Nixon expenses and to pay certain expenses of John Caulfield, a White House investigator.

The remainder, a total of $4,582, remained untouched for nearly three years.

It was then transferred to the trust account maintained in Rebozo's Key Biscayne Bank by Wakefield's law firm, and soon after cancelled in the firm's account in the First National Bank of Miami.

On the same day, $5,000 was withdrawn from that account and was used to buy a cashier's cheque made out to the New York jeweller.

In its investigation in Key Biscayne, the committee found $45,031 in expenditures made for Nixon's benefit by Rebozo which were not reflected in Nixon's statements of assets and net worth reported last year by an accounting firm.

The report said that as much as $32,000 in currency, mostly in $100 bills, may have been involved and that from an analysis of Rebozo's financial position, the only large amounts of cash to which he had access were the $100,000 payment from Hughes and a $50,000 contribution from an executive of the Winn-Dixie Corp.

The report said that Rebozo had authority to draw on Nixon's personal account in the Key Biscayne Bank and that investigators could find no apparent reason other than convenience for his use of cash or of trust accounts to pay for improvements at the Nixon home.

CUPE Wants Judge to Quit

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) has asked for the resignation of Judge Walter Little as the chairman of the Ontario Public Service labor relations tribunal.

The tribunal recently ruled that CUPE did not have status under the Crown Employees Bargaining Act, but CUPE national president Stanley Little said Wednesday the call for Judge Little's resignation was not related to the decision.

Mr. Little said the chairman's job is too important to be handled by someone who is involved with too many other jobs.

One-hour Sentence Asked for Abortionist

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Henry Morgentaler, convicted of performing an illegal abortion, was only acting out of a "moral and medical duty" and should only be given a suspended one-hour sentence, his lawyer said Wednesday.

Claude Armand Sheppard, speaking at a presentence hearing before Mr. Justice James K. Hugessen of Court of Queen's Bench, said Dr. Morgentaler had charged "either no fees or minimal fees" to patients seeking abortions.

He had acted out of a desire to help women with unwanted pregnancies, Mr. Sheppard said, and should not be given a heavy sentence.

He cited six local cases between 1961 and 1972 in which persons convicted of performing an illegal abortion were fined between $400 and $5,000 and were given jail sentences ranging between one hour and one week.

Crown prosecutor Louis Robichaud said that Dr. Morgentaler, who admitted performing more than 5,000 abortions during the last four years, "is a person of complete amorality" and should be given a heavy exemplary sentence.

The court should impose a sentence which would act as a deterrent to others, he said, because "returns from this racket ful, the sources said.

Mr. Morgentaler was acquitted by a jury last November of performing an illegal abortion on an unmarried 26-year-old graduate student but Quebec Court of Appeal overturned the acquittal last April after ruling necessity of the operation had not been adequately proved.

The Criminal Code stipulates the operation is legal only if it can be proved it was performed with reasonable care and skill and was necessary to the health of the patient.

The Court of Appeal ruled that the doctor should be sentenced by Mr. Justice Hugessen, his trial judge.

The Supreme Court of Canada is scheduled to hear the doctor's appeal against his conviction Oct. 4.

The presentence hearing continues today.

Getty Asked to Pay For Social Functions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early in his administration, President Nixon asked C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo to solicit major contributions from billionaire oilman Paul Getty to be kept under exclusive White House control, the Senate Watergate committee reported Wednesday.

The committee said the funds were needed to pay for White House social events but that the project collapsed when top presidential aides decided such use of private money would be "inappropriate."

In its report, the committee reproduced a Feb. 17, 1969, memo from White House chief of staff. H. R. Haldeman to presidential aide John Ehrlichman that said in part:

"Pete Rebozo has been asked by the White House to contact J. Paul Getty in London regarding Pete would like advice from you or anyone as to how this can be legally and technically handled. The funds should go to some operating entity other than the national committee so that we can retain full control of their use.

"Bebe would appreciate your getting him with this advice as soon as possible since the president has asked him to move quickly."

PC Loss Not Due Anti-Davis Tide

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis says it was not anti-Davis sentiment that caused Ontario voters to rebuff the federal Progressive Conservatives in the June 8 general election.

"The polls were quite conclusive," the Conservative premier said in an interview.

"If we'd won a number of seats by 200 votes or so, it might be different but the results were more emphatic than that."

Ontario's over-all rejection of national Conservative Leader Stanfield was a vital factor in giving Trudeau and his Liberal followers their 141-seat majority—Monday.

Recovering from the battering they took in 1972, the Liberals captured 88 of the province's 88 seats, 19 more than they won in the last election, LOST 15 SEATS

The Conservatives lost 15 seats, dropping to 25. The New Democratic Party dropped to eight from 11.

Provincial Liberals were quick to say that the result was a rejection of the Conservative government Mr. Davis has led in Ontario for the last three years, taking over a Conservative regime that goes back under other leaders to 1943.

Liberal Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said the election was a "real rebuff" of Mr. Davis and proof that the premier has "lost his clout."

"Davis himself was a major issue in the election in Ontario," he said.

Earlier this year, the provincial Liberals said they had polls which showed Mr. Davis was the least popular premier in Canada. But they declined to give details.

Mr. Davis said that rejection of Mr. Stanfield's prices and incomes control proposals was "a very substantial part" of the Conservative loss in Ontario.

Stephen Lewis, Ontario NDP leader, is inclined to agree. He thinks NDP federal candidates, especially in Metropolitan Toronto, got caught in the voters' "wage and price control backlash."

Some votes which might have gone to the NDP were turned over to federal Liberal candidates because of a fear that a split vote might elect Conservative candidates.

Federal NDP leader David Lewis, Stephen's father, was among the federal NDP candidates defeated in Metropolitan Toronto.

But Stephen Lewis sees it as a bit of a setback for the provincial Conservatives too.

"I don't think they will be too anxious to call a provincial in Stormont," he said. "But we'll press them on it."

Stormont was the riding held by former Ontario Labor Minister Fern Guindon who resigned to run federally. He was beaten in Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry riding last Monday by Cornwall Mayor Hal Lumley, the Liberal candidate.

And what of the provincial Conservatives' Big Blue Machine," a group of organizers and workers who engineered the provincial victory in 1971 and the federal Ontario success in 1972.

Many of the key members—Progressive Conservative party chairman Dalton Camp, party worker Hazen Ward, advertising man Norman Atkins, among others—helped out on this campaign.

Some still are in a state of shock.

As little as 24 hours before the election, one campaign worker with a reputation for political analysis was confidently predicting up to 55 Conservative seats in the province.

Many now are convinced that rejection of prices and incomes to accept wage and price controls."

He said that "in 1971 we were running a provincial campaign urging the voters to 'keep on going' the way we've been going' and three years later we are trying to convince them to tighten their belts."

"It's a very, very tough proposition."

In the west, former Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker has advised Mr. Davis to "remove" Mr. Camp from positions of influence in the "Big Blue Machine."

Mr. Davis, who has consistently said there is no "Big Blue Machine"—only dedicated party workers—said he read part of Mr. Diefenbaker's remarks with interest but had no comment to make on them.

Camp Doesn't Think PCs in for Strife

TORONTO (CP) — Dalton Camp, a senior organizer with the Progressive Conservative party, said Wednesday he does not think criticism directed his way by former Conservative prime minister John Diefenbaker was a harbinger of strife within the party.

"Certainly everybody if the country would be disappointed in the Ontario results, but the party fought the same campaign everywhere, as did the Grits," he said. "We are all Conservatives."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Tuesday he felt Mr. Camp was one of the main causes of the Conservative downfall in Monday's federal election.

"In Chr. Diefenbaker) has a great way of forgetting I supported him in 1962 in his disaster scenario (the Diefenbaker majority government was reduced to a minority) and in 1963 when I managed his campaign in a time when you couldn't find one Conservative in Ontario," Mr. Camp said.

He said he thinks the party from 1963 to 1965 is keep down insurrection and mutiny and to him or anyone else. I am sorry he is the only fellow left who is opposed to review."

Mr. Camp said his reading of people.

Davis Not Thinking Of Federal Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Wednesday he is giving no thought to the federal leadership of the Progressive Conservative party.

"I'm really quite content here in Ontario," Mr. Davis told reporters.

The premier has been mentioned as a possible successor to Robert Stanfield in speculation over the future of the party the polls was that at the outset of the campaign, inflation was the issue for 80 per cent of the following his defeat in the federal election.

"It's not a simple task here (in Ontario)," he said. "I'm interested in the next provincial election."

Mr. Davis, who was elected leader of the provincial party in 1971 and won an overwhelming victory at the polls later in the year, is expected to call the next provincial election not later than the fall of 1975.

Insects May Become Food for People

TORONTO (CP) — If the world's population continues to rises, people may be eating insects by the year 2000, says William Friend, a professor at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Friend, a zoologist specializing in insect nutrition, estimates the world population of four billion will double before then. He says he recognizes the problem of feeding creatures with wings and antennae to people used to eating meat and potatoes.

"Insects would have to be disguised in some way, no doubt about it," he said. "The problem is that food is an emotional subject.

"The so-called Green Revolution has failed in part, because some Asian peoples won't eat a different kind of rice from what they are used to."

Massive malnutrition is rampant throughout the world and that is the good side of the problem considering there is outright starvation for millions, he says.

Mr. Friend said he sees the development of insect farms, at first for animal food.

Howard House of the Canadian department of agriculture says there is nothing odd or exotic about eating insects. Chemically, they are the same as beef with about 18 per cent protein and 4.5 per cent fat.

He says a lot of people already are eating insects and enjoying it.

"With cattle you need about an acre of good land for a year or so to produce about 00 pounds of meat," he said.

"We can afford that now in Canada but we won't be able to for very long."

Insect larvae, which resemble tiles' custard, often increase their weight several hundred-fold a week, he added.

"They can be raised anywhere. We could feed them on waste."

Mr. House said the first insect farms would raise tons of larvae a day in barns and process it for animal food.

"Some day perhaps the larvae will be processed directly for human food needs."

Mr. House says that insects have a high percentage of chol lesterol which would have to be eliminated, as would other chemicals that some people would be allergic to.

First Appearance

Russian ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov talks with his manager Dina Makarova in Toronto Wednesday at his first public appearance since his defection to Canada. The former Bolshoi Ballet member was rehearsing with members of the National Ballet of Canada who are trying to work out a contract with him. Baryshnikov had been in hiding for ten days. (CP Wirephoto)

Dancer Appears

TORONTO (CP) — Mikhail Baryshnikov, the 26-year-old former star of Russia's Kirov Ballet troupe who defected to Canada 10 days ago, will appear with the National Ballet of Canada in two performances of La Sylphide here next month, the company announced Wednesday.

Mr. Baryshnikov's appearance with the troupe for two of four free performances of the ballet at the Ontario Place Forum will mark the first time he has danced in public since his defection from the Soviet Union. It will also mark the first time he has danced the role of James in La Sylphide.

The National Ballet is scheduled to appear for 10 performances at Ontario Place between Aug. 14 and 30, but no definite date for La Sylphide has been decided.

A few hours before the announcement, Mr. Baryshnikov made his first appearance at an exercise session of the National Ballet, standing alone with arms folded, watching as about 25 male dancers from the company practised.

Ten days after his defection, Mr. Baryshnikov had his manager Dina Makarova, a dance photographer from New York, approach the National Ballet to ask whether he might work out with his dancers to stay in shape.

Miss Makarova also is negotiating a longer-term contract between the dancer and the National Ballet. However, David Haber, the company's artistic director, said Mr. Baryshnikov will not appear with the company during its engagement at New York's Metropolitan Opera House July 23 to Aug. 18 since arrangements and commitments have been completed for some time.

New Opera Heard

STRATFORD Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival opened its third Stage Playhouse Wednesday night with the first fully-professional production of Charles Wilson's one-act opera, The Summoning of Everyman.

Starring Garnet Brooks as Everyman and Phyllis Mailing as Paramour, the Canadian composer's work is a modern adaptation of a medieval morality play. The performance was conducted by Raffi Armenian musical director of the festival.

God, sung by Alvin Reimer, orders Death, sung by Philip May, to summon Everyman to the throne of judgment and the work recounts his adventures on the long journey from which there is no return.

Composer Wilson and librettist Eugene Benson both of Guelph Ont. wrote this opera after their earlier work last year, Ekkes and Abelard, which had its premier with the Canadian Opera Company last fall. Everyman was commissioned and first produced last year at Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Benson's words are direct and simple, and the soloists have no difficulty putting them across in the intimacy of the 250-seat Third Stage arena, where the audience is seated around a five-sided stage.

Wilson's melody lines are simple, for the most part, merely underlining the libretto as though it were spoken. The accompanying harmonies however, are in contemporary style which may be distracting to traditionalists in musical taste.

The players sing their roles in robes of medieval inspiration, designed by Susan Benson, and all wear partial facemasks covering their foreheads, eyes and noses. This characterizes each of the players in the personification of the role played.

Because of the religious nature of the work—Benson wrote it as a church opera—the performance was not broken by applause and at the end there was a long hush before clapping began. The singers did not take curtain calls.

The opera is scheduled for five performances, alternating with Alan Curtis' Monodrama, Medium, starring Maureen Forrester, which opens tonight.

Jacob Siskind, music critic of Montreal Gazette, wrote that it would be difficult to imagine "a more carefully packed group of singers and players, and it would be difficult to imagine a more carefully-rehearsed production."

You enjoy suffering, if you feel that you should be reminded of the cream materialism of our time, you owe it to yourself to either see this presentation or any that may come your way in the near future."

John Kraglund, music critic of Toronto Globe and Mail, wrote that Mr. Wilson's orchestral score failed to make an impact as an integral part of the dramatic action. He said, that the opera's positive qualities just were not strong enough to dominate the negative ones.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, July 22

Aries (March 21-April 19) Even though your enthusiasm is contagious it will not be a strong enough sales tool to sway everyone's opinion.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You have two money needs and are more interested in your private affairs than they have a right to be. Don't speak too openly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) This is not a good time to spend or invest in new projects that are along untraditional lines. Stick with what you know well.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Be sure to share equally if you are involved in a joint venture that is now showing a return. If not, as ally will become an enemy.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Meetings you didn't intend will be read into what you say unless you qualify your comments carefully.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) Shuffle through your accounts again to be sure you haven't overlooked a bill where there is a payment due.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't rely solely on your creative talent to get you out of tight spots. Have facts at your fingertips to back up your arguments.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today's tasks will be more trying than usual. Your interests and your mind will be on something totally unrelated to them.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you want to take chances with your own things that is ok, but be careful how you use items you have borrowed.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Much of your present efforts in driving for others is apt to go unappreciated. You will be wondering why you tried so hard.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are too impatient or don't follow directions properly, your work will wind up in a chaotic state. It will require redoing.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Be careful with your possessions at this time. Think twice before lending something you prize to one who has a habit of breaking things.

Misplaced Horn

LONDON (CP) — Cape Horn isn't where it's supposed to have been. A Royal Navy survey has found that South America is three miles longer than previously thought—and therefore the stormy cape is that much farther south.

SHAWANO'S TOPS FOR INVESTMENT

In today's skyrocketing prices, Shawano is an outstanding investment.

Many lot owners have seen the value of their land increase by 200% or more.

Buying a lot at Shawano is an even better investment than ever before, for three reasons.

One — the province is running out of recreational land.

Two — sale of crown land for cottages is halted.

Three — Provincial planning regulations have restricted private developments.

You can still buy a big, 1½ acre treed lot for $6,900 down from $6,900.00 to $14,900.00 with 10% down and excellent financing.

Shawano is the beautiful 1,600 acre wilderness recreational area in the historic Highlands of Hastings, 25 scenic miles north of Madoc via highway 62. Marvellous swimming, boating and fishing.

Morality Ends Retarded Program

EDMONTON (CP) — Rob and Bea are two moderately-retarded adults who talk in terms of "we" and a shared affection.

They share a suite in a government-sponsored apartment project designed to give the retarded a taste of near-normal life and teach them how to meet the problem.

But for Rob, 31, and Bea, 32, who assured program administrators they hug and kiss but don't "sleep in each other," that almost intimate relationship is ending.

The Alberta government recently decreed the couple must separate after it learned of the relationship from a film, made at Hillside where they live, containing a segment on Rob and Bea.

Because they provide them with a place to live, officials fear is on gut appear that they condone the arrangement.

The fear is that a public backlash about the relationship could lead to cancellation of the project, which moves the retarded from large, impersonal institutions into community life with the help of special counsellors and friends.

"We take turns cooking," says Bea. They go shopping and to church together.

They haven't had sexual intercourse and both have been sterilized, they told their counsellors when asked on the videotape film about their relationship. "Maybe some day," was their reply.

When counsellors were told to end the living arrangement their first thought was how to tell two simple-minded people that politics won't let them say with a caring, close companion. The government has spent thousands of dollars in the unique project and doesn't want to see it jeopardized.

Bruce Rawson, deputy minister of health and social development, who made the decision to separate the couple, said: "It is important to remember that these two people are just acclimatizing themselves, with help, to a new way of life, and they should not be making decisions that may be difficult to undo later."

He explained that "though we've said they shouldn't be sharing the same room, that's not to say we aren't encouraging them to act in a close-support relationship to one another."

Last year, the government repealed the Sexual Sterilization Act of 1928, because, said Premier Peter Lougheed, it offended basic human rights.

What about the right to make the natural decision to live with another person?

Rob and Bea have the same legal status as any other adults. They have been friends since their years in a Red Deer institution, for at least two or three years, said a counsellor.

Rob and Bea's living together was one of the "beautiful things" cited by Sean Lumsdaine, program supervisor, that have happened since the project opened in March.

Two Hold 7 Hostages

Convicts Disrupt Ehrlichman Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of heavily-armed policemen ringed a basement cellblock and the United States District Courthouse today as a marathon standoff continued with two convicts holding seven hostages. Another hostage was released before dawn.

The convicts were demanding a plane flight out of the country.

The prisoners, Robert Jones and Frank Gorham, want transportation to National Airport, about five miles away, and an airplane, authorities said.

The convicts and authorities began a waiting game within minutes after the hostages were seized about 2 p.m. EDT Thursday in a basement cellblock of the building where the Watergate plumbers trial was being held. The trial was moved to another site today.

Radio station WASH quoted the convicts as saying that one of the hostages, identified as lawyer Anthony John Bisaccia III and that convict Jones wanted to release him.

Hurley was said to have a history of heart trouble.

U.S. District Judge George Hart told reporters just after 8 a.m. that "I think time is in our favor but I could be surprised."

Hart, responsible for the five-story building, said no deadline has been set by the prisoners who have asked for three things: a copy of the Washington Post, cigarettes and food.

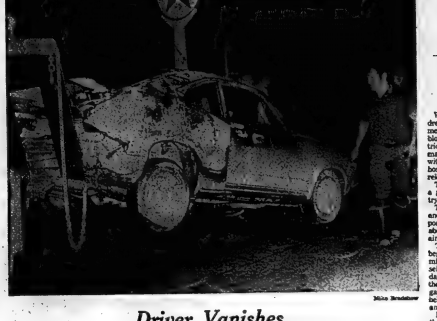
He said the newspapers and cigarettes would be furnished quickly, but food would be provided a little later because the building cafeteria was closed.

Hart was asked whether he could assure that the hostages were not harmed. He replied: "Not really. Possibly something could have been done to a hostage and we did not know about it."

A relative of one hostage said they were locked in a cell but were unharmed.

Four deputy U.S. marshals, two justice department employees and two lawyers originally were taken hostage.

At one point, the convicts told WASH by telephone that they wanted to go to Venezuela, but authorities would not confirm this demand.



"I need to be free," Gorham said. "I have made freedom my woman.

"If I have to go out of here feet first, I am ready. We can't lose, cause either way death is escape."

Both men faced long prison terms.

Chief U.S. District Judge George Hart, responsible for the five-story building three blocks from the U.S. Capitol, described the situation early today as quiet and said officials remained in contact with the two men.

"We're waiting," he said.

Driver Vanishes

This car burst into flames early this morning after hitting a fire hydrant at the intersection of Dundas Street and Foster Avenue. All police know is that the car used to belong to a Cobourg man. Shortly after 3 a.m. today, police and firefighters were called out to investigate the fire that destroyed the 1972 Mazda after it was backed into the fire hydrant in front of a gas station on Dundas Street. The driver of the car is unknown, but a witness to the accident told police that the driver left the scene after telling him "to mind his own business."

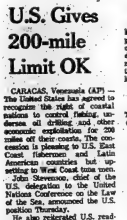
U.S. Gives 200-mile Limit OK

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The United States has agreed to recognize the right of coastal nations to control fishing, undersea oil drilling and other economic exploitation for 200 miles off their coasts. The concession is pleasing to U.S. East Coast fishermen and Latin American countries but upsetting to West Coast tuna men.

John Stevenson, chief of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea, announced the U.S. position Thursday.

He also reiterated U.S. readiness to have territorial waters, where countries control navigation as well as economic exploitation, extended to 12 miles from the current three miles.

World interest in creating economic zones beyond their territorial waters has increased as countries look to the sea as a future source of protein and oil. An estimated 100 nations, including Canada, now favor 12 miles of territorial waters and an additional 188-mile economic zone, for a total of 200 miles of economic control.



The Soviet Union also supports the concept of economic zones, although it says this will burn its own fishing fleets.

The United States said in a position paper issued June 20, as the 148-nation conference got under way, that it would support the 12-mile limit plus an additional economic zone. But it did not say until Thursday how extensive a zone it would favor.

B.C. Logging Firms Stalled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Talks were to resume in Victoria today between the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) and FPforest Industrial Relations (FIR) as negotiators continue to seek a solution to one of the disputes in the walkout-plagued British Columbia forest industry.

More than half of the B.C. coast logging industry is tied up by the IWA-FIR dispute.

John Dean Fares Well At Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyer appears to have fallen short in his attempt to discredit John Dean's story of a continuing Watergate cover-up directed at the highest White House levels, say members of the House of Representatives impeachment committee.

Dean, former White House counsel, appeared Thursday, testifying and undergoing questioning for nine hours in closed session.

Some House judiciary committee members said the main outline of Dean's Senate testimony of last summer, linking Nixon to the cover-up, emerged intact despite cross examination by Nixon's counsel, James St. Clair.

"In my opinion he was a damaging witness as far as the president is concerned," said Representative Robert McClory (Rep., Ill.).

St. Clair is trying to be rough on Dean but he isn't getting away with it," Representative Tom Railsback (Rep. Ill.) said during a break in the session.

St. Clair wanted Dean's testimony mainly to try to establish that Nixon had not ordered a $75,000 payment to Howard Hunt, one of the Watergate burglars, on March 21, 1973.

The transcript of Dean's conversation with Nixon on that day, in which a discussion of Hunt's money demands ends with Nixon saying, "For Christ's sake, get it, . . ." is regarded by Nixon defenders as the most damaging evidence in the impeachment inquiry.

St. Clair stated on Dean's Senate testimony about the March 21 meeting, in which Dean said " . . . The money matter was left very much hanging at that meeting. Nobody was resolved." St. Clair is reported to have offered it as proof that Dean felt Nixon had not ordered the payment to Hunt.

But members said Dean explained that his remark referred to the matter of paying the estimated $1 million in blackmail that he had told Nixon Hunt and other Watergate defendants eventually would demand for their silence.

TORONTO (CP) — Fred Musselwhite, who celebrated his 102nd birthday Monday, is looking for a wife. "There are some nice girls here whom I might take to," he said Thursday, casting an eye over women in the dining room of a nursing home in the borough of North York.

Marijuana Seized

TORONTO (CP) — Two Hope, B.C., residents and a Toronto man were arrested after police said they found 87 pounds of marijuana with an estimated street value of $20,000 in a Toronto hotel room Thursday. Police, who also seized $4,000, said the marijuana was in two steel trunks.

Nixons Get Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward and F. Donald Nixon both received payments from Howard Hughes' 1968 presidential campaign funds, testimony before the Senate Watergate committee indicates. The testimony from Herbert Kalmbach, formerly President Nixon's lawyer and personal fund raiser, shows the Nixon brothers were paid at least $6,000.

'Plumbers' Jury Deliberates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the plumbers trial today begins deliberating the guilt or innocence of John Ehrlichman and three others accused of plotting the Ellsberg break-in.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell is to instruct the six men and six women on how to judge the case before dispatching them to deliberate their verdict.

The scene of the trial was shifted from the U.S. Courthouse of the nearby District of Columbia Court of Appeals after authorities acted to close the federal courthouse because two prisoners were holding a group of hostages at gunpoint in the building's basement.

Whelan Is Suspicious Of Egg and Beef Link

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Eugene Whelan, federal minister of agriculture, said Thursday he is "suspicious" that United States investigations into the possible dumping of Canadian eggs on U.S. markets and the Canadian ban on importing beef treated with the growth hormone diethylstilbestrol (DES) may be connected.

However, a U.S. agricultural source had earlier Thursday that it was unfortunate the investigation into possible egg dumping came at a time when the embargo with the four-month-long beef embargo were underway in Ottawa since the two highly emotional issues look between the two issues.

In an interview Mr. Whelan said his suspicions arose out of a recent statement by Earl Butz, U.S. agriculture secretary, which threatened "retaliatory measures" if Canada did not work out a solution to the beef problem. Some of the beef raised in the U.S. is treated with DES, which has been linked to cancer in laboratory animals.

Mr. Whelan said he is not surprised by U.S. investigations into the alleged dumping of Canadian eggs on U.S. markets.

This type of investigation into any dumping of a commodity is done all the time," he said.

Mr. Whelan said that if an investigation does show there is dumping of Canadian eggs on the market, the U.S. will then take a series on the Canadian products to protect American producers."

But while the investigation is going on, the U.S. cannot stop the importing of products, nor can they levy any sort of tax, he said.

Mr. Whelan also wondered why the U.S. was threatening "unfair" trade practices measures against Canada's refusal to accept American-produced beef which has been treated with DES.

He said threats of retaliation should not be aimed exclusively against Canada, since many of the 23 countries to which the U.S. sells beef imposed a similar ban.

Mr. Whelan said that many American consumers now are demanding DES-free beef.

However, Mr. Whelan said he is optimistic that something will be worked out at meetings between U.S. and Canadian experts.

The meetings are trying to work out a system for the entire North American market which would not be injurious to Canadian beef producers, Mr. Whelan said.

Secretive Attitude Surrounds Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials were unusually secretive Thursday about last week's meetings between U.S. and Canadian officials dealing with the controversy over beef imports.

The federal agriculture department official would say only that some progress was made in the four-month-long dispute, and that the U.S. side "understands our concerns better" after meeting Wednesday.

He added that the officials agreed Wednesday to set up a technical group that is to work out U.S. meat inspection procedures that would fit Canadian practices.

The government imposed the embargo last March on grounds that some U.S. beef had been treated with the growth hormone diethylstilbestrol which has been linked to cancer in test animals. The government has said the embargo would be lifted when the United States invokes inspection standards that would guarantee that no DES-treated beef enters Canada.

Washington, and some Canadian officials, argue that the embargo is at least partly inspired by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan's determination to keep out U.S.-priced U.S. beef and maintain the higher prices Canadian farmers get for domestic beef.

A trade department official refused to comment on the Wednesday meeting between U.S. and Canadian experts. But he indicated before the meeting that the argument over inspection practices could be resolved fairly soon.

The agriculture department and the U.S. embassy agreed that Washington's action against Canadian eggs Thursday was not related to the beef issue.

One source said U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz's reference last month to possible retaliation for the beef embargo was likely made for domestic political purposes in the United States — not in Parliament.

But he noted that under the U.S. Trade Reform Act, Washington could retaliate against what it considers unfair trade practices by blocking Canadian imports.

Officials from both sides say the need for inspection is accepted in Washington, but so far, Washington has held the procedures it proposed to Ottawa as impractical and too strict.

Meantime, the embargo on U.S. beef means a higher food bill for Canadian consumers.

The food prices review board reported last month that the price of top-grade slaughter steers jumped almost 16 per cent from, pre-ban days in March to $47 a hundredweight in May. Last week, the price at some stockyards was more than $50.

Bob Hudson, Mabel Adams Glaze Pottery at COPE

Craft Centre Flourishes As Unique Work Project

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

MADOC — If the Quinte area ever becomes known for industrious production of local handicrafts, this may be where it all started — stamped COPE.

Right now, Project COPE's stand for nothing so ambitious. Nonetheless, its accomplishment has been standby constructive.

Housed in store-front quarters just off this village's main street, the project has trained the handicapped and unskilled into a growing workforce producing handicrafts for commerce.

The busy workshop is a product of community initiative and — for the moment — federal funding.

Spelled out, COPE means Constructive Opportunities for Progressive Employment.

The idea first stirred when some leading community representatives and government officials got to talking ways and means of productively assisting those having difficulty finding work.

Gradually, the outline of the project emerged: A centre teaching skills, on-the job, which would become a permanent — and productive — work source in the village.

A board of directors was formed from the community. The manpower and immigration ministry, under its Local Employment Assistance Program, came through with a grant to give the proposal a fair run towards reality — almost $238,000 spread across three years.

To organize the project, Madoc resident Bill Gordon was appointed manager. Handicrafts had been chosen and the initial product line and an instructor also was available within the community.

Artist Bob Hudson moved here from Metro Toronto three years ago. His wife teaches art at the Centre Hastings Secondary School.

The workshop began operation in early March with two employees being tutored by Mr. Hudson in pottery production. There now are 18 at work; the original maximum was set at 12, and more could be added next year as manufacturing quota grows.

To keep pace with the output a second kiln now is being installed to fire glaze the teapots, candlesticks, coffee cups, vases and other pottery items produced from clay moulds. Silkscreening and leathercraft also are done.

Already, COPE is selling on consignment in nine local retail outlets, says Mr. Gordon. Counter sales at the workshop have been steady.

To become self-sustaining, the project — like any business — must eventually show a profit. Under funding regulations it cannot undercut established industry.

Nonetheless, says Mr. Hudson, he firmly believes COPE not only will survive but grow.

"We have a thriving business — and it'll expand."

Take 3

Since across-counter retail sales here would be insufficient for survival, COPE must produce in bulk and become a supplier for other outlets.

He contemplates the possibility of a full-time on-the-road sales representative. An alternative is exhibiting at the annual Toronto Gift Show and filling orders from there.

Meantime, COPE also aims at directly contributing something to the community. Among its projects has been the labeling of all local businesses and services for the chamber of commerce.

Lynn Deering, a young Marmora woman, also has been brought on staff and coordinates recreation in the village, while assisting with sports in Tweed and Marmora, says Mr. Gordon.

As an artist, Mr. Hudson also looks out at the community and ponders its potential as a diversified handicraft centre, with local material supplying local craftsmen and artisans.

There are, he says, people in the area with talents in weaving, woodwork, even furniture making.

Wood and stone are local natural resources. He ponders if wool — even flax for linen — could be grown to add to supplies available for craft production.

Two Girls Injured

PICTON — Two Prince Edward county girls were taken to hospital last night following a one-car collision on County Road 4 near Talbot St.

Rosemary Ferguson, 19, of RR 9 Picton, passenger in a car driven by John Heffer, 28, of Picton, was admitted to Prince Edward county Memorial Hospital for observation. A second passenger, 16-year-old Donna Friar, of RR 3 Picton, was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

A spokesman for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police said the collision occurred when the car went onto the shou der of the road on a curve. The driver lost control of the vehicle and it overturned in the ditch. Damage was estimated at about $1,500 in the accident, investigated by Constable Tom Stamford.

Tow Truck Rolls Over

TRENTON — A Belleville man, 30-year-old Victor Overton of 129 John St., escaped injury Thursday when a tow truck he was driving rolled over at the Wooler Rd. exit ramp from Highway 401, west of here.

Provincial police at Brighton said Overton lost control of the truck when he turned from the highway's eastbound lane onto the ramp.

The truck rolled over onto its roof, causing an estimated $2,500 damage.

Police said Overton sustained minor injuries and was not taken to hospital.

Traffic was blocked by the overturned truck for about 30 minutes.

Police have charged Overton with driving with more than 80 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood.

Fisheries Work Slated

PICTON — James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox has announced from Queen's Park that advertisements were placed Thursday for structural repairs and fire and safety renovations to the Glenora Fisheries Research Station. Target date for completion of the work is one end of the year.

Sewer System Start Delayed

WELLINGTON — Construction of a municipal sewerage system proposed for Wellington village has been delayed at least six months through changes in location and design.

A public meeting held this week in the village by the Environmental Hearing Board drew approximately 30 residents who questioned details of the project.

Originally, a lagoon system had been proposed for the village but unfavorable soil tests prompted a change to a treatment plant similar to the facility in Picton.

Although the new plant is expected to cost substantially more than a lagoon system, there will be additional grants applied to maintain the portion to be levelled against the ratepayer.

It was noted that plans for a subdivision near the proposed lagoon site had been approved and this development coupled with additional growth underlined the need for a greater capacity than that of the initial proposal.

A sewerage system for Wellington village was approved in 1973 by the Ontario Municipal Board following a public hearing. A group of Wellington residents opposed the project on the basis of cost and hardship and was represented by Picton lawyer Richard Byers.

Fireballs Race This Weekend

TRENTON — "It's spectacular," says Bruce Cooke, regatta chairman.

Boats skim the water, each pushed by a billowing bubble-shaped sail over the bow, racing over a three-mile Olympic course.

The Fireball Regatta, scheduled off Baker's Island at CFB Trenton this weekend, can't help but thrill spectators.

Sloops are massed at the starting line. Rainbow colored spinnakers lower high above the near flat sailboat. Sailors hang over the side on a thin line tied to the mast, separating them by inches from Bay of Quinte waters.

And then the occasional tip, says Mr. Cooke, that's exciting as well.

"The Fireball is probably one of the fastest centreboard boats on the market today," he said during an interview Thursday.

"If not the fastest, it is very nimble. It's not uncommon to see a Fireball hit a speed of 25-30 miles an hour in a good stiff wind."

Regatta chairman Bruce Cooke and Jim Hillgen on his own boat with a touch of sadness. As chairman and race co-ordinator, he will be too busy to race this weekend in the Fireball Seminar Retreat. He expects to lend it to two Mariners women coming down for Sunday races off Picton. Based at CFB Trenton, Mr. Cooke started putting the sloop in shape Thursday.

The chairman and over-all co-ordinator of the Fireball Seminar Retreat has been working since December to get the regatta under way. Some 25 boats, from as far as Massachusetts, Montreal, Lake Erie, are expected to compete during three races Sunday (10 a.m. - 3 p.m.).

Already 18 have registered in what is being considered of the biggest Fireball regatta's in Canada, he said.

Some of the continent's top sailors — 1973 CORK champion Lee Davis and mid-winter world champion Al Schiebel — will be present to tune their boats prior to North American Championship racers next weekend.

The latter are considered elimination races for CORK Canadian Olympic Regatta at Kingston — essentially, Olympic trials.

Fireballs, with sit low in the water, weigh 175 pounds. Most of an average man. But there is a difference. The sloop stretches 18 feet three inches and carries 350 square feet of sail area on its main sail, jib, and spinnaker.

Touch of Snuff: Frank Mayne, sister Lena Akey

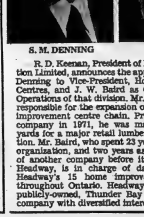
Work, a Pinch of Snuff

Frank's Back - - after 67 Years

A little bit of snuff has been going a long way a long time for 86-year-old Frank Mayne.

It's about his only personal indulgence and he figures it does him good.

But what's mainly kept him hale and heart-strong is a compulsion for work. At least that's what he figures is responsible for the fit condition permitting the octogenarian to take his first air trip alone, back to energetically revive scenes of his Quinte youth.



Frank has arrived from Alberta, to stay awhile with his sister, Mrs. Lena Akey of Camilton — a reunion that ends a long, long partings.

They're the last of three in a family of nine children, born in what is now Actinolite, north of Tweed. They still call it by its founding name, Bridgewater.

Privacy And Travel

How is it with the privacy and getting-away-from-it-all thing in these days only a decade removed from 1984?

For all the atmosphere of detente these days reports for instance from the Soviet Union indicate that there the authorities still keep a pretty tight rein on citizens and visitors alike.

In Yalta recently a young U.S. newsman with the Nixon party managed to make acquaintance with a young Russian strolling along the seaside promenade. The Russian said he had a girl friend and could supply a blind date. They agreed to meet later that evening and pick up the girls. Predictably, they were followed by a Russian plainclothesman and the local boy ended up in the police station. They let him go, but it was the end to a promising effort toward east-west detente at the citizen level.

Meanwhile in the United States and across the border in Mexico the theme of this comment also shows its ups and downs.

Choral Pepper notes in an article in The Christian Science Monitor that with the 800-mile peninsula of Baja California now open to automobile traffic the only escape from civilization is in little-known offshore islands.

As for that new highway, in a region once as peaceful and unspoiled as any, it is fast attracting some of the rigors and hazards of other populated regions of this continent. A report from Baja today says the route has become a nightmare for many American motorists. There have been robberies, shootings and accidents. Traffic volume is also mounting havoc and the Mexican government is urging motorists to carry drinking water, camp stoves, warning flares, spare car parts, and ample supplies of food.

More successful with the adventuring spirit in those parts were two juniors at the University of California, Rosemary Broome and Marily Reese who last summer made a 2,500-mile trek on horseback from the Mexican border to Canada. They reported they would always remember the beauty of the wilderness on the Pacific Crest Trail, along with the fierce heat of the Mojave Desert and the snow and cold in Washington as winter approached there.

The girls had taken heed of warnings about the dangers of city streets, but they said it was the people they met in towns and ranches along the way who had made the trip really memorable.

Crate journey is reminiscent of one made away back in the late twenties by A. F. Tachiffely — by horseback from Buenos Aires to Washington — and which he described in his book, Tachiffely's Ride.

To answer the original question, there is not all that much left of privacy, or of places that civilization has not touched — and corrupted. One wonders how much more of the world can remain thus as time and "progress" march relentlessly on.

City Capers

It is a curious phenomenon that when big cities such as Toronto and Ottawa get a downtown Mall going it seems to attract all the louts, dissidents, hippies and ne'er-do-wells from miles around.

So much so that in Ottawa city council has revised its by-law on street by-law so as to curb panhandlers and coin-begging guitar players.

It is a hard enough life for a wandering minstrel these days, but he is nothing if not adaptable. The trick now will be to find some place else. The city fathers have a responsibility though: a city should be for the enjoyment of everyone, rather than the preserve of any special-interest group.

Besides events can take an ugly turn, as a Port Hope man related in a letter to The Ottawa Journal which is reprinted on this page today.

The capital city and law-abiding citizens are ill-served by incidents such as he describes. Clearly there is a need for better policing of the mall area there.

Caracas Conference

Who Will Control Sea Mining One of Many Tough Issues

By JOHN D. HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The International Law of the Sea Conference in Caracas has been mentioned in this column, is being mentioned now and will be reported about again at a later date.

It's a long conference continuing in its present phase until Aug. 28. But the reason for this continued reporting on the event is because of its immense importance to all of us.

Deliberations in Caracas about our oceans, who should control their resources, rights of passage through the world's major waterways, ecological protection agreements, will affect us long after this summer's federal election has gone into the history books.

Since concentrating on this United Nations event as it opened, our country has taken a leading role in two major areas. These are to persuade the 150 nations in attendance to agree that the salmon is an endangered species like the whale and to accept the 200 mile limit for fisheries protection purposes.

Environment Minister Jack Davis, back from Caracas to campaign in his B.C. riding, told us even the Russians with their world-girdling fishing fleets, operating across the oceans like a vast carpet sweeper, will agree on balance to 200-mile extensions.

This surprised Mr. Davis but also occasioned him to suggest that if the big fishing powers, as well as the many smaller ones, all concur in such extensions by national proclamation, then gunboat diplomacy as enforcement will not be necessary.

Editor's Note: Mr. Davis subsequently was defeated in the election.

One of the really large issues has not yet been investigated thoroughly, who will control sea mining, not only in the oceans but from the ocean beds? The 200-mile proposed fisheries territorial protection presumably does not mean an extension of territorial water limits.

This International Law of the Sea Conference, more than the two previous ones in 1958 and 1960, is burdened with these complexities and threatens to double the number of nations present to be heard from.

Their presence not only adds to the potential confusion at such a large event, but the coming-into-existence of all these new nations since the last conference in 1960 reminds us the world's burgeoning populations are putting greater demands on the food and mineral resources of the seas than ever before in human history.

The so-called recent "cod war" tactics of Iceland versus the British over so-called inshore cod fishing grounds (within Iceland's unilaterally declared 50-mile limit), and between Peru and the U.S., (over Peru's Peruvian 200-mile limit to protect anchovy spawning grounds) are symptomatic of the many such clashes in the future if this conference cannot reach understanding and law.

Moreover certain unilateral moves have been made by many ocean nations since 1958 in violation of a mutual agreement not to extend controls beyond a 12-mile limit, which the Caracas big meeting has to approve.

Gold Down in Price But It May Pick Up Soon

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Gold has lost its glister as far as speculators are concerned — but for how long?

Since mid-June, bullion prices have fallen sharply. Recent quotations were the lowest in nearly six months.

But South Africa — which happens to be the Western world's biggest producer of the yellow metal — is brewing political and new rush to buy gold during the next 12 months.

Its finance minister, Nicolaas Diedricks, predicts a price of $200 an ounce, which would be more than 50 per cent higher than the current market level.

(Funny how financial forecasts are usually in such nice, round figures.)

Mr. Diedricks could be right — or he could simply be doing a good sales promotion job on his country's major export.

What is certain, however, is that the price of gold has been in a pronounced downtrend since the mid-June meeting of finance ministers of 20 major nations in Washington.

Those nations decided to allow gold to be used as collateral for international borrowings at a value somewhere near the market price rather than (as before) at the official price of $42.22 U.S. an ounce.

Some speculators rushed to buy gold in late May, on the assumption the U.S. international action to allow Americans to own gold for the first time since 1933.

Although that measure has not gone into effect yet, the decline in the market price of the metal shows that the speculators miscalculated.

Americans are unlikely to be eager to buy bullion, since they already have such a wide range of investments open to them. Holding a gold certificate means no receipt costs money — not only the commission, storage and insurance charges, but also the relinquishing of higher-yield items on good short-term investments.

Any U.S. citizen who does have a strong urge to own gold has been free to satisfy that urge by investing in gold coins, commemorative pieces and the like.

And U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon has suggested that any increase in demand for gold by U.S. citizens could be met out of treasury holdings.

If there is a lesson in all this, it is that there are no sure things where financial speculation is concerned.

It's true that gold proved to be an excellent investment during the early years of this decade, largely because it appeared to be the only true "store of value" in a world swept by inflation.

But the Arab states have controlled the speculators by — in carrying out their threat to demand gold bullion in payment for their crude oil exports to the West.

And the use of gold as collateral for loans among nations poses the possibility that the bullion may eventually be sold on the open market. In such event of those deficit nations further depressing the market price.

Gold will remain the most precious of metals. But the world's gold fever has clearly cooled down.

Canada's 'Caste System'—Or Anybody Who Is Anybody

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — You would never guess it, after being the centre of attention in these recent weeks of campaigning, where the candidates made you think you were king or queen, that officially as a voter you are nothing.

So it just might be the right time to remind you that after paying all the tax bills, footing the election costs, and casting the ballot, you are to belong a nobody in the very select company of somebodies.

There is probably no snitch as as guilt as yours in status before and after the election.

In the weeks before, you are everything; in fact, all the courts for anything is you and all the others but you.

But then, afterwards, unless you are in one of just 25 very special groups — numbering some 100 Canadians — you are Mr. or Mrs. Zero.

Same thing every election.

There are the winners — the new winners, winking for the first time at the old winners who won before — and the ancient and honorable order of permanent winners whose winning ways come before even their appointed place in the order of things.

And next among the losers — until eight years ago officially deemed to an "honorable and unworthy upstart" — is most likely you.

Seeing is believing, so turn to the back pages — not of the Parliamentary Guide — what other authority is there — and discover the Canadian caste system that few voters and fewer of the elected appreciate existed.

It is proclaimed, too, in the Blue Book published by the Government of Canada.

And it is what is called "Official Precedence," a national ranking, so says the Parliamentary Guide, "which grants to the persons granted to certain of the more responsible offices of state or who have been appointed for them."

All men are created equal. It has been set out in the Bill of Rights, but Parliament proclaims the few are more equal than the many.

The Governor General is No. 1.

And members of the provincial legislatures rank last in the Who's Who as 37th in the VIP line.

The Prime Minister follows the GG. Foreign envoys come third. The Opposition Leader is fifth. Speakers come in at 18 and MPs 19.

And by Order in Council, passed in 1966 — you thought this was a classless social order perhaps — official titles, distinguished former office addrees were proclaimed for many of these chosen few.

How did all this sneak up on you when maybe you were not looking?

This way, as set out in part, by the Parliamentary Guide:

"Precedence has been defined as the privilege of place, or superiority of rank in the ceremonial system of social intercourse under which the more eminent and dignified orders of the community are classified . . ."

Before the 1966 Order in Council proclaiming official titles and forms of address, the Guide also said this:

"There is an ordinary sense of decency, not to speak of dignity . . . demands that the incongruity of the position of honor be put beyond the accomplishment of the unassuming spirits and unworthy elements . . ."

Since, there has been no work of upstarism and unworthiness upsetting the snobbery from "precedence, title and proper address."

Instead, the Guide ordains that . . . "an ordinary sense of decency and dignity . . . demands that places of honor be given those entitled by the caste with administration of its affairs and the guardianship of its interests and honor . . ."

It all goes back, originally, to the coronation in 1838 of King Henry the Fourth of England when by royal proclamation, there was prepared "a table of order of all the estates and nobles and gentry."

Since there are no Canadian nobles, there definitely are classes based on social official standing, and just as surely because of the gentry of precedence.

It is all a quaint discreet impossible to find in the termed "usage and established custom."

And it is the separation of "dignitaries" from well, "undignitaries", perhaps — more practically, "workers" — it suspenders from the taxpayers.

Policing it all in a properly respectful observance of order are the mandarins, the federal deputies who rank No. 38.

A Bad Day At Ottawa's Sparks Street Mall

Letter in The Ottawa Journal

My wife and I spent three days in your beautiful capital city. We had planned to remain a full week but after the traumatic experience we underwent on your Sparks Street Mall, we decided that Ottawa was not for tourists like us.

We were strolling along when we noticed five young toughs ranging in age from about 17 to 21, making eyes at three young girls — Trishes — The older looking of the five shouted a foul word to you, as the tall, out of the way. Can't you see we're having a workout."

Of course we paid no attention, but in the next moment we were shocked by a most individual shouted an obscenity and deliberately hurled the bottle at the girls. It caught my wife full in the face, knocking off her glasses.

I was enraged and I started towards the fellow who had done the thieving. At five of them moved in together and I was pushed and jostled almost through a plate glass store window. Other passersby, paused and watched. Incidentally, he did nothing about it.

I was able finally to grab my wife by the arm and hurry into the bank of Montreal to get away from the thieves. When I asked a counter clerk to call the police she smiled and assured me that it would not help matter. "Those fellows are trouble-makers who are around the Mall every day," she said. "The police just tell them to behave when they bother other people."

If this is the situation in Ottawa, then I feel sorry for the people who must live in it. Ottawa is a beautiful and lovely city thoroughfare, and it is shame to see it thrown open to the type of young thugs who infest it from end to end.

If what happened to us is an example of what other tourists may expect, I hardly think that your tourist trade is going to benefit. We certainly do not plan to return.

"God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God." Psalms 62:11

If you are looking for strength to see something through, remember the source of it all. Jesus said, "All power is given unto me in Heaven and in earth . . . so now we can say, "I can do all things through Christ, which strengtheneth me." Father, in Jesus' name, please show forth your power now. Amen.

Where Is The Patriotism?

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I was appalled at the lack of enthusiasm and spirit which accompanied July 1, 1974 in accompanied July 1, 1974 in Belleville. The city showed poor toward Canada.

As an high school student, my history studies of the past year included such topics as dictatorships, anarchy and fascism. I have always valued our political system, I am grateful to say that I live in a country which allows the individual certain freedoms such as freedom of speech and of assembly. I believe that too many Canadians take these freedoms for granted and show indifference to rule their lives. Canada is a wonderful country, one whose assets far outweigh its shortcomings.

It is time to stop thinking of Canada. Day merely as a holiday. It is more, may be proved it is a time of national pride and unity. I am proud a Canadian, regardless of his political views, may be proved to call Canada his home.

Mailman Remembers Child

Editor,
The Intelligencer

We would like to take this opportunity of a letter to the attention of the general public a little known incident in regard to the mailman in our city. A few short months ago the general public had a very low regard for these men.

One mailman whom we do not know personally was kind enough to call by name, took a great deal of time and interest in order to make a little three year-old girl very happy on her birthday. Our daughter waited patiently for days to receive a birthday card in the mail, and up to the day before her birthday she had received none. Determined to mention this fact to the mailman that day, and on the day of her birthday on checking the mailbox, there was a card addressed to her by name or address and a parcel attached to it. Imagine our amazement on opening it to find a beautiful card and a small gift with the card signed "the mailman".

Our daughter was so thrilled to get a card in the mail, and we were so unaware, that there are people who take such an interest in their job, that we felt that the general public should be made aware of it as well.

Thank you for allowing us to make our thoughts known through the medium of your paper.

MR. and MRS. ANDREW SLAPKAUSKAS.

Mortgage Rates Increased

TORONTO (CP) — Interest rates on residential mortgages have been raised at a number of the chartered banks, a Toronto Dominion Bank spokesman said Thursday.

He said that Toronto Dominion's quoted rate on mortgages was raised to 11.75 per cent Monday from 11.25. On the same date, its rate on new mortgages insured under the National Housing Act (NHA) was increased to 11.5 per cent from 11, he said.

The Bank of Nova Scotia matched the Toronto Dominion rates Thursday. Large chartered banks into line with those established May 22 by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Interest rates at the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada have been at 11.5 per cent on conventional mortgages and 11 per cent on NHA mortgages since mid-May.

More Judges

TORONTO (CP) — The number of judges hearing cases in the Ontario Court of Appeal will be increased to 10 by mid-1975 this year, a spokesman for Attorney-General Robert Welch said Thursday.

Suicide

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Police said Thursday they believe a man whose body was found in the Welland River with his hands handcuffed behind his back took his own life.

Police were earlier investigating the possibility of murder in connection with the death of Jeffrey Morriss, 33, whose body was found Tuesday four days after he had been reported missing.

Results of an autopsy indicate the St. Catharines man died of drowning and it believed he was in the water for several days and could not free himself of his face resulted from the body being battered against the canal banks and lock walls.

Vote to Strike

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The London unit of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) voted Thursday to go on strike unless the provincial government increases a cost-of-living bonus and re-opens wage contracts for its 60,000 employees.

Honored

LONDON (AP) — The United States Secret Service has conferred its highest award on Princess Anne's husband for his defence when a man tried to kidnap her.

Inspector James Beaton, wounded in the kidnap attempt March 20, received the Director's Honor Award from Secret Service agent Douglas Dawson at Scotland Yard Wednesday.

Beaton is the first man outside the U.S. Secret Service to receive the award.

Plan Work

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council officially applied on Wednesday for permission to demolish 256 houses on Toronto Island.

The move was another step in a complicated dispute over the houses. Metro wants to demolish the houses to expand the Island park, while some Toronto aldermen have sought to block demolition.

Plan Refunds

MONTREAL (CP) — Half the cost of shipping small parcels by air will be refunded if they don't arrive as scheduled under a new policy announced Thursday by CP Air and Canadian.

The policy, effective Aug. 1, applies to parcels weighing less than 50 pounds and valued at less than $500, a statement issued by the two airlines said.

Labatt Talks

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — John Labatt Ltd. of London, Ont., has held talks "in recent days" in connection with the acquisition of Formosa Spring Brewery of Toronto from Seagram and Hedges (Canada) Ltd. also of Toronto, P. H. T. Widdrington, Labatt president, said Thursday.

Formosa currently is the target of an unsolicited bid by Molson Cos. Ltd. of Montreal.

"We've had contact but talks were not of a substantive nature," Mr. Widdrington said in an interview.

But Labatt is still "interested in talking to them (Seagram and Hedges)," he said.

A Seagram and Hedges spokesman had no comment.

Back Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Teachers at the Terauley campus of Georges Brown College were locked out of classes Thursday by students demonstrating in support of the strike.

Ontario's 5,500 community college instructors have worked without a contract since last September.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

Big Firms Poised For Manganese Rush

CARACAS, Venezuela (CP) — A kind of gold-rush fever permeates the air. Experts and salesmen somber servants in committee rooms. International companies look on, eagerly waiting to stake their claim on the found wealth.

But it is not gold that puts the glint in the eye. It is manganese nodules.

Comparatively little is known about the nodules other than their concentrations of copper and nickel are potentially high enough to cause another "gold-rush," perhaps distort seriously world metal markets.

D. G. Crosby, of Canada's department of energy, mines and resources, spoke to the delegates of nearly 150 countries here Thursday at the U.N. Conference, asking that these new riches be considered "the common heritage of all mankind."

The uncontrolled exploitation of this resource "could seriously disrupt the economies of certain countries," he said.

As private companies pour money into exploration and research for mining nodules, Canada and other nations seek international regulation of these activities.

International concerns such as International Nickel, Ranna Mines, Mitsubishi of Tokyo and Howard Hughes's Summa Corp. are all in the race for submerged mineral wealth.

The richest mineral areas are known to be in about three million square miles of the Pacific, say Canadian sources.

LCBO Will Increase Liquor, Wine Prices

TORONTO (CP) — The price of wine and spirits will rise July 28, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario announced Thursday.

The board said the increases will affect about 56 per cent of the more than 2,000 brands carried in provincial liquor stores.

Most Canadian and imported wine will be affected and the board said the price of the cheapest 25-ounce bottle of Canadian rye will rise to $5.95 from $5.30.

Scotch now selling for $6.85 will cost $7.20.

The board said the increases were a result of higher wholesale prices, which in turn are due to an additional 15 cents.

Senate Watergate Committee Job Done

WASHINGTON (CP) — Quietly, and with little of the fanfare which attended its birth, the Senate Watergate - investigating committee dies this week.

Its final report is scheduled to be released Sunday—but few ourselves are expected in it.

Most of the main proposals have been leaked:

—Creation of a permanent "public attorney's office" to investigate and prosecute charges and allegations of wrongdoing in the executive branch.

—Establishment of an independent federal elections commission, empowered to take court action to enforce election laws even during political campaigns.

—A ban on cash contributions and expenditures in excess of $100 and tight limits on the amounts which individuals or groups may donate to political campaigns.

In the last week of the committee's life, the philosophy with which the committee came into being may have been summed up in remarks by Charles Colson, his White House tough guy.

Leaving Las Vegas for a minimum one-year prison term for obstruction of justice, Colson declared:

"Keeping yourself personally clean is a fine idea. But you have a public trust in terms of what you do with the government."

Then he said that he and other high-level aides had felt they were "above the law" while working for President Nixon.

The television lights have been turned off in the red-carpeted caucus room of the Senate Office Building.

It was in this room that the lights caught reflections from the crystal chandeliers as first John, and the Robert, Kennedy announced they would run for president.

It was here, 20 years ago, that Senator Joe McCarthy took on the U.S. Army and gave the word "McCarthyism" to the English language.

And it was here that Senator Estes Kefauver posed in a coonskin cap and went looking for those engaged in organized crime.

The forum within which the Watergate committee operated was also the stage on which were acted out the dramas of Sirhan B. Sirhan, Teapot Dome and Hoffa.

Scattered now from around the room-topped table are the seven senators of the Watergate committee.

The chairman, Sam Ervin, 77, the Democrat from North Carolina who described himself over and over again before a huge television audience as "just another county lawyer," is returning from politics and going back to the country.

His co-chairman, Senator Howard Baker, Republican from Tennessee, becomes a television idol. To suggestions that he would one day run for president, Baker replies: "I'm not ruling my options open," and declined to take a stand.

Speculation now is that he has taken even a stand. He'll seldom mention these days as of presidential calibre.

Senator Howard Gurney, a committee member, is the first Republican senator to be elected from Florida this century and he is up for re-election this year. He also is the first senator from any party to face the electorate on his case for impeachment, on his case for bribery—in the last years.

The spotlight now swings more firmly toward the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives, sifting the allegations which may lead them to a recommendation of impeachment against President Nixon.

Sam Dash, criminal law professor at Georgetown University and chief legal adviser to the Senate Watergate committee, says "maybe nine-tenths of the facts" the House committee is working with came from the Senate committee.

Robert Griffin (Rep. Mich.), assistant Senate minority leader, says:

"I believe the (Watergate) committee did an outstanding job. They contributed significantly in getting the whole Watergate business out in the open."

Ironically, the committee drew its sharpest criticism for the manner in which it did just that—leaking documents and testimony which flowed steadily throughout the committee's life.

"I think the leaks hurt—they helped create sympathy for the White House," says Mike Manatos, aide of Senator Mansfield, the Democratic leader in the Senate.

Even Baker says the leaks set a bad precedent which created a resentment now being felt within the judiciary committee.

"We didn't invent the leak," Baker says. "But we raised it to its highest art form."

Seizing on that, White House spokesman Ron Ziegler claims there is a calculated public relations campaign against the president."

Watergate special prosecutors and others, he says, are "playing more to the press galleries" than to the U.S. District Court.

He sees "more than a coincidence" in the fact that the judiciary committee and the Watergate committee have been releasing a series of reports this week which he says contain "surmise, suggestions and conjecture with little supporting fact."

As the week draws to a close, it was almost like a television rerun as Sirhan Sirhan—the star of the Watergate hearings—took the witness box before the judiciary committee behind closed doors.

With the exception of discrepancies between the judiciary committee's transcripts and the White House version of the presidential tape recordings, there have been few startling developments not brought out last year when the Senate committee was the hottest thing on television.

Public Hearings to Be Held On Long-range Hydro Plans

TORONTO (CP) — A series of public hearings is to be held into Ontario Hydro's long-range plans for its power system, Energy Minister Darcy McKeough said Thursday.

The first hearings will take at least two years, "represents a significant step forward in the open planning process to which this government is committed," Mr. McKeough said.

A commitment to a new level of public involvement was also contained in a Hydro report released Thursday.

The report discussed the possible requirements and locations for generating stations and power transmission lines to cope with growth in the province to 1993.

"After an initial round of public dialogue, the government intends to submit the report for public hearings and review in terms of environmental effects, socio-economic factors, load growth, system reliability, interconnection and power pooling, economic analysis, government decisions, financing and heavy water supplies and operation and maintenance considerations," the minister said.

It may involve hearings of the Ontario Energy Board, the proposed environmental review board or an independent commission created for the reference, he added.

Mr. McKeough said the hearings will be open, to assist with broad questions of growth and whether it should be slowed down in some areas and stimulated in others.

Mr. McKeough said Thursday that Hydro has been told to proceed with plans for construction of a new generating station site and transmission lines in the north channel of Lake Huron.

The station is to be in service by 1984 and the study results are to be made part of the hearings.

Similar go-aheads were given to Hydro for the Darlington and Kilmelot line to service the Ottawa-Cornwall area by 1983.

"It is my strongly-held view that long-range planning generation and distribution system in Ontario to an important extent must be a co-operative venture between Ontario Hydro, the government of Ontario, the industries and the public," Mr. McKeough said.

The minister also announced Thursday that electricity-generating projects related at 12.8 billion had been approved by the government.

He said it was "critically important" for Hydro to construct another 500-kilovolt line from the Nipigon area northeast to Georgetown by 1977.

Other projects approved were a 2,000-megawatt, oil-fired generating station at Wesleyville, a 972 million-dollar nuclear plant at Pickering with completion of one reactor and a new generating station site and heavy water plants at the Bruce generating site, costing $700 million.

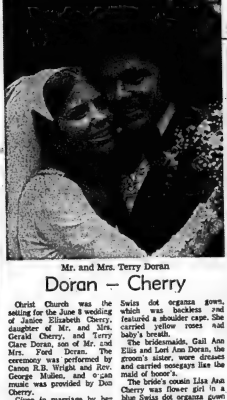
Mr. and Mrs. Ross Smith

Douglas—Smith

Brenda Douglas and Ross Smith were united in marriage in June at Westminster United Church.

Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Douglas, Belleville. Ross is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an empire gown of white organza and swiss lace with a white flowers and pearl headpiece. and trailing ivy.



Sheila Eder, matron of honor, wore an empire gown of yellow flowered crepe and carried yellow carnations.

Marlene Boulter and Sandra Skinner, Ottawa, sisters of the bride were gowns similar to the matron of honor.

Ted Ellis attended the groom. Lansing Styles, Stirling, and Dave Craig were ushers.

After a dinner and dance held at the Frankford Legion, the couple left on a wedding trip to the east coast.

They will reside in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Doran

Doran — Cherry

Christ Church was the setting for the June 8 wedding of Janice Elizabeth Cherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cherry, and Terry Clare Doran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Doran. The ceremony was performed by Canon R.B. Wright and Florence Mullen, and organ music was provided by Don Cherry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved gown of empire style with a high neckline and sheer yoke, and a trifold, breezy organza trimmed with rows of lace flowers and seed pearls. The gown's embroidered hemline flowed into a chapel train. The Juliet headpiece trimmed with pearls held a long silk veil, and the bridal bouquet was of roses, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Linda Noakes served as maid of honor in a blue Swiss dot organza gown, which was backless and featured a shoulder cape. She carried yellow roses and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids, Gail Ann Ellis and Lori Ann Doran, the groom's sister, were dressed and carried nosegays like the maid of honor's.

The bride's cousin Lisa Ann Cherry was flower girl in a blue Swiss dot organza gown with a full gathered skirt and puffed sleeves. She carried a basket of yellow roses and baby's breath.

The groom's best man was his brother Larry Doran. The ushers were Richard Christie, the bride's brother and Garry Doyle.

After a dinner and dance at the Club Canara, the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in the Bahamas.

They reside now at 6 Johnson Street, Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson

Wilson — Kammer

St. Andrews' Presbyterian Church was the setting for the June 1 wedding of Judith Anne Kammer and James Earl Wilson. Rev. L. Sutherland performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kammer and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a satin finish gown with empire waist and high collar both trimmed with tear-drop pearls. The bodice was trimmed with Swiss double embroidered lace and beaded with pearls as well as the long chapel train trimmed with the same lace and pearl trim. The headpiece, lace and pearl trimmed, had double waist-length veil with scalloped lace edge. She carried a cascade of bridal pink roses, dark pink sweetheart roses, lily-of-the-valley and white baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Jill Blake, wore a dress in deep mauve polyester crepe with empire waist trimmed with white lace. The V-neckline also had a frill of white lace. Long sleeves with white lace trim ended frill. She wore a wide brim picture hat of white lace.

The bridesmaids Debbie Harris and Ronda Lee wore the same style of dresses in deep blue. All attendants carried white lace parasols filled with white daisies, pink variegated carnations, and baby's breath.

The junior bridesmaid Wendy Wilson wore a dress the color of the maid of honor.

The ring bearers Todd Lawson and Steven Wilson were nephews of the groom.

The best man was Bill McIver and the ushers Vern Harris and Steve Heslip.

A dinner and dance was held at the Shrine Club.

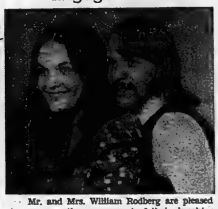
After their wedding trip to Florida the couple will reside at 1234 Victoria Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hamilton

Hamilton — MacDonald

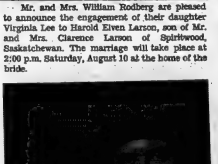
Trinity United Church, Verona, was the scene of the wedding of Sherry Elaine MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacDonald, Belleville and Neil Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, Sydney, Ont.

Rev. F.G. Barnes officiated. Given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Alan MacDonald, Toronto, due to the illness of her father, the bride wore a gown of crepe trimmed with lace. A chapel length veil fell from her ribbon and pearl headpiece. Shasta daisies and yellow mums made up her bouquet.



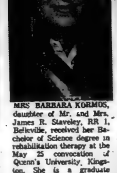
The bride was attended by Barbara Whelan, maid of honor who wore pink crepe and carried matching shasta daisies. Other attendants were bridesmaids Nancy Jane Gouge, Kingston, who wore blue and Janet Blake who wore yellow. Cassandra Cummings, Bay Ridge, nieces of the bride was attired in mauve. All of the attendants wore picture hats and carried matching flowers.

Freeman was Les McGowan of Godfrey, Ron Campbell of Godfrey and Bradley Cummings, the bride's nephew, were ushers.



After a dinner and dance at the Lion's Club, Verona, the couple left on a wedding trip to Prince Edward Island.

They will reside at 10 Macleod Crescent West, Amherstview.



Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. William Rodberg are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Virginia Lee to Harold Elven Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larson of Spiritwood, Saskatchewan. The marriage will take place at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, August 10 at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Joyce Candler wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter Linda Marlene to Stanley William Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks of RR 2, Trenton. The wedding will take place August 24 at 3:30 p.m. in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville.

MRS. BARBARA KORMOS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Sawsley, RR 1, Belleville, received her Bachelor of Science degree in rehabilitation therapy at the May 25 convocation of Queen's University, Kingston. She is a graduate RCHVS and has accepted a position at the Kingston Psychiatric Hospital.

Sees More Women MPs

HALIFAX (CP) — Jean Revey, president of the Women's Liberal Commission, says that within 10 years up to one-third of Canada's members of Parliament will be women. The commission was set up mainly to encourage women to become active politically.

Gift of Life - From the Kitchen

The cook in the kitchen is in the important position of being able to reduce the family's risk of heart disease. The Ontario Heart Foundation suggests that she, too, can give a gift — the gift of better health and longer life to her loved ones through improved eating habits.

This will call for some changes in daily meal planning. The aim should be to cut down on foods rich in animal (saturated) fats and cholesterol, which increase the level of cholesterol in the blood. High blood cholesterol has been linked to development of atherosclerosis, the disease which underlies most heart attacks.

To achieve this aim, the housewife can serve more meals of fish, chicken, veal and turkey and less beef, lamb, pork and ham. She can replace whole milk with skim milk, and hard cheese with cheese products made from skim milk. She also can cut down on the use of egg yolks, which are very high in cholesterol.

Instead of using butter for a spread, the housewife can serve the soft margarines that are rich in polyunsaturated fats.

Similarly, rather than use lard and other solid cooking fats, she can substitute the polyunsaturated vegetable oils. The latter can be used for example, to brown lean meats, or to fry fish and poultry; in cream sauces and soups made with skim milk; for making hot breads, pie crust and cakes; for making cocktail snacks and, in cooking dehydrated potatoes and other prepared foods which call for the addition of fats.

To round out her daily selection of foods for a balanced diet, the housewife also should include vegetables, fruit, breads, and cereals. In this way she can maintain good nutrition for her family, and at the same time help them to adopt new eating habits that are designed to protect their hearts.

The earlier the homemaker puts these recommendations into practice, the greater the assurance of many more happy days for all the family.

Further information and interesting recipes can be obtained from the Ontario Heart Foundation, 319 Davenport

JOANNE NANCY EDWARDS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Edwards, graduated from Edith Cavell School of Nursing on June 22. Joanne is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School and has accepted a position on the staff of Belleville General Hospital.

SUSAN ETHIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ethier, Point Anne, recently received her diploma in Animal Health Technology from St. Clair College, Windsor, Ont.

Colled Her Passion

LONDON (CP) — Sephen Kennedy decided his wife Eileen needed a cooling off when he saw her kissing a stranger at a party. He filled the bathtub with cold water and popped her in. But she resisted, Kennedy told a court, and before he knew it he had dealt her a right cross to the chin. He was granted bail of $120 pending a report by social workers. Meanwhile, Eileen has moved in with the stranger.

Convictions Make the Man

Dear Ann Landers: I want to congratulate the guy who signed himself "SOS" from Stoneybrook." He had the guts to say he couldn't believe in premarital sex and objected to the practices of his roommates.

"Did you score, tonight."

I'm an advocate of the feminist movement and am considered quite radical by today's standards. I too, am against premarital sex and let me confess, it's not easy to keep saying no. Contrary to what some people think, the one to his conviction, in spite or the maker.

"S.O.S." you are a real man. A male who can hang on to his convictions in spite of peer pressure, bragging and lying, has got to be first rate. I find you much more appealing than the guys with bedroom eyes who are always out for one thing.

They bore me. The social structure of America is changing. You are the new breed of man. Burns who are proud of scoring are fading fast.

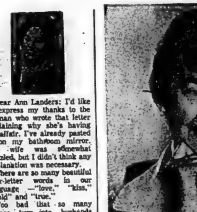
Hang in there, fella. Your approach to sex is beautiful and mature. You turn me on.

—Tomorrow's Woman.

Dear Woman: Don't get too turned on or you'll be heading in a direction that contradicts your basic philosophy.

As your letter indicates, most unskilled are saying "no" these days because they resent being used as playthings for swingers. So far as I'm concerned, it's a very good reason indeed.

MORE



Dear Ann: I just finished reading the letter from the guy who thought he was crowing your ear off about the campaign against smoking. I know how she feels. A few months ago I would have blown my top at the foolish things he said about smoking two packs a day since I was 14. I'm 20 now.

I finally got smart and dull out of the blue. Cold turkey. It's the only way. Any person who says he or she enjoys smoking is either lying or crazy. Who can enjoy that rotten taste in the mouth, the stains on the teeth and hands, the holes they burn in things — to say noting of the cost of the damned habit! People say they enjoy it because they are ashamed to admit they are too weak to quit.

I feel like a million since I gave up those filthy things. It's great to be able to walk up a hill or a flight of steps without turning purple. It's a joy to wake up in the morning and not cough my fool head off.

Try it, you tobacco fiends. You'll like it. Lung Power.

Dear L.: I hope somebody out there does try it. Even one less addict polluting the air would be a plus for our side. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to express my thanks to the woman who wrote that letter explaining why she's having an affair. I've already pasted it on bathroom mirror. My wife was somewhat puzzled, but I didn't think any explanation was necessary.

There are many beautiful four-letter words in our language, such as "kiss," "hold" and "true."

Too bad that so many lovers turn into husbands after they are married. Blame on both sides, perhaps.

—San Francisco Tomcat.

Dear Tom: If you are one of those hub—ell who has turned into a lover, I hope you'll consider him on-sale-ing. Your letter sounds like a cry for help and I'll bet if you asked your wife to meet you halfway, she'd come running. Try it.

Halifax Woman Lawyer Becomes City Manager

HALIFAX (CP) — One reason Gordon Conrod became city manager of Halifax was that her husband didn't.

Not that Mrs. Conrod, an associate professor of business administration at Dalhousie University, was rejected. Despite his wife's urging, he didn't apply.

"I encouraged him to, because I knew well qualified for the job," Mrs. Clube said a week after becoming the top appointed civic executive and the first woman in Canada to be hold such a position.

The 42-year-old lawyer and mother of three did not lack qualifications herself. For the last 9½ years she has been senior solicitor with the city, leaving a key partnership to become a civil servant.

Pragmatic, intelligent, energetic, she earned a reputation that made her selection popular in city hall.

What was the reaction to appointment?

"All very positive, perhaps surprisingly so," she said. "I think it would be quite difficult to find anyone for an outside to come in and suddenly gain an appreciation for and understanding of the city's problems."

Mrs. Clube reciprocates the admiration of city hall.

"Gordon Conrad is served by an excellent group of people. We have many well-qualified and dedicated individuals who really care about the city."

The vacancy arose when Cyril Wimbolt resigned to take a job in Ontario. For six months, Art Conrad, one of the Halifax board of education, was acting city manager and considered the likely permanent choice.

But Mr. Conrad decided against it. After a year as an engendered considerable public discussion, Mrs. Clube was chosen.

The new city manager, a native of Otters, graduated from Dalhousie law school in 1955, and promptly took 10 years off to become a full-time mother. The family now have a 20-year-old son, an 18-year-old daughter who is university student, and two other sons, 16 and 7.

Does she think motherhood is a handicap in her job?

"No. Any woman can, with training and experience, cope with the co-operation of her husband—continue to have a good family relationship. Both husband and wife must give up some things, make some sacrifices, but for us it is working out very well."

She has no full-time household help. But her husband helps with housework.

"He also offers some very valuable advice in terms of my job."

In metropolitan Halifax development is a major issue and she said she feels closed meetings are often unnecessary and even damaging. Excessive influence may be exerted by special-interest groups when public meetings and whenever possible people should know what can be developed and where.

She said a degree of backlash has developed against citizen pressure groups because "they are still at the criticism level."

Many citizens are "still new to themselves" and reacting relatively to proposals instead of offering constructive comment.

Fashion Award Given For Classic Elegance

NEW YORK (AP) — Designer Ralph Lauren was named as the 1974 winner of the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award, the Oscar of the United States fashion world.

A panel of 450 fashion writers also voted to elevate previous Winnie winners, Halston and Geoffrey Beene, to the fashion critics' Hall of Fame.

Lauren, 34, was cited for women's wear with classic, timeless styles, perfect and understated elegance. In the early 1970s his designs provided the first exciting alternative to often bizarre styles of the rich hippie trend. Last year's awards announcement said.

He began his fashion career designing ties in the late 1960s and recently created the clothes worn in the film The Great Gatsby.

Tyler Wimbolt has been presented for 22 years to American fashion designers for significant influence on American dress.

Last year it turned out the millinery classic of the 1960s, the pillbox hat, favored by Jacqueline Kennedy.

Others who had studied medicine before turning to fashion, designs easy, casual clothes.

Alberta's First Lady

Isabel Steinhauer, wife of Ralph Steinhauer, a full-blooded Cree recently established as Alberta's 10th lieutenant-governor, says

The Experts Say

Vacation Precautions Do Prevent Break-ins

OTTAWA (CP) — Before going on vacation, home owners should notify a neighbor, not their local police force, about their holiday plans, many police officials advise.

Most police forces have distributed the practice of regular checks on empty houses, citing lack of time and manpower.

Police Chief E. G. Wersch of Nepean, an Ottawa suburb, says the new policy "creates a better situation" because it places greater responsibility on home owners.

In past years, Chief Wersch said, absent residents often neglected, for example, to cancel newspaper subscriptions or mail deliveries, thinking their local policeman would be around to tuck them inside the door. With the added work imposed by a growing population "we simply do not have time" to perform these functions, he said.

Where the policy has been discontinued, police report home owners are more careful to secure their homes and take other precautions.

Despite this, the federal department of consumer affairs says the number of house break-ins increased "substantially" last year. On the other hand, some Ottawa-area police forces say break-ins are on the decrease—in Ottawa, for example—although increasing in others, among them suburban Gloucester township.

Police chiefs seem agreed on the value of the "operation identification" program, which they hail as the most effective way to deter would-be thieves.

The program, run in many areas by local insurance agents, provides the free loan of an electric engraving pencil with which owners can mark valuable articles with their social insurance numbers.

The theory is that marking makes it more difficult for thieves to dispose of stolen articles and easier for the owner to identify them. Market also causes problems for a thief who, when checked by police, is in possession of goods with someone else's social insurance number.

Both the consumer affairs department and the police suggest home owners get a neighbor to park his car in the driveway, leave plenty of lights on, or use an electrical timer to turn lights off and on at intervals.

They say a single light burning continuously in a bedroom or hallway is more likely to attract a thief than scare him off.

There is no sure protection against thieves, the consumer affairs department says, but a bit of camouflage plus cooperation from neighbors, and in some cases, the police, make it more likely you will return from vacation to find your possessions intact.

Successful Living

Nurse's Aide Loves Old People

By DORIS CLARKE ...

Dear Doris: I work at a nursing home as a nurse's aide and I have started to do "Activities" for our elderly residents of Sundays. I'm far from being an expert but do care for one of dozen old people.

Over the years these elderly have been a source of pure people used to be around me of you, and I enjoy working with these elderly. This "Activity" period is something new that our administrator has asked me to do. So my little hints or ideas I would appreciate very much.

Mary Mak's book, "Mrs. Mother? He's Old and Confused" sounds as if it would be a wonderful help.

Loving The Elderly.

Dear Loving: Could you give us some idea of just what you are doing in the way of activities? In some nursing homes there are nurses who long to be helpful but who need the initiative ideas and actual knowledge of how people like you are going about getting their patients interested in creative things. What you tell us might be of considerable help to someone else.

I am sending you the details with regard to getting a copy of Mary Judd's book. She writes with great sympathy and has fine ideas.

Dear Doris: Thanks for "Parking me" quite a "Surprise! Admire your amazing talent of getting to much into such small space.

I have many tasks in my head and also a write-up of family history back to the

In Northern Ireland. These were the days of public hangings and "body snatchers". A wake was held for the body of a great uncle of my father's because he was a hanging victim. He was cut from his horse on a visit during the night, to a patient. He was killed.

The body snatchers would be well paid for his body as colleges wished to study the brain, so decomposed before burial.

I.W.

Dear I.W.: I gather the colleges were weighed at any question of where such bodies came from? They must have been desperate for the knowledge our young folk can acquire with ease!

You are the lady who sent us those fascinating lines when I started: "If you have a kindness shown, pass it on!" Come again.

Dear Doris: You have asked to hear from people who have quit smoking. Well, I've had three years ago.

My husband and I smoked two to four packs a day each. There is no easy way but I can offer this consolation — the worst is over after three days.

We have not gained any weight and we truly feel so much better.

Ann C.

Dear Ann: Good news! I found that the first week end was the hardest, then as one day : followed another. It became a game with me to see how many more days I could go — or without the blankety-blank would be quite soon. I became pretty strong, and now I haven't had one single drag in 20 years. I'm not admit I made natural false starts at stopping before the no-smokers-at-all habit really took hold.)

And I hate to see anyone else take up the dreadful anyone who is dear to me.

From Farmer's Wife To Alberta Dignitary

EDMONTON (CP) — Isabel Steinhauer performed the countless chores of an Alberta farm wife, then boarded long raw and blistered from trying to coax water out of an old farm pump.

She taught in a little country school house and experienced the uncertainty of a white woman entering an Indian world on the Saddle Lake Reserve in northeastern Alberta.

She entered July 2 a new phase in her full, satisfying life—as the wife of Ralph Steinhauer, the province's 10th lieutenant-governor.

"I was born a Yankee but I was really brought up with a Scottish background," said Mrs. Steinhauer, born Isabel Davidson in Buffalo, N.Y., on Dec. 22, 1906.

"My mother was from Scotland. I was two years old when my father died and I'll when we left for Edmonton."

The long journey, in a pony . . . and they lived right in the city. I remember seeing the wooden sidewalks."

She started school in Edmonton for four years, then moved back to her father's farm at Sedgewick. "My father tried to communicate the three Is to me—Indians, Grades 1 through 4 at Vilna, a small village near Edmonton.

"I never had such a hard year in my life. A lot of the children were Ukrainian and couldn't speak English, and as many Indian children do. The curriculum wasn't really geared to their problems. It was very difficult."

During that difficult year, 1927, she met Ralph Steinhauer. The first time she can recall seeing him was when he was hauling out mail in the post office-general store. You know what a country store is like . . . the mail comes and everyone gathers around."

In 1928, she married Mr. Steinhauer and later moved to a small farm in the Two Hills area.

"The beginnings were simple—their first bedroom was a tent set up near a granary, with the latter used as a kitchen.

"I raised chickens, milked cows, fed pigs ... even got on the tractor sometimes.

"Now it's all done by electricity and we haven't any more chickens or pigs. But there's still a lot of work to be done.

During 46 years of marriage, much of her work revolved around raising a family of five children.

Mrs. Steinhauer's entry into the Indian settlement at Saddle Lake was not easy.

"It was a slow process when I first came to the reserve. Native people are quite slow to accept outsiders. You have to earn their trust."

As for the future, as the wife of Canada's first Indian lieutenant-governor, Mrs. Steinhauer is a full blooded Cree Mrs. Steinhauer says:

"We're going to try to remain ourselves. And, I don't think that will change at our age.

"It's always been a partnership with us. I hope it's only two more years. If we can live through it. I'll help my husband as much as I can."

Walker's Department Store Saved by Sprinkler System

Fire struck once more on Front Street early this morning setting off the sprinkler system in the basement of Walker's Department store and causing some smoke and water damage.

Shortly after 9 a.m. Hank Fryters, the interior designer for Walker's Store, entered the building at 270 Front Street to find clouds of smoke billowing out of the basement. He and a stock clerk, Herbert Gaicun, rushed to the back basement stairs and found smoke issuing from a section of the wall that separated a bedding storage area from a maintenance room.

"The smoke was so thick we couldn't see any flames", Mr. Fryters said.

By the time Mr. Fryters had called the fire department to inform them of the fire, firefighters were already on their way to the scene.

Walker's is one of the two stores on Front Street to have a sprinkler fire alarm system that is connected to the Bellerville firehall.

By the time fourteen arrived at the scene, the sprinkler system in the basement had managed to quench the blaze which burnt a hole through a fibreboard wall and damaged a pile of pillows and bedding.

Fire Chief Leo Culhane said that the fire, that charred some beams that ran the length of the basement could have been "very serious" if it had not been for the sprinkler system.

"If it hadn't been for that sprinkler system, we could very easily have had another $200,000 fire," the chief said.

At present firefighters don't know what caused the fire.

Friday morning's fire was the second in less than two weeks to damage Walker's Store. On July 1, the building that housed the Shana Fashion Boutique next door was destroyed by fire causing extensive smoke and water damage to Walker's.

Driver Flees As Car Burns

Police are looking for the driver of a car that crashed into a fire hydrant and burst into flames early this morning.

Shortly after 2 a.m. an unknown driver backed his 1972 Mazda car into a fire hydrant at the corner of Dundas Street East and Fraser Ave. here. The car burst into flames after the gas tank was punctured and was completely destroyed.

Police are looking for the driver, who reportedly fled from the scene after the accident.

A witness to the accident told police that the driver told him "to mind his own business" before running away.

Police say that the car's ownership has been traced to a man who lives in Cobourg, 25 miles west of here, but they have been unable to locate either the owner or the driver.

Province's Disaster Aid Has Strings Attached

Tweed today is recovering from the wildest windstorm that tore through its heart Tuesday night. But like Brighton a year ago almost to the day, that small community is frustrated with provincial red tape and, disaster area or not, is likely Tweed council will turn its back on the scant provincial aid available.

Tweed and Hungerford Township officials met with a representative of the premier's ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernm ental affairs Thursday and decided the Queen's Park emissary had wasted his time coming. After hearing the guidelines that govern provincial relief spending.

While the 50-80 mile-an-hour winds lasted only 15 minutes, heavy damage was suffered by the village — the majority of this damage consisting of no fallen trees and the village's power network, wiped out during the gale.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen said bluntly the ministry official Lloyd Dupas, had "wasted his time coming," after he said the program was designed for "basic shelter needs" and would not cover either the trees or the power lines, both areas were termed "most serious problems at hand," by the reeve.

Despite this, he said the guidelines were very generous and "not as rigid as you might expect." The guidelines — relatively unchanged in the past year — were sufficiently rigid for Brighton that that community raised its own money and spent it where it pleased — restoring personal property, providing deductible clauses in home insurance policies, replacing television aerials and still had enough left over to build a new park.

Reeve Allen said the Intelligencer it was likely that "the village would to it on its own," following Dupas's lead.

The government matches locally-raised funds dollar for dollar and governs all funds to cover "essentials only."

Mr. Dupas stressed, "it must be a widespread disaster beyond the municipality's capability to cope with it."

"Right on," called Reeve Allen.

John Clemens, village councillor and insurance adjuster responsible for total damage estimate said, "The municipality won't put one cent compensation for the thousands of dollars of uninsured property."

Councillor Clemens, chairman of Tweed's finance committee, said "we could absorb the cleanup but there are no funds for the restoration of the public utilities equipment."

Ontario Hydro moved into the disaster area quickly Tuesday night, restoring power to most of the village with some areas still blacked out Thursday. The work still has to be paid for "— and we don't want to have to triple the power rates to do it," said Councillor Clemens.

Seasoned member of the legislature for Hastings, Clarke Rollins — after sitting quietly for the early discussions — said "there are other possibilities."

Mr. Rollins — while absent from the room was credited by Reeve Allen as "having more connection than Bell Telephone."

After slipping out to make a call to Kingston, Mr. Rollins returned to tell this paper he had contacted the ministry of transportation and that "if approved, a special supplementary bylaw could include cleanup in provincial roads subsidies to Tweed, putting the bill for cleanup in half."

Mr. Rollins said he wanted this "played low key and that he would assist the community in every way possible.

"I may do it in 4 completely different way than other members," he said.

As far as hydro goes, "I'm completely at a loss at this time," the member said.

"We'll take it one step at a time."

Mr. Dupas said he was "almost sure there was no place for assistance in the replacement of power lines."

For the time being the community has set up a fund subscription and its outcome will determine" how much independence council will have in restoring the village.

CJBQ to Beam From Bancroft

BANCROFT — Construction is expected to begin immediately on the recently approved radio station for this community.

The Caledonia Broadcasting and Television Commission contacted Belleville's CJBQ administration Thursday, giving their nod to the off-shoot service. CJBQ is expected to begin broadcasting in November.

Frank Morray, CJBQ station manager said the new station would carry much of the Belleville station's programming through a microwave hop transmission. A committee of Bancroft's Chamber of Commerce is also meeting with station officials to organize local programming.

The new station will broadcast at 1,000 watts daytime and 250 nightime, serving a 30 - mile radius. Approval is still being sought for call letters CJNU — CJ (number station) and NH designating north Hastings.

Another Front Street Fire

Fire broke out on Front Street for the third time in less than two weeks early this morning. Shortly after 9 a.m. firefighters were called to a fire in the basement of Walker's Store at 270 Front Street. Here, Fire Chief Leo Culhane talks to the men who discovered the fire, Hank Fryters and Robert Gaicun, two Walker's employees. A sprinkler system put the fire out and restricted the damage to a small section of wall and a number of pillows and blankets. Firefighters are not yet certain what caused the blaze.

Ad Protest Dropped

George Cunningham defeated Liberal candidate in Prince Edward-Hastings said Thursday he was dropping any action over a Conservative newspaper advertisement on election day.

Monday night, Mr. Cunningham charged the Conservative party in the riding with a breach of the Election Act because it ran an advertisement in a local paper on voting day.

Mr. Cunningham lost the election to Conservative George Hees by about 7,000 votes.

Mr. Cunningham said he has since been advised by the Liberal Ontario campaign headquarters that advertising is banned on radio and television immediately prior to the election, but not specifically prohibited in newspapers.

Party legal advisors felt a "normal interpretation" of the act would also apply to newspaper advertising and Liberal candidates had been advised against buying such publicity election day, he said.

But they also felt the Hees advertisement made "no gress difference" in the voting result in the riding said Mr. Cunningham.

As a result, he now intends to "drop the whole matter."

Injured Woman's Husband 'Bitter'

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Bitterness is replacing anguish, for one Tweed resident, Norm Kelly in the aftermath of his family's Tuesday night ordeal, trapped in a tent trailer beneath the boughs of a fallen tree.

His family of four girls, a son, his wife and a young man were huddling in a borrowed camper when 50 mile-an-hour winds sent a 30-foot tree tearing through the canvas roof, during the Tweed windstorm.

All eight people were evacuated and sent to Belleville General Hospital, some 30 miles away.

Mrs. Kelly and a daughter were kept in hospital for serious injuries. The daughter suffering a concussion, was later released but Mrs. Kelly remains in hospital with severe back injuries that allow her little movement. She remained on the hospital's critical list for 36 hours following the storm.

Though Tweed responded to the Kelly family's disaster by providing free cottage accommodation indefinitely, Mr. Kelly says he is getting "the runaround" in settling his one-night's financial losses, estimated at more than $1,200.

"Nobody will give me any answers and I'm bitter about it," he said.

About the damages and compensation, "the municipality won't give us a commitment," said Mr. Kelly.

Tweed reeve Barbara Allen tells us to go to the insurance company and the insurance company tells us to go to the municipality."

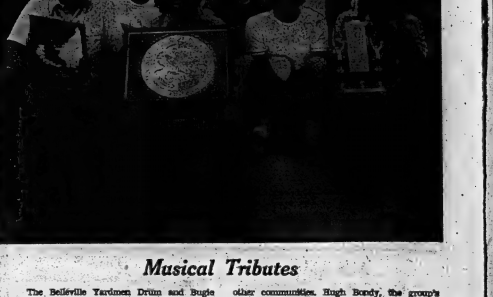
In the meantime, Mr. Kelly was told by the insurance company that had the trailer been booked to his car his comprehensive insurance would cover the loss.

Because he is paying to park in the trailer area, park administration should assume liability, he was told by his insurance adjuster. The park is run by the municipality.

"It's just a pass-the-buck deal," he said. "I don't like this and I'm very bitter."

Until his wife is allowed to leave hospital Mr. Kelly feels he is compelled to remain close by — but this means taking more financial losses by taking time off work.

After visiting with his wife Thursday, Mr. Kelly said If I don't get some answers, I'll turn it over to a lawyer."

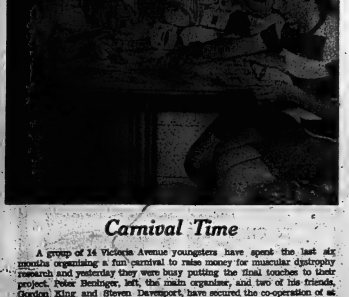


Accordionists Pass Exams

The Canadian Accordion Teachers' Association has released the names of successful candidates in examinations held recently in Belleville.

They are: grade 3, Rick Folwarczny, Janice Chisholm and Debbie Pavlachy; grade 4, Bruce Wright, Joyce Kubel, Esther Schad and Paul Sommers; grade 5, Carl Huffman, Nancy Post, Loretto Beninger and Mark Grieve; grade 6, Louise Beninger; grade 7, Lee Prentice and grade 8, Oscar Neapoli.

No Hope in Sight



Mrs. Joan Kelly is still in hospital Friday and will remain in bed until "we are sure she's stable," a hospital policeman said. Her husband, Norm Kelly sits at her bedside and says he is "embittered" at the runaround he is getting in settling Tuesday night's financial losses when a 30-foot tree came tearing through the family's tent trailer. Mrs. Kelly was struck by the tree and sustained "serious neck and back injuries," according to her husband.

Leg Broken In Collision

FRITON — An Otto motorcyclist suffered a double fracture of the left leg in a collision on Highway 33 in Wellington Thursday at 5.10 p.m.

A car driven by Elwood Crook, 74, of Bloomfield was making a left turn when it collided with the motorcycle driven by Robert Spencer, 31, of Ohio. Mr. Spencer was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Belleville General Hospital for surgery.

Carnival Time

A group of 14 Victoria Avenue youngsters have spent the last six months organizing a fun carnival to raise money for muscular dystrophy research and yesterday they were busy putting the final touches to their project. Peter Beninger, left, the main organizer, and two of his friends, Gordon King and Steven Davenport, have secured the co-operation of as many as 27 businesses in Belleville for their carnival Saturday afternoon. The carnival will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at 392 Victoria Avenue. Here the boys prepare just some of the prizes that have been donated for the carnival.

Musical Tributes

The Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps returned recently from an eight-day tour of Ontario and the United States. While there they placed fifth in one competition in Dunkirk, N.Y. and received memento s of their visit from other communities. Hugh Brady, the group's organizer, sits at left, while next to him sit corps members Mike Lynch, John Webster and John Tracey. In the back are Ed Keuning and Dave Pollard.

It's Murcer Weather

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just call Bobby Murcer one of the "Sunshine Boys."

"I like warm weather," the New York Yankee outfielder explains. "I just can't play in cold weather."

The summer has brought out the best in Murcer, and he continued to match the climate with a hot bat Thursday night that led a 2-1 victory over Kansas City Royals.

"This happens to me every year," Murcer noted. "I can't explain it.

"I have a rough time part of the season, then I get hot and it's over."

Murcer personally provided all of the Yankee scoring, doubling home a run and coming in with another on a grounder to help George Medich beat his 10th American League baseball victory this year.

In the other American League games Thursday night, Boston Red Sox defeated Texas Rangers 13-3 Minnesota Twins beat Cleveland Indians 5-2 and Chicago White Sox topped Detroit Tigers 4-3.

In the National League, Cincinnati Reds trimmed Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings in the only game.

George (Doc) Medich allowed seven hits to gain the victory for the Yankees who have won seven of their last eight games.

Medich, 10-7, yielded four of the Royals' hits in the first two innings. Then didn't give up another bit until Slim Wilford singled with one out in the seventh.

Nelson Briles, 1-3, started for the Royals and left in the sixth after walking Murcer and "giving up a single to Blomberg with nobody out. Steve Mingori relieved Briles and retired the Yankees in order, two on strikeouts.

Rick Miller and Rico Petrocelli hit two-run homers and knocked in three runs apiece, leading a 15-hit Boston attack that gave Red Sox an easy victory over Texas.

Bill Lee, 10-7, scattered four hits while the Red Sox pounded Texas starter Steve Hargan, 7-8, and reliever Don Stanhouse.

Peterborough And Oshawa In High Gear

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough PCO's, led by Jim Johnston's six goals, downed Belleville Bobcats 16-13 in Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A action Thursday night.

In the only other league game, Oshawa Green Gaels defeated Lakeshore Maple Leafs 11-7.

At Peterborough, Bob Wasson had four goals and Paul Dunkin and Mark Vitarelli added three goals each.

Dan Green and Steve Phillpott had two Peterborough goals each and Brian Evans, Donald Floyd, Gord Duncan, Ken Byers, Randy Ryan and Jim Gow added single goals.

Bob Burke had five goals for Bamales and Ken Webster scored three.

Ian Robbins added two Bramales goals while Terry Mastine and Jay Doggett had two each.

At Oshawa, Stan Cockerton's five goals led Oshawa to victory. Dave Pilachek added four goals for the Green Gaels and Claude Dixotel had three.

Ron Macdonald had two Oshawa goals and Paul Lang, Don Spencer, Bill Peck, Jim Heflin, Jeff Mason, Pat Mackwood and Murray Evans added one each.

Garry Prefach had three goals for Lakeshore, Ted Hopkins had two and Mike Butler and Rick Dixon had one each.

Oshawa outshot Lakeshore 54-41.

In today's games, Mississauga takes on the Peterborough combine and Peterborough travels to St. Catharines.

Takes Five-stroke Lead

Player Defies the Wind

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — Gary Player, sibling on a five-strokes lead in his bid for a third British open golf title, prayed today for a big wind.

"Let it blow," said the South African as a scaled-down field of 82 went into the third round of the £302,250 Royal Lytham and St. Anne's course.

"I enjoy it when it blows," he said. "Wind is part of the British Open."

"It is an examination, and it took me a long time to pass the examination. Eighty per cent of the fellows out there have not passed the test."

It was no idle boasting, either. Player tamed the wind, the sandy wastes and the bowl that trap inaccurate shotmakers to shoot a 68 Thursday for a two-round total of 137, five under par.

Another South African, Bobby Cole, shared second place with Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, both at par 142.

It has been years since anybody had such a big lead at the halfway point in the 114-year-old event.

America's leading challengers were strung out behind. Dave Edwards, a rookie pro from Edmond, Okla., was in fourth place at 143. Defending champion Tom Weiskopf had a 144 along with Lanny Wadkins of Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, who started out as the tourney favorite, was at 146.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf both said they still had hopes of leading the field.

"Strokes change rapidly on a course like this and in conditions like these," Nicklaus said.

"It all depends on Gary. If he slips a little bit, it's anybody's ball game."

Weiskopf, with seven strokes to make up, said: "Even with one round to play, you can win from that position. Anything could happen yet."

Player was one of the few players in the field of more than 150 who managed pars Thursday on both the 15th and 17th holes, which torment every golfer with their narrow fairways, bunkers and sandtraps.

"If you get into the trouble there, it's a double bogey," Player said.

The way Player is going, it will take a miracle finish to deprive him of the crown which he won in 1959 and 1968.

Some challengers who threatened to close in on him Thursday came apart on the fourth nine.

Liang was on par after a steady run of 11 par holes. But he bogeyed the grim 18th and 17th and finished seven behind Player.

Connors and Rosewall In Wimbledon Replay

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jimmy Connors repeated his triumph at Wimbledon when he defeated Ken Rosewall 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 to win the Pacific Coast Championships.

However, Rosewall's Pitts burgh Triangles came back to take a 26-23 triumph over Connors' Jacksonville Sharks.

Connors beat the Australian veteran in the first week of the men's singles title at Wimbledon.

In other games, New York Sets handed Toronto Staff Aces their 14th straight defeat, winning 23-21; Philadelphia Freedoms whipped Cleveland Nets 32-20; Chicago Aces defeated Los Angeles 29-24; and Denver Racquets beat Boston Lobsters 25-15.

Toronto-Buffalo defeat left the Royals in last place in the Central section of the Eastern Division. 18 games behind Cleveland. Their record is 7-15 record.

Connors and Bob Carmichael defeated Rosewall and Gerald Battrick 6-3 in men's doubles in the crucial final match. Carmichael and Betsy Stove beat Battrick and Peggy Michel 6-4 in mixed doubles.

Connors defeated the Royals when Niki Pilic and Pancho Gonzales won in mixed doubles.

Pilic and Teegarden took a 6-4 triumph over Mike Estep and Wendy Overton to snap a 17-17 tie.

Virginia Wade of the Sets defeated Jan O'Neill 6-3 in a women's singles match and teamed with Miss Teegarden to beat Miss Overton and Laura Dupont 6-3, 6-3 in women's doubles.

Tak Okker of the Royals beat Sandy Mayer 6-1 in men's singles and teamed with Estep to defeat Mayer and Wilding 7-6, 6-4 in doubles.

Miss Billie Jean King won the women's singles, 6-2 over Nancy Gunter, and all three Philadelphia doubles teams won to sport the Freedoms.

The Aces were led by Sue Stap who defeated Virginia Cox 6-4.

Andy Pattison's 6-1 win over Bruce Taylor led the Racquets.

Pattison came back to team with Dennis Ralston playing coach Tony Roche to down Ian Tiriac and Raz Reid 6-4 in the men's doubles.

Try, Try Again Is Doig's Motto

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — Ken Doig, a 46-year-old woodsman from Seaforth, may never win the Ontario amateur golf championship. But it won't be for lack of trying.

Doig, who has competed in the Ontario Golf Association event the last 12 years, has yet to win. His chances brightened Thursday, however, when he fired an 8-over-par 79 for a 162 total going into today's final round of the 54-hole event.

That score left him one stroke off the leader, three-time winner Gary Cowan of Kitchener, who slipped to a 73 Thursday for a 161 total.

Doig carried the best outgoing nine of the championship to date — a two-under 35 — and threatened to grab at least a share of the lead until he bogeyed the 18th hole, a par-4 rating of 441 yards.

Mike Richards of Toronto Bayview, tied in second place after the first day with Brampton's Shu Hamilton, slipped to a 72 but held third with a 164 total, one better than veteran Gerry Kesseberg of Kitchener Rockway.

Defending champion Kelly Roberts of London Sunningdale, 32 firing a 74, was in a group at 166 with Hamilton, 75, and Glen Robison of Toronto, 79.

Roberts, trying to make it three Ontario titles in a row, was downcast after making the turn on his front nine two over par.

"I was constantly making bad shots, especially on the greens. Every one seems different. I have to do something to get going."

Cowan, meanwhile, lost touch with the putter that earned him an opening 69 Wednesday.

"I hit the ball badly, had a scrambly round and was lucky my game didn't get away from me," said the young insurance executive. "I just tried to keep the score respectable."

While he commented on the placement of his after Wednesday's round, Cowan got upset Thursday when one of the threesome ahead of his group lost a ball on the fifth hole and held up play.

After complaining to officials about the delay, he blasted his tee shot into the trees.

The field was cut to 63 for today's final round. A sudden-death playoff will be held in the event of a tie.

3 Seconds from Win, Canada Nipped 75-74

SAN JUAN, Puerto RICO (AFP) — Brazilian defender Washington Joseph lobbed in a brilliant shot from 15 yards out three seconds from the end of the game to snatch a 75-74 victory over Canada in the world basketball championships Thursday.

The last 33 seconds of the match were tense as both sides scrapped for the ball.

Brazil led 38-38 at half time but had to fight off a Canadian comeback from Canada after the break.

In another game, the Soviet Union reached the semi-finals. Russians, now with a 3-1 record in the final round, led 41-36 at the half.

Canada has a win and two defeats and meets Yugoslavia today.

The last second game of the Canada-Brazil game today.

Thirty-three seconds to go: Canadian defender Bill Robinson noted a free shot to tie the score 72-72.

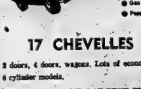
Twenty seven seconds: ANEF a foul by Canada's Michael Moser, Brazilian defender Milton Barros scored on the free throw but missed the second to make it 73-72.

Eleven seconds: Robinson drifted past two Brazilians to score and put Canada ahead again 74-72.

Three seconds: Joseph scored the winning two points.

Robinson led the Canadians with 27 points while Wallace Russell added 14 and Lars Hansen and Ken McKenzie 10 each. Ubiratan Maciel coordinated eight points.

Canada almost pulled the game but at the end, when McKenzie picked up a rebound and put the ball in the basket. For several moments, Canadian supporters celebrated the victory in the centre of the court only to see the official blunderpoint rule that time had run out before McKenzie go of his shot.



Ontario Tops Quebec

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Fernier, Jane Kirkpatrick defeated Quebec's Lise Thouin-Day in women's golf challenge competition at Toronto Golf Club.

In the tournament, called the Ontario-Quebec challenge match, Ontario won 9.5 to 2.5 in the morning and 2.5 to 6.5 in the afternoon.

The first match involved two women from each province with the better ball winning the hole. The second contest was also two-against-two but the players had to alternate shots with the same ball.

Ontario's representatives were Mrs. Mickwee, Ann Bailey, Lis Hoffman, Cheryl Gibb, Pam Mackey, Lis Glen.

Howard and Robert Closing in on First

Howard and Robert Printing are closing fast on Rollins Construction in the race for first place in the Quinte Fastball League, coming to within four points of the spot last night, with a 6-0 shutlacking of Devolin Motors in the second game of the twinbill. It was the sixth victory in a row for the Printers.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Auger Men's Wear took an important win from the Ellis Juniors, 2-0.

The win for Hoggard and Robert gives them 22 points, as ten wins and a pair of ties in 16 tries. Rollins has a 13-3 record.

The shutout of the Motormen was the fifth in the past six matches for the Printers, with the only run in the stretch picked up by Rollins.

Bob Ehler was on the mound once again for the Printers, with the stocky left-hander recording his fifth victory in the string. He left 14 men watching third strides, while not issuing a base on balls in the game. Devolin pitcher could manage only four hits, a triple and three singles.

Ron Hill was the victim this time in the H and R charge for first, taking the brunt of an 11 hit attack. The lefthander on the Motormen's staff struck out four and walked one in taking the loss.

Terry Pope was the 'big slinger' for the Printers, connecting for a third inning inside the park home run, accounting for three runs, and a seventh inning run producing triple.

Ken Genereaux and Larry Polzer were each good for three singles in the win, with Jack Hughes, Wayne Woods, and Bob Parsons each adding one base hit.

Rick Rosebush had a bottom of the seventh inning triple, but was thrown out at the plate trying to scratch it into a four bagger. Other hits, all singles, went to Bruce Sickle, Terry Meagher, and Rick Watt.

The loss was the 10th of the year for the Motormen, against six wins, leaving them in fifth place in the league, two points behind the Ellis Juniors, who hold down the fourth and final playoff spot.

The Juniors had their chance to pull two more ahead of Devolin, and into a third place tie with Auger's, but saw it slip away with the loss to the Trenton squad.

Auger's made use of a two run rally in the sixth inning, starting with an unearned run to take the win. Junior secondbaseman Gerry Dendino booted a ball after a base hit by Jim Clement, allowing Clement to eventually score. Larry Mawby was doubled in earlier by George Ferguson.

Bob Richardson started on the Auger mound, lasting only one inning. He struck out one batter in the inning, surrendering one hit. Ferguson fired the last six innings allowing five hits. He fanned 13, while not issuing a base on balls.

Gerry McMurray took the loss for the Juniors, allowing only six hits. He fanned five and walked only one in the stint, taking his third loss of the season against two wins.

Mawby had a double and single to pace the winners' attack, with Clement stroking two base hits. Ferguson had a double, with Jack Jury adding a safety.

For the Juniors, it was Steve Campbell, Jim Richardson, Peter Sandwell, and Ken Vos each contributing singles.

Goalkeeper Turned Boxer?

Two of the handier weapons in a soccer goalkeeper's arsenal are his fists. While he's not permitted to deck onrushing forwards with a Sunday punch, the goalie finds a well-aimed shot with a fist is a perfect way to clear the ball. Whitby Insurance goalie Terry Hore demonstrates the art over the camera angle makes it appear he may also be putting the slug on Golden Mile and Olympics forward during Trenton team's 4-2 SOSA win Thursday at OSD.

Lenders Make the Most Of Sheridan's Two-hitter

Behind the solid, two-hit pitching of Mark Sheridan, the Quinte Lenders dumped Black Diamond 3-1 in Industrial Softball League play last night.

Sheridan left 12 men standing at the plate on third strikes, walking only two in fashioning his two-hitter. Ralph Francis and Ron Bateman shared the loss for Black Diamond, allowing five hits. They fanned three and walked the others.

Cliff Hineman stroked a double and single for the winners, with Bob Lloyd, Fred Jones and Dennis VanDelen adding singles.

Jack Fleming punched a triple for the losers, with Glen Francis adding a base hit.

In a 4-1 Prince Charles, UIC jumped on Canadian Tire starter Allan Belch for eight runs on six hits and nine walks with only as they defeated the Tweeners 15-1.

John French came on to pitch the rest of the game for Canadian Tire, giving up seven runs on 14 more hits, while issuing the UIC total to 20.

Joe Scanlan went six and one-third innings for the UIC, picking up the win. He struck out five and walked seven, Joe Clark finished the game, allowing one hit, walking two.

Scanlan paced the barrage with a home run, double, and two singles, with Bill Healey also stroking a four bagger and adding a double. Clark had a double and two base hits with Ron Jury collecting three singles. Mike Tervit and Brian Birney each had doubles, while Dave Eldridge and Dale Ducarme bagged two hits for the UIC. Al Walker had a lone single to round out the attack.

Ken Trice had a triple for the Tweeners, with Al Trenweth and Bill Wilson collecting two singles each.

Too Much Roznik

OSHAWA (Special) — Take away Bobby Roznik's 21 goals and Oshawa Generals' impressive contest here Wednesday night.

Al Romnik did was score six goals in an 8-2 Oshawa win.

John Upshaw and Lorne Worsley fired the shots for the home team.

Replying for Belleville were Danny Hounslow and Barry Dean.

Elliott's makes its first start in the Lit'lJock JOA Tournament at 11 a.m. meeting Burlington. All games will be played at Peterborough's Riverside Park.

UAW Rally Falls Short

A determined rally in the seventh and final inning fell one run short for Belleville UAW Local 1859 Wednesday, in an Eastern Ontario Baseball Association contest with Cobourg Legion Pirates.

Trailing 6-3 as they came to the plate for their last bat, the Belleville youngsters battled back to count three times and make it a final score of 6-5.

Bevelle Sharpe went the distance to get the Cobourg win, giving up seven hits while fanning seven and walking five.

Duke McTaggart and Steve Carr saw pitching duty for UAW. They yielded nine hit ball, struck out four and walked only one.

Leading the winners' hitting attack was Peter Lowens with a double and two singles.

McTaggart and Carr each belted a triple and single for the losers while Steve McRoy stroked two singles and Kerving Jeffs, one.

Henry Wrecks Olympics

Hove had to be sharp in this one as Olympics' lone dazzling saves to inspire his mates. The goalie got plenty help from defenders Dennis Woolcock, Robert Arsenault and Harry Lamers who shadowed intruding Olympic forwards with stubborn tenacity.

At Warkworth Institution, Cobourg Tony's retained their one-point lead over Whitley's in the tight battle for first place, withstanding an early rush by the home side and coasting to an 8-2 win.

The winners had a 4-1 edge in scoring in each half.

Ben Vecchiet and John Van Balen each shot three goals for Cobourg. Alex Essert and Steve Miller had the others.

Replying for Warkworth were Bruno Kunel and Nat Leabeyo.

Tony's boasts a 9-1 record for 18 points while Whitley's has 11 points with a mark of 8-3-1.

In Wednesday's 3-2 scoreer for Belleville United over Consey's Haulage, Keith Perry fired the winner, letting a scorcher go from the 18-yard line. Joe Cordeiro and Gord Kelly had the other United goals. Stew Hadley made the play for Cordiny's goal, carrying the ball from his own zone and beating three Consey's players before sending across a timely relay.

Blazers Ink Coach

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Garry Peters has signed a one-year contract as head coach and general manager of Syracuse Blazers of the North American Hockey League, the club announced Thursday. Peters 31, replaces Ron Ingram, now director of personnel for San Diego Mariners. Peters, a member of the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens in 1964-65, played for Jersey Knights of the World Hockey Association last season.

Top Teams Win In Ladies' League

The Purinasties continue to dominate play in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League, with Quinte Antenna their victims this time, falling to the league leaders 22-2 in a game played in Madoc. In the other game in the league, second place BYBP dumped Belleville Broadmoon 18-7, at Centennial Field.

The Purinasties combined a 22 hit attack with 10 walks given up by losing hurler Nora Flieger to total 20 runs, for their 15th win of the year against only one loss.

Sue Wright led the parade with a pair of home runs, including a grand slammer, while Joan Bailey contributing a double and single. Sandra Fleming and Sharon Lessard each had three singles.

For the Antenna crew, it was Carol Merrill with a double, with Brenda McKeown, Nina Flieger, Brenda White, Pat Reid, and Jean Bedford all stroking singles.

Margaret Bateman threw the win for the Madoc based team, allowing seven hits but fanning five and walked two. Flieger failed to strike out a batter, walking seven in seven.

The Yardmen scored 12 runs in the fifth frame in their game counting only in the third by the Broadmoon team.

Shirley Gulliver started for the Yardmen, lasting until the third. She was nicked for nine hits, walking one and whiffing one. Sue Morton came on in relief, not allowing a run on five hits in the last four innings, the latter a triple to walk.

Mary Anne Sills was charged with the loss on the Broadmoon rubber, going the route. She struck out one and walked four, allowing 19 hits.

Judy Pulchat had a home run and triple to lead the way for the Yardmen, with Mary Reid connecting for two doubles and a single. Sheila Smith had a double and two singles, with Wendy Corley adding a two bagger. Joyce McFarlane, Donna Lucas, and Morton each had two safeties for the winners.

Doris Smith, Janet Smith, Norma Fuller, and Mary Anne Sills each had a pair of hits for Broadmoon, with Helen Sills, Leah VanRoosmalen, and Bev Scanlon Sills, and Linda Cole each collecting singles.

The Yardmen are sponsoring a dance tonight in the rec room for travelling expenses. The dance will be held at the Hillcrest Community Centre, starting at 8 p.m. Admission for the event will be $2.00 per person, with everyone welcome.

Werkhoven Stops Bayview Orchards

Harold Werkhoven fired a three-hitter for Wannamaker and Boily Stables in Prince Edward Minor Baseball League play last night, pacing his squad to an 8-1 win over Bayview Orchards.

In the other game, last place Gems took eight innings to eke out a 9-8 win over Palmer Fuels.

In the W and B — Bayview game, left-handed Werkhoven struck out three batters and walked only one in taking the win. Dwayne Parsley and Jim Foster shared the loss, allowing 10 hits. They fanned eight and walked four.

Gerry Vincent paced the winners at the plate with a triple and single, with Gil Hesketh scoring a three bagger and Al O'Hara a double. Parsley had three singles, with Ken Burtholder, Mike Flieger, and Bob Smith each attaining a base hit.

For the losers, Rick Rodrigues, Doug Mason, and Larry Mason were the only batters to touch Werkhoven, each contributing singles.

Sonny Hall fired the win for the Gems in the second contest, striking out 11. Palmer batsmen. He walked six and was nicked for six hits.

Earl Colton was touched for six hits on the Palmer mound, fanning six and walking five, in absorbing the loss.

Reg Bennett had a double and single for the losers, with Tom Huddleston adding a pair of base hits. Completing the attack with a safety each were Ed Holloway and Harold Babcock.

Harry Cole had a double for the only extra base hit Palmers could manage, with Brian Mountenay, Dennis Mullins, Rod Wyatt, Chuck Kemp, and Ken Barber bagging one hit apiece.

Ellis Juniors Meet Hamilton

Belleville Ellis Juniors of the Quinte Baseball League open the start of the action as 16 topNotch teams meet in tournament play Friday at Oshawa with a berth in the Canadian finals at stake for the champion.

Coach coach Don Wood rates his club as a good bet to go all the way.

The Belleville team hooks up with Hamilton in the first game at 10:30 a.m., at Alexandra Park.

Thurlow Midgets Now 13-2

Jerry Masterson's Thurlow Heath Resiky midgets keep rolling along in the western Ontario Baseball Association play. Thursday at Lake Realtors brought their season record to 13-2 with a convincing 11-2 defeat of Deseronto.

Rodney Brown had a no-hitter going for seven innings but reiented in the eighth when the cracks connect into a series.

Brown helped his own cause with a double while Varley Wader, Ted Foster and Robert DeJong checked in with two hits each.

Charles Buckley, called up from the Varsitown batsmen to fill out the Realtors lineup, also contributed a base hit.

Realtors make their next league start Tuesday with a 7:30 p.m. contest in Peterborough.

Kinsmen Tune Up

The Belleville Kinsmen Squints pounded Sterling Legion 20-2 in an exhibition encounter at Queen Victoria School last night, in a tune-up for their play in the first annual McDonald's Tournament on Saturday.

Bradley Greg had a home run and three singles, providing some excellent batsmanship for the team with Allen Thompson adding a four bagger and two singles. Bruce Shugg had a homer and one base hit.

For Stirling, it was Jim Hunter with three singles, while David Kleinsteiber and Donald Montgomery had two each.

Sean Monaghan and Thompson shared the win, combining for 11 strikeouts between them. Jim Hunter had six in a losing effort for Stirling.

Mixed Reaction to WFL Debut

By The Associated Press —

It was big and boisterous . . . but was it pro football?

The scene to be yes — in a manner of speaking.

Fans in Chicago, Philadelphia, Birmingham, Orlando and Memphis turned out Wednesday night in surprisingly large numbers to watch the World Football League swing into action.

From the generally enthusiastic reactions, the WFL — which averaged better than 42,000 fans a game, was a far bigger hit than the American Football League was back in 1960 when it challenged the entrenched National Football League.

And, in general, sports editors rated the play not only above that of the AFL — which averaged barely 15,000 fans a game in its openers — but comparable to the quality of the NFL . . . Houston Oilers' style, that is.

"If'd say Detroit compares favorably with the Oilers," Roy Edwards, sports editor of Memphis Commercial-Appeal, said, referring to the WFL's newest team, after joining 30,123 paying fans to watch Memphis Southmen whip the Wheels 34-12.

"The Southmen looked good," Edwards added, "but the calibre of play generally was way below the NFL."

Philadelphia News columnist Dave Nightingale, who watched Chicago Fire blank Houston Texans 17-0 in Soldier Field, home of the NFL's Chicago Bears, said the Fire "installed everybody's intelligence for big league creditable 32,000 crowd to 42,000."

The biggest crowd, by far, was in Birmingham, where 33,261 fans turned out to watch the Americans beat Southern California Sun 11-7, giving the Birmingham area a thunderous ovation when it stepped on the field.

Irv Gack, vice-president and business manager of the Americans, said: "We sold 22,500 tickets for hard cash money, with no discounts. This isn't Philadelphia."

That was a swipe at Philadelphia Bell, which attracted 18,500 fans to their 23-3 victory over Portland Storm — a crowd boosted by about 10,000 free tickets and 15,000 more sold at a discount.

Murray Chass of New York Times, who watched the Bell game, said: "No one expected the WFL to play on the level of the NFL. But it was a surprisingly smoothly played game with fewer mistakes than one would have expected to see, especially without any exhibition games having been played."

Chass pointed out that 53,000 people "left their air-conditioned homes to sit in hot, muggy weather to watch the game and that, even without the free and discount-ticket fans, 18,000 regular-price tickets are still pretty good."

Sharks Take Opener

ACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "I don't think Notre Dame has a greater spirit than the Jacksonville Sharks," linebacker Rich Thomann shouted after playing a key role in the 14-7 victory over New York Stars as a rookie Football League made its first television appearance in the United States.

Sharks' owner Fran Monaco was just as spirited in referring to the Thursday night crowd of 30,112.

"That's tops in the league and that's where we want to be — on top," he croaked, his voice hoarse from shouting as he watched the side-lines throughout the game.

Thomann, a rookie from Notre Dame, and 10-year pro defensive end Bo Lassiter combined on a blocked punt with 2½ minutes left to play. Lassiter blocked the kick off Robbie Reynolds' toe at the 30 and Thomann ran it within seven yards of the goal.

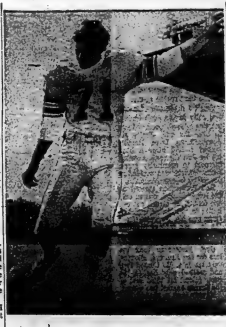
Running back Tommy Durrance and offensive guard O. Z. White took it in from there. Durrance slanted for six yards on the first play then smashed into the line from the one. The ball squirted free and White claimed it in the end zone for the touchdown with 2:02 on the clock.

"The ball was there and I saw it," White exulted. "That was it."

He came out of the pack warming the orange and gold ball, one of several innovations the WFL put on display this week as it got off to a promising start with more than 250,000 announced attendance at six games.

Bob Jackson-vill, and New York played strong defense but showed only flashes of quality on offense.

"This is my pattern," said Sharks' coach Jack Asher. "You win with defence and a good kicking game."



"We bore this out on Alvin Wyatt's punt return and Lassiter's block of their punt."

Wyatt broke a scoreless deadlock in the second quarter when he burst down the right sideline 47 yards with a punt return.

New York coach Babe Parilli said his team let down on the punt return, believing the kick was going out of bounds, "but otherwise they gave a 100 per cent."

Stars' quarterback Tom Sherman led a well-paced 77-yard march to New York's touchdown in the second quarter right after Wyatt's score.

Sherman passed eight yards to veteran George Sauer for the touchdown and hit Sauer on seven passes in all for 77 yards.

Ottawa's Gerry Organ

No Shortage Of Field Goals

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The dominance of the field goal kickers in Canadian Football League scoring appears likely to continue, judging from early results in the pre-season schedule.

In 11 exhibition games so far, including the all-star game, there have been 43 field goals kicked.

Ottawa Rough Riders' Gerry Organ, the Eastern Conference leader with five field goals three years, is again leading the kickers. He scored five field goals in Ottawa's 29-27 win over British Columbia Lions on Wednesday and now has connected on 14 of 17 attempts.

Next in efficiency is Ivan Machillan of the Lions who has been good on seven of eight attempts. Ian Sinner of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has made four of five and Zenon Andrusyshyn of Toronto Argonauts made five of seven.

Andrusyshyn's 57-yard field goal in Argos' 27-17 win over Winnipeg on Wednesday is the longest this season — just two yards short of the league record held by Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos.

Cutler has started slowly, with only one field goal besides the two he had in the all-star game. He and the Eskimos face Hamilton in Edmonton tonight while Calgary Stampeders visit Montreal Alouettes.

DEEZY IS ILL

BOND, Miss. (AP) — Dizzy Dean, former pitching star with St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, is in hospital in Harvey, Nev., after a heart attack early Thursday, Dean won 20 games for the Cardinals in 1934.

Rudy Pilous To Coach Jets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rudy Pilous, former coach of the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks who spent seven years with St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association and Brandon Wheat Kings of the Western Canada Hockey League, was named coach Thursday of Winnipeg Jets.

Ben Hatskin, president of the World Hockey Association club said Bobby Hull will continue as playing-coach but Pilous, who led the Black Hawks and Hull to the Stanley Cup in 1961, would direct the team from the bench.

Billy Robinson will continue as director of player personnel and Nick Mickoski, assistant to Hull since the WHA's inception two years ago, will become a scout.

Contract terms were not made public.

The club is being sold to a group of Winnipeg businessmen who will operate the team on a non-profit basis, similar to the Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League.

Ben Hatskin, now a part owner of the club, is expected to step down as president when the sale has been completed.

Warriors Drop Two

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Burlington Provisioners swept past Ontario Senior League doubleheader with Woodstock Warriors Thursday by scores of 5-3 and 8-0 with Bill Drennan losing a no-hit bid in the final inning of the nightcap.

Rick McKinney's first hit of the season with two out in the seventh ended Drennan's hopes for a second no-hitter this season. Woodstock's next batter, Terry Lamb, followed with a single but Drennan got pinch-hitter Dick Parker on a ground out to preserve the win.

Drennan, the league's leading pitcher with an 8-2 record, retired the first 13 Woodstock batters until leading the first of two walks in the fifth inning. He struck out nine to run his season total to 82.

Don Reeder, 1-3, took the loss. He gave up eight hits including two doubles by Dave Bourne and another by Vern Agnew. He struck out six and walked two before being relieved in the seventh by Bob Nowacky when the Provisioners pushed across seven runs.

Randy Hewitt and Parker had two each for Woodstock in the opener and Jim Rashnow and Dan Warbey each hit triples to account for four of Woodstock's five hits off winner Al Fyse who struck out seven and walked two.

Hal Kemp tripled and Agnew doubled to lead Burlington's seven-hit attack. Gord Pullen, who gave way to Nowacky in the sixth, was the loser.

CAPITALS SIGN GOALIE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mike Adams, an all-star goalie last year with San Diego of the now defunct Western Hockey League, was purchased Thursday by the Canadian Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League. Adams also played half the season with the NHL Boston Bruins in 1972-73.

INQUIRY ASKED

ROME (Reuter) — The Italian Football Federation has asked the International Football Federation (FIFA) for an inquiry into allegations that Italians attempted bribery in the World Cup soccer tournament. Reports from Warsaw quoted Polish manager Kazimierz Gorski saying unnamed Italians attempted to bribe his team before Italy lost 2-1 to Poland in the World Cup semi-finals.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday July 13

Aries (March 21-April 19) This is a good day for you to deal with business or commercial matters. You'll be thinking in realistic and practical terms.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Even though you may be a bit more talkative than usual others will find what you have to say both convincing and interesting.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) If you need a little something extra to tide you over temporarily, your best chance of getting it is from a family member.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You're going to find yourself in a situation where you'll have to speak up for a friend who isn't present to defend herself.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't have to keep pals posted on your present accomplishments. You have a booster who's already doing it for you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The time is just right to put into action a plan you've been toying with. Don't wait much longer or nothing will get done.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you keep your mind on that high mark you're shooting for over the next few days, you have a very good chance of hitting the bull's eye.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take lots of time in formulating an important decision so you won't later ask yourself why you overlooked something so obvious.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have more patience and stick-to-itiveness than in instance chore that you've left half-finished. Get to it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In a most unusual way you're going to learn an object lesson from one younger than yourself. You won't resent receiving it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) This will be one of those days when you'll derive pleasure from little improvements you make yourself around the old homestead.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) If you use a little humor in your approach in dealing with others you'll find them to be surprisingly co-operative.

Opening lead—6♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby.

If you always lead your partner's suit you will keep your partner happy. Furthermore, you will do far better than if you don't as always looking around for a surprise lead.

West was one of those lookers-around. He opened the eight of clubs!

South used up with dummy's king and ace of the side hearts. East won with the ace and could do nothing other than to lead another club. South won, led a trump and finessed dummy's eight. He had decided that East would not have played the ace of trumps if he didn't have to.

After the eight held, South cashed the queen of trumps, led a club and since one eight-spot finesse had worked he tried another. After that one worked it was a cinch for South to wind up making his contract with an overtrick.

South had really played the hand like a man with second sight, but all the brilliance in the world wouldn't have helped if West had just covered a diamond and East ressed the jack.

Furthermore, West really had an automatic diamond lead. With four trumps he would want to force South to start ruffing.

Hysterectomy For Tipped Uterus

By C. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently my physician advised me to have a hysterectomy, the removal of my uterus, which has always been tipped very much. I have been having terrible pressure.

I am 29 and have two children. 6 and 7. Since I am healthy and I am positive we no longer want any more children, I wanted to have a tubal ligation. My doctor tells me that procedure would eliminate any further children but not eliminate the trouble with my tipped uterus, a hysterectomy will do both.

My question is, since I am a very nervous person, what would a hysterectomy do to a person as nervous as I am? And would I still go through all the symptoms of menopause when I am older, like fiftyish, even though I will not have had any period from now until then? — Mrs. D.K.

What your doctor told you is exactly right. Removal of the uterus removes any further trouble with the organ; it also prevents further pregnancies.

A tubal ligation (or "tying of the tubes") also would prevent pregnancy, but would not do anything to correct the pressure on uterus.

So if you have the hysterectomy, tubal ligation would be a waste of effort.

As to symptoms of menopause when you are fiftyish, or so from mid-rabbish — W.L.

thereabouts, yes—after removal of the uterus only, and assuming that your ovaries are healthy, you can expect the normal symptoms of menopause at that time, even though you have had no periods in the intervening years. But remember that some women have disagreeable symptoms and some do not.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has had gall bladder attacks and cannot eat every thing, but he doesn't care about that.

Our doctor says the gall stones cannot be dissolved. I think they can. The doctor says there is nothing to do but operate and take out the gall bladder. — Mrs. C.W.

Researchers at different centres have demonstrated that deoxycholic acid, which is a substance produced naturally in the body, can be used to dissolve gall stones. But, as a matter of fact, the procedure is still experimental and not in general use. Usually there is a high degree of infection along with the stones which is enough reason to remove the gall bladder.

It is estimated that at least 250,000 people each year have gall bladder surgery. So your husband is not going to be in any exclusive club by undergoing the operation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can one get tularemia from handling raccoon and opossum the same as from wild rabbits? — W.L.

Yes, if the animals are infected. Use due caution.

BIRTHS

COURLEY - Dr. and Mrs. Courley are pleased to announce the arrival of their son, Jeffrey Scott, on Wednesday, July 3, 1974 at Belleville General Hospital. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Courley of Belleville. Special thanks to Dr. Jones and a special thanks to Dr. Hall on the 10th floor. (1)

DELONG - Kevin Scott, born at Belleville General Hospital on July 7, 1974, to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas DeLong, Bridgeport, Ontario, a brother for Lisa, 2½ years old. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd DeLong of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hodgson of Bridgeport, Ontario. (1)

IN MEMORIAM

BRANT - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away July 12, 1971.
One year has passed since we said good-bye,
One year we loved you called away,
One year we have learned to live and pray.
Within our hearts he lives still,
Memories are always with us.
Sadly missed by wife, Shirley and family, daughter Lorraine and family. (1)

CHAPMAN - In loving memory of my husband, Geo. (Scotty) Chapman, who died July 12th, 1970.
Sweet memories, dear memory,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
Are those who think of him today,
And those who think of him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
Will fade and wither from the sun,
But memories of him will remain,
Forever dear, forever true.
Forever Dads sweet memories
Forever loved and sadly missed by wife Bessie and family.

HARVEY - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Harvey, who passed away July 12, 1971.
Memories are remembered by wife Gertrude, daughter Mrs. Ann Bonisteel, Andrew and family.

BEAT THE HEAT ON THE BAY
We are proud to offer this beautifully landscaped property on the Bay of Quinte. Situated high and dry on the lot which slopes gently to the bay for a full depth of 1,320 feet is an immaculate 3-bedroom bungalow. There are many extras in the home such as a built-in china cabinet and a power dishwasher. But the biggest extra is the sleeping cabin at the water's edge. Just the place to cool off after a hard day's work. When you call, please ask for Wilma Carr. She'll be glad to arrange an appointment for you to see this lovely home.

AS NEW AS TOMORROW
This charming 3-bedroom brick bungalow in a new subdivision is broadloomed throughout except for the kitchen and bathroom which are tiled. It has a full basement awaiting your own finishing touch. Best of all, there is good financing already arranged and you can move in and enjoy this home right away.

RIGHT DOWN TOWN BUT, - - -
Because of the excellent construction of this 2-storey brick home the sounds of traffic are almost muffled. The high ceilings, front and back staircases: a fireplace and beautiful bay window in the living room, are just a few of the attractions in this home. In addition there is a bedroom self-contained apartment. Will be glad to show you this gracious home. Please call Wilma Carr.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY
I have a serious buyer from Ottawa who wants to purchase a modern bungalow with 3 to 5 acres of good garden land as a retirement home close to Belleville. If you own such a property and if you are interested in selling it, please call 966-1621 with absolutely no obligation and ask for Wilma Carr. Strict confidence assured.

Davis Pays Visit To Firefighters

VERMILION BAY, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis visited the largest of more than 60 forest fires burning in northwestern Ontario Thursday, had lunch with some fire fighters and took a helicopter ride over the charred forest.

Later, he said in an interview the government is considering reimbursing the 1,200 residents of this community and surrounding area who were evacuated briefly last weekend when the fire appeared to threaten its community 25 miles north of Dryden.

"One cannot help but be impressed by the magnitude of the fire and by the calibre of the people fighting it," the premier said.

Officials at the Dryden fire control centre said almost 500 men now are engaged in battling the flames around the 125-mile perimeter of the fire, what they called "buying time."

Firefighters are using 30 miles of hose, have dumped 100,000 worth of chemicals and millions of gallons of water on the fire in an effort to keep it in check.

The "holding action" is being taken in the hope that the fire can be contained until a sustained heavy rainfall.

Otherwise, they say, it might take a month to extinguish.

The intense heat causes freak wind and rain patterns in the surrounding area.

The firefighters' task is complicated by the fact that, in much of the area, the trees were flattened in a heavy windstorm that occurred a year ago, leaving almost impenetrable tangles.

"It's nature taking care of itself," Premier John Carry said to the premier.

He said that it would have taken several decades to regrowth the wind-flattened area, but with the fire clearing out the dead wood, saplings five feet high would cover the area within 10 years.

"John, you've made my day," Mr. Davis said.

Morgentaler Says Law Immoral

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's abortion laws are immoral, discredited and an affront to the people," Dr. Henry Morgentaler said Thursday during pre-sentence hearing on his conviction of performing an illegal abortion.

"I challenge this law," Dr. Morgentaler told Mr. Justice James Hugessen of Court of Queen's Bench. "What is happening here today may be according to law as it now stands, but it is not justice.

"What I am asking for is justice, not only for me but for the women of Canada. I cannot believe that an immoral law can be upheld for long, and I still believe very strongly that what I did was not only morally right but legal as well."

Dr. Morgentaler was acquitted last November of committing an illegal abortion but the Quebec Court of Appeal overturned the acquittal last April, ruling necessity of the operation had not been adequately proved.

Dr. Morgentaler told Mr. Justice Hugessen, who is to sentence him July 25, that he had performed "an act of compassion, care and skill" during the operation but as he had helped "a few thousand women in distress" in his specially made abortion clinic.

"It is the height of injustice to be punished under immoral abortion laws," he said.

The Criminal Code stipulates such an operation is legal only if it can be proved it was necessary for the health of the patient and was performed with reasonable care and skill.

Crown prosecutor Louis G. Robichaud said in his closing arguments that the doctor was "imprudent" and had admitted committing between 5,000 and 6,000 abortions during the last four years.

Jurisprudence, he said, weighed strongly in favor of a heavy sentence for the doctor and the law already provided a maximum sentence of life imprisonment for such an offence.

Money Supply Shows Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — The amount of money in circulation—considered by many economists to be a key factor in high inflation rates—jumped upward during the week ended July 3, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

During the week to July 3 money supply—currency in circulation and demand bank of Canadian dollar deposits—grew by $758 million to $54.66 billion.

The Bank of Canada since mid-April has boosted the bank rate by 1% percentage points to a record 9¾ per cent in an attempt to slow the rate of monetary expansion in the economy. The bank rate is the rate the central banks charges chartered banks for loans and has a key influence on commercial and consumer interest rates.

Since April 10 the money supply has grown by $2.218 billion and during the year to July 3 it increased by $7.667 billion.

Bank loan activity reflected the growth in money supply as the total during the week to July 3 grew by $285 million to $22.796 billion, possibly due, in large part, to month-end business loan activity.

Since April 17 the volume of general bank loans has increased by $1.717 billion and during the year to July 3 by $6.061 billion.

The Thursday central bank report showed that $68 million worth of Canada savings bonds were redeemed during the week to July 10.

Savings bond holders have been cashing in bonds at a high rate as the yields on the government bonds have suffered in comparison with yields offered by commercial institutions.

Trust companies have offered interest rates of 10 per cent on five-year term deposits, which provides a yield of 12.3 per cent with compounded interest.

Finance Minister John Turner announced May 8 that the yield on Canada savings bonds would be increased to nine per cent.

Since May 1 a total of $688 million worth of savings bonds have been redeemed for an average of $68 million a week. During the first quarter of the year redemptions averaged about $35 million a week.

Cabinet Shuffle Believed Coming

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's majority victory in Monday's election is widely expected to be followed by a major cabinet shuffle—but not all observers expect it immediately.

"It could be 10 months away," says one minister. He bases his prediction on the fact that many ministers are preparing important legislation, which could be disrupted by a shuffle.

In order to institute a general shuffle, Mr. Trudeau would have to make room at the top, such as in the cabinet's inner portfolio. Observers feel it is unlikely the prime minister will push aside the present minister, Mitchell Sharp, at this time. Demotions don't come easily to ministers who have been in the cabinet for a long time. Besides, the prime minister has never been prone to demote ministers.

Mr. Sharp, of course, can always ask for a lighter workload.

The external affairs minister is regarded as the key player in any cabinet shuffle because this is the senior portfolio behind the prime minister, and if it also were vacated other ministers could move up a notch, some could be moved sideways, and there would be room for one or two new members of cabinet.

There has been long-standing speculation that Finance Minister John Turner will be the next external affairs minister, after successfully surviving the thankless finance portfolio for 26 months. But Mr. Trudeau's choice may not be automatic when the time comes.

Other long-serving ministers, such as Privy Council President Allan MacEachen, are known to be considered for external affairs. And Mr. MacEachen played a whale of a role as government House leader during the last minority Parliament, and could easily qualify for a new high-profile position.

Justice Minister Otto Lang, who has also shouldered the heavy responsibility of the Canadian Wheat Board through some difficult times, also could qualify for a more glamorous position.

One way Mr. Trudeau could open the way for a major shuffle would be to create a new portfolio—perhaps deputy prime minister—for Mr. Sharp.

He has, however, indicated that there will be an expansion that will be appointed to replace the defeated Jack Davis whose experimental portfolio also included fisheries.

This means that two new members will be appointed to replace the defeated Jack Davis whose experimental portfolio also included fisheries.

Police Need Permission To Record Any Calls

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first anti-bugging legislation, in effect for less than two weeks, is in trouble.

A controversy has developed because police in Ottawa, Toronto and Halifax and perhaps other major departments make recordings of all emergency calls and calls from their working officers.

Recording emergency calls allows police to listen to conversations again to get names and information, since conversations with panicky callers are often unclear.

But the wiretap law, which passed Parliament after prolonged debate last year and came into effect July 1, outlaws interception of private communications by means of an "electromagnetic, acoustic, mechanical or other device," with some exceptions.

One exception exempts a person "who has the consent to intercept, expressed or implied," by either party to a conversation. An RCMP spokesman said Thursday one of the force fears that some conversations are taped and thus the force feels it has that implied permission.

But officials in the Ottawa force, apparently after discussions with the attorney-general's department in Toronto, decided that written permission is required from each officer.

At least some of these men tied the form they are being asked to sign is an invasion of their own privacy—the very thing the act was designed to prevent.

The form says: "I hereby expressly consent to the interception ... of any private communications to which I am a party ... while using the equipment and devices of the Ottawa force so long as I am a member of the force."

Some officers say this would permit their personal calls to be intercepted, although senior officials emphasize this is not the intent.

The issue is expected to be discussed at a meeting of the Canadian Police Association in Winnipeg next week.

The form has the approval of the Ontario attorney-general's office, but Albert Roy, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Ottawa East, charged Thursday that it negates the whole intent of the new law.

"The law is designed to afford privacy and protection of people even in conversations with policemen unless the specific consent of a judge permitting a wiretap is obtained," he said.

He said if Ottawa police sign the form any Ottawa resident telephoning police headquarters can have his conversation bugged, since the form provides the required permission of one of the parties in the conversation.

Ehrlichman Now Burglar

J. D. EHRLICHMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Ehrlichman, once described by President Nixon as one of the finest public servants he ever knew, has been convicted of plotting an illegal search at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

After a 12-day trial, a federal court jury took five hours Friday to find Ehrlichman guilty of the conspiracy charge and of lying to the FBI and a Watergate grand jury about the Sept. 3, 1971, breakin by the White House investigative unit known as the plumbers.

Ehrlichman said his lawyers will appeal the case.

Three other defendants were also found guilty of conspiring to violate the constitutional rights of the psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Until he resigned April 30, 1973, the 49-year-old Ehrlichman was among the closest of Nixon's assistants. The former White House domestic affairs chief now is subject to a maximum jail sentence of 25 years and fines of up to $40,000. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell set sentencing for July 31. Until then, the defendants remain free.

Word of the conviction reached President Nixon en route to California. White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said: "It would be inappropriate for us to have any comment whatsoever while the matter is still in the judicial process."

The other defendants, Gordon Liddy and Mandana Bernard Barker rand Eugenio Martinez, could receive maximum sentences of 10 years in jail and fines of $10,000. Those three were convicted last year in connection with the 1972 break-in at Democratic psychiatrist. He was sentenced to serve six months in a Florida six-year term and was jailed at Lompoc, Calif., from Feb. 4 to June 21.

Former White House aide Charles Colson pleaded guilty in one count of obstruction of justice and sentenced June 21 to one to three years in prison. He began serving the term July 9.

Suspended

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) John Ehrlichman's conviction on perjury and conspiracy charges will not affect his legal status in Washington state, the president of the state bar association said.

Nixon was not involved in a cover-up was received with scepticism by Representative George Danielson (Dem. Calif.).

"There is a lot of information Petersen didn't receive," said Danielson. "He wasn't privy to everything the president knew, only what the president told him. I don't think his testimony was very compelling."

The committee has only two more witnesses to hear before concluding its inquiry—former White House aide Charles Colson on Monday and Herbert Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer, Tuesday. Both now are in jail

Six Nixon Advisers Have Been Convicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Ehrlichman, onetime White House chief domestic adviser, is the sixth former White House administration official to be convicted of or plead guilty to a crime.

The others and former officials are:

—Former attorney-general Richard Kleindienst, who pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor for his testimony in the ITT case. He was given a one-month jail term and a fine, both suspended.

—Former presidential counsel John Dean, who pleaded guilty Oct. 19, 1973, to one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

—Dwight Chapin, former presidential appointments secretary, pleaded guilty April 2 of lying to the grand jury investigating Watergate. Judge has not yet sentenced him.

—Jeb Stuart Magruder, who was sentenced to 10 to 30 months in jail and is free on bail.

Convicts Release Some Hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two armed convicts renewed their efforts today by barter seven hostages in the United States District Courthouse for freedom, but justice department officials said the convicts released 14 prisoners in detention cells as an act of good faith.

One warrant prisoner remained in the cellblock, officials said. There was no immediate explanation.

The prisoners, in handcuffs, were loaded into two U.S. marshal's vans, two sedans and a stationwagon and driven away from the courthouse at 9:35 a.m. behind a group of police motorcouters with their sirens blaring.

Chief U.S. District Judges George Hart, who is responsible for the building, looked on along with Deputy U.S. Attorney-General Lawrence Silberman, who helped negotiate the release.

Justice department officials said the prisoners who had not joined the rebellion were taken to the D.C. Jail, D.C. General Hospital, and two other jails. There was no indication, however, that any of the prisoners had been harmed.

The prisoners had been caught in the cellblock when the two convicts took over at 1 p.m. Thursday.

The identities of their release had come before dawn today in negotiations after the two had locked the government's offer to transfer the pair to a penitentiary in Oklahoma.

The justice department said it had no explanation for the release of prisoners released and its earlier reports that a dozen hostages were being held.

As the anticipated time of release passed with no sign of any of the basement cellblock, a justice department spokesman said, "I don't see how they are going to arrange it." Then, a few minutes later, he ventured out in front and upon basis, he said, that he got no indication where the release might be coming.

A U.S. marshal's van pulled up to the back entrance about 7:45 a.m., but no move was made to load it.

Authorities continued talking to the two men, but made no move to give them the plane they had demanded since taking control of a basement cellblock about 2 p.m. Thursday.

The convicts, Frank Gerbash, 25, and Garry Rowe, 30, who also uses the name Otis Wilkerson, have vowed to kill the hostages if police storm the cellblock.

India-Pakistan Tension Heightens along Border

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — The war of words between India and Pakistan increased after the Indian border blast in May, has heated up to its most serious point since the war of December, 1971.

In the last two days, the two countries have accused each other of troop movements along their borders.

An Indian government spokesman in a statement Friday night also alleged that Pakistani planes have violated Indian air space and that there has been firing incidents at unnamed locations.

The spokesman termed baseless Pakistani charges made Thursday that Indian forces have moved closer to the border in Kashmir and that other provocations have been reported from their ammunition stations and placed on alert.

$20 Anti-freeze New Energy Threat

OTTAWA (CP) — Nobody worries about anti-freeze in July, but maybe they should this year.

Prices at fall tune-up time could be triple—or more—what they were a year ago, and anti-freeze might be hard to find at any price in some areas.

Ken Card, president of the Ontario Retail Gasoline Automotive Service Association, says supplies are so tight now that some dealers are sold out and can't get replacement stocks.

In many places, anti-freeze sold at $3-$4 a gallon last winter. Some shortages also were reported in some places. This year, motorists will have to pay $8 or $10 at a minimum," says Mr. Gard.

"And if it becomes a sellers' market, look out."

One dealer in Ottawa is reported to be hoarding 2,000 gallons that he bought at $3 a gallon and hopes to sell at prices up to $14.

Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., one of only two manufacturers in Canada, says that it doesn't look isn't as serious as some dealers suggest.

Motorists should be able to get anti-freeze "by shopping around," says a Dow spokesman in Sarnia, Ont.

"And then shouldn't have to pay $19 or $20 a gallon."

He said Dow is selling antifreeze at $4 a gallon to distributors such as Imperial Oil and a fair price at the retail level would be $6-$8 a gallon.

"That would be reasonable, all factors considered."

But Mr. Gard, who runs a service station in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, says the price will be higher.

The list price from Shell is $5.75 a gallon now but you can't get it. That's out. Five and 10 gallons left over from last winter and I'm hanging it for myself."

If it were available, he said, he would have to charge at least $9 a gallon.

Canada Into 23rd Million

OTTAWA (CP) — The population total on April 1 was estimated at 22,384,000, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

The total was 237,000 higher than the estimate for April 1, 1973.

By province, the April 1 population estimates were: Newfoundland, 541,000; Prince Edward Island, 116,000; Nova Scotia, 811,000; New Brunswick, 668,000; Quebec, 6,134,000, Ontario, 8,007,000; Manitoba, 1,021,000; Saskatchewan, 927,000; Alberta, 1,739,000; British Columbia, 2,364,000.

Estimates for the territories were 19,000 for the Yukon and 30,000 for the Northwest Territories.

Estimates are made four times a year and the Canadian total was up from 22,267,000 on Jan. 1, the date of the previous estimate.

By province, the estimated increases between Sept. 1 and April 1 were: Newfoundland, 1,000 each; New Brunswick, 1,000; Quebec, 12,000, Ontario, 36,000; Manitoba, 2,000; Alberta, 7,000, and B.C., 15,000. There was no change in P.E.I. and the Northwest Territories and the Yukon estimate was down by 1,000.

Only Tradeau in Command

Election Raises Leadership Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — The comfortable majority his Liberals won in the July 8 election leaves Prime Minister Trudeau in firm command of his party, but other party chiefs already may be feeling the rumblings of colleagues seeking their respective mantles of leadership.

For Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, the election was the fifth consecutive loss for his party, the third under his leadership. Now 66, it's unlikely he'll get the chance to try again.

David Lewis, 66, the New Democratic Party leader, suffered a stunning personal defeat and this, combined with the reduction of his party in 15 seats from 31 in the last Parliament, makes his continuation as leader doubtful.

Social Credit Leader Real Caouette's future also is a question mark. There have been rumors of illness which he is the first to deny and his son Gilles, their appearance in the leadership, was upset by a Liberal in Charlevoix riding last Monday. He was one of four Social Credit MPs to lose seats in the election.

However; Mr. Caouette still is promoting his 34-year-old son, first elected to the Commons in October, 1972. Earlier this week, he said Gilles will be appointed the party's national organizer, a move that would give him the experience he needed to try for the leadership eventually.

For the NDP, the leadership picture is clear. Lewis does. He has indicated he will not accept a "safe" seat as his predecessor, T. C. Douglas, did when defeated in 1958. Mr. Douglas, beaten in Burnaby-Seymour, later won in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands.

One potential leader, John Harney of Scarborough West, was defeated in the election. There still is House leader Stanley Knowles, a 25-year veteran of the House and respected on both sides of the Commons, but he is 65. There also is Ed Broadbent, 36, first elected to Oshawa-Whitby in 1968.

As for the Conservatives, there may be a race within a race as the so-called Western Mafia makes its presence known.

Several provincial premiers have been mentioned in connection with both the Conservatives and the NDP and only one has bothered to deny the rumors of leadership interest.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, when suggested as a contender for the NDP leadership, said he has enough to do looking after his own province.

Premier Dave Barrett of British Columbia and Ed Schreyer of Manitoba are possibilities, but the federal NDP's reduction to two seats from 11 in B.C. is a handicap to any Barrett aspirations.

Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed has long been touted as a successor to Conservative Leader Stanfield, but he keeps his own counsel on the subject.

Another possible contender is Michael Meighen, president of the Conservative party's youth branch, but he was roundly defeated by Treasury Board President C. M. Drury, Liberal member for Montreal Westmount.

Claude Wagner, the former Liberal justice minister of Quebec who ran for Parliament as a Conservative successfully in 1972, also is a possible candidate. He topped the winning margin in St. Hyacinthe in last Monday's election and rumor, ever present on Parliament Hill, has it that former prime minister John Diefenbaker supports Mr. Wagner.

The federal Conservatives have scheduled a caucus meeting for mid-August and it will not likely be known until then at least what the party proposes to be on its ground leader.

Transfer of Command

Flanked by aides, the former commander of Air Transport Command signed over his responsibilities Friday afternoon to his successor, Maj-Gen. Hugh McLachlan, DFC, CD, left, has headed ATC for the last two years and will now become director-general of Management Advisory Services at National Defence Headquarters. New commander is Maj-Gen. Kenneth Lewis a native of Alberta; who came to Trenton from Ottawa. Maj-Gen. Lewis enlisted in the RCAF in 1940 following graduation from the military college at Royal Roads, B.C.

Place to Remember

West coast brothers from Bowmanville, Dana and Eric Peebles paused to read the inscription on the plaque marking the original site of the grist mill operated by the Roblin family at Ameliasburgh when the first settlers came to the Quinte region. The brothers returned home after spending two weeks at the Salvation Army camp.

Warren Buried

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eulogized as a jurist who "related principles to persons, not to legal abstractions," Earl Warren, former United States chief justice, was buried Friday in Arlington National Cemetery.

Warren's wife of 48 years, Nina, wept quietly at the graveside Friday, accompanied by mourners that include family, friends, Supreme Court justices and citizens.

Warren, who led the U.S. Supreme Court through 16 years of historic decisions during the 1950s and 1960s, died Tuesday night of cardiac arrest at age 83.

Earlier Friday, President and Mrs. Nixon led about 1,000 mourners at the Episcopal (Anglican) funeral for Warren in the National Cathedral.

Transkei to Become Independent in 1979

PRETORIA (AP) — In less than five years a chunk of the Republic of South Africa is due to be partitioned as an independent nation.

It is called the Transkei and it already possesses a measure of autonomy as a tribal homeland or "bantustan." Bantu is a white label for all South African blacks.

In later years, if things go the way Pretoria expects, at least seven other mini-countries governed by blacks will be carved out of white-ruled South Africa.

Creation of these bantustans is the cornerstone of "separate development" of the races, the official term for apartheid.

Blacks are promised full citizenship rights and no racial barriers in their homelands, which will total 13 per cent of the country's land surface. Whites will keep the other 87 per cent.

There are 18 million non-whites and some four million whites in this 472,359-square-mile country.

Blacks would and, for basic economic reasons, must continue to "sojourn" as workers in white areas but they would be expected to return eventually to their tribal homeland. Whites could visit or even live in the bantustans, but must observe and obey local law and custom.

The idea was first proposed in 1958 and by 1963 a territorial legislature with limited powers was created at Umtata for the Xosa tribe in the Transkei. It was given self-government "within the republic."

Some analysts saw the bantustans as a reasonable alternative to increasing racial friction which arose in large part from numerous apartheid laws passed by the National party government since it took power 26 years ago. Geographically separate but equal facilities would assure racial peace, so the theory went.

The Transkei stood alone for years as the prototype while the over-all plan marked time, largely for want of sufficient money and a logical and fair method of redrawing boundaries between black and white areas.

The Zulu tribe's homeland of KwaZulu is in 22 pieces. Even after its official consolidation—the buying or swapping or expropriating of white property for black—it will still be four or five separate pieces of real estate.

Prime Minister John Vorster's government started pumping fresh energy into the bantustan plan about five years ago. Until then some critics dismissed it as a meaningless exercise designed merely to give the appearance of structure to apartheid theory.

There is every indication now that the bantustans have developed momentum. They are far from applying for seats at the United Nations but it now appears that Pretoria could not stop partition of the country even if it wanted to.

There is no official indication how long the consolidation process will take or how much it will cost.

The aim of the project is reflected by the 360,000 blacks and an undisclosed number of whites who will have to move to new homes in Transvaal and Natal provinces. More than two million acres of white-owned land will have to be obtained. More than 580,000 acres of state land in Natal has to be transferred to of land will have to be "deproclaimed" and handed over to the state for eventual sale to whites.

Camper Object Of Search

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police investigation for the RCMP in suburban Coquitlam said Friday they are looking for the driver of a red and white camper van in the sex-slaying of 15-year-old Robin Gates.

The girl apparently accepted a ride while returning home to Port Coquitlam last Sunday and her body was found Tuesday in a ditch on the south side of Burke Mountain in Coquitlam. She had been sexually assaulted and died of a skull fracture resulting from a blow to the back of the head.

Working with officers of the RCMP's Coquitlam detachment is a special nine-man murder squad investigating a double link between the Gates case and six other sex slayings since October, 1969.

Chief Superintendent Marvin Marcus, in charge of criminal investigation for the RCMP in British Columbia, said it is "a little early to say one way or the other" whether the slayings is linked to the others.

He also said police have found a store, in east end Vancouver, that sells blankets like two other which are the only clues in the series of killings. They sold for $8 each and were used as seat covers.

The blankets were used to wrap two plastic bags found last May 26 eight miles west of Jasper, Alta. They contained the body of an unidentified woman aged about 40, who had been murdered about eight months before. On Thursday RCMP appealed to the public for help in identifying the blanket.

Supt. Marcus said police have received tips "from all over the province, but most came from the Coquitlam area. He wouldn't say if RCMP had taken the case any farther towards solution as a result.

Furrier Wants Pelts Processed Within Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — A furrier with 60 years in the business would like the Alberta government to lend its support to a fur-manufacturing industry in the province.

"Right now, we just ship the furs out and give someone else the employment," said Simon Lister. He would like more of the pelts to stay in the province and be made into coats and other goods.

Mr. Lister compared the situation with oil.

"They ship oil for the petrochemical industry and we get it back in many forms. We buy the pelts here and then send most of them to Montreal to be made into coats."

He suggested one avenue for government assistance would be the introduction of training courses in educational institutions for persons who want to learn how to make the mink pelts into fur coats.

One of Nine Women in Commons

Madame Sauve May Succeed Sharp in External Affairs

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Nine women MPs among 24 in the new Parliament isn't very much, not yet. But it's a breakthrough compared to the seven smaller numbers in previous Parliaments, six in the last.

The still-miniscule number will get even more prominence if a high-level run is heard by this columnist on election night comes true.

It is that Prime Minister Trudeau in forming his cabinet for the next House of Commons will appoint Mme Jeanne Sauve, the present minister of state for technology, to succeed Mitchell Sharp as external affairs minister.

Madame Jeanne Sauve and her husband Maurice Sauve are old friends of the Trudeau family from college and Outremont days of growing up in Montreal. And Madame Sauve has been a fine cabinet minister during her record, according to all reports, with her earlier one as journalist and television commentator.

Mr. Sharp has been external affairs minister since Prime Minister Trudeau first came to power in 1968 and is known to be interested in something else, though goodness knows what.

He has already been both finance minister and trade and commerce minister in the cabinets of the late prime ministers Lester B. Pearson. There is much challenge for him in the transpact ministry where Jean Marchand seems to be making a mess of it.

And it will be through this ministry that the Liberals' big election promises of reorganization of Canadian passenger rail services in a new Crown corporation, will have to be managed.

But would Mr. Sharp consider it a takeover move if indeed he is going to be moved?

Canadian foreign policy therefore, will be a continuum of Trudeau oriented policies from his previous administrations.

These will continue to emphasize continental ties, the Pacific pivot to include both Japan and China, parts of the pro-NATO military profile, perhaps an official visit to Cuba with an invitation from Fidel Castro anticipated.

The five expressions of Canadian foreign policy by the new Trudeau government will be in the economic field with the introduction of measures by Industry Minister Alastair Gillespie to amend the bill on foreign ownership affecting new domestic resources projects, and increasing the capitalization of the Export Development Bank to the $5-billion level.

Where the external affairs department is concerned, the continuing problem first facing the minister (male or female) will be how to police the US west coast submarine base from Alaska which has just begun, and its continuing fruitful support for Canada's strong positions at the International Law of the Sea Conference in Caracas.

Former environment minister Jack Davis, MP for Vancouver Kingsway, is the cabinet minister defeated July 8, came back from Canada's only to lose his British Columbia seat.

Davis is a serious loss. Not only had he done months of personal preparation for the tricky Law of the Sea Conference he had already met with some international support for Canada's post tion of a 200-mile limit over the continental shelf, even from the Russians whose massive deep-sea fishing operations have only added to such confusions.

Until he is replaced, the external affairs department, already deeply involved in this crucial world conference on oceans' future, will have to cover for the environment minister.

So there will be plenty for Mr. Mackasey Minister to do at the start.

Road Hazards

One of the most pleasantly rural — yet potentially dangerous roads in the vicinity of Belleville is Prince Edward County road 28 — otherwise known as the Old Picton Road.

For a time there lately, the grass at the side of the road had grown high, to the point that the youngsters interested in the marine life of the casual water near the intersection of Massassaga Road were concealed. It has been cut however, and motorists who know the route probably keep a good look out anyway.

Unfortunately, the Old Picton Road, to a good many motorists, is a speed track. And now the kids are out of school and as often as not they play, with no great concern for traffic, along the side of the tarmac.

One resident of this county road tells us he has twice been forced to brake hard to avoid youngsters who darted out in front of his car. Each time the youngster ran onto the travelled portion of the road, without first looking to see if anything was coming.

Both incidents occurred in the built-up area between Rossmore and the intersection of the Massassaga Road. But there are children practically all the way along this road and unless speed limits are introduced, a tragedy is well within the realm of possibility.

Other rural routes pose similar hazards, but the Old Picton Road, once a main thoroughfare, lends itself peculiarly well to the reckless driver. The surface is good, but in places it is undulating; there are blind hills and blind corners too. Add speeding drivers and some child could lose his life.

We understand that where no signs are posted a speed limit of 50 mph. is supposed to be in effect. But clearly few adhere to such a limit.

The county is the authority and it should indicate a speed limit. No more than 45 or 50 mph.

Provincial Reaction To The Vote

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The government here is pleased with the winner and partly a loser in the federal election.

It is a loser in that it is probably much better off to have a Liberal government in Ottawa carrying the ball in the fight with Alberta over pricing which almost certainly is going to continue.

The Trudeau administration showed last winter on the oil issue that if it could would stand up and fight.

Now of great importance to Ontario is the issue over petrochemicals and ethylene.

The Liberals are already committed on this. They have taken the strong position that supplies should be available for the Ontario market.

Robert Stanfield was very quiet on this question during the campaign.

And if the new set-up finds power it is doubtful if he could have stood up to Premier Lougheed nearly as effectively as a Trudeau administration.

With reason Premier in the western province so dominant in his party he could have a real trouble in opposing the Lougheed policies for that reason because he probably wouldn't have had the support of his caucus and secondly because he would have had to be cautious to give offence.

So that in this sense a Trudeau win was a definite favor.

On the other side of the coin, however, there is a flat contradiction in prospect between the Trudeau and Davis administrations on the question of the fast speculation tax.

Indications from Ottawa have been that Finance Minister John Turner had not agreed to this impost as a deduction from federal tax.

Treasurer John White has said that if in so the province will take the matter to the courts.

There still probably is some possibility of a negotiated settlement.

But chances of a hard fight appear strong.

And on this question a Stanfield as prime minister would be in a better position to accommodate his fellow Conservative government in Ontario.

World Inflation And The Election

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

It's a long time since a Canadian federal election was fought on external affairs or foreign issues. The last one in recent times, which caused a new prime minister John Diefenbaker then in 1957, was over the question of nuclear arms for Canada.

The Conservatives then were seriously divided over nuclear weapons for Canada and the Liberals sounded somewhat about them. This was an ambivalence which the late prime minister Pearson cleared up in a near-election date promise the Liberals would indeed accept them on Canadian soil.

It may have happened in 1963, only yesterday in effect. But the Conservatives have been in power three days, it seems a very long time ago.

Today the Canadian electoral based on foreign policy issues would be making it to the Confederation centennial year in 1967. Liberal Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911 was fought and defeated on a seemingly much larger, U.S. annexation, free trade election plank.

Certainly Liberals since then may have had strong personal thoughts in favor of reciprocity with the U.S. but it is "unpatriotic" policy, but they will never, ever again make it their main election program.

The federal election just concluded is largely concerned with domestic issues to the ignorance of external ones more than any previous election. And we have had plenty of them at the U.N. and the U.S. mainland bombed over the bomb in early 1963.

But the paradox in election 1974 is that it is being fought primarily the many outstanding economic and environmental issues with the United States, with which the new and strong Trudeau government could come to grips immediately.

A catalogue of these will reveal how all-embracing they are; affecting as they do the future economies of our two closely-connected nations for the rest of this decade.

The future of the Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline has to be decided. This venture, now estimated to cost $7 billion, could be finished in 1978, if it is ever built.

There is a rising tide of resentment in the U.S. against what it considers huge profits from Canadian oil and natural gas exports. In America this is called "gouging, pure and simple."

It was an election issue over prudence to be true. But the third Trudeau government will have to face the problem of pressure which affect Americans as well as ourselves.

Bureaucracy's Long Sleep Is Over

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — Slowly, like some after-dinner stumbling action reality, the 100,000 or so people who man the headquarters powerhouse here in the National Capital of the federal government administrative network, are coming awake.

With reluctance, in these first post-election days, the new National Capital Region, Ottawa-Hull, as it has become officially known in federal head offices here, and Parliament Hill shake themselves out of the numbness of those last few months of election campaigning.

While the political leaders were around the country and the politicians were working those many weeks at meeting the people, the Capital dozed in the Spring sun and showers.

Now, suddenly, it is like getting back to business after a holiday.

Ever since May 9, when Pierre Elliott Trudeau dissolved the 28th election, this has been what, long years before Big Blue government came, it was most of the time: The Land of the Afternoon.

Full of quiet.

The corridors of power, empty of the men who wielded it, echoed only to the shuffle of tourists.

Not sure, there were a few ripples across the still surface from the three national headquarters of the parties.

But even here the real political action seemed to be elsewhere, not from Ottawa but from Toronto and Montreal, the campaign power base of both the Big Blue and the Big Red machines.

There were days when the Capital was, once a week when it could be managed, but the few ministers who made it nervous were around long enough to disturb the ever-afternoon tranquility.

They raced in from the airport, quickly elected the big, round, fall-apart table in the cabinet's Centre Block rendezvous room, the Privy Council Chamber, rushed back to the airport.

Seldom was there time or perhaps even the inclination, for a fast, cheering dash in their departments to see what their staffs had been up to.

There really was no need to look in on the department since, for there was not much. And this they all knew.

The machinery of government had been geared down, for weeks, to a quiet idle.

Turnkey civil servants at the junior levels, it churned out the routine, the pension, the family allowance and the unemployment insurance cheques, the off the tax receipts and kept the run-of-the-routine corresponding.

But in the federal administrative headquarters, the real atmosphere, the mandarins, the pro vincials, the politicians fought it out to determine who among them would be coming to Parliament to petition their guidance, accept their counsel and do their bidding.

This time especially, because they could not be at all sure who among the campaigners would be making it to the Commons to receive their direction, the mandarins, pragmatists always, simply waited it out in the quiet, country cubbihis centre of their power.

Why work on "programs," weighing the advisory on the more billions of tax dollars when it was not certain who would return as Prime Minister, and even less sure what he would be thinking, and wanting as a result of his workout with the people across the vast land.

So the "playasters" they are, the Bureaucratic Establishment parading their inaction elegantly, were busy only "postponing" the postponable.

Which was everything beyond what has become almost the automated routine of paper work.

Now, and what to do with it, was the real problem.

Solved, conveniently, by the Three-Hours-For-Lunch Club of the mandarins and what the Public Service has come to know as "flexible hours" for the rank and file.

But now, jarringly, it is back-to-work in the land of the afternoon, and everyone is coming awake.

Democracy in Action

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Sir: Many Canadians seem to bring out the worst in good people. On one hand is Mr. Hockley blasting away at the Conservatives, on the other, an unconcerned Trudeau warning us that civil war was imminent if Mr. Trudeau was re-elected! Little, if any, constructive criticism seems to be coming from either party.

The party leaders and most local candidates are partly to blame. It seems we have a group of children vying for attention, rather than men and women dedicated to the future of our country.

Respect for different points of view is important in a democracy, and can best be exemplified by candidates who are sensitive to the needs of the people; and who have integrity above personal gain.

ALICE G. LEWIS

Touchy

It was one of those things that had to happen — Frank Sinatra, evidently growing testier in his old age, running foul of the touchy Australians.

It is not enough for the Australians that they can boast of such celebrities as Nobel prizewinner (for literature) Patrick White, ballet dancer Robert Helpmann, opera star Joan Sutherland, movie actress Merle Oberon, women's libbers Germaine Greer and Helen Reddy, and even long-time Canadian resident Mike Nichols, himself, they still suffer in their isolation from an inferiority complex.

This manifests itself in a chip-on-the-shoulder attitude toward outsiders, and especially Americans, who in any event manage, not infrequently, to raise the hackles of even the coolest of observers.

One of Sinatra's hatchet men is reported to have assaulted a photographer and the singer himself allegedly made uncomplimentary remarks about Australian women reporters. To a people who don't take kindly to criticism this was too much.

And it gave rise to the biggest international incidents involving Australia and the United States since some members of the Whitlam government got to saying nasty things about the Americans a while back.

Of course incidents like that smoothed over sufficiently to have the union ban on servicing of his private aircraft lifted. The crooner had completed only one of five scheduled concerts, but at last reports he was said to be planning to complete the tour.

Possibly at this stage the Aussies feel they can take the foot-in-the-mouth crooner or leave him. They may well be still smarting from Elvis Presley's refusal of a $1 million contract to perform down under. It seems a Presley representative declined, saying: "any time Elvis needs a million we'll let you know."

That's showbiz!

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised." Luke 4:18

The fact that he is the poor man's friend does not mean that he is the rich man's enemy. It is the love of money that is the "root of all evil". God is no respector of persons.

Processers Are Moving Near Farm Suppliers

BEAVERLODGE, Alta. (CP) — While basic agriculture production has had a long history in this region of country, which covers a huge area of northwestern Alberta and northeastern British Columbia, food and other agricultural processing plants are entering the area at a fast rate.

Dr. C. R. Elliott, head of the forage crops section at the federal research station here, 300 miles northwest of Edmonton, says the industrial developments indicate growing maturity and stability for the area.

"During the last six months plans have been confirmed for edible dehydrating plants at Grimshaw, Rycroft and Beaverlodge in Alberta and at Dawson Creek, B.C.," he said in an interview.

"Three years ago to supply both domestic and foreign markets appeared new industries in the area."

Another development is the construction of a $10-million vegetable crushing plant at Sexsmith, Alta., the first in the Peace region and the second in Alberta. Designed to handle 600 tons of rapeseed a day, the plant will employ more than 70 persons when completed next year.

Growth of the livestock industry is illustrated by plans to construct a provincial-government-sponsored veterinary clinic at High Prairie this year with plans for another at Grande Prairie. They will complement the clinic opened three years ago at Fairview.

Livestock industry growth also is reflected in the relatively recent establishment of meat packing plants at Grande Prairie and Dawson Creek.

The Dawson Creek plant has completed an expansion program to accommodate Alaskan contracts stimulated by the designation of that city as a port of entry for shipments to Alaska," said Dr. Elliott.

The Western Canada Sheepmen's Association has decided to build a plant just south of Edmonton and this will provide Peace River region lamb producers with a firm outlet for the first time, he said.

Today, barley has supplanted wheat as the major crop in the region which sees grasses and forages remaining the most important crops.

Complementing the grass and forage production are the many beekeeping operations in the region, the largest honey-producing area in Canada today.

Honey-processing plants are springing up across the region with three cans under construction or planned at Rycroft, Falher and Beaverlodge.

While the area already is well endowed with seed-cleaning and accounting plants, both private and government-operated, an announcement has been made for expansion of a farmer-owned plant at Rycroft, catering specifically to herbage seeds, and for construction of a new plant at Wembley, Alta.

That plant will process farm lots of commercial seeds on contract and siloed for on-farm use.

A large farm machinery company is completing a $287,000 - facility in Grande Prairie and the United Farmers of Alberta has completed a $100,000 addition to its farm supply outlet in the city.

The developments have affected the role of the federal research station here and there is a new awareness among producers "detected in both the frequency and the sophistication of inquiries received," Dr. Elliott said.

He said the 16-member professional research staff is being consulted by developers of the new industries in the early planning stages and are participating on agricultural advisory committees formed recently at the community level.

"We are proud that our research program is making a vital contribution."

Food Prices: How Much Is Enough

Thomson News Service

Eugene Whelan, the federal agriculture minister and the farmers' friend, is still - consulting that food prices are not high enough.

Canadian consumers are only paying 20.7 per cent more for restaurant meals, and a mere 16.7 per cent more for food prepared at home, than they were a year ago.

Good old Gene Whelan says it's nonsense to suggest that food prices have gone up too much.

He contends that farmers must earn "more" or else developers will buy up farms and turn them into parking lots.

"More" is a nice, ethnic word. It was the celebrated reply of old-time union boss Samuel Gompers when he was asked what labor really wanted.

Mr. Whelan has found it useful, too, ever since he took over the agriculture portfolio.

Perhaps he plans to get equal mileage out of his latest flight of fancy—the spectre of big-city real-estate men buying up rural land, paving it, and somehow luring people to come out from town for the fun of parking their cars.

If Mr. Whelan has no little concern for the plight of the vast majority of Canadian consumers, then he and the Liberal cabinet must have short memories indeed.

Even though the city I vote was no landslide for the Liberals, it appears to have completely erased the memory of the electorate's 1972 rebuke of the Trudeau government.

Th minister seems to be interpreting the latest vote as a mandate to abandon all efforts to keep the lid on inflation—to which food-cost increases have been the biggest contributor ever since mid-1972.

In his role as spokesman for the food-production industry, Eugene Whelan adopts exactly the same line as the oil producers use: Food (oil) has always been under-priced, and consumers will just have to get used to unlimited price increases.

Cop-outs and excuses for the government's hands-off approach, however, are no consolation to the millions of Canadians witnessing the deterioration of their standard of living because of today's 11.4-per-cent inflation rate.

One doesn't necessarily begrudge the success of Mr. Whelan's fortunate farmers, of the oilmen, and of the people whose incomes rise automatically with inflation.

But when will Ottawa show some concern for those consumers good and prudent Canadians whose savings have helped to build this country, and who now are witnessing daily erosion of those savings?

When will the government realize that the desire to save is being killed off, and replaced by a rush to spend today in order to beat tomorrow's price increase?

And when will it learn that Canadian society is weakened every time a politician sets one group against another in an insidious endless quest for "more"?

4-Hers Judge Ayrshires

The Tweed 4-H Calf Club Meeting was held recently at the farm of Donald Tummon, RR 2, Roslin.

Everyone judged a class of four Ayrshire cows. Some of the members gave their reasons for placing the animals and then the correct placings were given. Neat Roger and Bruce handed out sheets on sire selection.

According to the information given the members chose a bull suitable to the cow.

The next meeting will be held July 18, at the farm of Ted Jay.

One Day Holiday

Picnic, Ride the Ferry, Visit Museum

A picnic by the side of one of the province's more unusual lakes, a visit to an aquarium and museum and a ferry ride can all be packed into a few eventful hours if you take a one-day holiday in Prince Edward County.

Start out on your jaunt mid-morning and enjoy a leisurely drive to Lake on the Mountain.

Take Highway 14 south through Picton to Highway 33 east. Continue south of Picton to Lake on the Mountain Road. About five miles east of Picton. Turn right and continue until you come to Lake on the Mountain provincial picnic grounds.

A 125-acre park, developed for daytime use only, the area includes toilets and a picnic area. Saucer-shaped Lake on the Mountain and a 170-foot escarpment on the Bay of Quinte bound the park. No motor boats are allowed on the lake and it provides an ideal place for swimming and fishing. There are no life guards.

After lunch, you can continue your holiday along the same road, County Road 7, until you reach County Road 25. Go south until you reach County Road 8 and continue east to North Marysburgh museum near Wesport.

The museum, known as Rose House, tells the story of the settlement of the area.

The building itself, constructed in 1820 by Peter Rose, is made partially from squared timbers hewn in 1784 for a log chapel there. The museum includes artifacts of early days, including many manufactured locally.

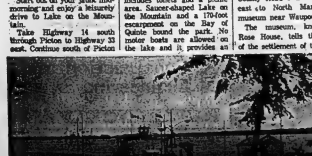
The museum is open daily from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The museum is along the same scenic route or continue along County Road 8 for a tour around the tip — Indian Point — of North Marysburgh. Either way, you'll end up back at Lake on the Mountain.

Take 2

Take the Lake on the Mountain Road back to Highway 33 and turn right to go to the Glenora Ferry and Glenora Fish Hatcheries.

The fishery — housed in a 106-year-old stone building — includes an aquarium, open to the public Wednesday to Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.



Currently a Lake Ontario Research Station, the building was first an iron foundry, then a munitions factory during the First World War. In 1922 it was sold to the Ontario government and became a fish hatchery. The hatchery and lake stocking program were abandoned in the 1950s.

The Quinte Aquarium includes some of the more than 100 species of fish which live in Lake Ontario. Information about the species and about the station are available there free of charge.

After a tour of the aquarium, leave the fisheries' grounds and get in line for the Glenora Ferry. The free ferry runs every 15 minutes from 7 a.m. to 10:45 p.m. on the quarter hour. It leaves Adolphustown on the half hour and hour.

In Adolphustown — a point of land you overlooked from Lake on the Mountain park — you'll be at the spot settled in 1784 United Empire Loyalists came to start a new life. There's a historic plaque at the site and a reproduction museum in the Adolphustown Seaway Park.

If your appetite is still holding out, you can continue along Highway 33 south of Hay Bay where you can continue to Bay View Estates which stands among the rondolestone and wooden grave-markers of early church members.

Take the free ferry to Adolphustown

Make Yogurt At Home — Cheap

At more than 50 cents a pint, yogurt isn't good cheap food anymore — but good. But you can make cheap again by producing it yourself on the top of the stove with some milk and a little warmth and the help of some commercial yogurt.

To start off, you need starter and a clean jar. Experience container of plain commercial yogurt will do fine. Next you need milk — almost any variety. Whole, skimmed, the pre-cost, milk or water and evaporated milk are all suitable.

Put the yogurt in a quart-opening jar or other container of that nature and add the milk. It can be cold or you can warm it to body temperature. If you like stiff yogurt, dissolve one tbsp. of gelatin in a ½ cup cold water, add stir that in gently.

Now place the quart jar in a large kettle of water which is warm to the touch. (Incidentally, you need only a temperature between 90 and 115 degrees but you can't get it wrong.) Place the kettle on the back burner of your electric stove or over the pilot light of your gas stove. If you have an insulated pad, place it under the kettle and turn on your electric stove to the lowest setting. Otherwise; you'll need to turn it on and off, gradually being sure the water doesn't get too hot.

Let it sit there from three to seven hours and remember that the milk will turn to yogurt and can refrigerate the whole jar. You can keep it up to six days in the refrigerator and when in the refrigerator to run out, make a new batch using some of the old as starter.

Keep in mind that when you're dealing with yogurt you're dealing with a living thing: it's special bacteria that produce yogurt from milk. Sometimes they are overcome by other bacteria in your utensils or by bacteria in the air — be very clean and work quickly when preparing yogurt — and what you get isn't yogurt but something on the way to becoming sour milk. At any rate, don't be surprised if sometimes you don't get yogurt but a good batch of cat food. For this reason it's a good idea to start over with fresh commercial yogurt every three to five batches.)

Even counting failures, making yogurt at home is certainly economical. Depending on what kind of milk you use, a quart of home-made yogurt costs from 14 cents to 46 cents, compared with $1.60 for two store-bought pints.

As for nutrition, it's low in calories, high in the very nutrients that make milk so valuable and very easy to digest. There are those who even attribute the longevity of Bulgarians — who eat seven pounds a day — to its yogurt consumption.

Though high temperatures kill those beneficial bacteria, yogurt is an inexpensive and calorie-cheap substitute for sour cream in cooked dishes and a tasty addition to baked goods like coffeecake. Low calories in salads by substituting yogurt for part of the oil or mayonnaise.

Layer fresh sweetened fruit with yogurt for a parfait-like dessert or even blend fruit and yogurt thoroughly in your blender for a refreshing summer drink.

Fashion Nostalgia Hits London

LONDON (AP) — "The battle has been won. I don't think there'll ever be one look again."

That's how Mary Quant, the woman who put the world into mini-skirts, sees London.

With hemlines anywhere from on-the-knee to floor-length-sleeves puffed, padded or down-right dolman; necklines grandma-high or to the navel, it rocks as though she's right.

London may not be the fashion success it was in the '60s, but the fashion here still startles the tourists.

"The English girl likes to be outrageous; she'll wear anything to make people look at her," was an Australian's analysis.

An American student agreed: "Fashion is more extreme here."

You don't have to look long to see what they mean.

Knee-high platform shoes walk everywhere; hair is frizzed into Afros, plaited and dressed with green right up front.

Bizarre combinations are a sign of the times. Pedal-pushers jeans with striped ankle socks team with a leopard skin jacket and silver platforms. A denim jacket tops a flowered crepe skirt and chunky clogs.

Nostalgia is one element they have in common.

About the only thing of the past you won't see on the young is the mini-skirt.

The symbol of be Swinging '60s is a museum piece in the '70s. Literally. It's the main feature of an exhibition, called Mary Quant's London, at the London Museum in Kensington Gardens.

Meanwhile, the mother of the mini is still much on the scene. Though, like fashion itself, Mary Quant is busy diversifying — into "everything" from curtains and sheets to an "after sex" doll.

"Fashion is, international now," she says. "But the ideas come from the English."

London-style, it's the difference between real-life and big screen movies. Here, realistic fashions, like the start of the past, are larger than life. Pants aren't just wider, they're full-blown "Oxford bags" with legs that measure 14 inches or more from front to back cross.

Shoulders aren't just slightly squared, they're fully padded.

She Hated History As Girl

VANCOUVER (CP) — Margaret Ormsby, retiring as head of the history department at the University of British Columbia, has strong feelings for history as a schoolgirl.

"I loathed it," she says.

"It used to be so conventional and political and dull. It seemed to consist of lists of dates of political events and learning the names of prime ministers.

"Fortunately, my own research taught me that it is far more than that. Social and economic aspects are fascinating."

Prof. Ormsby, author of British Columbia: A History, was recently awarded an honorary degree from the University of British Columbia.

It is her fourth. She already has honorary degrees from Simon Fraser, Dalhousie and McMaster universities.

"It's nice to get the recognition," she said in an interview.

Prof. Ormsby graduated from UBC in 1929 and joined the history department in 1941. A staff of 12 in 1965 has increased to 40 and Prof. Ormsby said they are hard pressed to keep up with demand.

"At one time history was a despised subject, but now there is a big appetite for it. We have problems staffing the courses.

"This has a lot to do with the nationalist movement, which is very strong in Canada, but it also is due to the fact that students, at schools and at universities, are encouraged to learn about their locality.

"Once they do this they become very much more involved in Canadian history in its broader aspects."

She said one reason history was so dull was that it was studied from the federal level, from the top down.

"Now the enthusiasm is for writing regional histories and looking at history from the bottom up. This way it becomes much more interesting."

Her father fought in The First World War and old battles were fought over the dinner table. He was an avid reader and Prof. Ormsby remembers being surrounded by history books.

"We lived in the country and this only thing to do was read," she said.

"One day I was shown a Rudyard Kipling. Classic in a town. Just seeing it aroused my interest in the company and then in the whole economic development of the far west.

"This is how to capture people's imagination. You put a local incident in other historical setting and it becomes much more appealing.

"I don't think Canadian history can be studied properly until work has been done at the local and regional levels.

"Then we realize how rich our fabric is."

Diets Don't Work

FREDERICTON (CP) — Most people wondered why there seems to be a new "miracle" diet on the market almost every day?

It's because none of them work, says Nicole Senaze, food and nutrition specialist with the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture.

She said Mrs. Senaze, "there is no miracle diet."

The only way to shrink diet, the water diet, the rice diet—you name it, we have it.

"They're all short-term solutions to a long term problem. Most of these fad diets are dangerous. They may make you more deficient in one or more of the essential nutrients."

Almost equally as useless were reducing methods such as body wrapping and spot reducing.

Mrs. Senaze spoke about dieting during a convention here of the New Brunswick Women's Institutes.

The long-term problem she referred to is obesity and she cites surveys by Nutrition Canada that contends 30 per cent of the population to be overweight or obese.

Mrs. Senaze said obesity is "simply a positive energy balance in other words, too many calories for what we need."

There were many reasons for obesity, including speculation about hereditary influences.

For instance, if a child is overfed during his early years, his fat cells continue to increase, so even if he goes on a strict diet when he finds himself in an overweight adult, it is not going to do him much good, she said.

"The fat cells will just shrink and can fill up again quickly. A man's yet been proven (by nutritionists) but they're well on their way to it."

Then, people overeat because of boredom, anxiety, stress, loneliness, "all kinds of reasons."

Nutrition Canada had found cases of obese and non-obese people whose calory intakes were identical each day. The reason for the variety there was that the obese people were not compensating with sufficient exercise."

Respect And Responsibility Are Basis for Sexual Ethics

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I find your approach to the subject of human sexuality very warm and informative. I am sure your articles are of great help to many people who would be frightened of reading sex manuals, but, consider it what is being said as a newspaper.

In talking to a group at the last annual Children's Aid Society Conference, I found that there were some of the members who were upset that I talked about sex with realdonalips, yet there is a relationship at some level between two people who negotiate to have intercourse.

Granted, it may not be an intimate relationship, but the ethics, I feel, are that at whatever level it is, it is negotiated honestly so that one is not expecting eternal love while the other is expecting a one night stand! I certainly will grant that there can be love without sex and sex without love but the combination is what gives the greatest satisfaction to both sex and love.

I meet a number of the students, females, particularly, who are going around in search of an orgasm, feeling that intercourse is the obvious route, yet they are giving themselves in a tremendous handicap to be searching for a performance level without knowing what would be one of their greatest boosters. If they had love in the relationship, maybe the orgasm would be longer have to be so important.

My emphasis in talking with young people is always on consideration, respect for themselves and the other person, and responsibility towards themselves, the other person and the possible child. I feel that this is a basic value system and still allows considerable latitude.

I have yet to have anyone disagree with it logically, emotionally when two people get together, there are so many other emotional things that they are trying to not put that they forget some of these ethics, e.g., the girl who has to give in because the fellow might think she is a sissy, or wouldn't ask for another date, or she doesn't feel comfortable asking him to use a condom; and the fellow who feels that he has to ask for sex to satisfy his male ego for conquest.

Possibly the requirement is too heavy for him at that point, too, if he could be honest about it. But what would the girl think, if he didn't make the ultimate pass?

Certainly, sexuality is a very broad field and I am still thinking and trying to sort out ideas around it. I guess people have been for thousands of years.

Joyce Ainsworth, M.S.W. Co-ordinator, Human Sexuality Program, McMaster University Medical Centre.

Dear Joyce: My readers will appreciate your thoughtful, educated comments. Our young people need all the help they can get in coping with today's pressures.

(Have you an idea about people that you'd like to share? Write to Doris in care of this newspaper.)

Runs On Water

CHICAGO (AP) — Your television set requires 400 gallons of water for a single night's viewing, say water treatment experts at Ecodyne Corp. The water is used at the electrical power plant to provide steam for the giant turbines and to cool the steam after it has exhausted its energy potential.

Ann Landers

Medic Alert Saves Lives

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the lady whose child is allergic to penicillin that she should have him registered with Medic-Alert Foundation International, a non-profit organization.

They will send a form to be filled out by his physician and the information will be fed into a computer. Medic-Alert will then send (for a modest charge) either a necklace or a bracelet with the person's name, his medical problem, his computer number. Medic-Alert's phone number and instructions to call collect.

In case of an emergency, the doctor in charge at the hospital will see the bracelet or necklace, and know the patient has a special problem. He will call Medic-Alert and get the information immediately.

Such information can be life-saving in case of an accident or sudden illness. I hope you will publish this letter so your readers who have allergies, diabetes, etc. will know this type of service is available. For details they should write to Medic-Alert, P.O. Box 1009, Turlock, Calif., 95380.—Carl R. Of Berkeley

Dear Carl: I appreciate this opportunity to tell the world about Medic-Alert. I have known of it for quite a while but needed a letter from a reader, since there is a small fee involved. I have a strict rule of not implementing anything commercial in my column.

Dear Ann Landers: I go along with Reluctant in Chicago. He and I must be dating the same girls. I neither idolize women nor do I use them for doormats. I approach them as equals and friends. But it seems like 90 per cent of the chicks I've been wining and dining are off on an ego trip, playing one game after another. No one is interested in developing a mature, lasting relationship.

The "reject's" data who told him he was "too serious, too sensitive and too insecure" sounds like the broad I took out Sunday night. Those words were so familiar they must be part of her canned routine to disguise her own hang-ups.

I am 28, an attorney, not handsome, but no freak. You asked the guy who wrote, "Where do you find those barracudas?" Then you advised him to fish in other waters. Pray tell, "where are those other waters?" Tell me so I can fish there, too.—Carless Copy

Dear Carless: He didn't say where he'd been "fishing," but I'll bet he was making the cocktail lounges, bars and usual run-of-the-mill singles joints where girls go to get picked up.

The best way to meet decent people is through decent people. Let your friends know you want to be introduced. Adult education classes and hobby clubs are worth looking at. Travel can turn up some interesting and smart women. And never pass up an invitation to a wedding. For some unexplainable reason, that's where a great many people find their mates.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 25-year-old, happily married woman with a master of arts degree in sociology. Recently, while on a short business trip, one of the male faculty members put his arm around me while I was speaking with the host of a college we were visiting. I was deeply embarrassed by his unprofessional conduct and tried to pull away. He deliberately kept a firm grasp on me.

During those anxiety-filled moments I kept thinking, What would Ann Landers do if she were in my place?" How about it?—Sweet Reef

Dear Reef: I would have wrenched free of the clod, even if it meant landing him on his head. The embarrassment would be HIS, not mine.

We Have Heard Enough Phony Threats of Doom

By DR. GORDON C. SMYTH

A sense of the critical nature of the times has led some people to conclude that their age was the beginning of the End, the climax of history. Those who hold this opinion nowadays...

The biblical passages on which predictions of the End have been based are found chiefly in Daniel and Revelation, together with a few texts from the Gospels and the Epistles.

Significantly, there is scarcely any reference to the collection of prophetic books that forms the second of the three divisions of the Hebrew Bible, which is our Old Testament. Yet it is this division that contains the books of such prophets as Isaiah, Jeremiah, Amos and Hosea.

Moreover, the predictions have been made according to the theory of the mechanical inspiration of all Scripture. Literature of "Jehovah's Witnesses" is an illustration. Note this statement, Just as an invisible radio beam can carry information to you, so God's invisible active force directed the writers of the Bible to put down what he wanted mankind to know." With a view boggles the mind!

Consider the case of Daniel. Antiochus Epiphanes decided to rule his Syrian empire with an iron hand. All Jews were to adopt Greek culture for the sake of imperial unity. The Jewish people tried to resist the despot.

In 168 B.C. Antiochus began to persecute them. Going all out, he would think of going, he desecrated the altar of the temple in Jerusalem by offering a pig there in honor of the Greek god Zeus. This was in the winter of 167 B.C. Further, his royal standard was carried from village to village and Jews were commanded to bow before it.

The Book of Daniel was neither known nor quoted before 19 B.C. But shortly thereafter it began to be circulated as a kind of pre-view or underground way. The book was a tract for troubled times. It was written under the guise of having been composed four hundred years before, when Jews were persecuted by Nebuchadnezzar. The author of Daniel and his companions took heart into their descendants.

Could the unknown author of the book be accused of a pious fraud? Not at all. He was true to literary practices of those times. And what he was trying to say is the central message of the Bible for every generation. We are to walk by faith, not by sight. God, the source of our faith, is always by our side.

What if people read Scripture for this food for the soul instead of viewing the book of Daniel as a kind of almanac? What if they looked to the world of nature from which Jesus drew so many parables rather than to the interior world of speculation?

Would that world of God fall them? I think not. For life never fails. Neither do virtue, friendship nor the sort of love that is described so supremely in 1st Corinthians 13.

Thus the Gospel calls us in praise God and to work for the world that Jesus Christ came to save, not condemn (John 3:17). We have many reasons for happiness and confidence. Let us embrace them. We have had more than enough of phony claims and threats of doom.

Chérubims and Seraphims Attract Nigerian Converts

LAGOS (Reuter) — A strange and successful religious sect is growing stronger here and becoming more prominent on every section of society, including the criminal class.

Recently, a high court was told that a man on trial for attempted rape kept two boxes of Indian hemp in Stella had carved on the chest the "special prayers" before the journey.

Then another court heard evidence of incantations found on a woman caught at Lagos Airport as she was about to board a plane to Europe with 189 pounds of cannabis. The court was told she got the charm from a "prophet."

Both testimonies and other accounts of midnight prayers and religious rites by witnesses at hemp trials here have turned the searchlight on Nigeria's self-proclaimed prophets and their activities.

Most prophets are members of the religious sect, the Cherubims and Seraphims, known as the Aladuras or Praying Group. They claim to possess supernatural powers to deal with any problem.

Adherents may be from any disease or ailment, make the barren pregnant and foretell the future after periods of fasting and prayer.

True or false, these claims are attracting hundreds of converts and Aladura groups have mushroomed.

Membership represents a cross-section of the community, top military officials, senior civil servants, businessmen, smugglers, the professionals, spinsters and the unemployed.

Most of the girls are anxious to find suitable husbands.

Leaders of the sect say it was founded in 1925 in the Yoruba town of Ilaro, in the Western state, by a man called Moses Orimolade Tunolase. They claim that Tunolase stood on his feet and talked intelligibly the day he was born and later healed the sick and performed miracles through prayers.

Before he died in 1933, the religion had spread in the country and to parts of neighboring Dahomey. It was exported to Togo, Ghana, Liberia, Sierra Leone and the United Kingdom in the last decade. The United Kingdom branches are in London and Birmingham, founded by Nigerians.

Although a Christian organization, the worship involves robes and open-air meetings, protracted at intervals by drumming and loud sermons exhorting the Aladuras from other Christians.

Church services are held at least twice daily. Services are usually noted by fervent fasting. A prophet or seer falls into trance and forecasts impending doom which can be averted only by special prayer.

Some of the established groups have churches, but generally members of the sect prefer worshipping in secluded areas in makeshift tents and huts.

The Aladuras are believers in fasting for spiritual regeneration. The duration—it can is the longest on record without food—depends on the miracle the prophet wants to perform.

The sect has been bedevilled by leadership struggles in recent years and split into several factions. Each claims its spiritual leader and prophets are more resourceful.

E. Obi Coker, leader of one faction which professes it has kept strictly to the teachings of "saint" Tunolase, said many imposters have found their way into the sect.

Thousands of them are moving around, he said, preying on less and use the church to get on."

Recently some prophets were exposed and publicly charged with abduction of members who said one was killed before her for obtaining money under false pretences.

Fakes notwithstanding, the prophets are in demand. Each group is sustained by members' subscription and the prophets themselves get good rewards for every special prayer said.

Minister Is Trying to End Indians' Distrust of Church

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rev. Terry Shillington, a United Church minister involved with a non-sectarian project known as P.A.C.T.—People Acting on Community Terms—is trying to rid a predominantly Indian and Metis section of the city's north end of distrust not only of the Church but of its neighbors.

"The things we believe in should be more concerned with things in our lives and yet, so often, the way we express them; they get kind of drab and worn out," he said in an interview.

In the area bounded by Main Street, Manitoba Avenue, the CP Rail yards and the Arlington Street viaduct, he is assisted by an international crew of young people wanted to form a group making money to purchase instruments, but didn't get around to it when the money came.

"I'm the only one they trust so I keep the money for them," he said.

Rev. John Wieg, P.A.C.T.'s executive director, said the project of bringing people with different concerns together was prompted him to leave a directorship of the Big Brothers in British Columbia.

"This is new to me," he said. "This is the genius of the whole thing." The P.A.C.T. technique was not the highly sophisticated kind such as social animation found in Canada but simply casual meetings of people analyzing their concerns and ways to solve their problems.

The way to free people of their distrust is to work with small groups, Mr. Shillington said. Christianity is the story of people transformed by love.

Instead of using conventional Sunday school Bible lessons, he has been trying to introduce the "celebration" element of P.A.C.T.—getting every one from cubs in a community-sponsored parade to shoppers at a mission clothing depot to illustrate through drama, music and interpretations what regilion has to do with everyday life.

P.A.C.T. started in 1972 with the merging of the Inner City Church community service centres, is looking at concepts of family counselling, staging a children's programs with the Boys' Club of Canada as well as a day camp program funded by Opportunities for Youth.

Currently, it is involved with a food co-op, child-health centres, women's interest groups, drop-in programs and a teen employment project funded by the provincial government.

Russians in Israel Face Complications

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Immigrants by the thousand from the Soviet Union have found that freedom has its complications.

For people with a Western background, the problems of choice and competition is natural within the restrictions of educational, professional and social limitations. For those coming from a closed, directed society, the choice of options can be frightening.

Some idea being told in Israel may be apocryphal but they illustrate some of the problems. One tells of the tailor who arrived with his family, having already been promised to emigrate from the Soviet Union after years of application.

Like other newcomers, he was given rooms in an absorption centre, his first meal laid out with funds donated by the Jewish Agency through worldwide appeals. He and his family were given intensive Hebrew language course at an Ulpan Language Training workshop and most months later were provided with housing.

Long - term low - interest loans enabled him to buy furniture and special facilities to outfit a workshop with sewing machines and other implements.

Within a month he was back at the absorption centre and ministry of immigrant absorption officers, banging on the table.

"What's wrong? He was asked. "Machine broken down? Workshop unsatisfactory?"

"No, that's all right, but why haven't you sent me any customers?," he demanded.

Another story of a young woman immigrant takes on a tour of Tel Aviv within a day of her arrival, during which she was take through a supermarket.

The economic situation here must be catastrophic," she commented after spending some time looking at the packed shelves. "Obviously only for show. Nobody can afford to buy anything.

To discover when a store gets supplies and they are put on the shelves, everything is snapped up immediately and the shelves are soon empty."

Most immigrants, and especially those without means, spend the first few months in Israel within the sheltered surroundings of immigrant absorption centres, learning Hebrew and making their first adjustments to life here.

Some psychologists said the first signs of worry appear a month or so before they leave for their new homes and jobs.

"How will we set up house?" they ask. "How will we adjust to our new neighbors and their ways? How will I get along in my new job? How will I decide when faced with a free choice?

All these become serious problems, the psychologists said.

The do-it-yourself attitude of citizens with even a rudimentary knowledge of house repairs seems completely absent from the former residents of Moscow, Kiev or Minsk.

What might be thought to be one of the most difficult readjustments—to freedom of speech—appears to be one of the easiest. After the first few weeks of guarded conversation, free speech erupts in a flood.

Stately old Bridge Street home being restored inside and out.

Character of House Restored

By JIM SMELLIE
Staff Reporter

Over the years Bridge Street has come to represent an important part of Belleville's history. The homes along the treelined street, some of them over 150 years old, add a valuable page to the city's historical records.

With this in mind, a city resident has been busy renovating one home on the corner of Bridge and William streets to the original style of the 150-year-old building.

For the past few months, Brian Knudsen has gone about renovating the exterior of his home. Since September he and his wife, Lynn, have been working on the interior, trying as much as possible to keep the furnishings in the style of that time.

Brian is the third owner of the house. The original owner was U. E. Thompson, a city banker. Mr. Thompson's daughter, Ida, resided in the house for 36 years, before moving to Montgomery Lodge three years ago. She died recently at the age of 80.

Mr. Thompson was married to Matilda Corby, a sister of Senator Harry Corby. The Corbys at one time owned the house next to the Thompson one.

This adjacent house is also being renovated in the original style by its new owner, Charles Misener.

The Thompson house is 4,000 square feet in size and contains 12 rooms, including a solarium upstairs.

The floors had to be stripped of paint leaving the hardwood exposed. As well parquet tile was inlaid. Many of the windows were covered when Brian moved in and had to be replaced.

The original furniture was sold in a sale and the only original piece retained by the Knudsens was a bedroom suite. The rest of the furnishings were obtained through much hard work and searching.

A period type of wallpaper had to be imported from France but everything else is domestic.

One aspect of the three-storey building's age is the evidence of the age of 80.

Student Jobs Get a Push

TRENTON — A Canada Manpower drive to hire students in July was given visual impetus this week when town utility crews erected a banner on the Trenton St. swing bridge to encourage hiring.

July proclaimed Hire a Student Month by Mayor Robert Patrick recently, was a concerted push to place student in various jobs in town.

Student Manpower officials encourage businesses and town residents to hire students for temporary summer help during peak vacation months.

Students available for hiring are drawn from universities and secondary schools in Trenton, Brighton, and Bayside.

City Man Charged

MARMORA — A Belleville man, Ian Reid, charged with failing to yield to through traffic following an accident Friday afternoon at the corner of Forsythe and Matthew Streets in Marmora.

James Emmett Orpen, 36, of 44 Highland Ave., Belleville, was northbound on Forsythe St. at 1.45 p.m. when he came into collision with a car driven by John Leo Donaldson, 34, of RR 2, Marmora.

The drivers, each alone in his car at the time of the accident, were uninjured. Damage of the Orpen car was $600 and to the Donaldson car $300.

Three Charges After Collision

MADOC — Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police have charged Walter F. Brown, 67, of Deseronto with three counts after the car he was driving came into collision with a parked car on St. Lawrence St. in Madoc.

The Crookston man was charged with careless driving, impaired driving and with having more than 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 milliliters of blood.

A parked car belonging to Lillian Armstrong was damaged to the extent of $1,000 in the accident that occurred at 10.50 p.m. Friday. Damage in the Bronson car was $1,500.

Fire-eater Nabbed With Gun

Belleville police took a professional fire-eater into custody Friday morning and charged him with possession of a restricted firearm and possession of stolen goods.

Trevor Earl Witter, 21, of Ottawa, an entertainer, was apprehended on Front St. when police suspicions were aroused by the behavior of three occupants of a parked car. On searching the car they found a .22 calibre revolver in a briefcase belonging to Witter. Police said the weapon had been stolen in Marmora.

Witter is being held in custody in the Quinte Regional Detention Centre in Napanee and will appear in court in Belleville Monday morning.

Husband Injured

Belleville Woman Dies In Highway Two Crash

A Belleville woman, Mary Jean Hayes, 40, was dead on arrival at Belleville General Hospital this morning following a one-car accident on Highway 2 about one mile west of Shannonville.

Her husband, Frank Hayes of 7 Elm St. was admitted to hospital with head and back injuries.

The Hayes car was found in a field beside the highway about 6 a.m. It had apparently rolled before coming to rest in the field.

Mrs. Hayes was born in Kalador, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kirkham. She is survived by five sons, Gerry of Kingston and Wayne, Brian, Kevin and Richard of Belleville and three daughters, Sandra, Beverly and Brenda, all at home.

There are two brothers, Bernard and Reginald Kirkham of Kingston and a sister, Mrs. William (Shirley) Kolger of Kalador. A sister, June, predeceased her. She was the grandmother of Toni-Lynne and Scott Hayes.

The funeral will be held July 16 at 1 p.m. at the John R. Bush Funeral Home.

Festival Winner To Be Seen Here

For the first time, a major Canadian film will play Belleville's Odeon Cinema when The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz opens there when The Sting ends its run.

The much-heralded movie version of Mordecai Richler's 1959 novel — made in Canada with Canadian money, the promoters like to stress — stars high-powered American actor Richard Dreyfuss, familiar to local audiences as Curt in American Graffiti which recently enjoyed a long local run.

Other stars in the film — with the exception of French-Canadian love interest, Micheline Lanctot — are in fact, American actors, too.

What is important, however, is that the technicians, the bit actors and the producer and director — not to mention the author and the money — are all Canadian.

Produced by Astral Films and shot in 75 locations around Montreal and the Laurentians, Duddy — purists say carries a heavy load of a young man caught up in "making it" in the St. Urbain St. ghetto of the 1940's.

Aggressive and impatient, Duddy wants to be somebody fast.

The story of his success and failure is what make the movie. The success or failure of the movie may well be what makes or breaks the movie-going public's interest in films bearing that hopeful label, Canadian- made.

"Duddy" is already a hit with the critics. Earlier this month it won the "Golden Bear, top award in the Berlin Film Festival.

Buses Free

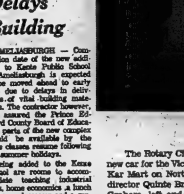
Free bus transportation will be supplied by the Downtown Bankers on Friday, July 19 from 1 p.m. - 6 p.m. in the junction with the Downtown Street Festival of Values.

Four Hurt In Crash

MADOC — Four people were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital following an 8.25 p.m. accident at the junction of Highway 7 and 62.

Mary - Anne Bloomfield, 22, of Bancroft, was the driver of the eastbound car involved in the accident. Her passengers were Al Bloomfield, 17, and Dawn Wismer, 16, both of Harris and Charles Donnelly, 9, of North Gower. Damage to their car was $1,500.

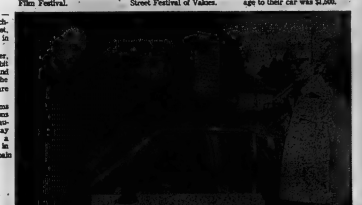
Shortage Delays Building



AMELIASBURGH — Completion date of the new addition to Ecole Public School in Ameliasburgh is expected to be moved ahead to early 1975 due to delays in deliveries of vital building materials. The contractor, however, has assured the Prince Edward County Board of Education part of the new complex would be available by the time classes resume following the summer holidays.

Being added to the Ecole School are rooms to accommodate teaching industrial arts, home economics and art room, a classroom and a general purpose gymnasium-cum-auditorium with change room and showers attached.

The school's old library is being converted into a science room while the former gym and auditorium is being converted to a library and resources centre.



Puppet Shows In Festival

This year's Summer Street Festival on Friday, July 19,19,20 features a puppet show by Mrs. John T. Belleville's paper Mache lady. The shows will be held at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. in front of Tots'n Teens on Front.

JANET WILSON daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wilson RR 3 Stirling, graduated June 21 from the Edith Cavell School of Nursing at Belleville, Ontario, with a General Proficiency Award presented by Campbellford Memorial Hospital. She has accepted a position at Belleville General Hospital.

Welcome Gift

The Rotary Clubs of Belleville and Picton joined forces in acquiring a new car for the Victorian Order of Nurses. The car, purchased at Alexander's Kar Mart on North Front Street, was presented to Valerie Truax, district director Quinte Branch of the VON by Belleville Rotary president, Bob Graham, left and Picton Rotary Club president, Howard Malfett.

Bikes Boom in Belleville

By LINDA HARVEY

It seems that, in spring, people's fancies turned to bicycles in Belleville.

For example Paul Keogh, from the Canadian Tire Store sports department says 1,500 bicycles were sold in all of 1973. But since April of this year approximately 1,000 have already been sold.

"The beginning of spring is when we get the biggest sales. This year the sales started April 1. The large sales last through April and May."

Mr. Keogh added: "It all depends on the weather," when people start buying bikes.

"The sale of smaller bikes usually begins the end of June and on into July. Ten-speeds are popular this year."

There has also been a "big boom" in the sales of baby carriers. The carriers are hooked to the back fender of a bike so that a child can go riding with the rest of the family.

On an average scale, standard two-wheelers cost 30 and 10-speeds or more cost $60. "A good 10-speed cost about $179," estimates Mr. Keogh.

A salesman at Stephen Licence said the bike prices range as high as a particular steel were $95 to $600, which buys an Italian model that weighs 22 pounds and has an assortment of knuckles.

Jim Johnston said that Western Tire and Auto Supply has sold close to 100 bikes so far this year. "Bikes really start selling the end of June, when the kids get out of school."

Duroyal has sold 35 to 40 bicycles this year. They began selling them in April. A salesman said that most of the bikes sold were five and 10-speeds.

Howard McCarthy at Sears said the store has sold 900 to 1,000 bikes this year. "Most of them are the 10-speed racers." He believes that people are buying more bikes because of the high gas prices, and said "it's a good form of exercise, keeps people in shape and it is a lot of fun."

He noted the baby carrier, holding a child weighing up to forty pounds is a hot Sears item.

They cost twenty dollars. We have sold three times as many this year than we did last year. They are becoming more popular all the time.

Bicycles at one time were just something people enjoyed riding for a sport. Things have changed and with the emergence of the 10-speed, people are using them as a way to get around.

Like any means of transportation, cycling is not without problems. Paul and Cheryl Gregory made plans to take their wedding trip on their bicycles. But the bride's bike was stolen two or three weeks before the wedding, so the couple couldn't take their trip from Vandewater Park to parts unknown, they had to make other arrangements. However there are still no many problems in the cycling fraternity to say the honeymoon is over.

Almost everyone has joined the bike movement in Belleville, and 15-month-old Melissa Sunday is no exception as she rides her minibike with foot power.

Rosy Welcome

Thirteen students from Quebec will be spending the next two weeks in the city as part of an exchange visit sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews. Arriving on the train with them were 13 Belleville students who just spent two weeks in the homes of their Quebec counterparts. Part of the welcome for the Quebec students was a rose presented to each girl by Mrs. A Gardiner of the Belleville Garden Club.

No Jeans with Licence

PICTON — "No blue jeans allowed." Proper attire for both males and females," reads the sign in the entrance to the newly renovated lounge of Picton's Royal Hotel.

As the Royal takes on the look with a Liquor licence soon to be acquired, this is the new policy of the Picton hotel, says proprietor, Leonard Kordy.

"We are trying to better the apparel of the hotel's patrons," comments Mr. Kordy. "In this way we hope to lessen the problem of troublemakers.

The Royal Hotel is the second hotel in Picton to acquire a liquor licence, and is one of several locally that is adopting the "no jeans" policy.

The new renovations to the hotel's interior are expected to be completed in approximately one month, says the proprietor. Included in the new look is a bar for the thirsty, integrating rooms, and broadloom carpeting.

Formerly lacking a proper stage, the Royal Hotel, now has a raised stage for its performers, who, at present, are performing on weekends. But this is expected to change.

"We are striving toward weekly entertainment from now on instead of just the customary weekend bands," stressed Mr. Kordy.

The hotel proprietor added that the trend will now be focused toward entertainment instead of dancing.

"There will still be a dance floor, of course," said Mr. Kordy, "but it will not be nearly as large.

"This is the way the trend is today," commented Mr. Kordy.. "We are trying to meet the demands and desires of the people."

Fourth Amateur Title for Cowan

ANCASTER, Ont. (CP) — Gary Cowan won his fourth Ontario amateur golf title Friday when he [illegible] again, a week before returning to playing full time.

But, as he did a year ago after announcing his semi-retirement, Cowan did say that he'll play in three more major events this year—the Canadian Willingdon Cup team and at the Canadian amateur and Canadian Open championships.

One of the world's outstanding amateurs, the 31-year-old Kitchener insurance executive shot a one-over-par three rounds of play here why he still is so highly regarded despite his cutback to play.

He shot a closing round par 70 over the hilly 6,670-yard Hamilton Golf and Country Club layout to finish four strokes in front of Mike Meslin of Toronto Thursday with a 54-hole score of 211—one over par.

The former Canadian and U.S. amateur champion opened with a 68 on Wednesday, slipped to a 73 Thursday but led all three days. He was only one of two players to break par during the three-day event.

Scott Knapp of Hamilton Glendale fired a 69 in the final round but finished seventh with a 226 score.

One stroke back of Meslin, at 212, was veteran Ken Doig, 48, of Dunfarvin, who has competed in the provincial championship for 12 years but has yet to win [illegible] a title, with a 72.

Kitchener Rockway veteran Gerry Kaczmarsky, finished [illegible] at 74 for 218 and a fourth-place tie with defending champion Kelly Roberts of Lasalle, Scarborough and Bruce Brewer of Whitevale.

Kaczmarsky and co-favorite with Cowan to win his third successive Ontario Golf Association title, finished with a 73.

"I was bulling mad," said the 32-year-old Roberts, "but haven't played a good game in months."

Cowan, meanwhile, credited a change in driving woods with his success off the tee Friday.

"I was satisfied with my putting during the tournament, but I was hitting bad shots," Cowan said. "Last night I spent two hours in bed analyzing my mistakes and came to the conclusion that the fault was in my driving."

He selected one that he used three weeks ago and worked out at home before driving back here for the final round. His successful transition seemed to steadily an otherwise precision-like performance.

"I figured I hit eight ten shots on Thursday that were unplayable," Cowan concluded, "so I changed my driving woods and was a positive one—not psychological."

One drive on the 427-yard fourth hole was "only 97 steps from the green."

Carrolls Gang Up on Pirates

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Carrolls and Pittsburgh Pirates coming and going Friday night.

After Tom Carrol went, Clay Carroll came in to help Cincinnati Reds clinch a 4-3 decision and sweep their National League twi-night doubleheader from the Pirates.

"It's great to beat Pittsburgh, but I can beat the hometown team," said Tom Carrol, a rookie who grew up in Pittsburgh.

After the Reds took the first game 7-6, Carroll got the second in a 6-game assignment and pitched efficiently while his pitcher, three brothers and three sisters looked on and cheered.

His win taken out of the game in the ninth inning after giving up a leadoff hit, in came the other Carroll and the reliever got the next three outs to secure the rookie's second victory in his second start.

Elsewhere, Atlanta Braves beat St. Louis Cardinals 7-3 in the first game of a double-header before losing the second 10-6.

Houston Astros trimmed Chicago Cubs 9-4, San Diego Padres topped Montreal Expos 1-0, New York Mets downed Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2 and Philadelphia Phillies beat San Francisco Giants 6-2.

Tom Carroll and Pittsburgh rookie Larry Demery were locked in a 3-3 duel until the fifth inning of the second game.

With two outs in the fifth inning Johnny Bench hit a pop fly to right that fell for a double. Dan Driessen then grounded to shortstop Mario Mendoza, whose throw to first pulled Willie Stargell off the bag.

Bench came home slanting up ahead of Stargell's throw to the plate.

In the opener, Don Gullett, 10-6, pitched a five-hitter, struck out nine and walked three for the Reds.

Atlanta pushed across three eighth-inning runs on a fielder's choice, a bases-loaded walk and a squeeze bunt and went on to defeat St. Louis and Bob Gibson in the opener of their doubleheader.

Rookie Bob Forsch, making his second major league start, pitched the route for the Cardinals in the second game.

Steve Ridden Reggie Smith drove in four of the Cards' nine runs and tallied against Reds Capps, 9-4, and Lew Krausse, 4-3. St. Louis sent 13 batters to the plate.

Gibson, seeking to become the second pitcher in major league history to record 3,000 strikeouts, finally only struck eight batings in the opener and fell one short of the mark as his record dropped to 5-3.

Lee May drove in four runs for Cincinnati in the nightcap.

Dave Winfield doubled home a first-inning run for San Diego and left-hander Randy Jones pitched a five-hitter as the Padres snapped Montreal's six-their third straight victory.

Bobby Tolan singled in the first inning to set up Winfield's run-scoring double off loser Ernie Mickolio, 6-10.

Ted Martinez's two-run single batted in four-run seventh inning that powered New York over Los Angeles.

Two-out singles by Mike Schmidt, Willie Montanez and Del Unser batted in the in the seventh inning and Philadelphia went on to beat San Francisco.

Long Time Between Wins For Angels' Dick Williams

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may be, as the song says, a long, long way from May to December when you haven't won a baseball game from October to May.

The last time Dick Williams' team won a game it made Oakland A's world champions last October. Friday night, Williams' new team, California Angels, finally won one. After losing 10 in a row and 12 of their last 13 they finally won one, 7-6 over Boston Red Sox.

That left the last-place Angels 16½ games behind the A's in the American League's West Division.

The Angels had dropped a club record 11 in a row, tot the longest started under new manager Whitey Herzog.

"At least we finally got our first one," Williams said. "That's the first one of what I hope will be many.

"Everyone knows I don't like to lose. However, this is a little different because we have to find out a lot of things about what we've got a lot to do, many changes to make, but we've got to do it gradually.

Elsewhere, Cleveland Indians whipped Minnesota Twins 9-5, Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 4-3, New York Yankees blanked Detroit Tigers 5-0, Kansas City Royals drubbed Detroit Tigers 7-2 and Texas Rangers got edged Milwaukee Brewers 4-3.

The Angels won behind the 10-hit pitching of rookie Ed Figueroa and two runs by Willie Solon Llenas and Frank Robinson.

Charlie Spikes led a 15-hit Cleveland attack, driving in three runs with a single, double, home run and sacrifice fly. The Indians took a 6-0 lead in the first inning, chasing Minnesota starter Ray Corbin. Perry pitched seven innings for his 13th victory. One of the hits he allowed was a home run by Larry Hisle.

Canada Shaded —Again

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AFP) — Yugoslavia beat Canada 102-98 in overtime Friday in the second amateur basketball tournament.

It was the fifth victory in a row for the Yugoslav side but they had to fight off a late comeback by the Canadians.

After the Yugoslavs built up a solid 53-39 lead at half time, the Canadians came back strongly and after 40 minutes the Scots led 80-80. Then the Yugoslavs spoke took command.

It was Yugoslavia's second victory over Canada in the tournament.

The Canadians threw up a defence designed to stop Dragan Kicanovic and caught the defending champions napping. Canada went in front about mid-way in the second half and maintained a two-to-six-point advantage until less than a minute remained in regulation time.

Kresmir Cosic, a centre who sat out most of the game, scored the two points that forced the contest into overtime.

Canada, winner of only one tournament game, lost by only one point to Puerto Rico and then by three in its first encounter with Yugoslavia. The team's worst defeat was a 37-point loss to the United States.

Canada's victory was by 15 points over Spain.

Centre Ken McKenzie pulled in 21 rebounds and scored 25 points to lead his team against the Yugoslavs.

Dragan Kicanovic was his team's high scorer with 38.

Other Canadian scorers include Phil Tollestrup, with 20 points, Gerald Brandt, with 18 and Alex Devlin 18.

In other championship round games, Cuba downed Spain 84-75, the United States handled Brazil 103-83 and the Soviet Union beat Puerto Rico 87-76.

Nicklaus Makes Move for Lead

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — It looked like a repeat performance as Tom Weiskopf opened his British Open golf championship today as Jack Nicklaus chased him.

It was Weiskopf's hands and wastes and bushes beside the Irish Sea.

Both are bidding for their third British title, and they headed into the last day with identical four-over totals.

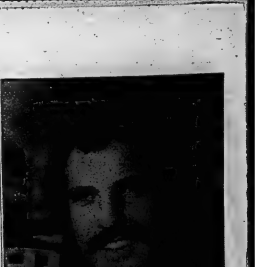
Player, the South African who first won this crown in 1959, had a 71 and Nicklaus of the United States was at 216.

Between them was Britain's best hope, Peter Oosterhuis, 24. Player didn't try to conceal that Nicklaus was his biggest worry.

"I'm not nervous. Anybody can be nervous. I'm confident, and I'm choking," Player said. "Jack will be charging. My lead is Sunday's best score.

All day Friday the terrors of Royal Lytham and St. Anne's links, which had upset the field after another of the first two days, chipped away at Player's nerves. He began the day one over par and finished with a 71 that left him two strokes ahead of the field.

Nicklaus, who has won the British Open twice before, had a 70 and was content to make a run at Player's lead today.



"I can't remember doing much a thing in 18 years," Player said.

He went on to miss a putt and wound up with a double bogey five. It was the first time in three days he'd taken a shot he didn't like.

In contrast, Nicklaus scored an eagle three at the seventh hole with the help of what he called "the finest one-iron shot of my life." That shot—his second—carried 218 yards, and he sank a 25-foot putt.

The buoyant American looked ahead to a championship duel against Peter Oosterhuis, 24, in 1962.

"Gary caught me from nine back with two rounds to go," Nicklaus said. "All day I kept thinking that if he could do that I can do it to him."

George McGowan — 4-year Dead

Eskimos, Ticats Ready to Rumble

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

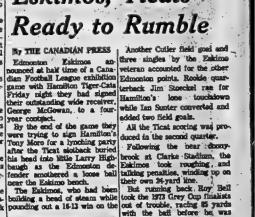
Edmonton Eskimos announced at half time of a Canadian Football League exhibition game with Hamilton Tiger-Cats Friday night they had signed veteran centre-linebacker George McGowan, to a four-year contract.

At the end of the game they were trying to sign Hamilton Tony Moro for a brawling party after the Ticat stalwart buried his head into Mike Larry Highbaugh as the Edmonton defensive backfield a bonus ball near the Eskimo bench.

The Edmonton, who had been building a reputation for rowdiness on the play and were held on the sequence to Cutler's missed field goal attempt that went for a single.

At Montreal, Alouettes coach Marv Levy wasn't generating super offence with veteran quarterback Sonny Wade as went with newcomers Jimmy Jones and Kelly Cochrane.

The Als held a 21-1 lead going into the 15 minutes on the strength of a Don Sweet field goal in the first quarter and a single by Calgary's Larry Robinson before the half.



The Alouette offence was so hard-pressed it failed to operate a first-down play of the field from the six-minute mark in the opening quarter until there only three minutes remained in the third quarter.

Then Jones went to work. Hitting Brian Baines with a 37-yard scoring pass 25 seconds into the fourth period. Three minutes later, defensive halfback Luther Howard returned a Hamilton interception 72 yards for the second Montreal major score.

The victory was the third in as many starts for the Alouettes who ratchetted their Eastern Stampeders west down to their third straight loss.

MATTIUSSI NEW COACH

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League announced defenceman Dick Mattiussi, 35, as the team's new coach Thursday. Mattiussi succeeds Don Cherry, president of the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins. Mattiussi's contract is for one year.

TONY MORO

strength of 11 fourth-quarter points, streamed onto the field after Moro when no penalty was called.

Several punches were thrown during the melee but no one was ejected at the time.

It was the only game Friday night. Montreal Alouettes get Calgary together in the Stampeders' only game in Montreal and gained a 17-1 verdict as Sonny Wade quarterbacked the Als.

Hamilton Takes Over In First*

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton City defeated St. Catharines Heidelberg 4-0 in a National Soccer League game Friday.

The win enabled Hamilton City to take over sole possession of first place in the league standings.

Hamilton City has outscored its opponents 14-4 in its last four games.

In the only other league game Friday, London City downed Toronto Melita 8-2 at London.

Two Platagenet, Ron McGee, Scott Cowden and Steve Draper scored the Hamilton City goals.

A crowd of 1,000 watched the game at Hamilton.

Al Adcock, Jake Rodrigues, playing his second game for Hamilton City, scored four goals to give London its 10th win against with three ties and five losses.

Al Anderson and Pim Wyenberg scored two goals each for London and Roy Flanigan scored the other.

Phil Rogers and Joe Mintz scored the Melita goals.

Another Colter field goal and three singles by the Eskimo veteran accounted for the other Edmonton points. Rookie quarterback Joe Barnes replaced Hamilton's lone touchdown while Ian Sinter converted and added two field goals.

All the Ticat scoring was produced in the second quarter.

Hamilton's Dave Mcsorley-brook at Clarke Stadium, the Eskimos took roughing, and halting penalties, stalling up on their own 36-yard line.

After running back Roy Bell took the 1973 Grey Cup finalists out of trouble, tacking 81 yards with the ball before he was brought down from behind.

The Eskimos were penalized for roughness on the play and were held on the sequence to Cutler's missed field goal attempt that went for a single.

At Montreal, Alouettes coach Marv Levy wasn't generating super offence with veteran quarterback Sonny Wade as went with newcomers Jimmy Jones and Kelly Cochrane.

The Als held a 21-1 lead going into the 15 minutes on the strength of a Don Sweet field goal in the first quarter and a single by Calgary's Larry Robinson before the half.

August Opening for New Golf Centre

Bayview Golf Centre will open for play come the first week of August, says the owner, designer, and builder, of the newest golf course in the Quinte Area, Gary Goyer.

The so called "executive" course, although by no means strictly for executives, is located about one and one-half miles west of Belleville, just past the Loyalist-Wallbridge Road.

The course is not only for executives, says Goyer, but for workers of all collar colors.

The setup of the course is such that a player can co-ver the nine holes, including even par threes and two par fives, in about an hour and one-half. Par for the nine is set at 29.

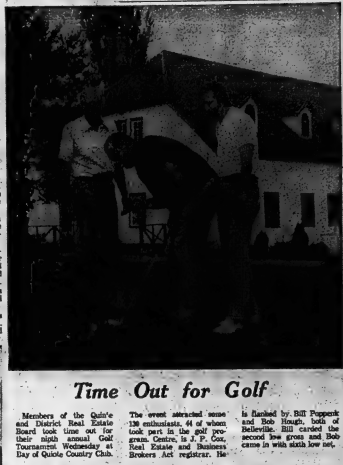
The longest hole on the course is the ninth and final one. It is a scant 325 doging to the right, including water, a hole that would be a challenge on any golf course.

Seeding of the fairways, which was done last fall, and after Goyer bought the strip of land, going north from Highway 2, is now showing good results. The seed germinated in the spring, as opposed to last fall, and as a result, had thickened faster than if the weather had gotten at it. The sandy soil in the area has helped considerably.

The few bare areas on the course now, the tees and greens, will be covered within the next two weeks. They will be sodded to provide instant carpet in the key areas, especially the greens. They should be in top form by the time the golfers get at them.

Irrigation pipes have been installed, with the main water line going under that week. Turfworld, of Waterdown, Ontario, is the installer.

The tees, greens, and areas of about 40 yards in a circle around the greens, will be watered, providing good approach shots, even in the hottest of weather.



After the sod has been down says Goyer, "stand back about two weeks. By that time, the greens will have taken a firm hold, and will have had to be trimmed."

After the wall, "let them come at it", adds Goyer, "and play all they want."

A limited membership of 100 has been set, and along with the pay-as-you-play golfers, there should be a steady flow of players over the hilly laid-out links.

Also included in the plans for the complex are a driving range and miniature golf layout. Both are to be completed for the 1975 season.

But for the next month, Goyer is concentrating on the nine holes of his new course. Drifters and "pros alike will be able to give it the test come the first week in August.

Posties Back in Groove On Lockhart's Shutout

Post Office got back in the groove in Belleville Industrial Softball League play at Aleinite Park, Friday.

After suffering through a five-game winless streak, the Posties turned on Brooks Bond and recorded a 3-0 win behind the solid five-hit pitching of Norm Lockhart.

It took the team only 60 minutes to complete the well-played match.

In Friday's other league action, The Intell went down to a 13-6 defeat at the hands of UIC.

Lockhart struck out nine and walked four while spinning his five-hit shutout.

Ross Geen worked the first three innings for the losers, giving up all three runs off five hits. He struck out one and walked two. Tom St. Jules finished up, blanking the Posties for four innings. Tom surrendered only one hit. He fanned five and walked none.

Post Office scored once in each of the first three innings and that was it.

Lockhart impressed at the plate, too. He had the game's only extra-base hit, a triple. Checking in with two singles for the winners was Tom Wood. Ron Marriott, Bob Wladyka and Randy Burke had one each.

Jack Walsh led Brooke Bond with two singles. The others went to Al Colden, Lou Rivers and Larry Bilham.

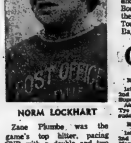
Rick Sullivan went the distance for UIC to stop The Intell. He scattered nine hits while fanning nine and walking one.

John Edward took over for Intell starter Ron Culleden to start the fifth inning. Between them, they surrendered 11 hits, struck out two and walked five.

A six-run third inning sparked the winners' output. The Intell was limited to a pair of three-run clusters in the fourth and seventh frames.

Dale Ducarme led UIC with a double and a single. Bill Healy and Joe Scanlan each supplied a pair of singles with one apiece for Joe Clark, Ron Embery, Clint Halliday, Al Ayre and Sullivan.

Maurice Switzer tripled for the losers while Glynn Reycolds poked a double and a single. Terry Hiddleston and Culloden each banged a brace of singles. Fred Bickle and Mike Bradshaw had the other singles for The Intell.



Bradshaw had to leave the game when he was injured in a crushing collision with teammate Hiddleston.

In a game played Thursday, CNR walloped Stewart-Warner 9-1, breaking up a tight ball game with a four-run burst in the fifth and three more in the seventh.

Wayne Casselman pitched a solid three-hitter to get the win, losing his bid for a shut-out in the fifth inning.

The winners launched an 11-hit attack on Stewart-Warner pitchers Dave Marvin and Ian Bennett. Marvin worked the first five and one-third innings, touched for six hits and four runs. He fanned three and walked one.

Bennett gave up four runs off five hits in his relief stint. He had one strikeout and walked two.

NORM LOCKHART

Zane Plumbe was the game's top hitter, pacing CNR with a double and two singles. Brian Plumbe and Ron Hamilton collected a pair of singles each and Martin Walsh belted a double. Rob McIlturier, Perry Soule and Casselman had the other hits for the winners.

Marvin took care of the losers' lone win with a solo homer. Jim Henn was the only other Stewart-Warner player to solve Casselman's offerings, collecting a double and a single.

Sharpening Up for Tourney

Members of the Belleville Kinsmen squirt softball team, Shane Skaggs (batting) and Ken Percival, take time out to perfect timing during recent practice session. Kinsmen are one of 16 teams taking part today in McDonald's Tournament. The first of 14 games will be played this morning at 8:30. Games continue through the day with the final set for Aleinite Park at 6 p.m.

Just Me And My Shadow

Belleville Golden Mile Restaurant Olympics rarely got a step ahead of Trenton Whitley Interprovincials defenders during Thursday Bay of Quinte Soccer Association match at the Ontario School for the Deaf pitch. Fullback Harry Lamers, on the right in each photo, has his work cut out for him while attempting to keep speedy Belleville winger Dario D'Anna under wraps. At the left, the two engage in a footrace for the ball and in the other shot, D'Anna appears to have lost his head over the whole thing. Whitley's scored a 4-2 win in spite of determined late effort by Olympics who trimmed deficit to 3-2 in second half's late going only to see Henry Sonneveld put an insurance goal. Sonneveld had all four goals for Whitley's.

Time Out for Golf

Members of the Quinte and District Real Estate Board took time out for their ninth annual Golf Tournament Wednesday at Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The event attracted some 136 enthusiasts, 44 of whom took part in the golf program. Centre, is J. P. Cox, Real Estate and Business Brokers Act registrar. He is flanked by Bill Pepperell and Bob Hough, both of Belleville. Bill carded the second low gross and Bob came in with sixth low net.

Beware of the Block

MENTOR, Ohio (AP) — Families living in the 8700 block of Arewood Drive warned Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fay not to move in unless they were prepared to have twins. Five of the six families at that location have had twins, and the Fays, who paid no heed to the warnings, became parents of twin boys in mid-May. Experts say the chances of the block of twins occuring are about one in 500 million.

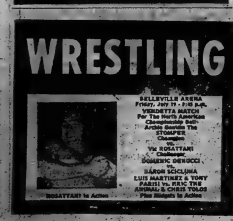
Elliott's Comeback Foils Trenton Braves

Elliott Motor Tykes erupted for three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to wipe out a 5-2 deficit and score a 5-3 Eastern Ontario Baseball Association win over Trenton Lite Brewers.

Brian Cronkright's two-run homer off losing pitcher Steve Smith sparked the Belleville comeback.

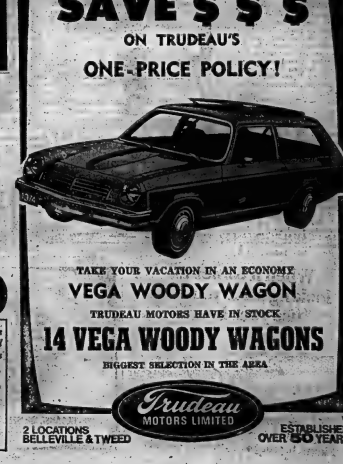
Mike Leger and Rory MacLeod combined pitching talents to give the winners solid mound work.

Mike worked the first five innings, surrendering three runs, all in the third inning, sticking out three and walking one while spinning the ball. Rory turned in a two-inning scoreless relief stint. He issued one, walked none and gave up two hits.



Smith allowed seven hits in defeat. He fanned seven and did not walk a man while going the distance.

Each team was charged with only one error.



Cronkright's homer led the Elliott attack. Rich Manderville checked in with a pair of singles.

Tops for Trenton was Brad Popcosti with two singles.

Balanced Field for Manitoba Derby

WINNIPEG (CP) — With the possible exception of Queen's Plate winner Amber Herod and to be considered in the top Derby Prep winner Icy Child, there are no obvious favorites for the 26th running Sunday of the $100,000 Manitoba Derby.

Racing officials say the 12-horse field of native three-year-olds could be the most balanced in the history of Western Canada's richest race.

Based on recent performance, Icy Child, the winner last week-end of the $5,000-added St. James-Assiniboia Handicap, has three, said W.G. Clubb, general manager of Assiniboia Downs.

The lone filly, owned by Harold Yerxa of Calgary and with Rick Hedge in the saddle, covered the 1 1-16 mile distance last four furlongs of a record of the track record of 1:43 set two years ago by Cree Venture Conn.

But Jack Stafford's Amber Herod also becomes an automatic favorite for the 1¼-mile event by winning the prestigious Queen's Plate. With Stafford Platts on board, the horse may have a slight edge over the eight-horse contingent from Eastern Canada.

Other horses include Quebec Derby winner Norland and Alabama Night owned by Kinghaven Farms of Toronto, Richieferno owned by V.Iconti Hardinge of Montreal, and A. W. Minshall's Rushton's Colt.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times. If you wish to find the best spot that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Use Daylight Saving Time, July 13 - 21.

Griffins Slip from First

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There was a swing at both ends of the ladder in National Lacrosse League play Friday night.

Philadelphia Wings dislodged Rochester Griffins atop the standings by trimming Maryland Arrows 13-11 at the Spectrum while Syracuse Singers moved out of the cellar with 13.

The Griffins, who had been at the head of the league since the early days of the schedule, slipped one game off the pace but still hold a game in hand on Philadelphia.

The Singers, who occupied the league basement since the first week, now are one point ahead of Maryland when they coasted to their win over holding an 8-6 first-period lead.

It was their sixth victory in eight starts.

Larry Lloyd notched three goals and the Wings before a home crowd of 8,346. Jim Wasson and Bob Goulding added two apiece, while Terry Massine and Kevin Frankhof had single goals.

In the only other Junior A game Kerrobert Warriors defeated Etobicoke FCOs 16-12.

Mississauga And Rexdale Score Wins

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Mississauga PCO's downed Etobicoke Excaliburs 24-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A game Friday.

Rob Gemmell had six goals for the PCOs and George Chandler had four.

Dave Legree added three goals and Ian Joyce and Rob Young had two goals each.

Single goals for Mississauga were scored by Gregg Marsh, Bill Johnson, Randy Bissonnette, Henry van Dort, Al Rizzuto and Mike Hicks.

Bob Burke and Ken Webster had two goals each for Brampton and Wayne Sterrik, Terry Mastine and Kevin Frankhof had single goals.

In the only other Junior A game Rexdale Warriors defeated Etobicoke FCOs 16-12.

Warlocks Edged

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Owen Sound North Stars defeated Windsor Warlocks 12-11 in Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A Friday.

Major scrimmage

Bill Abbott, Dan Owen, Terry Williams and Mickey Iannil each scored two goals for North Stars.

Scored: Mike Stoyka, Lachlan McArthur, Hugh Prentice and Murray Prebenda got the others.

McRaes, Edelweiss Split

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Niagara Falls McRaes and Kitchener Edelweiss split a doubleheader in the only Ontario Football League game Friday.

Ed Neudorf had a two-hitter as Niagara Falls won the opener 2-0 and Keith Wagler pitched a two-hitter to lead Kitchener to a 3-1 win in the nightcap.

Neudorf, who earlier this season tossed a perfect game against London, retired 18 men in a row before Tim Durkhart had a single in the seventh and final inning to left field. Russ Woloshyn then doubled to second for the other Kitchener hit.

Niagara scored both its runs in the third inning off losing pitcher Terry Gallagher.

Kitchener scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to take a 1-0 lead and salvage the nightcap.

Wagler gave up a home run to John Watson, which tied the game in the sixth inning, and Niagara Falls other hit was a single by Ray Christie.

Kitchener had four hits off losing pitcher Jake Neufeld.

GIRTS SECOND WIN

WEYMOUTH, England (Reuter) — Englishman Rodney Pattison had his second win of the week in the world Flying Dutchman sailing championships here Friday with a victory in light air. The win, which saw him cross the line more than two minutes ahead of Yves Pajot of France, put him fifth on overall points with only one race to go. On top are Kent Germans Ilja Watt and Herbert Roetzer.

Watchwork Lads Edged

Lacrosse League play Friday John Grant, Terry Lloyd and Brian Robinson.

NLL scoring leader Paul Sagazie and John Fisher tallied three each for Maryland. Ken Henderson chipped in with two and Tom Bann, Wayne Thompson and John McKenna scored one apiece.

At Syracuse, the Singers climbed to within five points of third place Montreal and Toronto Tomahawks with their win before 3,117 fans.

Bruce Murdoch led the home-town charge with six goals, Jim Higgs and Travis Cook contributed three each. Pat Differ added two with the others going to Ken Alexander, Jim Miller, Mike McMahon, Bruce Todesan, Terry Sanderson, Ken Wright and Robbie Patton.

Veteran John Davis topped Montreal's scoring with three goals. Bill Sheehan, Ron Lacombe and Bruce McKenzie hit for two apiece while Rob McCarthy, Rich Hedley and Michel Blanchard tallied one each.

20 TIPS TO BETTER GOLF
by George Knudson
Copyright 1974, Thomson Syndicate

TIP NO. 11 IRONS

Here I will again stress that you have ONE basic swing to be used with all clubs and you have ONE different face, each designed to hit the ball a specific distance.

POSITIVE KEY—Each iron is intended to hit a specific distance.

On the practice tee, work with all your irons, until you are satisfied that the consistency of your swing is resulting in proper iron distances.

On the course, select the iron that should give you the proper distance — then apply your practised swing.

The only exception is when the wind is a strong factor. Playing into a wind, using a longer iron to keep the ball low and under control. With the wind at your back select a shorter iron to add loft and let the wind carry the ball for extra distance.

125 Players Expected For CPGA Title Quest

CALGARY — Bill Quilley, pro at Calgary's Willow Park Golf Club since it opened in 1965, figures an eight under par score of 276 will be good enough to win the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship being played here July 18-21.

"It is a relatively short 6,125 yard course," Quilley said, "but we've got some 30-000 no wrmen, now maybe 30-20 feet high, dotting the layout that make it a much tighter course, placing special demands on the player's accuracy off the tees."

A total entry of 125 players now is expected to tee off in the 72-hole test for $36,000 and the Canadian Cup, emblematic of CPGA supremacy.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, winner of the Ontario section the last two years, had a four-under par 67 in a press preview of Willow Park a few days ago and must be in perfect agreement with Bill Quilley's estimate of what it'll take to win.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

So you thought UFOs were things seen only by drunks or people who needed new glasses? ...

Wrong. So far wrong, in fact that a group of scientists have opened a Centre for UFO Studies to decide what they consider to be one of the deepest and most important mysteries facing science.

"The time is definitely past when anybody could say that UFOs are all nonsense," declared the centre's director, Dr. J. Allen Hynek chairman of the astronomy department at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and former consultant on UFOs to the U.S. Air Force.

In an interview, Dr. Hynek told me that associates with him at the UFO centre is an "invisible college" of scientists from such universities as Stanford, Chicago, Johns Hopkin, Colorado and UCLA, representing a range of disciplines — astronomy, physics, engineering, biology, medicine, statistics, and sociology.

And what is it, exactly, that they are studying? What is a UFO?

That, said Dr. Hynek is the mystery.

We don't know what the UFO phenomenon represents," he admitted, "we don't know it's real.

How about spaceships from another planet?

"Personally," said Dr. Hynek, "the more I study the evidence the further away I get from any idea of nuts-and-bolts hardware from outer space. The UFOs are just too puzzling, too bizarre for that theory.

What are they, then? Or what could they be?

"Quite frankly, I'm only prepared to go this far," said Dr. Hynek. "The evidence shows that there is some form of intelligence behind the UFO phenomenon. The actions of UFOs are not random. But beyond that . ."

He shrugged.

Of the record some scientific ufologists are prepared to speculate that UFOs may be intrusions from a parallel inverse — another world or dimension, occupying the same space as the one we live in and yet not interacting with our world because of differences in the structure of its matter.

How would such transdimensional visitors get from there to here?

Possibly through the mysterious "black holes" in space which, according to some scientific ufologists, may actually be openings or corridors into another dimension.

All such speculation is, of course, just that — speculation. But the Centre for UFO Studies is solid fact.

Dr. Hynek said the centre has five main purposes: To serve as a clearing house to which persons can report UFO experiences without fear of ridicule or unwanted publicity, and with the knowledge that their reports will receive serious attention; to mount an all-out scientific assault on UFOs; to provide bulletins and technical UFO data to universities, scientific organizations and the general public; to help co-ordinate worldwide UFO study; and to synthesize the insights of various scientific disciplines.

The Center for UFO Studies has a mailing address — P.O. Box 11, Northfield, Ill. 60093. And it also operates a toll-free hot-link (the number available only to police departments, planetariums and similar agencies) to receive UFO reports.

In one week, March 23-30, 1974, the centre received UFO reports from 32 police departments in such places as Valparaiso, Ind., Erie, Pa., Wayland, Mass., Bangor, Me., Portsmouth, N.H., Rue Jachet, Okla., Alhambra, Calif., and Los Angeles.

The reports include cases in which UFOs were sighted at low top level; in which they landed and left behind a "burned ring" 60 feet in diameter; in which they homed and circled cruisers, temporarily stalling the motors, and in which they approached military and commercial aircraft on a collision course, veering away at the last possible moment.

"The UFO mystery," says Dr. Hynek, "is the gravest challenge science has today."

Mumps Vaccine Relatively New

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like information on mumps vaccine. Do you feel it is advisable to have children vaccinated (I have two under the age of 7) or to have them get a natural immunity by contracting the disease early?

Are there any serious complications that could set in with the disease? Will the vaccine protect them indefinitely or have them vulnerable at a later age? Lastly, if they get mumps after adolescence, is sterility a common problem? — C.K.

While mumps vaccine certainly has its values, it is rather low on the list of priorities for recommended vaccinations. I'll give you some reasons.

Complications are possible (as from measles at any age, but they are rare before adulthood. As an adult, serious complications are decidedly more likely. Aside from sterility, possible complications are in involvement of the pancreas, meningitis or other brain involvement (not usually harmful with our after-effects), occasional involvement of other organs such as the thyroid, heart, liver or of the joints.

The risk of sterility, however, is the one complication most generally known to the public, and it is indeed the most likely in an adult. The testicles can be involved in about one patient in five if the disease occurs after puberty; if both testicles are affected, sterility may result; if only one, not.

In childhood, however, complications are rare, although not unknown, so there is no great urgency to vaccinate young children against mumps. The vaccine is recommended for older children—particularly males—who have not yet had mumps by the time they reach adolescence.

The vaccination is effective for at least several years; we don't know how long immunity persists because the vaccine is still relatively new. Its effectiveness is calculated at 95 per cent for vaccinated individuals who are exposed to mumps.

To sum up: the answer to "a days" letter is not to be in any hurry about vaccinating boys under 7. If they haven't had mumps by around 14, vaccination would be wise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A pharmacist friend told me that women with an I.U.D. who take aspirin run a risk that the aspirin will make the I.U.D. ineffective in some cases. She said to buy tablets that do not contain aspirin. Could you check into this? — Mrs. G.A.

I am not familiar with any such precaution being necessary for that purpose. It is possible, of course, for an I.U.D. to cause bleeding in some cases, and aspirin is one compound which can alter the blood platelets and thus contribute to bleeding. I doubts, however, that aspirin would have any effect on the contraceptive action of an I.U.D. .

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You described an effective treatment for acne through the use of vitamin A acid. My druggist is unable to obtain it for me. It seems his wholesale supply house is unfamiliar with the item. Please be good enough to provide any additional information that you may have. — H.S.

I'm a bit surprised that his wholesaler really "didn't know".

Vitamin A acid, also called tretinoin, is effective in some (not necessarily all) cases of acne. It is applied locally once a day and works best in combination with antibiotic treatment.

It is a prescription item—must be used under a doctor's supervision since it can irritate the skin and make one more susceptible to sunburn. . . .

Mime School to Open

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE — The Canadian Mime School will re-open here on Sept. 30, offering a six-months intensive training in mime.

So far, applications for the fall program have been received from Toronto, Hamilton, Calgary, Halifax, Winnipeg, St. Thomas, Ottawa, Montreal, New Hampshire and New York States.

The only school of its kind in Canada, the Canadian Mime School opened in February 1974, with a 12-week introductory mime course, which attracted students from all across Canada and parts of the United States.

The full program will include movement, elementary acrobatics, mime techniques, juggling, mask, improvisation, pantomime blanche, abstract mime and commedia dell'arte.

In addition to the full time school, an evening program has been designed to fill specific needs of theatre arts teachers in both secondary and elementary schools. Interested non-teachers will be admitted to the course, which will be tailored to suit requirements of students. But in general it will be a practical course in mime techniques, improvisation, movement and study of the mask. This course is accredited by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation and by the Qualifications Evaluation Council of Ontario. For young people, there will be classes in mime technique and improvised drama once a week.

Instructors, among the best in their special fields, will include Myra Benson, director of the school; Adrien Pecknold, artistic director of the Canadian Mime Theatre; Fred Garver, currently working with well-known American mime, Tony Montanaro; and Hutchison Shandep freelance a teacher, director and actor.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Myra Benson, Director, Canadian Mime School, Box 1102 Niagara-on-the-lake, Ontario L0S 1J0

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, July 14

Aries (March 21-April 19) You should have a little surplus built up. Don't let it burn a hole in your pocket. Put it somewhere out of reach.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20) Some little frustrations at home early in the day won't carry enough weight to spoil what will turn out to be a pleasant Sunday.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your luck is taking a sharp turn for the better. Don't be too surprised when something good seems to happen out of the blue.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) The best course of action for you at the present is the one you set for yourself where you lead and are not led by others.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Others will rally to your colors and support your views if you have to take a position on any major issues.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something bright and hopeful is developing. It will fit favorably into your future plans. Two important contacts will be of help.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Keep concentrating on and working toward your major goal. If there is something you can do today to further things, by all means do it.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Diplomacy and tact will prove to be powerful allies in your dealings with others. Use them wisely and you'll be assured of hoped-for results.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Services you perform for others at this time can exceptionally large rewards. Be willing to assist where you can.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be lucky today, not only for yourself but for one who is closely associated with you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unusual conditions that tend to make one feel more secure down deep are sure quite favorable for you.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Much of the risk of something speculative that you're involved in is reduced just so long as you continue to use the good judgment you're now using.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Monday, July 15

Aries (March 21-April 19) You won't do all that is necessary to make the most of your present plans. This means a good idea will go by the boards.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The earlier part of the day is the best time for handling situations where cash is involved. Later you won't be as sharp.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A third party is a trifle envious of the attention you are getting from others socially. Don't let her so much.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You will make an elaborate excuse to get out of certain responsibilities in order to do something of self-gratifying nature.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Be sensible about scheduling your outside interests. Fail to do this and you will make a commitment you will want to dodge but can't.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A unique circumstance will present a fleeting opportunity that has financial possibilities. You will have to act quickly, though.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your first ideas are your best, so do something about them. If you dissect them too thoroughly you will wind up doubling their worth.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you set too hard, you could talk yourself out of something that another was going to do for you. Be wise. Let things happen.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can easily get any allies you need for your present interests, but its doubtful that you'll use them effectively.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't look a gift horse in the mouth thinking you can stall for a better deal. Time will not remain on your side.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will do rather well with chancy or speculative situations early in the day. Toward evening your luck is considerably diluted.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Your most rewarding results will come through persons with whom you have deep bonds. Primary relationships offer no profit.

Fate of Makarios Unknown

Greek Officers Revolt in Cyprus

ATHENS (AP) — Greek army officers commanding the Cyprus National Guard have seized control of Cyprus and toppled the government of President Makarios, Radio Cyprus announced today. Reports differed on the fate of Makarios.

Radio Cyprus announced that Greek-Cypriot newspaper publisher Nicholas Sampson has been appointed president to succeed Makarios. Sampson published the newspaper Machi, meaning combat.

The radio earlier reported that Makarios had been killed but did not repeat this report in announcing the appointment of Sampson.

A Turkish-Cypriot radio monitored in Ankara said Makarios had survived the coup and taken refuge with the United Nations force assigned to keep peace between Greeks and Turks on the island.

The Turkish broadcast said Makarios appealed to Greek Cypriots to struggle to end the foreign oppression in our homeland." It said he also sought UN intervention to halt "monetary-blooded mercenaries."

In Greece, a military source said Greek armed forces had been put in a state of alert, and in Turkey, Premier Bulent Ecevit cancelled a trip to Turkey's Aegean area and called an extraordinary cabinet meeting in Ankara.

Ecevit declared Turkey "will not let any alien hand in the British community's basic rights on the island."

The Greek officers of the National Guard were recently accused by Makarios of encouraging the terrorist Eoka-B organization, which seeks to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Talks with Greece, or Enosis, had also been an early goal of Makarios, but he grew to be a foe of an independent Cyprus because of Eoka-B opposition to the island's large Turkish minority.

The United Nations since March, 1964, has had a peacekeeping force stationed on Cyprus to keep peace between Greek-Cypriot majority and the Turkish-Cypriot minority. It now numbers more than 3,400 men, but presumably it would try to intervene only if a renewed war between the Greek and Turkish communities was threatened.

There are about 200 Canadians in the UN force. Canada provides the second-largest contingent in the force, which also includes troops from Australia, Britain, Austria, Denmark, Finland and Sweden.

The bulk of the Canadians come from the Canadian Airborne Regiment, based in Edmonton.

There also are a few military personnel from other Canadian units. It's a practice for Canadians serving with the UN force in the Middle East to take leave in Cyprus.

There may be wives of some Canadian servicemen and their dependents in Cyprus on vacation at the present time but there was no definite information available on this.

A military spokesman at the Canadian base in Lahr, West Germany, a key point for air communications with the Canadians on the island, said he knew of nothing being heard at the base about the developing situation on the east Mediterranean island as it might affect the UN troops from Canada.

Telecommunication contact between Lahr and Cyprus is dependent on the Cyprus authorities so that the base in West Germany was as isolated from the island as other outside centres today.

A communique broadcast by Radio Cyprus said the National Guard—the Cypriot army of 6,000 troops led by 650 Greek Army officers—has formed a "government of national salvation" and is in full control of the situation." It said elections "for a genuinely freely elected government will be held within a year, no later."

It said that Makarios is "already dead" and that anyone seeking the army will be executed on the spot.

It added that a curfew has been imposed and no civilians or vehicles other than ambulances are allowed on the streets.

Officials at the Cypriot Embassy in Athens said they heard that Makarios has been "resistance" to the army coup by Cypriot officers and men loyal to Makarios." They said there was "much fighting" in the centre of Nicosia.

The rebel communiques blamed Makarios and his government for "chaos within the ranks of the army and church and said the army was in danger of falling "into the hands of anarchist and criminal elements."

The broadcast said the new government will conduct foreign relations "as before" and that "friendly relations will be maintained with all countries." It said the talks between the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities will "continue as before."

In what appeared to be a warning to Turkey, it said what has happened was "strictly an internal affair," and that the interest was "in the benefit of the entire Greek-Cypriot people."

Canadians' Fate Not Known

OTTAWA (CP) — Communications have been established with the 580 Canadian United Nations troops on Cyprus but there still is no news of their safety, a defence department spokesman said today.

He said a situation report is expected shortly. Earlier defence statements said there was no direct communication with the men on the island where the military is said to have taken power.

Meanwhile, the external affairs department said the United Nations has been asked to state what instructions have been issued to its peacekeeping forces on Cyprus.

He said the response to that has still to come before information.

UN Troops All Safe

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A United Nations spokesman said today that the latest word UN peacekeeping troops has from embattled Cyprus is that all UN peacekeeping forces on the island are safe.

There was no indication here that any of the UN troops were involved in the fighting. Defence officials in Ottawa said Monday and in Nicosia, the capital, and in Limassol.

Colson Testifies Today At Impeachment Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Colson, once one of President Nixon's closest political advisers, is next to come up for questioning by the House of Representatives judiciary committee impeachment inquiry.

Colson, imprisoned for the part he played in White House efforts to defame Daniel Ellsberg for leaking the Pentagon papers, appeared today in the next-to-last witness the committee intends to call.

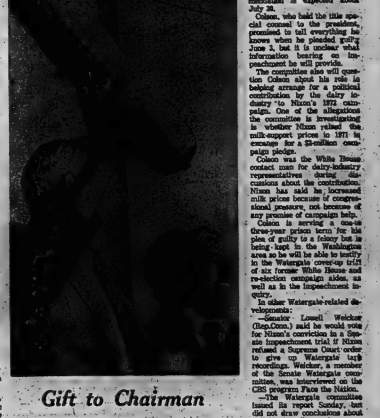
After scrutinizing Robert Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer, Tuesday, the committee will prepare for its crucial deliberations, which are to start next Monday. A final recommendation is expected about July 30.

Colson, who held the title special counsel to the president, promised he will "tell people he knows when he pleaded guilty" June 3, but it is unclear what information bearing on impeachment he will provide.

The committee also will question Colson about his role in helping obtain a political contribution by the dairy industry to Nixon's 1972 campaign. One of the allegations the committee is investigating is whether Nixon raised the milk-support prices in 1971 in exchange for a dairy group campaign pledge.

Colson and the White House contact man for dairy-industry representatives have denied allegations about the contribution. Nixon has said he increased milk price supports for congressional pressure, not because of any campaign pledge.

Colson is serving a one-to three-year prison term for his plea of guilty to a felony but is being kept in the Washington area so he will be able to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial of six former White House and re-election campaign aides, as well as in the impeachment inquiry.



In other Watergate-related developments:

—Senator Lowell Weicker (Rep.-Conn.) said he would vote for Nixon's conviction in a Senate impeachment trial if Nixon refused a Supreme Court order to give up Watergate tape recordings. Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, was interviewed on the CBS program Face the Nation.

—The Watergate prosecutors issued its report Sunday, but did not draw conclusions about individual guilt or innocence. With that report, the committee went out of business.

—The House committee is expected to release more impeachment evidence this week.

—The trial of California Lt.-Gov. Ed Reinecke begins today. He is charged with lying to the Senate Watergate committee about his involvement in trying to bring the 1972 Republican national convention to Sen Diego.

Gift to Chairman

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, holds up a bologna Friday in Washington which was given to him by the panel's Chief Counsel Sam Dash. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the panel, stands by the chairman as he displays, his gift. A White House spokesman commenting on a portion of a report issued by the panel about a transfer of funds involving C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo chided the document "warmed over baloney". (AP Photo)

News Briefs

"Only" 7 Murders

DETROIT (AP) — Seven homicides during the weekend pushed the city's 1974 homicide toll past the 400 mark, but monthly figures indicate the rate may be slowing. So far this year there have been 402 homicides, compared with 323 at this time in 1973. But during the first two weeks in July, there were 21 fewer than in the same period a year ago.

Police Strike Ends

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A tentative settlement in the municipal employees dispute was announced as economic issues in the police dispute were scheduled only hour before a meeting deadline set by a judge who threatened the union leaders with jail terms for not ending the strike. Both unions also were under heavy fines. About one-fourth of the city's 2,400 patrolmen were off the job Sunday night. Communications director Donald Pomerleau Sunday announced he has fired 82 officers who were on probation. The officers called out.

Lactor Perhaps Back

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Urban Community police Sunday refused to either confirm or deny radio reports saying that Jacques Lactote, one of the men involved in the 1970 kidnapping of British diplomat James Cross, may be back in Canada. A spokesman for the criminal investigation bureau said he could not comment on the reports.

Antagonists Mingle

SELKIRK, Man. (CP) — A 23-day march by 96 soldiers, re-enacting the 1870 expedition to put down the Red River Rebellion, ended on a peaceful note on the weekend as the band attended descendants of the rebellious Metis attended church together. The soldiers, members of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, joined the Metis for an ecumenical service in St. Peter's Church near here.

Gas Causes Blast

ROME (AP) — A gas leak caused an explosion at Rome's crowded main railway station today, panicking thousands of travelers but injuring only a few persons, police reported.

Bardot Nearly 40 But . . .

LONDON (AP) — The Tabloid Sun published photograph of Brigitte Bardot in bed Monday with the headline "Who Would Guess She's Nearly 40." They were believed to be the first nudes ever published on the front page of a British newspaper.

Relations Good

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon is described by a White House spokesman as containing to have a "good and sound" relationship with Soviet leadership. Secretary Kissinger, who will fly here later this week for meetings with Nixon, Press secretary Ronald Ziegler sought Sunday to dispel any notion of a rift between Nixon and Kissinger over the 1969-71 wiretapping of 17 officials and reporters.

Attacks Increase

SAIGON (AP) — Military sources reported today nearly 700 Vietnamese killed, wounded or missing in a sharp increase in Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks Sunday which the Saigon government said was intended to sabotage nationwide election of provincial and municipal councils.

Canadians Not Told Chou Ill

HONG KONG (AP) — A Canadian delegation arrived here from a visit to China today and denied they had been told by Chinese officials that Premier Chou En-lai suffered a heart attack.

It was "a simple misunderstanding," said delegation leader Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz, chief justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court and chancellor of the University of British Columbia.

The misunderstanding occurred at the end of an interview with a Western reporter based in Peking, when Nemetz casually asked his interviewer whether Chou was recovering from a heart attack.

The reporter mistakenly understood that Nemetz had obtained the information from Chinese sources, when in fact, he heard it only from "ordinary, sedorial sources" in Peking, he explained today.

Nemetz discussed the report with Chinese officials, but they apparently denied nor confirmed it, he told a news conference in Hong Kong today.

"The misunderstanding would not have happened if we had spent more time on the subject, but it happened in the course of a half-minute random conversation," he said.

Convicts Hold Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two armed convicts today rejected government offers and remained in a United States District Court cellblock even though their seven hostages escaped nearly 24 hours earlier.

The escapes began at 1 p.m. Sunday and after 48 hours of captivity. They, among, became possible when authorities smuggled in a key to the handcuffs.

Justice department spokesman Mark Eberhart said today that Frank Corbitt, 31, turned down a government offer to fly Gorham and Ralph Roberts, 27, to Kansas City, a federal prison medical facility in Springfield, Mo., or Marion, Ill.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, the convicts released a woman prisoner, Almeda Washington, one of several prisoners in the detention centre caught up in the standoff when Gorham and Jones used a concealed .25-calibre pistol to take over at 2 p.m. Thursday.

For the first time, the two convicts, who had requested told reporters they would kill the hostages if denied safe passage from the U.S., were alone in the cellblock.

The hostages eughered their escape at 19 a.m. EDT Sunday after 48 hours of captivity.

One of the hostages, deputy marshal Calvin Morton, had conceived a scheme for escape and relayed it to officials in a 7:30 a.m. telephone call. Morton had asked them to smuggle the hostages an elevator key in a sanitary napkin requested by one of the women in the cellblock.

The package with the key was delivered, unsearched, to deputy marshal William Colgrift.

Morton unlocked the elevator. Deputy marshal Joe Driskell, Dr. Harned it on. Driskell handcuffed Garber, 46, a lawyer; John D. Barley, 61, a lawyer for Gorham; and Jones, and Ralph Barry, 36, a justice department auditor, jumped on.

Colgrift turned to the last hostage, 16-year-old Justice department secretary Debbie Collins. "I said 'take your shoes off and let's split.' And that's what we did." They rode the elevator to freedom.

Watergate Committee Makes Final Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee, which exposed the dimensions of the greatest political scandal in the United States, is dead.

The senators and counsel expired during the weekend with the release of a 12,325-page final report giving details of "one of America's most shameful" happenings.

The mountains of documentary and testimonial evidence collected during the committee's 16 months of probing investigation have been stored on computer tape and sifted to the committee's principal survivors, the House of Representatives judiciary committee's impeachment inquiry and the special Watergate prosecution force.

The aftermath of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate, the committee said, was "characterized by corruption, fraud and abuse of official power."

As preventive medicine, the members unanimously recommended an overhaul of federal election laws, creation of a permanent independent prosecutor's office and specific limits on a president's power to violate the citizen's privacy without due process.

10 Snowmobiles Burn

Thomasburg Blaze: Estimate $10,000 Loss

TWEED (Special) — Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused Saturday when fire of undetermined origin destroyed 10 snowmobiles stored inside the Lloyd Davis general store at Thomasburg.

Tweed volunteer firemen under assistant chief Jack Foster controlled the blaze and prevented it from spreading into a rear repair shop and the store proper. The Davis family was away at the time of the evening fire.

Nine of the snowmobiles destroyed were new and still in shipping-crates. The extensive roof of the shop was slightly damaged but inside the shop and store damage was limited to smoke and water.

Barn-dancing Updated By Picton-area Family

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

SALMON POINT — Tired of being entertained in the same old ho-hum lounges?

For something a little different you might try dancing in a horse stable. Or perhaps you might prefer watching the dancing from the comfort of the cow stable. Or, for a better view, from the hay, mow if hungry, just get a bite to eat at the granary.

No matter what your interest, there may be a place for you at "The Hayloft", a combination entertainment centre and dancehall, fashioned from an 130-year-old barn, near Outer Park.

Situated on the Salmon Point road, the "Hayloft" is a renovated barn and, reportedly, the first dancehall and bar, in Lyon, owners and operators of the establishment, is the first and the only dancehall of its kind in Prince Edward County.

It was in February of 1972, after the now-defunct KOA Campground purchased the McConnell farm, that the family decided to begin its remaining property, including a barn, and turn it into an entertainment centre.

Striving for something with a different atmosphere", the family worked from February through May, cleaning the barn, building the cement floor and constructing the canteen, tables, chairs and fixtures. The end result is an atmosphere unlike that found anywhere, with much of the original framework of the barn intact, embellished with a dash of wagonwheels, millscan, ladders and wooden barrels. Even the kitchen area for the milking machines has been left where it pumped its last meagre decade ago.

Entertainment at the "Hayloft" is primarily local talent, performing every Friday and Saturday night from the Victoria Day weekend until Thanksgiving. Performing Friday night was "Cross-Country".

"We try to get in a variety of bands", says Frank and Lynn, "to appeal to the different age groups, some country and some rock".

The band performs from an elevated stage, formerly a straw mow, while those who just like to eat or watch may do so from the "Cow Palace" or directly above in the hay mow, quickly known as "The Hank-Panky Parlor".

With as many as 190 attending on weekends, the McConnells are anticipating moving another old building and placing it on the end of the "Hayloft".

"The dance floor appears to be large enough", comments Frank McConnell, "but we hope this new addition will provide more seating capacity, which we desperately need."

Enthusiasm stimulated for the competitors by guest instructors brothers Lee and Dick Davis of Detroit was noted in assessment of the results by the commodore and his committee.

The Davis brothers carried off the Fireball championship in the CORK (Canadian Olympic Regatta Kingston) competition in 1973.

The sailing portion of the weekend training exercise was run over three simulated Olympic courses in the Bay of Quinte in front of the Trenton yacht club with 18 entries participating. A favourable provided the boatmen with a variety of conditions in the racing for both A and B classes as climax to the session.

Sailing race winners were: A class — Terry Rose, Toronto Sail and Canoe Club; David Wallace, Frontenac Yacht Club, London; Kat Robertson, Toronto Sail and Canoe Club. B class — Eric Yeo, Beaver Valley Yacht Club, Thornbury; Ron Brooks Yacht Club; Bob Hopkins, Grande Island New York Yacht Club.

Sultry Day Cuts Crowd At Horseshow

PICTON — Only a small attendance braved the sultry heat Sunday for the monthly show of the Prince Edward Horse and Pony Club. Taking place at the Picton Fairgrounds, the event featured horse classes of equestrian events.

One of the club's members, Marjorie Steele of Elmwood Stables, Bellleville has been a long-time winner of many equestrian competitions.

"We have shown horses for years", commented Mrs. Steele. They are members of several organizations and have shown at many events including the Canadian National Exhibition.

Her 20-year-old daughter, Pat has been participating in events since the age of five."

7 Show Horses Lost in Read Fire

READ — Seven show horses were lost early Sunday morning when fire destroyed a barn belonging to B Trees Woodcox here.

The barn also contained a quantity of hay and grain.

Deseronto's volunteer fire department was called about 4 a.m. Sunday to fight the fire that threatened Coffey's Garage and General Store in the village. Dan Coffey said only the absence of winds saved his store from going up in flames. Burning debris from the barn ignited the roof of the building several times.

Three Hurt In Collision

CONSECON — Three people were sent to Trenton Memorial Hospital Saturday as a result of a two-car accident on Highway 33, two miles north of Consecon.

Treated and released for minor injuries were Hilti and Josef Kaspanon, both 37, and Ann Kaspanon, 8 years.

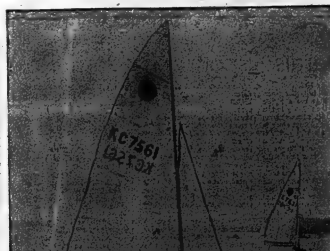
Drivers of the cars involved were Marguerite O'Neill of Trenton and Karl Kaszkazup of Consecon. A provincial police report said damage was $900.

Outlet Quiet

OUTLET PARK — Outlet Provincial Park enjoyed a quiet two days last weekend, reported police at Picton reported only two liquor offences.

Handicraft Show is Eye-catcher

PICTON — Home Spun Happiness was the theme of a demonstration on the lawn of Picton's Armory Mall, Saturday afternoon.



As Opportunities for Youth project, the display was the first in a series of demonstrations expected to take place every second Saturday throughout the summer months until the end of August.

Featuring handicraft such as quilting and the baking of home made bread, the exhibition is in an attempt to show the public how much time and work is involved in many various crafts.

Becky Young of the Armory Mall's County Craft's Revival Shop says the project is drawing much attention these days.

"The ladies are naturally attracted by a mall and lately we have been getting quite a few tourists as well as local people coming to our shop for the demonstrations."

She commented: "We had some trouble getting all the demonstrators to give it an open atmosphere and were very happy at the response.

Canadians Score in Sailing

TRENTON — Two-man teams of Canadian sailors took five of the six honors in the first training seminar held by the Ontario Fireball Association at Trenton sailing club here over the weekend

Yacht club commodore, Duane Tyerman, reported the exercise was so successful Joe organizers have decided to repeat the seminar at Trenton again in 1975.

Sound of Music from the Past In Picton Museum's Display

PICTON — Visit any record store today and the price of a single 45 rpm is about $1.39.

But back in the early 1890's they were only about 40 cents; and they didn't look like today's familiar round discs. They were of the wax cylinder type.

An example of these, and many of the early wax-cylinder phonographs considered as Thomas Edison's favorite invention, were on display Sunday in the County Museum, here Edison's attitude toward his invention was one of affection and pride, and Whitney Denard, owner of the Picton collection, shares this feeling.

Mr. Denard's collection of gramophones and records were given him by the late Dayton Mead of Wellington, who enjoyed a lifetime of collecting the Edison phonographs.

Songs like "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia" and "Darling Nellie Grey", explained Mr. Denard, were some of the hits back in the days of the early recordings. The recordings ran from two to four minutes in length.

"Columbia eventually came up with a similar wax-cylinder machine," said Mr. Denard, "but they never quite equalled the Edison machines."

Reason for this was Edison's invention of the more durable diamond needle, a vast improvement over the earlier sapphire needles that Columbia used in their machines.

All the machines on display in the County Museum featured the typical horn, or speaker. Some of the machines had two horns, a distinct advantage if the operator wished the music to be heard from two different directions.

Price of an Edison phonograph after its invention in 1877 ranged from 18 dollars for a modest gramophone to $150 for more elaborate machines.

One particular interest was a phonograph, the case of which was constructed of golden oak, found only along the U.S. border.

For Mr. Denard, Sunday marked the last time he will be exhibiting his collection.

"They are just too delicate and too heavy to move and too much danger of breaking an irreplaceable part."

Open New Legion Hall At Tweed

TWEED — The Canadian Legion is pushing ahead with plans for the official opening here of its new hall on Aug. 18.

Robert Jeffries, president of the Legion's Ontario Command will be guest speaker.

Organizers plan to start ceremonies at 1.30 p.m. with a parade to the cenotaph for a short service of remembrance and laying of wreaths. Upon returning to the Legion Hall, the ribbon will be cut, officially opening the building as all new quarters for the Tweed-district veterans.

Legion members and guests will dedicate colors, plaques and the building itself and make awards to prominent Legion members.

Area Pools Resources, Now Everyone Swims

CAMPBELLFORD — A Campbellford Brockton Committee, Supervision of activities at the pool will be co-ordinated by Ken Neale, director of recreation for Campbellford. Swimming will be taught at the pool behind of 14 the Trent River.

CAMPBELLFORD — A project drafted by the Campbellford Rotary Club in the late 1950s became a reality on Sunday afternoon when Russell Rowe, MPP Northumberland, officially opened a 50-metre community swimming pool with a crowd of more than 300 watching.

The undertaking, described as "the kind of success that can be obtained when the public factions co-operate," was a joint effort shared by Campbellford and neighboring Seymour township.

Finances for the project, in the neighborhood of $100,000 was provided by contributions of Campbellford and Seymour, the efforts of all three service clubs, Rotary, Kinsmen and Lions, in Campbellford, and all levels of government.

Official keys to the pool were presented to Campbellford Mayor Harold Dunk and Seymour township's Reeve Kenneth Carter.

Taking part in the program were members of the project committee: Town councillor Rev. William McBride, general chairman; Rotarian Don Meyer, chairman of planning and construction; town councillor Burke Mason, chairman of finance; and Victor Coste, member of the Service Club Work

The hard work performed by service clubs in communities throughout Canada makes for a permanent vein of creativity and progress in many a sphere that would not be possible otherwise.

For the Rotary club of Belleville the end of a presidential year of office comes in mid-summer. Traditionally it is a time for reflection and for looking ahead and this has been the case here in recent days.

Rotary is involved in many initiatives, from the Science Fair and Music Festival to student exchanges, but outgoing president Glynn Reynolds spoke last week of the need for new ideas. He counselled members not to become complacent.

As if in answer to his plea, the club's new president, Bob Graham, spoke of a program under consideration for senior citizens. In effect, harnessing the talents of senior citizens of the club and community to help others of advancing years who could use their talents.

Enlarging on this theme later the Bell Canada engineer cited statistics that would be help around the house, and banking and accountancy talents that would benefit others in doing their income tax.

The aim is to compile a catalogue of people and the talents they have.

It is an imaginative idea, and one that seeks to bring greater involvement to senior citizens (some of whom actually find themselves busier than ever in "retirement"). As Mr. Graham notes, the majority of the club's programs are youth-oriented. This new initiative will give the club a still broader base and it is a fine example of the kind of thing the service clubs are doing.

Future Of PCs

Some dirty washing is hanging out in the wake of the Conservative election defeat, with John Diefenbaker calling for the purging of party executive Dalton Camp and ill-concealed muttering by others about a need for new leadership.

Robert Stanfield put on his best performance yet in the election just concluded, but he was dogged by a policy of controls that made voters suspicious, however much they ultimately may be found necessary some time in the future.

The Conservative leader's wife, Mary, is reported to have said "three times is enough." Daughter Mimi also had last her moral support again, and while her election is unknown she might want to call it a day too.

As for Mr. Camp, he is viewed by "Old Chief" Diefenbaker as the man who engineered the demise as leader and as the architect of the leadership conference that brought Stanfield to the fore.

We don't anticipate another "Night of the Knives" as the Peter Newman book about that traumatic period in Canadian politics called it, but nevertheless it is inevitable that the future of the Conservative party must lie with new leadership and fresh ideas.

One person who is being mentioned is Flora MacDonald, who held Kingston and the Islands, and who one day conceivably could be Canada's first woman Prime Minister.

But there are other possibilities as well and it will be interesting to see just where the political trends will lead in the days ahead.

Crop Pickers

Some members of the local district unemployment committee seem bent on throwing up a smokescreen around a legitimate complaint about conditions for student crop-pickers in the area.

We do not doubt there are two sides to the situation, and that some students "fool around," but that is not the point. The complaint, from the father of a girl who spent a day picking strawberries, raised a number of points that should be investigated thoroughly. Among them; transportation and toilet facilities.

Second World War Men Few

Younger Generals Espouse Modern Role of Military

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Services

The Canadian Armed Forces now are promoting senior officers to the rank of brigadier-general who have had no Second World War battle experience.

In fact all of them joined the military in the late 1940s or early 1950s, for a few just in time for combat experience in the Korean War, an event which is as much ancient history as also Second World War.

Before the end of the new Trudeau administration at the conclusion of this decade there will be many young generals, with one of them possibly holding the top post or chief of the defence staff by 1980.

All our new brigadier-generals are eager to see a higher stability for the military in this country and not necessarily in the sense of more money for the generals who still run the military, many of whom have an out-of-date "cross of glory" view of how to use the armed forces.

What the emerging new military management of our armed forces anticipates are political masters, including the national defence minister who will use the department to help fulfil Mr. Trudeau's exciting national priorities of 1980, not as in the recent past as an element to reduce regional economic disparity.

The temptation to use a large department this way with about 136,000 civilian and military personnel and their substantial installations in many remote parts of Canada, has been overwhelming. The current minister of national defence, James Richardson, is determined to use the military in this way.

His scheme to diversify elements of the Canadian aircraft manufacturing industry into Western Canada is economically sensible and from the taxpayer's viewpoint financially too costly.

The Canadian aero engine and defence industries, for what they are worth, are concentred in Eastern Canada with their major components in Toronto and Montreal now under direct federal government control.

The department of national defence has been used so many times for political priorities of this kind, that its other purposes are submerged or left unclear, and its military management is subject to constant questions of lack of morale.

The new Trudeau government, largely concerned as it will be with problems of an emerging social democracy like Canada, health and welfare, industry, transport, need not continue to treat national defence as a chickenfeed department, or, as Mr. Richardson wants to do, as an economic pitch cow.

In early 1969, Prime Minister Trudeau redefined our national priorities to give prominence to national development, sovereignty-confidence, a move nationalistic foreign policy for Canada in this hemisphere.

Many of the younger senior officers now moving into positions of major command in the military have been thinking about these new, more nationalistic directions.

Unfortunately the department is still run by generals of Second World War vintage who have a so-called "spear-carrier" concept of the military. This boils down to justification of their existence through more, if possible bigger, but always newer defence equipment.

And the justification for these, they feel, can continue to come from an unchangeable big historic military clubs like NATO and NORAD. But in 1969 Mr. Trudeau also downgraded our NATO military role.

The Trudeau should spend more time with this department. It is not equipped to early-retirement for the senior reactionary generals and for the appointment of a new defence minister in turn with the newer generals coming along.

By doing so, he will make fuller use of the potential of a force-in-being which is better prepared to implement his 1969 priorities than he has realized to date.

Another Four-year Grind For Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — You know what you have — the collective "you" of your family, your friends, your neighbours and who begged you to send him to the House of Commons, eh?

You have given him the boot-ness — the confidence — business in the National Capital — and one of the most overpaid jobs going.

Sure, you say, the pay is pretty good at that around $20,000, and the pension is better than most.

But the work. The demands on the poor fellow's time, from now on anyway a member's time, will be almost out from under the pressure.

No sent time you run into him, give him a nod, shake his hand, and wish him luck — he will need all he can get.

It may give him a hint, probably for the last time in his political life, too-cheap you are not entirely unappreciative of the sacrifice, in time, money and his private life, he will be making for the collective community good.

If this is the first venture into the Commons, it will come as a shock to him when he realizes what, with your help, he has done to himself.

If he has been there before, and this is just a return trip, he will doubly deserve a third word from you, for he knows what he's said he has got himself into again.

Look at it the way he will have to.

For the last two months he has been heading into cost cutting for it — rapping on doors, shaking hands, making little speeches, sniffing all that coffee, and making promises of how he will cope with what now he is going to get it.

Well, those political promises now will be falling due.

For neither is time long, wearing weeks of electioneering was too big, or much to do about anything but election.

Nothing, then, seemed impossible.

Mrs. What's-Her-Name wanted something done about her pension? Trust him.

Dear old Auntie Mabel wanted a Canada Council appointment for her niece? He promised, remember?

A desperate wife and mother, pleads for a parole for her husband. He said he would look into it.

More stressed taxpayers than he ever dreamed there were — for in these days of overtaxation, everyone pays, and everyone wanted to know, now that he is going to Parliament, what he is going to do about stopping those horrendous increases that are eating up his money away.

Forget about taxes, the people who voted for him, and put the government loose up.

Jack-of-all-unemployment insurance cheque is late, so how about a little action, he is told.

The business community is on his back about all that spending by Ottawa, and barely down on him to remember that a balanced budget was part of the government's most urgent priority.

Everyone, but everybody wants to do something — he is promised he would — so now he has to.

Everywhere there are problems in his constituency to be promised he would — so now he has to.

Everywhere there are problems in his constituency to be promised he would — so now he has to.

Everywhere there are problems in his constituency to be

Here's one reason why Canadians were kept warm last winter.

An important reason for this happy result was that the oil industry was able to react quickly to sudden and drastic changes in the supplies of heating oil in parts of Canada.

As a case in point, Texaco promptly increased to maximum our capacity to make fuel oil in order to supply the looming shortage in Eastern Canada. We increased our fuel oil storage capacity at Halifax. We chartered extra tankers to move crude oil into the Montreal area through the seaway. 30 more rail cars were added to improve distribution of products in Eastern Canada. And to further make sure that sufficient supplies would be available, we shipped crude oil from Vancouver through the Panama Canal to our eastern Canadian refineries.

Don't think for a moment that the above example is intended to create the impression that Texaco alone averted what could have been a crisis. We have used our own experience to illustrate the situation. The fact is, the oil industry reacted in this fashion, to avert what was shaping up as a severe fuel oil shortage for many Canadians.

Right now we are thinking about future winters—that's why we decided to proceed now with our new 400 million dollar refinery in Ontario. Without it central Canada would soon be seriously short of refining capacity. This 400 million dollar investment is equal to more than seven times our 1973 earnings! When an oil company earns a profit, that's how most of it is used—it's "plowed back" into the business to make sure that you continue to be well served.

The oil industry in Canada was born and raised in an environment of competitive enterprise, and the record shows that we have done a good job. The question that bothers us, and we hope it concerns you too, is that we need this kind of "no-meddling" environment to continue to grow. Because if we're going to meet Canada's future needs, we must grow. To do that we need adequate profits which provide a fair return on investment. The oil industry lives, or dies, on these economic realities because they in turn attract the enormous amounts of private, risk capital needed for exploration and development. Today these needs are greater than ever, and without this type of investment capital, Canadians will risk lack of development to provide their future energy needs.

The oil industry has come this far on its own. We know that in the future we can continue to meet Canada's energy needs...but we're going to need understanding from you—and co-operation from our governments.

Quinte Cuisine

It was Jennifer Turner's interest in wok cooking that brought the whole Turner family mother Ruth and sister Kate, 11 — to love the Chinese method of stir frying. Jennifer, 15½, who attends Bayside Secondary School, cooks vegetables in the wok regularly and often prepares her specialty, this chicken dish. Jennifer says the family borders on being "health food nuts" and, that's the reason they're so fond of this nutritious cooking technique.

Shredded Chicken with Bean Sprouts

two chicken breasts
¼ tsp salt
two tsp. cornstarch three tbsp oil
two green tomatoes
two cups beans sprouts
one tbsp. soy sauce
two tbsp. chicken broth
one tbsp. vinegar
two tbsp. sherry
pepper to taste

Shred chicken into thin ribbons. Rub with salt and cornstarch. Heat two tbsp. oil in wok. Add chicken. Stir fry 30 seconds. Remove and keep warm. Quantier been that chicken pulls up and swells. Add remaining oil and finely chopped onions. Stir fry 15 seconds. Add bean sprouts, stir fry for one minute. Add remaining ingredients (you can quickly make broth from one tsp powdered broth and water) and stir fry 30 seconds. Return chicken to wok and stir fry together for 45 seconds and serve. You can substitute one cup celery for bean sprouts. Serves four.

Question Of Legality

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia Medical Association has endorsed a report from its drug habituation committee opposing a suggestion that doctors be responsible for committing addicts to compulsory treatment. The committee said it favors compulsory treatment, but under "a legal procedure which would provide the defendant with adequate safeguards and protect the physician from exposure to criminal threat."

Mr. and Mrs. David Jamieson

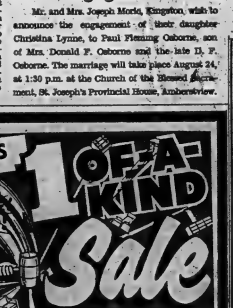
Jamieson — Woodcock

Catherine May Woodcock and David Philip Jamieson were married in Calvary Temple June 22 in a ceremony conducted by Rev. C. K. Benn, assisted by Rev. I. Leach.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Woodcock and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Jamieson of Foxboro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown she designed with a full skirt of georgette and lace tiers, with a lace-trimmed train which fell from her shoulders. The waist-length veil was attached to a headpiece of beaded petals. She carried red roses.

Darlene Rose, the bride's sister was matron of honor in a mauve gown trimmed with white daisies and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.



The six bridesmaids were dressed in yellow and green gowns matching the matron of honor, and carried bouquets of pink and white roses. The attendants were the bride's sisters Ruth Vader and Anne, Pauline and Diana Woodcock, the groom's sister Carol Hagerman and Carol Rose.

The flower girls were the bride's niece Tammy Rose and the groom's niece Sherrie Jamieson, who were pink gowns matching the bridesmaids and carried baskets of flowers which held the rings.

The groom's best man was his brother Wilmot Jamieson. The ushers were the bride's brothers Glen and Jim Woodcock, the bride's brothers-in-law Jack Rose and Lance Vader, and the groom's brother-in-law Carl Hagerman and nephew Robert Hagerman.

Wedding music was provided by soloist Doug Rose.

After a reception at Foxboro Unified Church, Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson travelled to Bracebridge and northern Ontario. On their return, they will live at 63 Gordon Street.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morin, Kingston, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Christina Lynne, to Paul Fleming Osborne, son of Mrs. Donald P. Osborne and the late D. F. Osborne. The marriage will take place August 24, at 1:30 p.m. at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, St. Joseph's Provincial House, Amherstview.

Mr. and Mrs. David Black

Travis — Vos

Marenatha Christian Reformed Church was the setting for the wedding of Shirley Ann Vos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Vos of RR 1, Plainfield, and Alan Walter Travis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Travis.

Rev. Henry Katerberg officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of sheer organza with a dainty ruffle around the neckline. The sheer neck trimmed with chantilly lace was spotted with seed pearls, and the waist line was trimmed similarly. The's long sleeves were edged with lace at the wrist, and a large Dlonoo around the skirt hem had the same lace. Her chapel-length veil fell from a wreath of lily of the valley and roses, and her bouquet was white roses, white mums ivy and baby's breath.

Nancy Wright was maid of honor in a pink floral gown with short sleeves and a pastie at the back. She wore daisies in her hair and carried white and yellow daisies and mums.

The bridesmaids, Debbie Vos, the bride's sister, and Linda Vos, the bride's cousin, were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried similar flowers.

Andrea and Tricia Vos, the bride's sisters, were flower girls in pink gowns, with daisies in their hair. They carried baskets of white yellow and pink daisies, carnations and mums.

Wayne Deakin was the groom's best man. The ushers were Mike Shortt and the bride's brother Kenneth Vos.

After a reception at the Black Hawk Motor Hotel, the newly-married couple travelled east on their honeymoon. They now live at 96 Stanley Street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. (Bud) Stratton, 30 St. Charles St., has been awarded the degree Bachelor of Music with Distinction in Conducting by McGill University at the June 6 Convocation Exercises. Mr. Stratton is at present conductor of the Montreal Junior Symphony and the McGill Student Chamber Ensemble. He is continuing his studies under Maestro Charles Bruck of the Paris Radio Orchestra.

Black — Gaffney

Kathleen Gaffney and David Donald Black were united in marriage in June at St. Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joan Gaffney; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Black.

Rev. Douglas Latimer officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Harry Way, the bride wore an empire gown of re-embroidered lace. A silk organza rose held her cathedral train and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Pamela Hatch, the bride's sister, was matron of honor and wore a yellow gown with ruffled trim. Her empire waist was trimmed in yellow ribbon and she carried mauve shasta daisies.

Julie Gaffney, the bride's sister, Melanie Lemon, the groom's sister were attendants and were mauve gowns and carried yellow nosegays. Sandra Kerton, flower girl, wore a yellow gown like the matron of honor and carried a basket of yellow daisies. Christopher Tod-Cowan, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Leigh Hatch, the bride's brother-in-law, was groomsman, assisted by Brent Mann, the groom's cousin and Edward Lemon, the groom's brother-in-law.

After a dance held at the Odd Fellows Lodge, the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

They will reside in Belleville.

Engagement

Mrs. Cora Groenevelt, Actinolite, wishes to announce the engagement of her daughter, Theresa Elizabeth Ann, to Douglas James Lessard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lessard of Tweed. The wedding will take place on Saturday, July 20 at 4 p.m., in St. Carthage's Church, Tweed.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. (Gerry) Gerow are pleased to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Victoria-Lynn to Peter Alexander Melchior, The marriage will take place Saturday, July 20 at 4.30 p.m. at St. Michael's Catholic Church, Belleville, Ontario.

Cooking Tough Job in Egyptian Kitchen

CAMP CHAMS, Egypt (CP) — Sgt. Joseph Smith, 41 years a military cook, is back to soaking his vegetables in Javex.

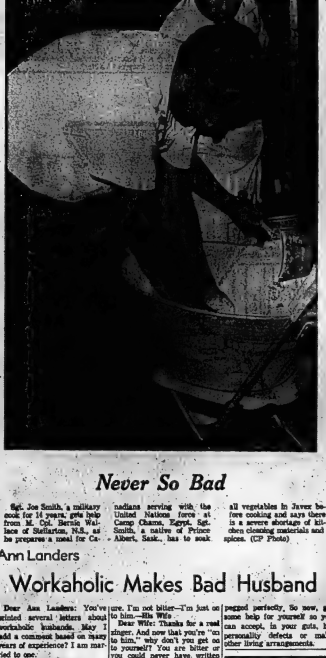
It's a trick he picked up in Cyprus, on the advice of a medical officer, and it came in handy on his current assignment running a makeshift kitchen at the Canadian officers' mess at this camp outside Cairo.

All food supplies for the United Nations Emergency Force UNEF in the Middle East are handled by the UN, which believes in "buying local" where possible.

The UN finally gave up on local beef, Joe says, after consignments were repeatedly rejected as unfit for human consumption. For almost a month he served his 137 officers tinned meats, tough camel beef and the like, but now the UN is receiving its beef from Australia and France.

The necessity of a 20-minute bath in the sterilizing solution of diluted Javex, and then a plunge into clear water, adds to Joe's work-load, but he has other more important problems.

Such as how to get rid of the pickled pumpkin.



Then there's the dirty shortage of kitchen-cleaning materials and spices, and the total absence of many staples — a shattering blow to a pastry specialist.

Joe, 32, deeply tanned and with a boisterous, easy-going manner, is from Prince Albert, Sask., and has served in West Germany, Cyprus, Edmonton and Calgary, where his family now lives.

"I've never been ill to bed," he says, referring to previous postings where Canadian did their own supplying. "Even in the field we were better supplied than here."

Nevertheless, he remains philosophical. He gets considerable help, takes them in stride.

His current situation is in a cook tent with a ground floor, concrete walls and there is a severe shortage of kitchen cleaning materials and spices. (CP Photo)

Sgt. Joe Smith, a military cook for 19 years, gets help from M. Cpl. Bernie Wallace of Shelburne, N.S., as he prepares a meal for Canadians serving with the United Nations Forces at Camp Chams, Egypt. Sgt. Smith, a native of Prince Albert, Sask., has to soak all vegetables in Javex before cooking and says there is a severe shortage of kitchen cleaning materials and spices. (CP Photo)

Successful Living

Skits and Games for Old Folks

Dear Doris: I am a psychology student working at the Brandon Mental Health Centre for the summer months. In one of your recent articles you mention a list of skits and games which is available for 25 cents. Please forward a copy for use with the patients over the summer months.

Also, any other material you may have on activities suitable for regressed patients (e.g., remotivation or occupational therapy material) would be appreciated. Our particular group of patients are males ranging in age from 50 to 80 years old. — Mental Health Student.

Dear Student: I'm sending you the 25-cent leaflet (1) List of Skits and Games, (2) Tips In Organizing Friendship Clubs, including games for older people.

Mary Jodd's book, "Why Bother? He's Old and Confused" is written with great sympathy and contains practical ideas for working with older people. When it comes to motivation she knows how. And she insists that every human being has a right to loving help. I'm enclosing information about how to get her book.

Please write again and tell us what ideas you find most useful. This will help other nurses and nursing aides right across the country; people who are racking their brains for ideas on how to help elderly people remain active; how to add life to their years.

Dear Doris: Do I call my mother's sister an aunt (Aunt Ida) or just Ida? Her age is 58 and mine 27.

She gets offended when I call her Aunt Ida and she does not like to admit her age, even to her own children. Right or Wrong?

Dear R. or W.: Usually "Aunt" coming before a first name is not just a designation of relationship. It is also a gesture showing respect. Why not call your aunt just plain Ida if that's what she wants?

I have nieces who love to call me just "Doris" — it seems a sort of pal-ity. But those same nieces call my sister "Aunt Mary" — whose status as the mother of their cousins seems to give her a dignity — in their eyes, anyway — calling for the full title.

A lot depends on the individual, the age, and what she wants to be called.

(Talking it over helps. Write to Doris for help with your dilemma, care of this newspaper.)

Never So Bad

Ann Landers

Workaholic Makes Bad Husband

Dear Ann Landers: You've urged printed several letters about workaholic husbands. May I add a comment based on many years of experience? I am married to one.

Like those who are driven to excesses in eating and drinking, the person who is driven by overwork may be using his "industriousness" as an excuse to hide from something. In my husband's case, he is hiding from me and his children.

Mr. Success finds it infinitely safer and more comfortable to stay in his structured work role. Members of his immediate family demand excitement from him in terms of emotional output. At work he doesn't have to be bothered with relating to people in a meaningful way. At the office he can hide behind his mahogany desk and fancy title. This man even avoids social functions because he is so sure of himself. He is a prominent member of the community, knows a great many people, but he has no friends.

If you look at my husband's bank statements his stock portfolio, and his performance in the business world, he's unquestionably a star, but if you examine his role as a husband and father, he's a dismal failure.

Wife: Thanks for a real zinger. And now that you're "on to him," why don't you get on to yourself? You are bitter or you could never have written that letter. I'm not suggesting that the man doesn't deserve every word you laid on him, but for your own sake, lady, talk to a counselor and unload some of that hostility and anger. Your husband will never change, which I'm sure you know. My guess is that you have the guy pegged perfectly. So now, get some help for yourself so you can accept, in your guts, his personality defects or make other living arrangements.

Warns of Raw Poultry

OTTAWA (CP) — The Health Protection Branch of the department of public health warns that raw poultry is one of the most hazardous of foods, carrying salmonella bacteria which are easily transmitted to other foods. Poultry should be washed well before cooking and the cutting board should be thoroughly washed after use. A clean chopping surface can trap bacteria.

TOWNSHIP OF THURLOW - AUDITOR'S REPORT
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS FOR 1973

The Reeve,
Members of Council Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow.

We have examined the 1973 financial statements of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow, which are listed on the attached index. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of Thurlow as at December 31, 1973, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario municipalities, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Man Killed by Accident In Insurance Rip-off

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A man who died in a duly 4 shoot-out after he had hired youths to "shoot him in the leg" in a plot to collect disability insurance, Buffalo police said Sunday.

Two teen-agers in statements to police said the bullet that struck Bobby Cunningham, 26, was fired accidentally, said Lee Donovan, homicide bureau chief.

Murphy Davis, 16, has been charged with first-degree manslaughter and possession of a dangerous weapon.

"In their statements, both youths said they would be paid a sum of $50 if they could obtain a weapon and then shoot him (Cunningham) in the leg," Donovan said.

Davis, in his statement, said he got down on one knee and fired three shots at Cunningham at a prearranged location, but none of the shots hit Cunningham Donovan said.

"He told us he accidentally fired a fourth bullet from the weapon. Cunningham slumped to the ground."

Jack Horner Wants Stanfield to Resign

POLLOCKVILLE, Ala. (CP) — Jack Horner, who won his riska," said Mr. Horner, Conseventh election to the House of servative MP for Crowfoot and Commons last week, said Saturday that Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield should resign.

"During the election Mr. Stanfield took some calculated risk," said Mr. Horner, Conservative MP for Crowfoot and known as a party maverick.

"The first one was wage and price controls and a 90-day freeze. He was advised eight months ago it would probably be detrimental to the party and the chances in the election.

"He also took a calculated risk in not allowing (Leonard) Jones to run in Moncton as an official candidate and. . .he said that may cost him voters all across Canada. His. by, a leader, had the authority to do that and was doing it.

"Therefore, I think he as leader has got to suffer the penalty for his actions and should step down."

Toronto Aldermen Welcome Federal Action

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto aldermen have hailed Ottawa's proposal for tougher federal controls as a welcome legislative weapon in the fight against lead pollution.

Ald. Dan Heap said Saturday that "lead has been known as a trifle."

SACO Peewees Roll to Crown

The Belleville SACO Peewees won the Grand Championship at the Richmond Hill Peewee Softball Tournament on the weekend.

With their regular assistant coach, Herb Collinson unable to attend the tourney because of a wedding commitment, the losers called upon their manager, Eileen Brooks, to handle the first base coaching chores. Her reason is the wife of team coach, Ken Brooks.

The team responded by pounding their opposition with 34 runs in four games, winning the A and Grand Championship, barring only 16 runs scored on them in the string.

Tim Soule helped his own cause by the team's first win of the day, a 3-2 shading of the host Richmond Hill team, banging two hits. He fired the win, giving up five hits, striking out, seven and walking only two batters.

In the second game, Stouffville was the victim of a 13-6-5 Belleville barrage, taking a 13-3 pasting. Darrell Colman had three hits to pace the winners, scoring three runs, with John Henry adding three hits and one run.

Winning pitcher Andy Hoblit gave up six hits, striking out 11. He allowed two bases on balls.

The A Championship contest turned out to be another rout, this time, a 16-3 decision over Preston, backed up by two home runs by Dan Turner. Clarence Beukeman added a four bagger to three singles, with John Henry striking three as well. Andy Rossit and Tim Soule each had a pair.

Soule fired the win, nicked for six hits but fanned six and walked one. He was backed up with some fine defensive work by his teammates.

The Grand Championship game was another contest with the host club, Richmond Hill, as they worked their way back through the B side of the tourney, taking that championship, and a chance at the big one.

It looked for a while like they were to take their own tourney. They had a 4-0 lead in the top of the third, but the Belleville crew came back with two in the bottom of the inning, five in the fifth, and two in the sixth, for a 9-4 victory.

Soule and Rossit shared the win, with Soule going the first three frames. He gave up four hits, not walking or fanning a man. Rossit had three strikeouts in shutting out the Richmond Hill team the rest of the way. He was touched for one hit.

John Henry, the top hitter for Belleville in the tourney with 10 hits in 13 tries, had three in the final game. Darrell Colman, Bob Redpo, and Paul Soule each contributed two, with Andy Rossit supplying one.

Special Playoff To Rollins Squad

Rollins Construction won the right to decide which classification they will play in Ontario Amateur Softball Association play this season, as they dumped Devolin Motors in the second game of their best of three series, 9-1, in game played Saturday night.

The win gave the Constructionmen the right to chose between the Senior B and Intermediate A divisions. Spokesmen from each team indicated before the series got underway that their boys would go into the intermediate section. It is assumed Rollins will take their option on the intermediate series.

Paul Goodfellow broke the ice on a scoreless ballgame in the bottom of the fifth frame with a home run to his wrong field, scoring two members.

Devolin got one run back in their half of the sixth, after Bruce Shields walked. Rick Watt was inserted as a designated runner. He stole second, and scored when Randy Lambert misjudged Terry Meagher's ball to left field.

Rollins added an insurance run in the seventh, with Carl Thornbourrow striking out one batter. Bob Boyle was sent in to run for Thornbourrow, scoring when Wayne McTaggart doubled.

Ted Wallis fired the win for the Constructionmen, whiffing 10 batters, walking only two and giving up five hits.

Larry Griffin made his first appearance for Devolin Motors this season, striking out 11 and walking three in taking the loss. He was touched for six hits.

Goodfellow added a two base hit to his home run to pace the winners, with Watt adding a pair of base hits. The Rollins lineup got seven members across the plate.

Rollins, won first game by a 5-3 margins.

Elliott Motors Loses in Final

PETERSBOROUGH (Special) — Five-hit pitching by Rory MacLeod stopped Port Colborne as Belleville Elliott Motors advanced to the B finals in tyke baseball tournament play here, Saturday.

MacLeod struck out five batters and walked four as Belleville posted a convincing 15-3 win.

The win turned out Elliott Motors should have saved some of their energy for the final with Peterborough. The host Lifelock City squad took Belleville to task in 11-4 victory.

Mike Leger, MacLeod and Steve Taylor saw most duty for the Belleville in the title game.

Dave Conley, selected as the game's most valuable player, paced the winners with a triple and a single.

Brian Crosskrith slammed a pair of doubles and a single for Elliott's with one single apiece going to Matt Whitley, Taylor and Bob Morris.

Pete Morgan picked up the win, firing a six-hitter.

In the defeat of Port Colborne, Crosskrith led a Belleville attack with a home run and a triple. Rich MacDerville supplied a double and two singles. Checking in with a double and single each were Scott Dafoe, Stu Emerson and Leger.

In their first tournament start, the Belleville youngsters were trounced 11-4 by Burlington.

Leger, Taylor and Crosskrigt shared the Elliott pitching duties. Scott Martin got the win on a freehitter. He struck out 12.

According for the losers' hits were Crosskrigt with a pair of singles, and Emerson, a Dafoe and Whitley with one each.

McDonald's Squirt Tourney Champs

It's Napanee Ryan's All the Way

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

An exceptional pitching performance by a red hatted left hander propelled Napanee Ryan's Coker and Sound to the championship of the Belleville Minor Softball League in McDonald's Squirt Tournament here, Saturday.

Jody Cadeau, pitching 23 of the 25 innings it took his squad to roll to the title, recorded a no-hitter and a pair of two-hitters in the three full games he worked, and then came back to help within the space of a little more than four hours.

He also had two innings of hitless relief work in an earlier contest.

In those 25 innings, his statistics read: Three runs off four hits; an amazing 48 strikeouts and only six walks.

In the championship final with pro-tourney favorite and defending champion Richmond Hill, Jody had pitched a perfect game for six innings, relenting in the sixth to give up a pair of singles for the only runs scored in a 2-1 Napanee victory.

While Hill Bill did steal the spotlight with his great individual performance, he excelled to climb the lustre of a solid team effort turned in by the champs.

Al Garrison, the Junior B coach who authored the strategy that kept early last hockey season's players coached for titles with his father, Bud. And it was obvious they had their parents present — and then some.

They got 100 per cent from each and every one of the eleven guys.

It's a well disciplined club. And its strength lies in the attitude of the players. They are there to play ball, for the good of the team.

When it became obvious Richmond Hill right-hander Glen Agee was in a stingy mood and not about to give swing-a thing in the final, the Garrison batsmen briefly lifted their players and decided to go with the bunt. Nursing a 1-0 lead in the sixth, Napanee got a pair of runners aboard on Richmond Hill miscues and two sacrifice bunts later, it was 3-0.

Richmond Hill's top of the seventh twilight which produced one run brought home the importance of those two well-placed Napanee bunts by Cadeau and Doug Weeks, in the sixth.

In the first tourney start, Napanee whipped Stirling Legion 18-3 and followed up with a 9-6 decision of Springbrook.

Mike Finn went the distance for the hitters in the five-inning, Stirling match, firing two-bit ball while striking out four and walking none. Bob Donald worked the first five innings against Springbrook, touched for eight hits, fanning a pair and walking one. Andy Deour came on to finish up.

Another team favored by many to take all the marbles, Woodstock was next on the list. A leadoff home run by Graham Stroman gave Cadeau all the support he needed. Errors produced another Napanee run in the third and it remained 2-0 with Cadeau chalking up a no-hit shutout.

Lindsay was stubborn in the match which decided who would meet Richmond Hill for the title.

Final score was 4-2, Napanee but it was a cliff-hanger.

Down 3-0 after one inning, Lindsay battled back to count single runs in the second and sixth frames to get back in the ball game. Napanee wrapped it up in the seventh, scoring once on hits by Stroman and Cadeau.

Richmond Hill advanced to the championship round after dropping its first game to Woodstock 3-2, coming back to top Belleville Kinsmen 10-4, and then chilling Glenfield 2-0.

The host Belleville team scored 34 runs in its first two outings, after being forced to break 36-12 and turning Stirling Rot, But in the match with Richmond Hill, Kinsmen found runs hard to come by.

Bob Saxby of McDonald's was on hand to present the plaque to Napanee co-captains Graham Stirrant and Tony Normilo, when the shooting was over at Alemite Park.

Another team favored by the Oakmen Trophies most valuable player award presented by BMSA president Don Smith, came up with the goods in the tournament in a big, but, successful day: "It was fun," he said.

For team manager Gary Elder and Al Garrison the father and son coaching combination, it was something more than fun.

"We only had four criminal cases before coming into this tournament but we did it," offered a satisfied Elder.

In the final analysis, Napanee's success story should be because of the ability of team officials to work with the youngsters and get the most out of their charges.

"It was a great tournament," Al Garrison told Don Smith as the Napanee cavalcade prepared to leave for McDonald's and post game treats.

Few would argue with that statement.

And the visitors from Napanee helped make it just that. 6-spoke to follow

Downtown Merchants Shaded

The Belleville Downtown Merchants Bantams travelled to the North York Softball Tournament on the weekend, winning one of the three games they played.

In their opening contest, Merchants dropped a 6-4 decision to Guelph, bouncing back for a 7-6 win over Port Perry in the second game.

In the third game, the Consolation semi-final, the boys put up a good fight, but lost to Peterborough, 3-1.

Darryl Vance fired all three games for Belleville, performing well in every outing. Rose supplied much of the team's offence with a pair of home runs in the three games.

Whitby's Greg Rich scampers back in time to avoid being picked off during Legion tourney at Trenton. Belleville Branch 99 third baseman is John Ricketts.

Yardmen Bow Out In Semi-final

The Belleville Yardmen Midgets made it to the semi-final round of the Whitby Baseball Tournament on the weekend before bowing out, on a 6-4 decision to Herron Park, in the fourth game they played.

Rick Cubitt fired a six-hitter on the Belleville mound in the contest, but was let down by seven errors by his teammates. He struck out nine and walked only one in the seven inning game.

Paul Driver was the winning pitcher, allowing seven Belleville hits. He fanned six and walked three.

Eric Powell, Kerry Lucas, and Gary Thompson each collected two hits in the Yardmen attack, with John Redstone, Mike Crawford, Scott Bennett and Brian Turner each adding a single.

Sunil Tarneja had a two base hit for the winners, with Bob Boyle, Walter Papierowski, James Batcher, and Kevin Kelly adding the others.

In the first game of the tourney, Belleville was defeated by Richmond, after a 15-2 pasting.

They then bounced back for two wins to send them to the semi-final. They trounced Oshawa 8-2, and edged Thorold 3-2.

Tournament B Crown For Broadloom Team

Belleville Broadloom won the B Championship of the Campbellford tournament series Softball Tournament on the weekend, defeating Cooper in the final game, 13-8.

Belleville had a total of 15 hits, with Leslie VanHorrmey, Lizzie Cole, and Roseanne Hovingh each adding a pair of hits. Norma Fuller and Suzanne Gill rounded out the attack with one each.

For Cooper B was Carolyn Francis with a home run, while Sandra Hodgins and Bets Bigelow adding a triple and three singles.

The host Campbellford club took a 11-5 win from the Belleville team in the opening game. Campbellford went on to the A playoffs, winning a 4-3 decision in Trenton.

The second game of the day saw Broadloom clamp Brighton, 11-4. Mary Anne Sills and Jan Morton shared the win, allowing eight hits. They struck out one and walked seven.

Chris Smith led the 11 hit attack once again with a home run and triple, with Sills adding a triple and single. Norma Fuller had a double and single each.

Fuller was chosen as Most Valuable Player in the B division of the tournament.

BYBF Nips Brockville In Exhibition Match

The Belleville Yardmen stayed at home this weekend, to record a 5-4 exhibition Ladies Softball win over Brockville, Sunday night at the Alemite.

The Yardmen have been busy on the tournament trail in the past several weeks, and enjoyed the rest from the travelling, according to team spokesmen.

Sue McKee, Sandra Claus and Shirley Gulliver all worked part of the game for the Yardmen, allowing eight hits. They struck out five while walking three.

Bibi Dupuis and Judy Reid shared the loss for Brockville, giving up 10 hits. They contributed five two strikeouts and nine walks.

Joyce McFarlane and Donna Preston led the Belleville attack with two singles each, with Judy Rappel contributing a double.

Single base hits went to Carol McFarlane, Sue Morton, Shirley Gulliver, Wendy Conway, and Donna Lucas.

Sheila Rhodes, Edna Riley, and Jane Morrison each had a pair of hits for the visitors, with Judy Link, Jane Ritz and Sue Green adding one each.

Peterborough Captures Legion District Honors

TRENTON — Strong in every department, Peterborough Branch 52 rolled to the District championship in the Royal Canadian Legion softball baseball playoff here, Saturday.

After getting by host Trenton Branch 118, 8-3 in an exciting contest, Peterborough had little trouble disposing of Whitby 9-2 in the championship match.

The young Whitby squad, expected to really make its presence felt in another year, couldn't match the punch and balance of the Branch 52 team but never stopped trying in spite of the fact it faced an uphill battle from the beginning.

Peterborough qualified for the provincial championships scheduled for the weekend of August 9-10, here. Legion officials expect at least seven teams will be on hand for the event, won in 1973 by Branch 52.

In the match with the defending champion Trenton team, Peterborough said it with a three-run eighth inning after losing pitcher Paul Devereaux had recorded a 3-1 lead with a two-run double in the sixth.

Winning pitcher Gord Lewis, a lefty, set the Trenton side down on a three-hitter.

Brian Douglas slammed a two-run triple for the winners and Dale Mathews added a homer, double and single.

Belleville was represented by a total of 38 impressed Belleville Minor Baseball Association players, Peterborough coached by Leo Hay.

Coaching assignments were announced at the other three zone tournaments, Eastern Ontario Baseball Association.

Twelve-year-old Rick Dunphy, a clever left-hander, was helping his own way, pacing Whitby to a 14-3 win.

Tony Parks went the distance for the Belleville squad, serving them up to diminutive, but effective Mathews who played a great throwing arm for his size for lack of it, Mathews, a catcher in the box set, is something else.

Batting forcemeters were taking no chances with the little guy.

One Whitby player threw caution to the wind in the sixth and Mathews promptly threw him out at first.

That play helped serve notice that although the Branch 52 team may have been leaving in experience, it was not about to lie down and play dead.

There is every reason to believe Branch 99 will make its presence felt in the Legion peewee playoffs in 1975.

Promising indeed.

The gently gentleman from Port Hope who now confines his verbal talents to Legion publications after years of reporting and turning out a column for newspapers in Peterborough, Oshawa, and, of course, Port Hope, is back in harness.

"I was railroaded", chuckles the stuffed Bible, referring to his appointment as District Sports Officer for the Legion.

Aside from the rat, the air of proper procedure to sports functions of this sector.

A former umpire himself, Dude was impressed with the work of Belleville's Al Kelly and fellow umpires.

That guy is great for the kids," commended Ellis.

"We've never seen anything like him. He's just great," agreed the Peterborough coaching staff.

Frank Amodeo, president of Branch 118, wasn't disappointed for the provincial playoffs in August.

Either way.

"It should be a pairings."

Fists Fly in Pittsburgh As Reds and Bucs Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There were a lot of fists flying in Three Rivers Stadium Sunday when Pittsburgh Pirates showed they are anything but hot except under the collar.

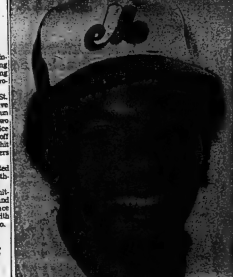
The Bucs had lost the first game of their double-header 3-2 to Cincinnati on Tony Perez' three-run first-inning homer and were tied 1-1 with the Reds in the fourth inning of the night-cap. Then Bruce Kison, the Pirates' starter, who had already been warned about throwing beanball pitches, found himself on the receiving end of one, compliments of Jack Billingham. The pitch hit Kison on the arm.

"When I warned Kison, I told (Reds Manager) Sparky Anderson that he was gone, if is guy retaliated," said Pirates pilot/umpire Ed Sadek.

More than a dozen other players threw punches, but only Anderson, Eddie Kasko and Ed Kirkpatrick were ejected.

When things cooled off, Richie Hebner singled home Chuck Brinkman with the winning run in the Pirates' 2-1 triumph.

In Sunday's other National League games, New York Mets beat Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, Atlanta Braves blanked St. Louis 7-0, Houston Astros edged Chicago Cubs 7-6 in 12 innings, Philadelphia Phillies swept San Francisco Giants 5-3 and 7-4, and Montreal Expos did the same to San Diego Padres 6-5 and 6-2.



In Saturday's games, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 3-4, San Francisco defeated Philadelphia 13-3, Atlanta downed St. Louis 8-1, Houston blanked Chicago 4-0, San Diego defeated Montreal 5-1 and Los Angeles edged New York 2-1.

Bud Harrelson, who missed 29 games with a broken bone in his right hand, got an RBI infield single in the fourth inning to give New York its winning run. Cleon Jones later hit a two-run homer.

Phil Niekro cooled off St. Louis with a five-hitter. Dave Johnson smacked a three-run homer and Darrell Evans in two runs with a first-inning sacrifice fly and a third-inning double off young Ray Bare. Johnson hit his 16th homer off Rich Folkers in the fifth.

Bob Gallagher's single lifted Houston past the Cubs in the 12th-inning rally.

The Phillies, with clutch hitting from Willie Montanez and Del Unser, split into first place by 1½ games in the East with their sweep of San Francisco.

Billy Martin Gets Heave-ho Twice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Martin was thrown out of both games of a double-header with Milwaukee Brewers Sunday.

The Texas Ranger manager got to see seven innings of the first game, won 9-3 by Milwaukee but was gone after one inning of the nightcap, won 5-4 by Texas.

Home plate umpire Ron Luciano ejected Martin after Pete Broberg's brush-back pitch to George Scott in the seventh inning.

A Broberg pitch had decked Milwaukee shortstop Tommy Harper an inning earlier and Luciano had warned both benches against beanballs.

It happened again, too, and Broberg joined his manager in the clubhouse after two of his pitches came close to Bob Coluccio.

Martin didn't last as long in the second game. He was thrown out after protesting a pitch.

Also ejected from the second game were Texas batsider Gary Ross, Texas coach Frank Lucchesi and Milwaukee manager Del Crandall.

In other American League games Sunday, Chicago White Sox beat Baltimore Orioles 3-1; Kansas City Royals nipped Detroit Tigers 2-1 in the 14th inning; Boston Red Sox blanked California Angels 3-0; Oakland A's swept a doubleheader from New York 7-2 and 4-1, and Minnesota Twins nudged Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 10 innings.

In Saturday's games, New York defeated Oakland 13-6, California defeated Boston 5-1, Milwaukee downed Texas 5-3, Minnesota edged Cleveland 3-1, Detroit defeated Kansas City 9-5 and Baltimore nipped Chicago 3-1.

Before he was decked, Scott drove in five runs with a three-run homer and two doubles to help Milwaukee win the first game. Toby Harrah's double and an error by shortstop Tim Johnson keyed a four-run fourth inning, and Don Grieve hit a home run, lifting Texas to victory in the second game.

Bill Melton cracked a two-run homer in the first inning to give San Robison and Chicago a 2-0 victory over Baltimore. Melton's 12th home run of the season came off loser Mike Cuellar. Ross Grimsley, 11-8, who went into the game with a record of six complete-game victories.

A bases-loaded walk to Hal McRae with two out in the 14th inning gave Kansas City its triumph over Detroit. Jim Ray, who had come in to relieve at the start of the 14th.

Luis Tiant pitched a seven-hitter and Rico Petrocelli scored two runs, carrying Boston past California, ending the Angels' nine-game winning streak.

Sal Bando's three-run homer capped a five-run seventh inning that lifted Oakland over New York in the first game of their doubleheader.

Bill North and Bando drilled first-inning home runs, and the A's added four runs in the eighth inning to take the second game.

Steve Braun's home run leading off the 10th inning powered Minnesota over Cleveland. The blast made a winner of Tom Burgmeier, 3-2.

Expos Get Back In the Groove

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The hit-and-run batting of Ken Singleton and Willie Davis carried Montreal Expos to a 6-1, 6-2 sweep Sunday against San Diego Padres in a doubleheader.

Mike Torrez, 9-5, hurled a six-hitter to snap the Padres' four-game winning streak and end Montreal's three-game losing streak in the opener. Then John Boccabella, Dennis Blair, 4-2, clouted two runs, carrying the Expos past California, ending the Angels' nine-game winning streak.

Sal Bando's three-run homer capped a five-run seventh inning that lifted Oakland over New York in the first game of their doubleheader.

Bill North and Bando drilled first-inning home runs, and the A's added four runs in the eighth inning to take the second game.

Steve Braun's home run leading off the 10th inning powered Minnesota over Cleveland. The blast made a winner of Tom Burgmeier, 3-2.

Yanks Can't Break Jinx, Player 3-time Winner

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — This place is not popular with American golfers. It has one of the most famous golf courses in the world, but no American has won the British Open championship here in 68 years.

When Jack Nicklaus failed to catch Gary Player Saturday, and the little South African won his third British Open title, the jinx kept its grip.

The last time the championship was held here was in 1969, when Britain's Tony Jacklin won it. Since then, it has gone around the big courses of England and Scotland, and Americans have chalked up an unbroken string of victories.

Now this testing course of windswept sand and bushes has beaten the Americans again. Player won with a 72-hole total of 293, Britain's Peter Oosterhuis was second with 296, and Nicklaus, the best of the Americans, finished third at 297.

Johnny Miller, top money winner on the U.S. circuit this year, was one of the Americans whose hopes were shattered among the landscape of the inward nine holes. He finished 19th with 304.

"For Americans playing British courses, it is like rolling dice," Miller said. "You can roll them just right, but you don't know what numbers are coming up.

"I made four mistakes in my final round and every mistake cost me either a bogey or a double bogey."

Player, the most convincing winner of the British Open for years, said the Americans should do better in the future because this championship now is played with a bigger-sized golf ball.

All prot should play the big ball, even on long, tough and exposed courses like this one," Player said. "The Americans do—and that's why they're so good."

The big ball was used in the British Open for the first time, so Player made golfing history.

Bill Brack Tops Roos

ST. PIE, Que. (CP) — Bill Brack, Canadian racing champion, scored a convincing victory in the Player's Quebec race at Sanair International Raceway Sunday.

The 32-year-old Toronto driver, who also won at Edmonton and Mosport this year, brought his STP Special across the line, more than 60 seconds ahead of Bertil Roos of Sweden, who dominated the early stages.

Tom Klauser, of Palatine, Ill., finished third, five seconds behind Roos. Charlie Gibson, of Fairfield, Conn., came fourth and Bob Brown, of Hicksville, N.Y., took fifth.

The only other Canadian in top ten was 19th-placed Reg Scullion of Dollard-des-Ormeaux, Que.

Brack burst from his starting position on the second-line grid, out the first corner on the inside and led the 36-car field for the first five laps. But Roos stayed on his tail and managed to outfox the Canadian on a tricky last turn, the scene of one minor accident.

By lap five, the Swede was ahead by several seconds, picking up nine driver title Chevron ESP hard through the corners.

Russians Basketball Champions

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The Soviet Union defeated the United States, 105-94, Sunday to win the world amateur basketball championship.

The victory put the tournament in a three-way tie in the standings with defending champion Yugoslavia, the U.S. and the Soviet Union each having six victories against one defeat.

The championship was decided on the goal average among the three in games with each other.

Yugoslavia took second place and the U.S. took third place.

Three of the Americans' main cogs underneath the basket fouled out in the second half.

Seven-foot Richard Kelley departed with 8:59 remaining in the game, six-foot, 11-inch Joe Meriweather fooled out with 5:47 left and six-foot eight-inch Tom Borrell left with 3:39 remaining.

The U.S. trailed only 83-80 when Luther Burden made two foul shots with 7:42 left to play, but the Soviets scored the next two baskets to go ahead by four points. The U.S. never got closer than five points after that.

Earlier, Kresimir Cosic scored 16 points and helped Yugoslavia defeat Spain 79-71.

Accurate foul shooting, including a 14-for-14 effort by Alexander Salnikov, sparked the Soviets to victory.

Pete Landers threw a perfect game in the opener and Mike Mobun picked up the victory in the nightcap Saturday as Toronto Globals swept their Ontario Football League doubleheader with London Dukes by scores of 11-0 and 3-2.

The perfect game was Landers's second of the season and his 13th victory against four losses.

The Globals rattled London pitchers Bob Slowiaski and Joe Adam for 14 hits with first baseman Stu Allen accounting for three of them. Catcher Dennis Glaud and second baseman Marty Twyman had two hits apiece for the winners.

In the second contest, Brian Haynes's bases-loaded triple in the sixth proved to be the decisive hit.

In Hamilton, the Provincials broke a scoreless tie in the first game with two runs in the eighth as pitcher Bill Drennan gained his ninth win in 11 decisions. He gave up four hits, struck out four and walked one.

Reg Martin was the losing pitcher, allowing six hits in losing Joe O'Neill's game-winning triple.

Burlington Provincials beat Hamilton Waxmen twice, 2-0 and 5-3 in other action Saturday.

Sunday play saw Niagara Falls blank London 6-0, Burlington edge Toronto 1-0 and Newmarket edge St. Catharines 2-1. The Oshawa - Kitchener doubleheader was postponed because of rain.

Rushton's Corsair Puts It All Together

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rushton's Corsair, beaten by a nose in the Quebec Derby and third in the sloppy field at the Queen's Plate, finally put it all together Sunday for the $25,000 running of the $100,000 Manitoba Derby.

The charcoal son of Pirate Cove out of Rushton's Heir also raised the stock of Western Canada-bred horses by picking up $60,000 first prize in a photo finish over Sea Reason.

Owned by A. W. Minshall of Toronto, the colt hung eight or 10 lengths off the early pace before jockey Wayne Green took him to the outside midway through the backstretch.

The victory also meant $150,000 to 14-year-old Gary Ostir of Winnipeg, who had a Manitoba Golden Sweepstakes lottery ticket bought from his 75-year-old grandfather, Frank Lisowski, matched with Rushton's Corsair.

Sea Reason, entered with Sherwood Park and owned by Elmbrook Stables of Calgary, picked up $19,500 in second place money and when his stretch drive failed to fade Rushton's Corsair at the wire.

Quebec Derby winner Nordland, owned by Kinghaven Farms of Toronto and ridden by Richard Grubb who rode last year's Manitoba Derby winner, was seven lengths back for the show finish and $5,000.

Queen's Plate winner Amber Herod, owned by Stafford Farms of Toronto, had a case of the blind stumbles, faltering outside the starting gate and again going into the backstretch, causing Jockey Robin Platts to lose his irons. The bay mare, finished fifth behind Viscount Hardhpa's Butterbump from Montreal.

Green, a 24-year-old native of Winnipeg who rides mostly out of Toronto's Woodbine race track, said his mount was "smoking when he went by."

"We weren't worried about anybody at that point. There was nobody even close until about the 70-yard pole."

Sea Reason, fresh from Vancouver's Exhibition Park and with Bazil Frazier on board, was 18th at the quarter and eighth at the half-mile pole before kicking unsuccessfully for the win.

European League Set For September, 1975

LONDON (Reuter) — A new European Hockey League will open its first 48-game schedule in September, 1975, delegates to a meeting Saturday decided.

J. F. (Sunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said after the meeting it was expected the new league will have teams from Belgium, Britain, Finland and the Netherlands. To listed West Germany as a probable fifth country in the league.

Sweden, represented at Saturday's meeting by an observer, also was invited to participate. Austria and Yugoslavia are expected to join later.

Names of the cities to be represented in the league are not available.

A statement issued by the league said teams in it might be reinforced with players from North America or other countries.

Rebel Loggers Resist End to Strike in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strike against the 120 company regional president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWAand dissident union members clashed verbally Sunday as workers in British Columbia's forest industry began to return to their jobs.

When it was announced Friday that the union negotiating committee had accepted a tentative contract agreement with the industry, IWA regional president Jack Munro asked all members to return to work until voting on the pact is completed.

However, a group of loggers in Nanaimo on Vancouver Island said Sunday the decision by the president of their local to end the strikeonly after both sides reached a tentative mid-contract adjustment for tradesmen.

negotiating committee," said Mr. Kreiz. "We want a democratic meeting to let the membership decide."

Asked later Sunday about the charge by Jim Middleton, Mr. Munro said the group, called the Woodworkers' Rank and File Committee, has no authority to speak for the union and is nothing but a disruptive influence.

In the pulp and paper industry, the return to work went smoothly after both sides announced Saturday they had Ben Thompson, to end the bitterly back to work by the midnight Sunday night.

Members of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada and the United Paperworkers International Union began returning to work at midnight Saturday night. The last of the 21 mills closed—the Weyerhaeuser Canada Ltd. mill in Kamloops, B.C.—began operations at

Dame of Sark Dies But Isle to Shun Change

SARK, Channel Islands (AP) — Michael Beaumont, the new Seigneur of Sark, pledged today to try to keep his tiny Channel Island a trouble-free 19th-century paradise following the death of the Dame of Sark.

"The last thing I want to do is drag the island into the 20th century," he said.

Beaumont, a 67-year-old aerospace engineer, became the ruler of Britain's smallest and oldest dependency on the death Sunday of his grandmother, the legendary Dame Sybil Hathaway. She was the last in the line of seigneurs, though being a woman her title was La Dame.

Dame Sybil died at the age of 90 after ruling the tiny island off the Normandy coast for 61 years, shunning Nazi occupation forces, automobiles, labor unions, divorce and income, cigarets and liquor taxes. She insisted on keeping it "a place of peace and quiet" for the population, which now totals about 600, and the 50,000 tourists it attracts annually.

Beaumont said he will quit his $16,000-a-year job as a design engineer with the British Aircraft Corp. and move his family from Bristol, England, to the 12-bedroom seigneurie on the island.

"I want to change nothing," he said. "I hope to keep the island just as my grandmother kept it: peaceful, quiet and a beautiful place to live."

Sark is 3½ miles long and 1½ miles wide. Queen Elizabeth I granted it to Helier de Carteret, the first seigneur, in 1563 with instructions to populate it.

Language Law to Be Changed

QUEBEC (CP) — Education Minister Francois Cloutier confirmed Saturday newspaper reports that the government is preparing another amendment to proposed legislation making French the province's official language.

The amendment would give the education minister the power to refuse the opening of new English schools if it is decided there is an insufficient number of children in the area whose mother tongue is English.

Mr. Cloutier said in an interview that a child's mother tongue will be used as criteria only in cases when expansion of the English-language school system takes place at the expense of French language schools.

The minister earlier outlined two amendments which would guarantee the continuation of English-language schools in Quebec and make the application of English mandatory in French schools.

The language legislation now is being debated in second reading—approval in principle—in the Quebec assembly.

Still Fast

MEXICO CITY (AP) — More than 100 Americans and Canadians continued their hunger strike Sunday at two Mexico City prisons to protest their treatment.

At the Lecumberri men's prison, one of the 78 strikers was removed to the prison infirmary, prison sources said. They identified him as Robert Hanavan, 24, of Hollywood, Fla.

Thirty-eight women were reported fasting at the Santa Mart awoman's prison.

The American prisoners allege that the United States embassy has been unresponsive to their complaints of torture and forced confessions. They have also told the U.S. government it is pressuring Mexico for harsh sentences for drug-related offences. The U.S. embassy denies the accusations.

Slim Edge

TOKYO (AP)—An independent member of Japan's upper house of parliament agreed today to vote with the governing Liberal Democratic party, giving it a slim majority in that branch of parliament.

A Liberal Democrat spokesman said the development is considered certain. The member, Sadaharu Oshima, had run as an independent with the party's backing.

However, in this case the decision is crucial, as has been today's election would put the Liberal Democrats' slight-majority edge in the House of Councillors, leaving them with exactly half of the 252 seats.

Tornado Hits

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — State police said they counted 67 new block area in Flint Sunday after a tornado roared through, destroying one home and inflicting heavy property damage within the city.

Tornados also were reported Sunday in Pontiac and Fenwick, as a series of storms moved through lower Michigan.

In Pontiac, police said cars were felled and power lines toppled.

No injuries were reported in any of the cities.

Moratorium Requested On Dakota Diversion

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Environmental Policy Centre (EPC) in Washington, D.C., has asked the United States department of the Interior to place a moratorium on construction of the controversial Garrison diversion in North Dakota.

In an open letter to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton, EPC Washington representative Brent Blackwelder cited serious Canadian objections to the project and "the lack of any definite solution to the concerns expressed by Canada" as two reasons for suspension of work.

Meanwhile, North Dakota Republicans approved a platform plank Saturday at a convention in Minot strongly in support of the project.

"We re-affirm our long stand for support of the Garrison diversion unit," the platform declared, although delegates also recommended that efforts be intensified to resolve the controversy with Canada.

Environmental studies have indicated that run-off water used for irrigation in North Dakota will degrade the quality of water in the Souris River. The river originates in Saskatchewan, flows into North Dakota and then into southwestern Manitoba.

Concern about water quality prompted an exchange of diplomatic notes between the Canadian and U.S. governments and led to an assurance from the U.S. that the project would not be allowed to pollute Canadian waterways.

The interior department announced last month it was accepting bids for work on a stretch of the McClusky Canal, a section of the Garrison project the department claims will have no impact on Canada.

However, Blackwelder maintains that changes in the project may be necessary to satisfy the government's undertaking to Canada.

McConnell Dies

MONTREAL — John G. McConnell, 61, former publisher of The Star, has died, it was announced Sunday.

Mr. McConnell, who succeeded his father, J. W. McConnell, as president and publisher of The Star in 1952, died Friday, his family said. Cause of his death was not given.

Asks Queen To Take Big Salary Cut

LONDON (Reuter) — The Queen and other members of the Royal Family were called on Saturday to take big salary cuts as a lead to other rich people during Britain's financial troubles.

Jo Grimond, former leader of the minority Liberal party and one of Parliament's most respected politicians, was quoted in an interview with the mass circulation newspaper Sunday Mirror as suggesting a 10-to 20-per-cent cut in top earnings, starting with the Crown.

The newspaper quoted Grimond as saying the idea was to help Britain, temporarily and voluntarily, to other wealthy people at a time when ordinary people were frequently being asked to restrain their demands.

Grimond admitted that a 20-per-cent cut might be a bit much but, he said, this was for the psychological effect. He asked how can he tell his constituents they must not ask for more money when some were earning only $50 to $60 a week.

Senator Says Nixon Agreed to Sub Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Henry Jackson says President Nixon wrote a secret letter to Soviet Communist chief Leonid Brezhnev "agreeing to exempt our nuclear submarines to 41."

Jane's Fighting Ships, a recognized world authority, says that is the number of ballistic missile submarines the United States Navy has on its active list at present.

Jackson, interviewed Sunday on the NBC-TV program Meet the Press, said he expects the White House to turn the letter over this week to the Senate subcommittee on arms control, of which he is chairman.

The Washington Democrat said he also expects a second document, which he did not identify, to be turned over, and

"I expect these two documents to substantiate my case."

The senator added that he already has a copy of the second document.

The "case" to which Jackson referred is a charge which he made June 24 in June between him and State Secretary Henry Kissinger as to whether Soviet arms secret protocols to the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) agreement signed in Moscow, May 26, 1972.

Jackson agreed to a moratorium while Kissinger accompanied Nixon on a second summit meeting in the Soviet Union and he himself journeyed to Peking.

Asked whether he intends to withdraw the charges, Jackson said he can't. Jackson replied

Cholera Rages

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — A cholera epidemic has claimed at least 116 lives in the last two weeks in India's southernmost state of Kerala, it was reported Sunday by the Press Trust of India news agency.

Farmers' President Agrees With Whelan

WYOMING, Ont. (CP) — Gordon Hill, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, says he agrees with remarks made last week by federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan that farmers are not getting enough money for their products.

Mr. Hill said at a news conference Saturday that food prices depend on the people who "supply food and services that farmers need."

"As long as those costs keep going up, they should recognize that prices are going to be incorporated in the cost of food."

He said it was not consumers but the news media who have been complaining about food prices.

If consumers had been doing the complaining, he said, "Mr. Whelan wouldn't have received the ovation he got when he hit Exeter-Windsor riding in the federal election July 8."

gave the Soviet Union 70 more sub-based missiles than the 950 total missile strength permitted in the published treaty.

He said this "secret clarification clearly required congressional approval."

Kissinger denied at a news conference June 24 that the secret agreement would increase the number of Soviet sea-based missile by 70 and reduce the American by 5.

The secretary then had what was described as a "heated session" lasting three hours with the subcommittee after which Jackson said: "I stand on the statement I made earlier."

Nixon Glad Of Row -- Sinatra

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter) — Frank Sinatra said Sunday night he has been told that President Nixon was delighted with press coverage of his troubled Australian tour because it took the Watergate political espionage scandal off the front pages of American newspapers.

The singer told an audience of 2,000 people including Prime Minister Gough Whitlam and his wife—at his first Sydney concert that he heard this Saturday from a friend in the U.S. with television cameras were noticably scarce at the concert and Sinatra suggested that if he saw a camera he would leave immediately.

There was no sign of ill-feeling following the dispute last week between him and the press and trade unions.

He cancelled his second concert in Melbourne and threatened to return to the U.S. after the second of his tour when he called female journalists "the hookers of the press" at his first Melbourne concert.

But Sinatra agreed to go with his tour after a four-hour peace conference with Bob Hawke, president of the Australian Council of Trade Unions.

During the concert here, Sinatra referred to events of the past week.

"Seriously, I've never experienced anything so ridiculous in 37 years," he said.

"I was kicked in the shins, had microphones hit me in the face and I received three bomb threats."

Apparently referring to his statements in Melbourne last week, the singer said: "All I did was tell one honest truth and all hell broke loose."

Fight Against Fires Continues in Ontario

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — A total of about 1,000 men and 56 aircraft continue efforts to contain several large forest fires in northwestern Ontario Sunday.

A spokesman for the provincial ministry of natural resources said Sunday no communities are directly threatened by the fires, some of which have been burning for several weeks.

Hot, dry and windy weather is helping the fires expand, and the spokesman said an accurate assessment of the situation is difficult because observer aircraft are prevented from flying by heavy clouds of smoke.

The spokesman said his department's best estimate is that almost 200,000 acres of forest have been burned over in Northern Ontario this summer.

Brighton Speedway Action

Beatty Writes Off Car But Comes Back Fast

By CECIL S. PAUL

Larry Beatty of Ajax made the comeback of the year on Saturday night at Brighton Speedway's one-third mile dirt oval. Larry's main problem in the first qualifier when he lost a wheel in the 4 came out of number four turn. His car dropped down on the fourth lap to hold a lead for the 10 lap contest, despite the fact that Doug Davis of Brighton was only a few feet behind him as he picked up his second flag of the night.

Wayne Foster of Newcastle went to the pits, bought a stock car, spray painted the number 47 and Beatty was back ready to run in the consolation.

Larry took the lead early and came in a winner when it only part of the race. He came out in the six feature, and overtook George Sinclair on the fourth lap to hold a lead for the 15 lap contest, despite the fact that Doug Davis of Brighton was only a few feet behind him as he picked up his second flag of the night.

failed to pick up a win on the weekend but he earned a third place finish in the Feature and coupled with his second place finish in the qualifier, gave him 50 points for the night to give him a total of 405 for the season.

Ron Herrington of Brighton clicked on a qualifier win run fourth in the feature to give him a total for the night of 45, a loss of five to the high flying man with the big #4. Ron is in second place with 360 and eight checkered flags, only one behind Foster.

A familiar face was behind the wheel of car number 13, as Sam Dingman ran for the first time this season. Sam was the over-all champion driver the last two years in a row and he said that he was retiring but it looks like it was short lived as he came in for a third in his qualifier, fifth in the Feature and fourth in the Super, not a bad start. Whether Sam is going to be the driver every week or not remains to be seen as Bob Allen of Warkworth is the owner and it is difficult to picture Bob sticking up there every week watching someone else driving his car.

Doug Davis finally got his car working long enough to earn $8 extra and another checkered flag. Doug took his qualifier and put on a fine display of driving in the feature to outrun both Herrington and Foster and missed his second win by a few feet.

Fred Tice of Trenton, a newcomer to Brighton this year in the stock car class started a week ago but he obviously has the feel of the track and has a fine car, the stock class by winning his feature to outrun both Herrington and Foster and missed his second win by a few feet.

Fred Tice of Trenton, a newcomer to Brighton this year in the stock car class started a week ago but he obviously has the feel of the track and has a fine car, the stock class by winning his feature to outrun both Herrington and Foster and missed his second win by a few feet. A field of 13 stockers easily as he led from the start and never looked back.

Dave MacAdams of Oshawa picked up his first win of the season as he got a lucky break in the Feature when the lead car driven by John Sinclair of Brighton lost a wheel on the ninth lap and Dave took over but was not satisfied with that as he came back in the Super and took over on the fifth lap to get his second win of the night. Dave was in the qualifier to give him a total of 55 points for the night and to move him up to fourth in the point standing battle in the clubs.

Sweep Moore of Campbellcroft earned his ninth checkered flag a she took a qualifier and ran into problems in the feature. He still holds top spot in the sight with 300 points and he is now tied with Foster for the most checkered flags.

Danny Ray of Frankford trails Moore by 25 points, with Bob Prudhomme of Belleville in third spot following in the Feature so he failed to finish.

SUIT DISMISSED

OAKLAND, Calif. (A) — A $5-million paternity and damage suit against heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman has been dismissed in Alameda County Superior Court. The plaintiff, Pamela Clay, 19, who says she lived with Foreman in his Livermore, Calif., home, told the court Friday she had filed her lawyer and wanted the suit dropped. Miss Clay had charged Foreman with beating her up and also claimed she was five months pregnant with his child. She did not give a reason for dropping the suit.

Showbiz Shorts

CHICAGO (AP) — Thousands Dillinger for the FBI in return of persons have driven past the Biograph Theatre to see where bank robber John Dillinger was ambushed and killed by federal agents 40 years ago—but few have gone in. The theatre is closing its doors because of lack of business.

Bill Durante, owner-manager, says he tried to run a family theatre and finally lost out to a raised movie.

Dillinger, then listed as Public Enemy No. 11 by the FBI, went to the theatre July 22, 1934, to see Manhattan Melodrama, starring Clark Gable.

He walked out of the theatre in the company of Polly Hamilton, a girl-friend, and Anna Sage, who became known as the Lady in Red. She had fingered

Great Gatsby A Visual Treat

Critics have differed widely on the artistic merits of Paramount Pictures' The Great Gatsby, but there is unanimity on one score: it has been a motion picture with such a trend-setter.

The lavish film version of F. Scott Fitzgerald's classic Jazz Age novel, which opened at the Quinte Mall's Cinema 1 Friday night, has been responsible for innumerable current fads.

Every stylish girl has tried the close-cropped Gatsby look that Mia Farrow models in Daisy, the elusive apple of Robert Redford's eye.

Fitzgerald's tragic romance is encased in a sumptuous scenario of long shiny limousines and massive green-lawned mansions.

For sheer extravagance, there probably has never been another movie segment to match Gatsby's party, with its popping champagne corks, piled-high platters, and poolside Charleston dancers.

Gatsby is Adult Entertainment, playing nightly in Cinema 1 at 8, and Saturdays only at 5:30 and 9 p.m.

SIGN CALGARY PLAYER

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Wheels of the World Football League said Monday they have signed Jessie Mims, a 5-foot-11, 205-pound receiver recently back from Calgary of the Canadian Football League. Mims spent the last three years with Calgary. He played his college football at Mississippi State. Mims was the Wheels' 20th pick in the WFL draft. The terms of the contract were not announced. A Wheels spokesman said Mims will probably be playing in the team's home opener Wednesday night against Florida at Ypsilanti.

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Movie actor Marlon Brando, 50, was released from hospital on Tuesday after being treated during the weekend for a torn throat caused by food poisoning.

His doctor said the star of The Godfather and Last Tango In Paris is in excellent condition.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, July 16

Aries (March 21-April 19) The obviously will be overlooked unless you really give your full attention to what you are now doing. Stop and think.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Normally you're innately wise in managing your financial affairs. However, this does not hold true today. Be careful.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) If you're relying upon another to pull certain strings for you, it's a big mistake. Favors won't be granted.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Intuitive feelings that are usually dependable will give you false signals. Don't count on hunches, bank on reality.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You're getting too deeply involved in another's problem. Be careful or it's going to be dumped in your lap.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An opportunity available yesterday no longer exists. Be sensible at this time so you don't jump into something impulsively.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If looking for others to support your interests, be sure you don't present your proposal until it's worked out to the last detail.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep a cool head in your business or commercial dealings if something large is involved. It's far more complex than you realize.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will not do nearly as well today as you did yesterday in making agreements. Get advice from experts before signing anything.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep a close eye on your coworkers, particularly ones who are impulsive or careless. Don't do anything risky together.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Yesterday you could afford to take some chances. If you try now you'll just come up with lemons. Not your day to gamble.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Favors you have received from others will suddenly be withdrawn. They'll not expect too much from them.

BACK-TO-THE-FARM SPECIAL
These 65 acres are presently being utilized for a small beef operation, but the set-up would be ideal for the hobby farmer planning to raise horses. Partly cleared land, small spring fed creek, hydro, modern farm house and frame barn with attached granary, and newly converted to a horse stable. Good size machine shed. Excellent location just west of the barn. Nifty if you are thrifty!

ONE "L" OF A SHAPE
A three bedroom — 2 bath home that is truly unique! 2 sunken rooms, fireplace in the 21 x 12 living room, the other in the dining room. Kitchen with custom cabinets and panelled walls, ceramic tile floors, master bedroom to dining room on to the cozy deck which overlooks the Bay of Quinte, broadloom throughout, garage, basement, bedroom/recreation room and more features too numerous to mention. Old Orchard Road. 968-6881.

DOWN THE BRIDLE PATH
25 acres of picturesque, lush wooded land. Excellent for Oak Hills and waiting for suggestions to come! 40 x 60 x 96 hip roof barn into a home for the discerning buyer. A country tack room and a home for the owner could be arranged beautifully on the hardwood rolling acres. You will be on the home stretch as a matter of fact. Come see for yourself.

Makarios Alive

Cypriot Revolt Being Resisted

Mary Ibbotson

Makarios

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Minister James Callaghan told Parliament today that Archbishop Makarios, ousted as president of Cyprus in a military coup, is alive and has been given permission to enter British's sovereign base areas on the island.

There were cheers from both sides of the House of Commons as Callaghan told the MPs they would be greatly relieved to learn Makarios is alive.

The foreign minister said Makarios had requested permission to enter Britain's base areas on the island and that permission had been granted.

Cyprus radio said five cabinet ministers were sworn in today as part of a new government on the Mediterranean island. It said the new regime would maintain an independent course an davoid any mention of union with Greece, large'y thought to have been the aim of Monday's coup.

The broadcast said Nikos Sampson, named president by rebels proclaiming the overthrow of Archbishop Makarios, promised elections within a year and liberty and religious freedom for Cyprus.

The radio also said Bishop Gennadios of Paphos has been appointed acting archbishop to replace Makarios as head of the Greek-Cypriot Orthodox Church.

The army rebels on Cyprus reported they were rounding up armed supporters of Makarios, but the archbishop was reported alive and broadcasting an appeal to the United States and the Soviet union to help the Cypriot people resist the coup.

"I am still alive. The coup has not succeeded because the people of Cyprus are strongly resisting the usurpers," a man claiming to be Makarios said in a statement broadcast by a station which said it was transmitting from the Cypriot city of Paphos.

The broadcast accused the Greek government of instigating the coup because it wants to annex the island. The statement said that the 950-man Greek army garrison stationed on Cyprus in accordance with the 1959 independence agreement co-operated with the army rebels in the coup.

Meanwhile, the army rebels said they have arrested 1,300 members of Makarios's tactical reserve force, including 34 commander.

The British armed forces radio, monitored in Tel Aviv, said fighting continued throughout the night with shooting incidents in Nicosia, Famagusta, Larnaca and Limassol. The most intense fire was centred on police stations.

Other clashes between armed groups have been reported on the outskirts of main towns, especially Limassol, the radio said.

Jury Finds Teen-ager Killed Six

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The jury which found Elmer Wayne Henley guilty of killing six of the 27 young males slain in the Houston mass murders case meets today to consider the sentence. His mother says the conviction will be appealed.

Defence lawyer Will Gray said the prosecution and defence have agreed to submit no new evidence and let the jury decide the sentence of the heats of five days of testimony last week by state witnesses. Gray rested the defence without calling a witness.

The prosecution is not seeking the death penalty, but has asked the jurors to send Henley to prison for life.

The jury of six men and six women issued its guilty verdict against the 19-year-old high-school dropout just less than an hour after getting the case Monday.

Lahr Reports All Canadians On Cyprus Safe Despite Coup

LAHR, West Germany (CP) — All Canadian soldiers and dependents in Cyprus were safe at last report despite the coup there, a military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Canadian contingent serving with the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus is in contact with armed forces headquarters in Ottawa.

He added, however, that this is not a constant voice contact.

Authorities at the Canadian military base in Lahr estimate there are about 80 in the group of servicemen, their wives and children on holiday in Cyprus.

The list includes servicemen and dependents from Canadian bases in Europe and wives who may be visiting their husbands serving with the UN force in Cyprus.

There also may be a few Canadian servicemen on leave from Canada's contingent with the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Most of the vacationers are at Paramount, a wild roads resort near which fighting connected with the coup was reported overnight.

Others are at Kyrenia on the north coast of the island.

Authorities here were still awaiting directives today about whether a final Wednesday meeting at Cyprus by a Canadian service plane would go ahead this week.

The aircraft, usually the Yukon, is due at Lahr, en route to Nicosia and the Middle East.

The impression was that the landing at Cyprus would be cancelled this week, in of course by day, Nicosia airport was still closed to traffic.

All fabrics in Cyprus have been told to stay in their hotels.

It was announced in Ottawa that the 650 Canadian troops on duty with the UN force in Cyprus were safe and not involved in any fighting as of Monday night.

Colson Feels Sure Nixon Unaware of Plumbers' Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Charles Colson says he is convinced President Nixon did not know in advance about the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Colson spoke to reporters after testifying for 10 hours Monday before the House of Representatives judiciary committee impeachment inquiry. Members answered divided over whether Colson was helping or hurting the president with his testimony.

Some interpreted Colson's testimony as indicating Nixon had advance knowledge of the break-in by the White House investigative unit dubbed "the plumbers," but Colson expressed an opposite view.

Colson returns to the committee today for further questioning. His wide-ranging activities when he was a top Nixon political adviser make him a key figure in the committee's impeachment inquiry.

The committee members quoted Colson as saying he had been told by John Ehrlichman, Nixon's former chief domestic adviser, that Nixon had approved "the Ellsberg operation," which they interpreted to mean the break-in at the doctor's office.

There was no other Ellsberg operation," said one of the members.

However, Colson, interviewed by reporters when he left the committee room, said it would be "the darkest of speculation" to draw such a conclusion from his testimony.

He said he had simply repeated the words Ehrlichman had used and did not know what Ehrlichman meant by "operation."

"I was always under the impression the president had approved the Ellsberg investigation, but whether he knew the full details of it, I have no way of knowing because I never discussed it with him," Colson said.

Colson said the best evidence is the White House transcripts and the president's own statements, which indicate he did not know in advance. "I'm convinced, as a matter of fact, that he did not," Colson said.

Colson was brought before the committee from his jail cell at Fort Holabird, Md., where he is serving a one-to three-year sentence for obstructing justice by trying to defame Ellsberg's public image prior to the Pentagon papers trial.

The committee plans to wind up its closed sessions Tuesday with Herbert Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer, scheduled as the last witness. Then it will open up the sessions as it discusses procedural questions.

Test Tube Babies Said Partly Luck

NEW YORK (AP) — The births of three babies conceived in laboratory test tubes and then implanted in the mother's wombs apparently were the result of scientific research and a little bit of luck.

The test, reported in British Monday, may eventually benefit women unable to have children because of blocked fallopian tubes. Nevertheless it raises questions and controversy.

Prof. Douglas Bevis of Leeds University said the achievement of fertilizing a woman's eggs in the laboratory did not constitute a breakthrough.

"So many have been attempted that by the law of averages some have to come through," he said.

In the United States, a government health official agreed, saying: "They apparently have been lucky." He said he believes there has not yet been enough animal research to justify trying the procedure on humans.

Bevis told the British Medical Association that the babies were conceived in a test tube with eggs taken from the mother's ovaries, fertilized with male sperm and then placed a week implanted in the womb. From then on the pregnancy proceeded normally, he said.

The three births, all within less than 24 hours, were normal, with the babies showing no sign of abnormality, he said.

The announcement emphasized the developing genetic and biological revolution, as scientists want to bring cures and to new controls over human life.

Fertilizing an egg in the test tube, for example, might lead to determining the sex of the embryo before implantation into the mother. Depending on the preference for a boy or girl, a fertilized egg could be discarded if it were not the choice.

A woman could hire another woman to do the work of growing a baby from her eggs, to cite another possibility. Whose baby would such a baby be?

On the beneficial side of the ledger, this kind of research might lead to the ability to correct genetic defects before implantation, thus eliminating some diseases.

Movement Restricted

HELSINKI (AFP) — The free movement of the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus has been restricted by the National Guard, the headquarters of the UN Peacekeeping force said today.

Spokesmen of the headquarters said that the National Guard has blocked roads, and the soldiers have threatened the UN troops with guns.

The spokesmen also said that a partial mobilization has been declared on the Greek side in Cyprus and reserves have been called-in. There has been also signs of similar action on the Turkish side in Cyprus, the spokesman said.

The peacekeeping force includes 650 Canadians, mostly from the Canadian Airborne Regiment of Edmonton.

Convicts Surrender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two armed convicts, driven back by gunfire and tear gas in a desperate attempt to escape, their hostages and cellmates surrendered to law officers Monday night, ending a 186-hour ordeal at the United District Court-house.

Hours after their frantic effort to find freedom by backing their way into a courthouse elevator shaft, Frank Gorham, 34, and Robert Jones, 31, were flown to the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Gorham and Jones had been inside the cellblock since Thursday when they seized eight hostages and tried to bargain for a freedom flight to Africa.

They released one of the hostages Friday and held the others until seven fled Sunday in a daring escape engineered by one, a deputy U.S. marshal.

Stripped and handcuffed, Gorham and Jones gave up 76 hours later.

Placards on Parade: BGH Nurses Stage Demonstration

Hospital Nurses Stage Walkpast To Underline Salary Demands

The action now swings back to the negotiating table after nurses at Belleville General Hospital Monday joined a planned province-wide show of firmness for better pay.

The Belleville demonstration was determined but cool. There was no distraction for patients or public. But, for the city's nursing profession it was also a radical departure.

It was the first time nurses in the city took to the street to parade, their grievances.

The Belleville demonstration also comes in the wake of wage settlements with other hospital workers, further casting the BGH margin in pay scales. This has sharpened claims for what nurses call pay equal to responsibilities.

Starting at 3 p.m., nurses staged a two-hour placarded walkpast on the East Dundas St. sidewalk outside BGH to draw public attention to their bag-drawn attempt at an higher pay.

"It's not a picket line. What we're trying to do is publicize our problem," said Doug Plumton, president of the 280-member BGH Nurses' Association, which has been without a wage/fringe contract since last December.

No hospital services were interrupted, administrators confirmed, as the nurses — at times totalling more than 50 — staged the walkpast.

Miss Plumton said the participants were all off-duty nurses. The demonstration, she said, was planned simultaneously in all 46 Ontario centres involved in the current negotiations in which nurses have threatened to withdraw services by July 29 if their requests are unheeded.

At BGH now — as at other hospitals the climate has been compounded by recent settlements with other hospital personnel.

Contracts with maintenance and housekeeping staff were recently redrawn following a Toronto agreement struck by the Canadian Union of Public Employees and the Service Employees International Union. It started a wave that followed into hospitals across Ontario.

As a result, said Miss Plumton, new starting rates of $645 for a nurse at BGH — under the contract that expired last year — now is only four per cent higher than that for members of the SEIU.

"We need a substantial increase in order to obtain a salary equal to our responsibilities," she said.

In some hospitals nurses now are earning less than orderlies, because of the CUPE and SEIU a statement from the BGH nurses' association said.

The statement also indicated disenchantment with the length of time taken by the negotiation process at BGH before the nurses united with colleagues in other hospitals and precipitated the Toronto talks.

When conciliation failed to produce a settlement at BGH by January, the nurses sought arbitration.

Although they were among the first of the 46 hospitals to seek arbitration, they had to wait until the end of June for a hearing date, said the statement.

"Once heard, the chairman has a further three months to bring in his report. For BGH this meant about the first part of October — much too long.

It's said nurses have "tolerated present arbitration procedures for eight years." But they have now discovered it causes "costly delays" and "fails far short of realistic comparison with the rest of society."

In Toronto late last month, the nurses proposed a scheme that would make it created a 30 per cent differential between registered nurses and the registered nurses' assistants. The hospitals proposed 14 per cent.

The nurses felt that we had exhausted all resources and must take drastic action. We are not employed for free weeks so that negotiations can be dragged out under pressure — and perhaps a settlement can be reached."

The statement hoped Monday's demonstration would be the only such action necessary.

"If not, we're prepared to provide essential service only, commencing July 29," it said.

One possibility of settlement advanced to date has been an arbitration ruling for Mawer Civic Hospital that closely matches proposals by the Ontario Nursing Association, negotiating for local groups.

Mawer, which now sets a minimum starting salary at $650 a month. Maximum for a nurse with seven years would be $1,029 a month this year and $1,145 by April 1975.

One placard at Monday's BGH demonstration call for "Ontario Arbitration for Hospitals."

Rent Subsidy Scheme Approved by Council

Belleville city council will request the Ontario Housing Corporation to provide rental housing accommodation for families and senior citizens under its rent supplement program.

Councillor Gets Rebate

Getting money from township administration can be a touch embarrassing — especially when you're councillor.

Sidney Township council, in a special meeting Monday night, plowed through a heavier-than-usual board of review slate granting adjustments to taxation rolls.

Each of the modifications received prompt approval by a council unit Councillor Hedley Richardson's, case came up.

"They had it (assessment) at boiled up," said the councillor, explaining his dilemma.

Along pause followed Reeve Godon Wilman's request for a motion to approve the rebate of $44 be paid.

"He can't afford that, can we? " asked Councillor Ernest Kelly, grinning ear to ear. "Maybe we should put a provision on that, Hedley buy the liquor for a party."

Councillor Richardson declared his interest in the item which was subsequently passed by council.

The accommodation requested would be supplied by builders and developers on a non-profit-low-income basis with OHC agreeing to pay rent supplements where necessary.

Under the proposal the city undertakes to contribute 7½ per cent of any annual loss arising out of the operation of the housing scheme.

William Rockwell, a representative of OHC, outlined the community integrated housing program to council.

Under the proposal, Mr. Rockwell said builders and developers would be invited to provide housing for families and senior citizens with modest incomes. Tenants would be selected from waiting OHC lists. Owners would receive standard rents for their accommodation with any subsidy required being paid by OHC on a monthly basis.

In addition to the subsidized rental, OHC will: provide second mortgage money of up to 25 per cent of the appraised value of the properties at an interest rate of 8% per cent. The second mortgage money would be offered as an incentive to builders and developers to provide additional housing.

The maximum rental subsidy currently being paid in 30 Ontario municipalities where the plan has been introduced is $160 per month.

Mr. Rockwell said the housing corporation has a waiting list of families requiring from two to five bedrooms with no suitable accommodation available.

Mrs. Kay Kobasic, local manager for the OHC district office, answered questions from council on the eligibility requirements for families and senior citizens seeking subsidized housing.

She said income was taken into consideration in determining rental rates, but need was the main determining factor.

Colonel Would Cut Red Tape

The Hastings Prince Edward Regiment was chosen as the Belleville Kinsmen Club for a general militia inspection by new district commander Col. J. M. Lowndes, early in 1975.

Regimental staff seized the opportunity Monday night to meet the new commander how little the regiment had and how much it needed.

Following his tour of the establishment, the colonel remarked, "it looks good but wasn't for it."

Equipment Geups, bureaucracy and the accompanying red tape were all described to the colonel in his brief tour of the armoury but did not dampen his optimism for the militia.

"There's a place for the militia," he said while on a balcony overlooking the parade square. "The kids down there — they look good," he said.

Money has been the biggest problem for the regiment as federal governments in the past 15 to 20 years have continually cut the defence and militia budgets.

"Every penny can be found," said Col. Lowndes, brought back into service after seven years retirement from the regular force.

But this isn't to say the ranks are going to get more pay. In fact, if the colonel has his way they might be getting less.

While government guidelines monitor the size of militia, requiring only the amount of money provided, the colonel says "quantity isn't what keeps recruits interested," and hinted that pay might decrease so that company sizes could be increased."

Humane Society Rate Boosted

City council Monday approved a bylaw accomplished authorizing an agreement with the Ontario Humane Society which increases the city's payment to the society.

The new per capita rate to be paid by the city is 75 cents for the period to 31 cents last year. The payment is based on a population figure of 24,413 and amounts to $18,189 for 1974.

In addition to the increased per capita rate agreed to by the city, the Humane Society is asking for an increase of $5 in the pet license fee to be applicable next year.

The golf equipment for the match is being supplied by Wilson's Sports and the course is being played by Labatt's.

Land Split Approved

Sidney Township council will recommend the county committee of adjustment approve land splits from the 10th concession to Thrasher Road of two residentials lots — and 10 acre lots — to provide funds for the construction of a new fire station at present last night.

The township is the proposal meets with approval by the county committee. It stands to earn $2,250 in a grant in lieu of park dedication calculated at 10 percent of the total $23,000 selling price of the lots. Funds is expected to sell for $26,500 representing information before council Monday.

Getting an Eyeful

New district commander Col. J. M. Lowndes was taken on a tour of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Monday — only to hear how much the regiment needed. He sympathized with Hasty Pee Major Carl Hubel (right), admitting "there's too much bureaucracy." In militia administration. The colonel is taking a swing through his district of Belleville to Toronto to "get a feeling of how things are going."

Funds for Arena Decision Coming

Sidney Township's financial participation in the construction of a new arena area will hinge on a council recreation committee report expected within the next two weeks.

The township was approached a week ago by Stirling / Rawdon and asked for a commitment by the end of this month.

The township has approximately $80,000 in its current budget geared for recreation and it is the recreation committee's duty to recommend allocation of the funds.

Committee met Monday night said many facilities had to be considered before it commits itself to any one, encouraging councils to the Stirling plan. Council also wanted to make sure that recreation dollars were not spread evenly across the township.

Councillor Ernest Kelly insisted: We don't want a dead horse on the taxpayer's back," saying Belleville is egotionally running into deficit operation of its arenas.

Jack Bush, representing the fund raisers, told council his group was investigating every avenue of funding in an attempt to reach its $300,000 target. They hope to begin construction by 1975.

Describing the existing arenas, Mr. Bush said it is supposed to be the first covered arena in Hastings County and is over 25 years old.

He said the land beneath the arena is unstable and the building has been stabilized "on quicksand didn't help," he remarked. He said attempts were being made to continue operation of the arena this winter "... but we know any engineer would condemn it."

Council will hold a special meeting to discuss the request and assured Mr. Bush an answer would be available on or about the end of the month.

Resolution Supported

Six out of 20 Ontario municipalities have endorsed Belleville city council resolution asking that the provincial government subsidize municipalities for the cost of borrowing money until grants are received.

The resolution, passed by Belleville council May 13 was brought in by Alderman Stu Mewhir, who took the view that municipalities should not be expected to pay all costs of borrowing money to pay bills while waiting for grants.

The cities of Barrie, Windsor, Mississauga, Hamilton and Brampton and the town of Pickering have endorsed Belleville's resolution.

Recruits Toughening For Survival Course

A handful of students have had their first taste of life — army style — but the main course is still coming.

Fifty students in a federally sponsored employment assistance program — will train for the next five weeks preparing for the two-week survival exercise in CFB Petawawa.

Regular militia personnel aren't kind in their description of the "long hatred recruits wearing flip-flop sandals," who showed up the first day.

They're toughened up a little bit now, said one sergeant. "They'll be ready for Petawawa."

Maj. Carl Hubel, senior officer for summer courses, said he was expecting keg by the first day but "I didn't get the resistance this year that I've had in the past."

According to the major, only one recruit refused the mandatory haircut and subsequently turned in his gear.

After only a week of formal training, the recruits were taken for a weekend spell in Camp Borden.

For Monday's classes only nine students the full complement. The remaining dozen had to be transported to Trenton's hospital for treatment of poison ivy.

Warrant Officer Doug Carley said the Petawawa experience would be both a experience — something different.

The course is to teach these people to survive in the woods without hitching or complaining.

In Petawawa the recruits will spend the first week in the field learning to live in the second will be spent drilling in the field in wartime conditions beside regular armed forces personnel.

The students are paid $80 a week for their service. How many will return to the Hasty Pee Regiment in the fall is anybody's guess.

Major Hubel hoped that if the summer course gets the bugs sufficiently ironed, they will return to winter militia offered at the armoury.

According to WO Carley, "regular course should keep 75 per cent of them".

Tenders Awarded

Tenders for the supply of a new front-end loader, a new van truck, tennis court chain link fence, and for tree trimming and removal were among the bids considered Monday as council awarded tenders for services.

Case Power and Equipment Ltd. will supply a four-wheeled drive articulated loader at a cost of $28,229, while the tender of Fry Ford Sales was accepted for supply of a van truck at a cost of $3,740.80.

Supreme Fence Ltd. will install a chain link fence for tennis courts at St. Andrew's Church at a cost of $1,895.

The tender of Electric Koo ter Sales was accepted for installation of an exhaust fan, louvre hood and damper for the Dick Ellis Rink. Cost of the installation will be $1,325.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Co. Ltd. submitted the only tender for surface treatin gat city streets. The tender, for $19,000 was accepted.

And the 1974 tree trimming and removal contract will go to Wharnyan Tree Service Ltd. at $10,753. The Wharnyn tender was the only bid received.

The tree removal contract brought a query from one councillor who asked about the city's tree replacement program.

City Manager Wilbur Purcell said this was looked after by the city works department. Planting of this year's quota of 350 trees had already been completed, the city manager said.

Military Support Claimed Lacking

Canadian militia units aren't getting the support they deserve, Alderman Ken Hastings Pybus Edward Regiment Major Carl Hubel.

"But neither is the regular force," he said.

The whole thing — militia, and regular force — is in a state of cut-back up," he said.

"We've got 28-year-old trucks and jeeps that haven't seen and I complain," said the major, that when we get to the regular base they're driving the same vehicles.

The militia, speaking on the steadily decreasing budgets allocated to the militia spending, said "we have a hard core of dedicated and equipped militia in the current political climate is not adequate.

"You get mixed feelings and feel frustrated when you see things aren't coming off the way they should," he said.

"Canada is getting what it wants and what it is paying for," said the major.

"When you run into personal frustration, you try to correct them ... but you run into bureaucracy," he said.

Hastings Vote Now Official

Returning Officer Reg Dunham Unseals Ballots

Almost 75 per cent of the eligible voters in Hastings riding exercised their federal election — close to ten Ontario average.

The official count of 10:4 Monday by riding returning officer Reg Dunham showed slight increases over election-night returns officially reported for each candidate.

Mr. Dunham reported 21,675 ballots were cast from an eligible voter list of 29,000. This was slightly more than 74 per cent. Over-night turnout at the polls across Ontario was 73.3 per cent. The national rate was 71.3 per cent.

Of the total votes cast only a fractional 132 ballots were rejected as spoiled for various reasons.

The totals awarded each candidate by the official count, with election night returns in brackets were: Jack E)ll)s MP (PC) 11,868 (14,869); Mario Kurtbaw (Lib.) 8,677 (11,380); Bennet Sanders (NDP) 1,362 (1,337); Floyd Hawley (Coronet) 196

Whistle Bylaw Passes

The first official step to prohibit the sounding of train whistles within the city was taken by city council Monday as it approved a bylaw to regulate and control their use.

The bylaw which will apply only in the CN, will be in have approval of the Railway Transport Committee.

Council hopes that events ally the Canadian Pacific Railway will also be covered by the bylaw.

Before the bylaw can apply to the CPR, there are several level crossings west of the river that will have to be equipped with crossing protection installed.

Arms-Haul

Whether or not guns apparently destined for Ireland were stolen from Armories in Canada, or were obtained here through some black market source, the fact they have fallen into the wrong hands, at all, and for such evil purpose, is of grave concern to authorities here.

It is ironic that four years ago a threatened insurrection was nipped in the bud in Quebec, and for the time being at least, poses no threat there or anywhere else in Canada. But now we have a situation in which fresh arms persons are alleged to have obtained Canadian weapons for the continuing insurrection in Northern Ireland.

The least the authorities here can do is to step up their take on such arms. The police haul in the above case is a step in the right direction.

Drought Victims

There is a great deal of talk about the starving thousands affected by drought in Africa — in countries of the Sahara region — but apart from the efforts of relief agencies, not much is heard of direct public response to the tragedy unfolding there.

However, the Associated Press reports that three benefit rock concerts for African famine relief will be held in August.

And it is all being organized at a high diplomatic level, in co-operation with such celebrities as Ringo Starr, Arthur Garfunkel, and Helen Reddy, who are on the planning committee.

The announcements of the concerts came from the United States mission to the United Nations.

We wonder how much effort is being put into this urgent work in Canada. There have been appeals from relief agencies, but it is a continuing need that is being faced in that part of Africa; hence the value of such initiatives as these rock concerts.

Women in Forces

A current Department of National Defence photo shows how women are coming more to the forefront in service with the Armed Forces.

Private Francoise Verhoeven of Delta (north of Brockville) is shown receiving her diploma in metal trades following a course at Camp Borden. The course included everything from the operation of accelerne trenches to auto repairs.

What with girls in the militia and all, things are looking up where new job categories for them are concerned.

With knows, maybe the day will come when women will be piloting the big jets along with the men. There is at least one woman commercial pilot in the United States and it is not inconceivable that is going to happen overnight, more of them may find their way into commercial and military flight operations in the future.

Duplication

If Agriculture Minister Whelan is the wide kid he is cracked up to be, how come we have Food Prices Review Board chairman Beryl Plumptre getting up and saying what the minister already has been saying? Is it necessary, that is, to have Mrs. Plumptre merely repeating Whelan's statement that the farmers should get even more for their crops, so they can remain economically viable? Mr. Whelan may be all very well, but do we need Mrs. Plumptre in addition — at $40,000-a-year?

Confusion in Portugal Too

Uncertainty Persists in Spain in Wake of Recent Events

By CY FOX
The Canadian Press

Continuing political ferment in Portugal and worries that persist in Spain despite official reassurances about the health of Gen. Francisco Franco have thrown the Iberian peninsula into a state of anxiety.

The events in Portugal which erupted April 25 with the overthrow of the old authoritarian political establishment had a predictable impact on neighboring Spain.

For more than 35 years, Spain has been under the repressive authority of Franco, now an old man but still capable of outwitting rivals.

The April coup by the army in Portugal encouraged relatively "progressive" elements inside and outside the Franco entourage to inject more vigor into their moves toward change in Spain.

But now Portugal — supposedly freed of the oppressive legacy of the old dictatorship in Lisbon — is enduring the throes of political confusion.

It may be that Franco will be able to cite the current trials of the Portuguese as an example of what happens when a strong anti-leftist hand is removed from the direction of affairs in countries such as Spain or Portugal.

Nevertheless, Iberia remains unsettled.

Leftists in Portugal fear that events since the April coup will encourage the army to take over direct control of the country's affairs.

Even within the army opinions about future policies differ, with President Spinola — a veteran general — espousing suspicions of Communist and Socialist influence and of younger officers less averse than he to various forms of social and economic change.

Fears are expressed by some army men of an alleged growth of Communist cells in the navy.

Inevitably the Communists are busy developing their power within the country.

One problem is that the rebellion in April was carried out in a spirit of enthusiasm but also of confusion over ideological issues.

So many rebel groups were involved — ranging from rightist politicians sick of dictatorship to left-wing extremists — that discussions were bound to disrupt the country's hoped-for atmosphere of national unity.

Spinola is reported to be backing on the middle-of-the-road politicians to perpetuate even the semblance of civilian rule.

But vast problems seem to bear out the fears of an eventual resort to direct any control, not least the disagreements about how fast Portugal's colonies in Africa should be allowed to progress toward self-governing other than total control from Lisbon.

What one French commentator has called the question of freedom" in both Portuguese Africa and other European colonies in the country definitely has become the chief worry of a harassed President Spinola.

Montreal And a Hockey Game

Statesiders Catch CP Train At 'The Keg,' Me.

John Gould in
The Christian Science Monitor

Most down-state people don't know that Maine still has passenger railroad service. The Boston and Maine, Maine Central, Grand Trunk, and Bangor and Aroostook went to freight only some years ago. But the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railroad from New Brunswick to British Islands, threads through the up-state Maine wilderness to serve long trackage through upper New Brunswick and lower Quebec, and still runs one train a day each way, St. John and Montreal. This passenger service does Mainers little good, there's not much normal traffic each end and west amongst the Maine communities on the line — Jackman, Greenville, Brownville, Mattawamkeag, Vanceboro.

But Wilson, 12, and Thomas, 11, wanted to take a first, and perhaps a last, ride, and kindly invited their daddy, their grandpie, and their Uncle Terry to accompany them to Montreal to see a hockey game at the Forum (Montreal nerf. Detroit coyote). We five adventurous men then crowded into the well-worn old Canadian Pacific Sheehatsier called the Keg) shortly before midnight on a certain occasion.

The Keg (for a reshifting of a locution, where the MISC, the Nay; and the CPR come out with a compromise) departed and deploy, and the joint yards are considerable, giving the Keg something like 15 giants crossings to switch and couple up. The whole train is contrasting; by small — six feet by five-and-a-half feet, and no more.

Those of us, who remember trains fondly also remember how they pestered out when passenger service was waning. Dusty windows, dirty cars, no corporate interest in people, and the whole train ride like accordingly a joy to see the CPR come out of the night, powerful double-unit on ahead, and gleaming stainless steel cars (a mile created along the trucks with northern Maine woods). Coaches, diner, lounge, sleepers. The engineer, who hails from Megantic, is a genial musician with his horn-blowing. Shrewd his job to a stop so our steps were right ahead of him and a conductor alighted with curiosity as to why five would-be boarding at The Keg. Then he knew. Then he didn't make much sense.

We used to get free passage and space on the train — The Keg sells no tickets. We just checker and porter got us squirted around in sleepers for the night, daylight at Sherbrooke, and a tasty breakfast was shared with the lovely waitress of Magog and Mount Orford, beyond which Montreal was 90 miles away. William and Thomas had their own private table, they found to be oatmeal, Grample had porridge, which he found to be delicious.

A hockey game in the Forum is like Mecca, Lhs at the Louvre. That's the place. Thanks to a long-time friend we occupied a reserved box, greeted by which we enjoyed dinner at Wally's Upside Pressed downtown.

But with all the fun in Montreal, it was the train ride that fastened. Our country is full of growing youngsters who have never been on a train. When we headed back to Windsor Station the kids were busy with activities in Montreal last smart glance and the boys were all eager to get aboard again. In the dome car they watched Montreal fall away behind, down to a hearty supper. After we crossed the line, we heard no more from them until we woke them at 5.30 a.m., 25 miles east of The Keg. Then we went home to tell Mummie all about it.

And who had more fun than anybody?

"And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples. And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out." Luke 19:39, 40

God is going to be heard from through one means or another and man will listen, though sad to say, in many cases it will be too late. In the meantime God's people could not hold their peace when there is so little of it in the world.

Psychiatric Nursing Care

Brockville Recorder and Times

Brockville being a nursing school centre and also having a psychiatric hospital, an item in the monthly publication, "Dateline Brockville" is of interest. It deals with a new role that is being developed for nurses in the care and treatment of psychiatric patients.

As a result of a research project, nurses in a mental health centre in London have successfully proved themselves competent therapists able to give psychological treatment to certain patients suffering from mental stresses not as profound and common after patients had been treated by a psychiatrist. Their training suggests that nurses can successfully extend the psychotherapeutic arm of psychiatrists and enable many more patients to be treated in and out of hospital.

There has been shortages of trained personnel on Ontario for some year although most hospitals in the Province of which the mentally ill are better staffed now than ever before. A need still exists and the British experiment would appear a logical step to take here as well.

One of the advantages of having nurses trained as psychotherapists is the need for more of these paramedical people in order to provide home care. One of the disadvantages of Canada's current system of mental health care is the absence of care in the home setting when a patient is discharged from hospital. There is scarcely a community, no matter how small, that doesn't have a nurse living in the community or nearby. Today's highways and mode of travel also make it possible for nurses to go throughout the area on a regular basis too. By having people who can regularly check the progress of a patient in the home environment, we're sure many more people would be able to stay in their homes. This would relieve the load on the already crowded hospital for the mentally ill.

In Britain the nurse-psychotherapist treats inpatients as well as outpatients with a great deal of the treatment carried out in the patient's home, where other members of the family may be asked to cooperate. Each therapist has about 15 patients to care for on a weekly basis, only 3 nurses trained in psychiatric nursing are taken in each course. It is something that could be done here to great advantage.

Dec. 1st editors usually air the view that people should be kind to one another every day of the year, and not only during the Christmas season. That kind of charitable habit applies to summer and winter.

Yes, tourism is a major industry in Canada. But being out going and helpful to strangers is — if you will pardon the pun — the warm brain rule here.

There are more opportunities for newsboys, because tourists come from all parts of the world, from the U.S., Europe and Asia, and they come in all colors. We do happen to have a law that says a proprietor of public establishment may not discriminate just because of a person's race, religion, nationality, sex or marital status.

But that law, the Ontario Human Rights Code, does not extend to the prevention or rudeness by a private individual. Such treatment is perceived just as sharply by tourists as when a racial crowd or a hairdresser refuses accommodation or service for reasons prohibited by law. Conscience and decency are the minimum guidelines here.

Now the library board is in the process of collecting all the facts and points of view on the proposed library which is to be carried out the summer of 1975. It is to be hoped that the facility that part of them directly affected by the construction of the library will be consulted.

A team of interviewers plans to call on about 1,000 people who were around at that time, particularly those who were in positions of public trust in one form or another, municipal officials, school board members, community leaders such as the medical profession and so on at the time.

The thinking behind this project is highly realistic. For the same reason that the Loyalist Centennial was wanted a generation ago, to learn from and carry forward the book compiled by Dr. Alexander Fraser, is now in about 1945.

That book went back to the beginnings of white settlement in this area and gave a complete record until the end of World War II, approximately. Since then there have been a few more years of accumulation.

But history, in a way, is a continuous thing. Particularly now that the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project, history was being made (and we must be quite candid) even before the ink was dry.

But vast problems seem to bear out the fears of an eventual resort to direct any control, not least the disagreements about how fast Portugal's colonies in Africa should be allowed to progress toward self-governing other than total control from Lisbon.

What one French commentator has called the question of freedom" in both Portuguese Africa and other European colonies in the country definitely has become the chief worry of a harassed President Spinola.

Montreal And a Hockey Game

Statesiders Catch CP Train At 'The Keg,' Me.

John Gould in
The Christian Science Monitor

Most down-state people don't know that Maine still has passenger railroad service. The Boston and Maine, Maine Central, Grand Trunk, and Bangor and Aroostook went to freight only some years ago. But the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railroad from New Brunswick to British Islands, threads through the up-state Maine wilderness to serve long trackage through upper New Brunswick and lower Quebec, and still runs one train a day each way, St. John and Montreal. This passenger service does Mainers little good, there's not much normal traffic each end and west amongst the Maine communities on the line — Jackman, Greenville, Brownville, Mattawamkeag, Vanceboro.

But Wilson, 12, and Thomas, 11, wanted to take a first, and perhaps a last, ride, and kindly invited their daddy, their grampie, and their Uncle Terry to accompany them to Montreal to see a hockey game at the Forum (Montreal nerf. Detroit coyote). We five adventurous men then crowded into the well-worn old Canadian Pacific Sheehatsier called the Keg) shortly before midnight on a certain occasion.

The Keg (for a reshifting of a locution, where the MISC, the Nay; and the CPR come out with a compromise) departed and deploy, and the joint yards are considerable, giving The Keg something like 15 giants crossings to switch and couple up. The whole train is contrasting; by small — six feet by five-and-a-half feet, and no more.

Those of us, who remember trains fondly also remember how they pestered out when passenger service was waning. Dusty windows, dirty cars, no corporate interest in people, and the whole train ride like accordingly a joy to see the CPR come out of the night, powerful double-unit on ahead, and gleaming stainless steel cars (a mile created along the trucks with northern Maine woods). Coaches, diner, lounge, sleepers. The engineer, who hails from Megantic, is a genial musician with his horn-blowing. Shrewd his job to a stop so our steps were right ahead of him and a conductor alighted with curiosity as to why five would-be boarding at The Keg. Then he knew. Then he didn't make much sense.

We used to get free passage and space on the train — The Keg sells no tickets. We just checker and porter got us squirted around in sleepers for the night, daylight at Sherbrooke, and a tasty breakfast was shared with the lovely waitress of Magog and Mount Orford, beyond which Montreal was 90 miles away. William and Thomas had their own private table, they found to be oatmeal, Grample had porridge, which he found to be delicious.

A hockey game in the Forum is like Mecca, Lhs at the Louvre. That's the place. Thanks to a long-time friend we occupied a reserved box, greeted by which we enjoyed dinner at Wally's Upside Pressed downtown.

But with all the fun in Montreal, it was the train ride that fastened. Our country is full of growing youngsters who have never been on a train. When we headed back to Windsor Station the kids were busy with activities in Montreal last smart glance and the boys were all eager to get aboard again. In the dome car they watched Montreal fall away behind, down to a hearty supper. After we crossed the line, we heard no more from them until we woke them at 5.30 a.m., 25 miles east of The Keg. Then we went home to tell Mummie all about it.

And who had more fun than anybody?

19-year-old Texan Girl Has a Look at Canada

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Bobby Burns put it in a rhyming couplet: Oww some power the gifts gie us, to see ourselv as others see us.

The fact, that he wrote it as part of his ode to his mistress does just imply that the idea is lousy. It can be educational to see ourselves through someone else's eyes.

We have a chance to see ourselves through the eyes of a 19-year-old girl from Texas, here in Ontario as part of a cultural exchange sponsored by the Lions Club of District 89, which stretches from Kingsway from the Twin Cities to Lake Huron. Jane Jaeglli is a guest on the farm of Richard Erb, near Hayfield.

One thing that puzzled her was why Canadian boys are doing things on the election campaign trail. Jane said in her letter, is a foreign country, "what happened to the Prime Minister?" she asked. "Was he impeached or did he resign? It would be fun to find out that the Prime Minister's position is quite different from Richard Nixon's, so we'll pretend we didn't hear the question.

Fun is also surprised by the values of Canadians. "You're all up here have homes that you improve and spend time with. We up-U.S. we got houses that are one storey and spread out all over the place."

There's one thing that is easy to understand. The world come back and visit again six months after the end of her exchange. So herself. The thing European visitors have to learn here is if they were to survive, we how to keep warm through the winter. Jane said the rule of the solution was to note that warm air rises.

Modern forced-air circulation has changed the pattern of most new housing in Ontario, but Pam is right in observing that many older people still live in houses designed to take advantage of the truth that warm air rises. If you give a chance, will rise.

Girls and Little League

The struggle embodied in athletic competition — the microcosm — is the macrocosm. The analogy is not understood. The lack of it is why we are currently pressing for entry into Little League baseball should succeed and progress on through to the senior.

Will they have women fans to eagerly compile statistics, memorize batting averages and scan to spring training each March?

Will these "green belgh calling busy newspaper offices demanding to know the starting pitchers in the Milwaukee Kangaroo City game?

Not likely.

Most women will probably still prefer to spend their time out on the links or the courts or on a baseball diamond themselves.

They're lived vicariously yng groups,

Says Shot US Troops Torturing Vietnamese

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuter) — A man claiming to be a Vietnam war veteran told a radio audience by telephone today that he and three other New Zealand soldiers shot and killed six United States troops they found torturing Vietnamese civilians.

Gordon Dryden, host of the Radio show, said after the program he will fly to Wellington with a tape of the conversation.

He said the man asked for an indemnity from New Zealand Defence Minister Arthur Faulkner before he will divulge his name and provide written details of the incident in Vietnam which he said occurred more than two years ago.

The caller gave this account:

He and the other three New Zealand soldiers were on a patrol when they heard shots and went to a spot where they saw six U.S. soldiers interrogating and torturing several civilians.

The civilians were bound and gagged and were being beaten with truncheons. Two were apparently dead.

The New Zealanders, led by a corporal, decided to intervene when the beatings continued. Two of them walked up to the Americans' while their comrades covered them.

One of the U.S. soldiers pointed a gun at the advancing New Zealanders.

One of the men providing cover thought the American was about to fire, so shot and killed him. In the ensuing crossfire all the U.S. soldiers and two villagers were killed.

The New Zealand corporal, who spoke some Vietnamese, told the surviving villagers to flee.

Dryden later said he has no doubt the caller was genuine. "I spoke to him several times off the air," he said.

85 Escape Hijacked Aircraft

TOKYO (AP) — A United States businessman says he suggested the plan by which 85 persons escaped from a hijacked Japanese Air Lines plane at Nagoya, 170 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Police seized the hijacker, a young Japanese construction worker, after the 81 passengers and four of the eight crew members got safely off the plane Monday. The hijacker stabbed himself in the neck and chest but was reported out of danger after the doctors sewed him up with 36 stitches.

Milton Richmond, 46, of Chicago, one of two U.S. passengers aboard, said he persuaded the stewardesses to open the rear emergency exit while the hijacker, Akira Yasokuni, 25, was in the cockpit talking to Nagoya airport officials by radio.

The stewardesses finally opened a door and then got some blankets which we tied together and let down to the ground. A policeman hung onto it and Bob Allen—our buddy—and I pulled him in. We were the only big guys there."

Then the passengers and cabin crew slid down the emergency chute and walked ankle deep in mud across the field.

Meanwhile, 11 plainclothesmen stormed into the plane and overpowered the hijacker.

Yasokuni put his knife to the neck of a stewardess and lept over the plane on a flight from Osaka to Tokyo. He demanded the release of jailed radical leader and transport to North Korea. After several hours at the Tokyo airport, the plane took off for Osaka but landed at Nagoya when it began to run short of fuel.

Police who questioned the hijacker said he had no connection with leftist groups but had a record of five arrests for minor crimes. He told them he didn't know Takaya Shiomi, the radical leader whose release he sought, but thought he could get a job in North Korea if he took him with him.

Bombs Hit Bike Race

ST. LARY-SOULAN, France (AP) — Three bomb explosions today destroyed several vehicles accompanying the Tour de France bicycle race, one of France's major annual sports events.

An anarchist underground organization calling itself the International Revolutionary Action Groups said it was responsible for the bomb attacks in this remote ski resort in the French Pyrenees. It was aimed because the race made a one-day excursion Sunday into Spain.

The destroyed vehicles, parked in readiness for today's 17th leg of the month-long race, included a van used by the French news agency to transmit daily results. Nobody was hurt.

Volunteer Duties More Than Busy Work

By DORIS CLARK

At a rap session of volunteers, a group of folk facing retirement talked with the director of a volunteer bureau. What was there to do? they asked. Did someone really need them, or was it a volunteer business that's sold to keep old folks busy?

She reassured. Volunteers can have a terrific time. They took youngers, whose efforts become public concerns, when they really catch on and discover how much they are needed. And she passed along three thoughts for them to keep in mind:

1. A volunteer must be dependable. Don't let the youngster down; don't let a sick person down; don't say you'll visit, get there, come hell or high water.

2. Insist on being trained to do the job; not a six months' course, but a full hour about the illness or trouble the needy person faces, and how not to make things worse. In other words, don't rush yourself being a Job's comforter.

3. Have confidence. If your young charge or sick person pours out a woeful story apparentlously and this will help. Tell them, for all the price in China, pass it on to anyone else.

Dear Doris: I am beginning to wonder if my son hasn't some sort of learning disability. He is nine years old and in grade five. He just doesn't seem to be able to remember things in school that the teachers have gone over and over again.

It looks as though he will have to repeat grade four. This year has been the most difficult for him. I'm not sure about what could be done but would be appreciated. He is a very poor reader; also seems to skip a lot of lines when he is reading.

Would something like this be passed on from parent to child? I remember being the same way. I had to memorize everything in school to pass and never really understood it or learned it. Even though he is really downhearted about this and kind of given up, which doesn't help matters.

Learning Problems.

Dear Problems: If he does have a learning disability he needs special help. Canada has been developing many teachers who can give this help, but the first thing is correct diagnosis.

You can get this either through your family doctor or a specialist he may send you to. An eye specialist is often the one who is in touch with this work, though the problem is not always with eyes. I have never heard of it being diagnosed on from parent to child. Usually it results from several kinds of trouble during the very early years. Perhaps again a child will stammer or stutter or find writing difficult or express himself because of a home situation. If there is trouble with "mirror" discovery or too much concentration at home, he can find this affects his confidently or confusing emotionally, to constitute a learning block.

Get your diagnosis first.

Quiet Woman

Lesley Ingraham, OSD Pool Supervisor

Pool supervisor at the Ontario School for the Deaf, Lesley Ingraham has recently been appointed Red Cross Water Safety Chairwoman for the Belleville area.

Her duties are beginning with the advent of the warm weather swimming season.

She'll be visiting pools, inspecting swimming programs, supply budgets and test sheets for Red Cross exams, and will also be responsible for dispersing information.

Three recent appearances on Cablevue television have been Mrs. Ingraham's first step in educating the public about the water safety procedures that can ensure a tragedy-free summer.

"My job is made easier by the large number of excellent swimming and water programs already offered in the area," says Mrs. Ingraham.

There are courses leading to lifesaving badges at the YMCA, through the Kiwanis and Kinsmen clubs, and at pools in Trenton and Batawa.

Mrs. Ingraham has her Bronze Medallion, Award of Merit, Red Cross Instructor's permit, and is currently preparing to try the National Lifeguard exam.

"Swimming hasn't always been my first interest — I love basketball and track and field — but it's my chief concern now," says Mrs. Ingraham.

Her career at the OSD began seven years ago when she started as recreation counsellor after a two-year recreation course at Guelph University. She became a recreation director until three years ago when she was asked to take charge of the new swimming pool.

"My job at the OSD involves setting up the year's programs and helping the four other instructors organize classes. They are a tremendous help, and together we offer a number of interesting swimming courses.

"There are speed swimming teams that compete with the province, a synchronized swimming team, and diving and water polo teams at the school.

"One of my particular interests is creative dance. I enjoy making up routines for the kids to follow, and they seem to enjoy it too", says Mrs. Ingraham.

She explains that even the totally deaf children can experience the rhythm of dance, either from the vibrations they feel through their feet on the floor, or simply from copying their movements.

"There's no problem teaching refreshed either," she says, but teaching water safety is another matter. I have to keep repeating instructions — but that's true everywhere. People just don't pay enough attention to the rules of water safety."

Mrs. Ingraham says that in this region, where recreation waters are so easily accessible, accidents are apt to happen because people become too carefree as the summer progresses.

"Boating safety is probably the area I'd most zeal for Belleville", she says. "The major things to remember are to always take life jackets along, and not to overload a boat or canoes for the sake of a "good time."

Ann Landers

Hallelujah For Whatever Helps

Dear Ann Landers: I once read in your column where a girl, 17, who was being talked into following her boy friend into the Army some — or else agreed with your reply, but being in the Army some years, I knew what her boy friend and others like him — would do. "Ann Landers is crazy . . . "What does she know?" Their favorite comeback is, "If you haven't tried it, don't knock it."

I tried it — for four miserable, rotten years — but I don't think I can also tell every fan and dude out there that it can, but you've been on every kind of buzz you can imagine. At times it was so zoned out I couldn't see straight for days. It was like being in a hollow hole in the ground with no way to get out.

But I DID get out and it was religion that saved me. I'm 17 now and I believe in miracles. One morning, a few months ago, I woke and decided to give up my life to Jesus. That feeling was so strong it knocked out my drugs for good. I know it sounds impossible, but it's true. Please print my letter. It just might help somebody who is back where I was four years ago. — Free At Last

Dear Free: You're 17 and off the junk after four years? This means you were 13 when you started — hard to believe, but I DO believe it, because I've heard from the people who work at drug centres that some kids who came in for treatment are still in junior high school. I'm also receiving many letters from the kids themselves — and their parents.

If you were saved by Jesus, I say, "Hallelujah!" I'm for whatever does the job.

Dear Ann Landers: My boy had a girl. I hate their darn dark and dark eyes. Our child, aged six, is a lovely blonde with blue eyes. She resembles my father's side of the family. I resemble my mother's side.

We moved in this community and I met people and formed walking stupid remarks. such as, "I'm she 'adopted?" or, "Did the child from a previous marriage?" Finally do a slow burn. But I hate to go into details about her grandfather's family being blue eyed blondes, etc. It it doesn't bother us, why should it bother them?

I don't want to make enemies out of these new acquaintances nor do I wait on rules questions by being evasive. What should I say? — Irritated

Dear Irr: Simply, "Our daughter resembles my father's side of the family, all blue-eyed blondes. I take after my mother."

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widower with four married children, seven boy's and a girl. A few weeks after my wife died I told the children, "Your mother had four beautiful pieces of jewelry. You know her large diamond engagement ring be longed to her mother, as it's a big ol Mary. I hope she will hand it down to her daughter." I then explained that each mother's cocktail ring would go to the oldest son, the diamond wedding ring to the next oldest, and the wristwatch to the youngest.

Since I made these statements some relatives have told me that all the jewelry should go to Mary because the boys don't care about blood relatives and therefore not entitled to family heirlooms. My three daughters-in-law are fine girls and of want do do the right thing. What is it?—Concerned

Dear Concerned: Stick with your original plan. Daughters-in-law are entitled to heirlooms. Furthermore, equitable distribution among children makes for a much better family feeling.

She Changes Sheet Metal for Steno Pad

TORONTO (CP) — Terry Gilmores spit her job as a sheet metal worker. Then she got an all-certified reception office for a 15,000-square-foot world of banking.

Quite a switch from a life of sheet metal, dusty workbenches and 21 male fellow workers at Lanark Ventilation Systems Ltd.

"I told a friend that, if I were a man, I'd really like to be a sheet metal worker," Miss Gilmores said in an interview. "My friend said I should try it anyway. So I did."

Reactions at Lanark are mixed.

"I'm not sure what to make of it," said shop foreman Garnet Joyce.

"I don't know how it will work out with the men, but if Terry likes the job and does well I'm sure it will be fine."

Ed Lederman, owner, father is president of Lanark, says the idea is a good one.

"If Terry is good, she will have proved that a woman can handle something that has always been a man's job."

Miss Gilmore says she is not trying to prove anything but "just wants to give it a try."

"For a while I was worried that I might not be able to do the work physically, but Garnet says I will be strong enough, she says.

If Miss Gilmore likes her new job, she must serve a five-year apprenticeship before becoming a journeyman, said Mr. Hardchak.

"Or maybe we should say journeyperson."

Gender-Free Society Aim of Feminist Forces

NEW YORK (Reuter) — The women's liberation movement in North America is at a crossroads, moving from trying to achieve equality with man's world to changing what men are in society.

The National organization for Women (N.O.W.), the world's most powerful feminist force, declared one of its top priorities is to create a gender-free society, rather than fight primarily for women to have equality with men.

Lawyer-author Karen de Crow, elected N.O.W. president at its last conference, told Reuter:

"Women's rights is not enough. We don't want to enter the mainstream, we want to change it. We want to do it before what's happening.

"We should not try to be equal to where men are in society, but to change what they are, to change the dysfunctional way we live which hurts women, men and children."

She said that instead of girls fighting to enter the Little League, they say, do away with Little League.

The organization is a microcosm of changes on males as opposed to women, focused and by NOW's main targets.

After the interview, it was learned that a 32-year-old Montreal lawyer minister became of the pressures related to his Little League.

One major challenge to society was to call for the impeachment of President Nixon, supposedly because he has impounded funds for education, child care, health and research, all for the good of women.

She has received numerous Bibles whose anonymous senders have underlined the passage about judge not, for you shall be judged in turn.

The women want to spread the word of feminism around the world and resolved to increase their international affiliates, which now number 34.

N.O.W. is challenging America's mainstream through taking on some of its major institutions, from the tax department to the steel industry and Sears Roebuck, one of the country's largest companies.

They also are combatting right-wing groups such as the Ku Klux Klan, John Birch Society and Anti-Abortion Right-to-Life for their opposition to the feminist goals of women's rights.

N.O.W. is the largest feminist organization with 40,000 members in 760 chapters in the United States, which encourages women to withhold all taxes, supposedly to protest them "social insecurity." If the equal-rights amendment to the constitution is not ratified.

If the amendment doesn't go into effect, women will be denied adequate representation for their taxation. Only 35 of the states are needed to ratify the amendment for it to become law.

Others are increasing their muscle by joining with compliance and regulatory agencies such as the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to force an end to sex discrimination. Two of NOW's main targets are the steel industry and Sears, which has been labelled a "trunk one" target by the EEOC for its alleged discriminatory practices.

Feminists have achieved success recently in lobbying with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) in television station licence challenges in Denver, San Diego and New York. Although none has been ruled on, the various stations are working on improvements in their employment practices and programming regarding women.

Similar efforts also are spread over the widest possible age and sex range, including males which make up 40 per cent of N.O.W.'s membership and lesbians who complain they are oppressed with the egalitarian N.O.W.

Leaded Glass Work a Painstaking Craft

It's not an every-day kind of craft—cutting up bits of glass and getting them back together again, but David Granatstein confesses a five-year love of the ancient art of making window panes of leaded glass.

A young ex-Toronto engineer, David Granatstein and his wife Heather came to the Quinte area a year ago to open an antique store. There (the shop, Eidlice Wrecks, is located between Bloomfield and Picton on Highway 14) David Granatstein sells some of his leaded glass work.

There are window hangings and Tiffany-styled lamps, for example, offered for sale among the curios and furniture that make up the bulk of the store's stock.

It was a Tiffany-lamp, in fact, that inspired David to begin learning the craft.

"We wanted a leaded glass lamp that looked like a Union Jack," David Granatstein says, "but we couldn't find one. So I made it."

He admits, however, that it wasn't quite as simple as that.

"Now I can make a lamp in about three and a half hours but that first one took about three months."

The reason, of course, was that "I broke an awful lot of the glass," he says, "and had to wait for more."

The materials for the work come solely from Europe. A Boston outlet is his nearest source and he travels there or orders the colored glass by mail.

There are two types of colored glass used by Mr. Granatstein: opalescent and cathedral glass. Both types are meticulously cut, with a carbide wheel glass cutter into shapes.

The glass pieces are joined with lead strips and soldered. Another method uses copper foil to join the glass.

The way the pieces go together is what counts, of course, and the colorful stained glass objects are designed by the artisan himself.

The intricate and difficult work is not a relaxing craft, he says, but he enjoys the work and will continue turning out the mobiles and leaded mirrors that are his specialty along with the window hangings and lamps that started it all.

Reggie's Total Highlight Ever

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland A's leads seven returning veterans and one newcomer to League squad for major league baseball's 45th all-star game July 23.

REGGIE JACKSON

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced that Jackson received 2,407,226—the highest for a single player in all-star history—of the record 6,242,713 votes cast by fans.

"It's great to get more votes than Henry Aaron or Johnny Bench, to be recognized by the people," Jackson said after one of his whopping vote total.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore, who won the balloting for the third base spot and is a perennial all-star choice, missed the start Jackson has had, he deserves it."

Jeff Burroughs of Texas got 1,548,798 votes as the runner-up outfielder and the only leader who was not a 1973 all-star starter.

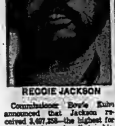
Bobby Murcer of New York got 1,338,335 votes to take the final starting outfield berth for the night game at Atlanta's Atlanta-Fulton Stadium. Staff was a close fourth with 1,347,546 votes.

Other winners were: first base, Dick Allen, Chicago; second base, Cesar Cedeno, Houston; shortstop, Bert Campaneris, Oakland; third base, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, and catcher, Carlton Fisk, Boston.

Carew led all infielders with 2,452,963 votes to defeat Kansas City second baseman Cookie Rojas, who gained 1,309,586 votes.

Campaneris collected a total of 2,153,134 votes against only 941,352 for Detroit shortstop Tom Brickman, the runner-up.

Robinson, who received 1,877,716 votes to make him an all-star for the 12th time, is a 1974 starter. Sal Bando of Oakland trailed in the third base balloting with 921,966 votes.



The starting National League all-star lineup announced Monday included outfielders Henry Aaron of Atlanta, Pete Rose of Cincinnati and Jim Wynn of Los Angeles; first baseman Steve Garvey of the Dodgers; shortstop Larry Bowa of Philadelphia, and catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati.

Associated League manager Dick Williams of California and National League manager Yogi the all-star pitchers and reserves.

The final totals:

Catcher — Carlton Fisk, Boston, 1,626,874; Thurman Munson, New York, 1,343,750; Bill Freehan, Detroit, 946,855; Ray Fosse, Oakland, 692,280; Jim Hermann, Chicago, 367,319; Dave Duncan, Cleveland, 234,936.

First base — Dick Allen, Chicago, 1,285,911; Carl Yastrzemski, Boston, 1,264,084; Mike Cheberry, Kansas City, 963,497; Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota, 953,720; Mike Hargrove, Texas, 317,298; Gene Tenace, Oakland, 698,366.

BROOKS ROBINSON

SECOND BASE — Rod Carew, Minnesota, 2,452,963; Cookie Rojas, Kansas City, 1,309,586; Bobbie Grich, Baltimore, 685,981; Len Randle, Texas, 677,556; Dick Green, Oakland, 337,032; Jorge Orta, Chicago, 330,000.

Third Base — Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, 1,877,716; Sal Bando, Oakland, 921,966; Aurelio Rodriguez, Detroit, 700,582; Graig Nettles, New York, 713,851; Don Money, Milwaukee, 275,866; Ron Santo, Chicago, 235,781.

Reds Gaining On Dodgers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati Reds' who trailed Los Angeles by 10½ games less than a week ago, have climbed within 7½ of the leading Dodgers in the National League's West Division.

They blanked St. Louis Cardinals 3-0 Monday night behind Clay Kirby's one-hit pitching.

In the only other NL baseball games, Pittsburgh Pirates ended Houston Astros six-game winning streak 3-1 and Chicago Cubs scored four times in the ninth inning to defeat Atlanta Braves 7-2.

The Reds have won nine of their last 11 games while the Dodgers have dropped three of four.

Tennis Crown On Line

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The $5,000 Ontario open tennis championships open today with 32 men and 16 women in singles play. Men's and women's doubles also will be contested with all finals on Sunday.

Eric Deblicker of France is the top-seeded man and Martin of Montreal heads the women's field.

Susan Stone of Vancouver won the women's singles title over Miss Martin 6-3, 6-3 in the Quebec Open final in Granby. Miss Stone and Francois Cauqelis of France defeated Deblicker 6-4, 6-3 to take the men's title on the last step on the Canadian tour.

Qualifying matches were held here last week to decide the six openings in men's singles. Those qualifying were Alan Fawcett and Heinz Lentz of Toronto, Ian Goodall of Victoria, of Vancouver, J. C. Gonzalin of Quebec and Bill Scanlon of Winnipeg.

Twenty-four men under contract to the tournament sponsor and two chosen by St. Catharines Tennis Sawagon of Bayside, N.Y., and Rudy Hernandez of Rochester, Minnesota, draw of 32.

The nine qualifiers for the Ontario women's singles were Carol Hanley, Toronto; Lorraine Strong, Candy and Bernie Senn, all of Toronto, Taffy Savard of Vancouver, Heidi Morton and Vera Komar of Cambridge, and Dru Ann Mushlian of Burlington, Ont.

These are in addition to Betty Rudy and Margaret Ferguson, both of St. Catharines, and five contract players, making a total of 16.

Etobicoke Nips Gaels

TORONTO (CP) — Etobicoke FCOs scored two goals in the last 19 seconds of the extra period to win their scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association junior B series game Monday night to defeat Oshawa Green Gaels 12-11.

Brian Howes scored four goals for Etobicoke and Brian Legrow, Gerry Hamilton, Greg Pirog and Randy Novak netted a pair apiece.

Mike Fisher, Collin Abner and Carmen Ford scored single for Etobicoke.

Tom Wreggitt paced Oshawa with three goals and Mark Rashel, and Jeff Mason scored two goals each.

Singles were scored by Dean Morgan, Jim Durocher, Dave Spence, Jim Heslin, Dave Fitchett, Stan Cockerton and Glenda Daniels.

Play resumes tonight with Mississaugas at Lakeshore and Rexdale at Oshawa.

"We've got 70 games left, but we're a long way back," manager Sparky Anderson said. "But I'm not giving up. We've got games left against them."

SPARKY ANDERSON

The Reds broke through Alan Foster with two out in the second inning. Dave Concepcion drew a walk and scored on Ken Griffey's hit-and-run double. Joe Morgan slammed his 12th home run of the season in the eighth and the Reds added a run off Mike Garman in the ninth on singles by Concepcion and Cesar Geronimo around a sacrifice.

Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis scattered eight hits for his first victory in a month. The Pirates ragged Dave Roberts for two runs on five singles in the fourth, loaded the bases on a walk to Manny Sanguillen and Frank Taveras. They added an unearned run in the seventh on another single by Taveras, a sacrifice, an infield out and an error by second baseman Tommy Helms.

Andre Thornton's two-run single highlighted Chicago's four-run ninth inning against the Braves as the Cubs ended a four-game losing streak. Thornton's walk to Jerry Willis scored the first run on a wild pitch.

DOCK ELLIS

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Williams and Thornton and Bill Madlock's RBI grounder. They made it 2-0 in the fifth when pitcher Dave LaRoche doubled. He was sacrificed to third and scored on Jose Cardenal's sloop single.

More NFL Stars Signed

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League has signed as many as 20 more National Football League players than the 43 already announced, Gary Davidson, general manager of the California Sun, said Monday.

Morrison said the Sun had signed four NFL starters whose names have not been announced. Bill Putnam, owner of Birmingham Americans, said his team has signed 16 NFL players but only five have been announced.

Contracts with New York Stars and Memphis Southmen indicated five more announcements signings.

"There are a lot of reasons why the players don't want to out," said Star's general manager Bob Keating, most of which are for the 1975 season. "They feel loyalty to their NFL teams and the WFL organization if there is one—and they just don't want to be identified as reporters now, wanting to know why they jumped leagues.

"We've all sort of private about these signings. Neither side—the Sun won't tell us who they've signed and I'm not going to tell you who we've signed."

Memphis general manager Leo Calhill predicted more NFL players would jump to the new league.

"In view of the crowds we drew the first week, I'd say our bargaining position is stronger than it was," he said.

Calhill said he thought there will be a flood of players announcement signings. Keating said he figures the signings will end 4th, but Morrison said it is around 100.

Thistles Top Stars

TORONTO (CP) — Murray Brian Walker had four as Parkdale Thistles downed Toronto Stars 21-15 Monday in the only Ontario Lacrosse Association Major senior game scheduled.

Ron Turbnoc added three goals for the winners game Terry Sullivan.

Bob Turbnoc added three goals for the winners with Ted Hall getting two each and Jim Walker, John Boyle, Rene Le Blanc, Bill McKenzie, Bill Walker, Bill Landoni and Ian Douglas got singles.

Brian Travers paced the Shooting Stars with three goals and Jim Chandler and Bob Bebbie added two each. Singles by Ralph Jackson, Ken Walker, John Boyle, Rene Le Blanc, Bill McKenzie, Bill Landoni and Dale Patterson.

Play resumes tonight with Toronto at Six Nations and Brantford at Owen Sound.

Garland Victim Of A's Uprising

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Wayne Garland of Baltimore Monday lost a no-hitter and his Orioles lost a game to the Oakland A's 6-4.

"This has to be the most disappointing loss I've ever had," said Garland after dropping an Oakland League baseball decision to Oakland A's 6-4.

"It was so close to being in the record books and yet so far away."

The Orioles rookie was in command with a 4-1 no-hitter until Dick Green singled on an 0-2 count leading off the ninth.

By the time the A's were finished they had knocked Garland out of the game and shelled two more Orioles pitchers for five runs.

WAYNE GARLAND

In other American League games, Chicago White Sox defeated Minnesota Twins 5-2; Milwaukee Brewers nipped Minnesota Twins nipped Milwaukee 4-3; Kansas City Royals downed Boston Red Sox 8-2 and Baltimore Orioles stopped Cleveland Indians 4-3.

Garland, 23, who was making only his third major league start, stifled the world champion A's on three walks and unearned run until the ninth.

Ken Henderson's one-out homer in the ninth inning provided Oakland's margin. Henderson drove his 11th homer of the season off Lerrin LaGrow, 3-3.

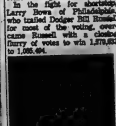
HANK AARON

Angeles Dodgers won the first-base job as the starting infielder for the National League all-star team announced Monday by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.



The American League team for the all-star game July 23 at Pittsburgh will be announced today.

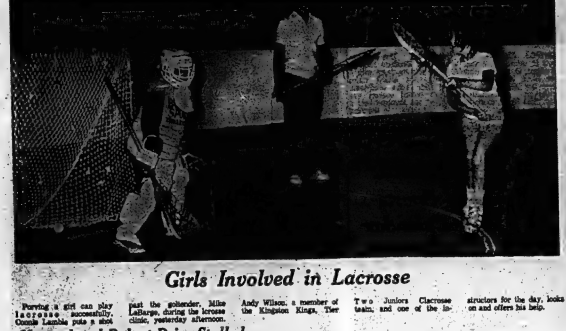
In the final returns, a record 6,242,713 ballots were cast, compared with 4,611,261 last year, and Aaron led all league voting with 2,826,202. Pete Rose of Cincinnati, with 2,594,563, and Jim Wynn of Los Angeles, 1,625,259, joined Aaron as starting outfielders.

It will be Aaron's 20th all-star game, 15th as a starter.

Garvey, a rookie, on the printed ballot, edged Tony Perez of Cincinnati by 1,659,811 to 1,658,851 for the first-base berth. The last write-in candidate to win was outfielder Rico Carty of Atlanta in 1970.

Cincinnati's Joe Morgan won

JOHNNY BENCH



The reserves and pitchers will be named later this week by Yogi Berra, manager of the National League squad.

TOP VOTE GETTER

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (Reuter) — John Lucas of the United States topped all vote getters by being named one of the 37 ballots cast by writers for the all-star team of the world amateur basketball championships. The shooting guard led the U.S. team in scoring with 20 points a game average and his total of 37 assists in seven championship games gained topped the tournament.

Howard and Robert Printing were stopped last night in their climb to the top of the Quinte Fastball League. They lost their first game in seven, with the Sliding Junkers adding them in the first game of the GFL twinbill by a 2-1 margin.

In the nightcap, Devolin Motors won a very important game from Auger Men's Wear, a 6-2 victory.

Although his team had only scored one run on five hits, Howard and Robert pitcher Scott Reid was raising hell on a two killer, along with 13 strikeouts, until the bottom of he seventh inning.

Then with one out, John Sprackett, the winning hurler unloosed an inside the park home run to put the game on ice for the Juniors.

They had had the game up in the sixth inning on an earned run in a rally that gave Juniors' runners 1st, 2nd second and first.

Howard and Robert's only prospective inning also saw a pair of solos left to scoring position; at third and second.

Sprackett left three batters washing tiled strikes in taking the win, the eighth of the season, for the right hander.

ing them in third place in the 16 team league, with 18 points. They are one up on Auger's, and two up on Rob Devolin.

Reid finished with three hits in defeat, along with 2 whiffs. He did not walk a man.

Jim Richardson and Ken Vos were the only other hitters for the Juniors.

Auger Reid had a double for the Printers, with singles going to Larry Potter, Jack Hughes, Wayne Woods, and Bob Parsons.

The second game, a four pointer for Devolin, was decided in the first inning.

Ray Lumsden opened the game for Devolin hit by a George Ferguson pitch, with Jim Meagher and Rick Robshaw adding singles to score a run, one out later.

Lumsden then scored when stepped in, promptly drilling the ball to deep left field for a three run homer.

Auger's got one back in the bottom of the inning, with Larry Mavety driving in Steve Barker, who had walked.

The other came in the third, when back to back singles by Jim Richardson and Barker along with a fielder's choice by Al Ferguson produced the tally.

After the third, Auger's never really threatened again, with only one baserunner getting on after the inning. That was Theriault, who collected his second hit of the night, in the fifth frame.

Don Hoicway picked up the win on the Devolin rubber, allowing six Auger hits. He struck out eight batters, and did not walk a man.

George Ferguson took the loss, the eighth of the season for Auger's, also allowing six hits. He struck out seven and did not issue a base on balls. Burnside had a single to go along with his four bagger, with Jim Horwood adding a double. Singles went to Meagher, Rosebush, and Holway.

Theriault was tops at the plate for the Trenton team, with Jim Clement, Barker, Mavety, and Skip Balch adding one each.

In tonight's games, Rollins Construction tries to get back on the winning track, against Devolin Motors, in the first game, while to be stipulated, Howard and Robert Printing meets Bardon Supplies.

Lions Shade Whitby

The Belleville Lions Peewees edged Whitby 5-4 in a South Central Lacrosse Association game played at the Dick Ellis Rink last night.

Jamie Forster and Danny Power each had two goals for the winners, with Hugh Northey adding the single marker.

Bernie Embury netted two goals for the Whitby team, with Wayne Odetkirk and Brian Sullivan each contributing one.

Whitby took eight of the 13 penalties assessed by referees Ray Payne and Jeff Gow.

Kinsmen Finished Up At Two for Three

Belleville Kinsmen scored runs by the bunch in their first two starts in the Saturday McDonald's Squirt Tournament last night, but the rest fell in.

In an opening game 16-13 win over Sprakgbrook, Kinsmen struck for no fewer than nine runs in the third inning and while romping over Stirling, the local squad put together six-run rallies, back to back in an 11-4 win.

But in their third start, Kinsmen confined all their scoring to one inning as they were pushed to the sidelines by Richmond Hill 14-4.

The Belleville youngsters, down 9-8 coming to the plate in the fourth inning, promptly showed they were still in the ball game by tallying five to count four runs and ran their hoops. But that was it.

Two Wins

Belleville Minor Baseball Association's power representative in the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association UAW Local 1839 pulled off a pair of weekend wins.

The UAW squad played at Belleville's Parkdale Saturday UAW took the Hoppy by a 4-3 count. Saturday they came right back Sunday to top Trenton League 7-5.

Steve McHarry picked up five-hitter a top Fort Hope. He struck out six and walked two.

Sunday, UAW was out-hit 10-7 by Trenton as Steve Carr went the distance on a seven strikeout performance. He walked four.

Crawford again topped the hit parade with a homer and two a single. Dale McTaggart collected a pair of singles, one each for McCrory, Carr and Jim Gibbs.

Kinsmen had all three five safeties, Mike Lager and Steve Taylor doing up the pitching win for Brookdown. They fanned eight and walked seven. Rollins and Doug Muldoon were in action for the losers with seven strikeouts and three walks.

Lager had his hitting shoes on for the winners, meeting the ball for a double and four singles. Robbie Revoy had two doubles and a single. Rich Manderville, three singles, and Brian Cronbright, two singles.

Brad Miller was good for a triple and single for Dan-Con. Checking in with two singles each were Greg Miller and Jeff Rollins.

Bantam action saw Mulroney's pick up a pair of wins. The squad topped Dick Ellis peewees 8-3 and then downed Stopette on a record a 8-4 win. In the other contest, Stopette and Kinsmen played to a 7-7 tie.

In their first start of the week, the Mulroney bantams got a two-hitter from Paul Manderville. The hurler struck out two and walked six. Steve Carr and Dale McTaggart saw action for Dick Ellis. They held the batsmen to six hits while fanning four and walking three.

Steve Hubbs had two singles for the winners. Carr duplicated the production for the peewees.

Jim Storch and Manderville gained credit for the win over Stopette. They combined for 18 strikeouts and walked three.

Peter Soole took the loss. He walked only one while striking out nine.

Lindsay Bradley and Paul Laing were two-for-two for the winners in the hitting department. Bradley had a single and a double and David Warren collected a triple. Checking in with two singles each were Paul Hay, Chris Hilton and Terry Kingston.

In the 7-7 tie, Rizzo and Soole handled the Stopette pitching, holding Kinsmen to five hits while fanning four and walking three. Gary Riddett was on the mound for Kinsmen. He checked the opposition on six hits while striking out eight and walking six.

Riddett was a standout at the plate for Kinsmen, contributing three singles. Mike Crawford had a pair of singles.

Doyle Dafoe and Ray Garvin each collected a pair of singles for Stopette.

Tips for Goalie

Goaltender Mike LaBarge gets some tips on stopping shots to the corners of the net from Dave Austin of the Kingston Kings. It was part of the clinic held yesterday afternoon at the Dick Ellis Rink. Other clinics have been held in Deseronto and Gananoque, and are scheduled for Renfrew, and other smaller communities throughout the summer.

Leaders Move Four Up

The Quinte Hotel Leaders recorded their 19th win in the Industrial Softball League, improving their first place margin to four points, in the league's East division. They got by Constellation 8-4 in a game played at Sir Mackenzie Bowel, Monday.

In the other games played in the loop, the Public Utilities edged Canadian Tire 3-1, while UIC whitewashed the CNR 4-0.

The Leaders got right hit pitching from Terry Murphy, who struck out eight and walked three in firing the win. Ken Kerik went six and one-third innings for Constellation, before two runs by the winners in the top of the seventh knocked him out. He gave up eight hits, striking out four and walking two.

Tom Bellis came on to put out the fire, but gave up three runs on three hits and a base on balls.

Herm VanDaalen had three base hits for the Leaders, while Mark Sheridan and Murphy each contributing a double. John Maloney and Bob Wilkes each had two singles, with Cliff Hinesman and Larry Robinson contributing one.

Jim Thompson had a three base hit for the losers, while Tom Bellis added two doubles and Ken Kerik one. Ron Mitchell added three singles, while Mike Callaghan and Steve Gatzos had one.

T he Utilities got by on nine hits as they edged Canadian Tire, with winning hurler Wilmer Bolch providing the big shot, a home run. Jay Miller and John Bowers each had a triple and single, with Harold Mickle doubling and adding a single. Bob Rego and Jim Smith finished the attack with singles.

Doug Hoare had the only extra base hit for CTC, a double, with singles going to Wayne Trice, Larry Oughtright, Alec Belch, Andy Prudden, and Eric Asselstine.

Bulgot struck out six and walked one in his win, allowing six hits. Andy Prudden went the distance for the Tireman, striking out five. He walked three.

In a game at Prince Charles School, CNR left 10 men on base in the loss to UIC.

Joe Scanlan fired the win for UIC, allowing only five hits. He struck out two and walked three. Brian Plumbe was touched for seven hits in defeat, striking out three and walking four.

Ron Jury had a two run homer for the winners in the second inning, adding another RBI on an infield out in the third. Bill Healy had a double and single, with Ron Embury, Scanlan, Brian Birney and Dale Ducerme adding one hit each.

Barry Tamlin and Mik Bell each had two base hits for the Tradesmen, with Jane Plumbe stroking the other hit.

Shannonville Nipped By Melrose in SHBL

Melrose shaded Shannonville 5-4 in a South Hastings Baseball League game played Sunday, at Shannonville.

Terry McTaggart went the full nine inning on the Melrose rubber, allowing six hits. He struck out seven and walked three.

Bill Barberstock started for the Shannonville nine, going six and one - third innings. He was nicked for seven hits, striking out four and walking three. Glen Barberstock came on in relief, allowing only one hit over the last three and two-thirds frames. He fanned three and walked one.

Ted Abrams led the big stick for Melrose, coming in with a double and a pair of singles. Rick Meagher had a double and triple, with Jack Pepper contributing three hits. Doug Rose, Bruce Mc-Taggart and Bob Hall each had a single to round out the attack.

Glen Carleton was the only hitter for Shannonville to reach the sack more than once, connecting for a pair of singles. Ian Reid, Blaine Loft, Mike Brant and Junior Brant had the others, all singles.

Secretariat Hall of Famer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretariat, the mink Triple Crown winner, has been voted into racing's Hall of Fame along with two others thoroughbreds, an active trainer and a former jockey.

Charles K. Maher II, president of the National Museum of Racing, said Monday a United States-wide panel selected Secretariat, Damascus, Dark Mirage, trainer Charles Whittingham and former jockey Conn McCreary, now a trainer.

Secretariat was voted Horse of the Year as a two-year-old in 1972. In 1973, he won the Triple Crown of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes and again was named Horse of the Year before he was retired to stud for a record $6.08 million. He earned $1,316,808, making him No. 4 among all-time money winners.

Damascus left racing ranked No. 7 on the all-time money list with $1,176,781 in earnings. He was Horse of the Year in 1967, the year he was upset by Proud Clarion in the Kentucky Derby but won the Preakness, Belmont Stakes, Travers, Woodward and Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Dark Mirage, a filly who weighed less than 1,000 pounds, won eight stakes in a row in 1968 and was considered the best of all the three-year-olds the next year she was injured and had to be destroyed.

Whittingham, who operates mostly in California, has led the nation's trainers in purses won in each of the last four years and leads active trainers in stakes winners saddled, with more than 200.

McCreary rode his first winner at Arlington Park in 1939 and passed the 1,500 mark before retiring as a rider. He won the Kentucky Derby with Pensive in 1944 and with Court Turn in 1951. He also rode such outstanding horses as Stymie, Princequillo, Lucky Draw and Twilight Tear.

Minor Softball Results

Red Shark and Sibling Sheet Metal scored tyke division wins in Quinte Minor Softball Association games but each took a different route.

While Red Shark was put to the test by B and C Variety, squeezing out a 13-12 win, the Sheet Metal squad romped over Ellis Printing 27-12.

Ray Ellis and Ward Merrifield combined athletic talents to gain credit for the Shark win. They allowed seven hits while striking out as many.

For the Variety club, Peter Perischi and Terry Pearce looked after the pitching. Touched for 14 hits, they fanned eight.

Ellis powered the winners with two home runs. Morrison had a homer and a single. Mike O'Shaughnessy tripled and singled.

Pearch had two triples for the losers.

Brian Casey pitched Sibling Sheet Metal past Ellis Printing. Casey put together three shutout innings while striking out eight.

Kenny Wells had a double and two singles for the winners, Peter Iannopollos checked in with three singles.

The Printers were led at the plate by Carl DeBaets who connected for a pair of singles. The losers got two innings of one-hit relief work by Ricky Ellis. Heidi Fellner Ed Laffmann was a standout defensively.

At the squirt level, Composite Read-Alls ran over O'Neil Stationery 23-4 as David Phillips fired a seven-hitter. He struck out 10 and walked eight.

Steven Murray, Ron Gee and Terry Vos saw pitching action for the losers. Murray fanned for 13 hits, they struck out six and walked 11.

Pecord by three doubles slammed by Warren Cavalier. The winners got a pair of singles from David Phillips. John Czechowski doubled and drew three walks. He scored four times.

O'Neil's had a triple from David Rowe and a pair of singles each by Sawyer, Murray and Scott Hackett.

Ernie Scott Appliances turned on Howard and Robert Printing to record a 21-3 win. Kevin Lucas retired 12 Printing batters on five strikes and carried home four of the winners runs.

Bobby Turner supplied a double and two singles while Steve Griffin walloped a homer and a single and Phil Heinz chipped in with a single and a double.

Rusty Downey matched Lucas on the strikeout department, knocking off an even dozen. Mike Upton and Ricky Bowen each had two singles in defeat.

Ray Lucas got the win, whipping third strikes past 19. He gave up six hits and walked seven.

Doug Bennett paced the winners with a home run and a double to go with a single. Steve Garvand banged two doubles and a single.

Tops for the losers was Donald Hoover with a homer and a single.

Belleville Plaza trimmed Sidney Inn 13-3. Jory Parker collected three singles for the losers. Pat Graham had a double and Bruce Harper had two singles.

Stephen Licence scored a pair of wins in the peewee section, topping Pino's Texaco 9-2 and whalloping Chase's Grocery 8-7.

The McKinney brothers, David and Michael scattered six hits while fanning eight and walking four.

David worked six innings to get the win. He struck out seven and walked three. His record is now 1-0 and he boasts an earned run average of 1.56.

Mike finished up and picked up a save. The younger brother has yet to yield an earned run.

In the game with Chase's Grocery, Stephen Licence needed an extra inning to squeeze out the win. David McKinney went the distance, striking out five and walking two.

Angelo Lentini, promoted from the squirt division for this game, showed he belonged with a strong effort in the field. Colin Adams collected a three-run triple while Reg Hunt went two for two.

Tim McWilliams was strong in defeat. Retiring 13 batters on third strikes, he walked three. He also provided the spark at the plate with four singles. Peter Fradelis produced a double and less singles. Greg Harwood had a triple and Terry Vance banged a double.

McKee Sparks Bomber Win

WINNIPEG (CP) — Walt McKee's 12 points and a sputtering offence that finally came to life lifted Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 30-15 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders Monday night in an exhibition game between the two Western Football Conference teams.

The win was the first in three pre-season games for Winnipeg and rookie head coach Bud Riley, a former assistant with Saskatchewan.

McKee kicked three field goals and converted touchdowns by Mike Dirks, Brian Jack and John Bledsoe.

Saskatchewan got touchdowns from Steve Mazurak, on a 49-yard pass-and-run play from Jim Lindsey, and from Mel Easley, Brian Berg converted both and Ralph Galloway booted a single.

McKee put the Bombers ahead early after Saskatchewan fullback George Reed fumbled a handoff on his club's opening sequence. Winnipeg's Dave Knechtel acquired in a pre-season trade from Edmonton Eskimos, recovered the ball deep in Saskatchewan territory and McKee kicked a 22-yard field goal.

Galloway, filling in as field-goal kicker for injured Jack Abendschan, attempted a field goal from the Winnipeg 40 midway through the quarter but was wide. Doug Strong conceded the single.

McKee widened the lead with a 45-yard field goal in the second quarter but Lindsey, replacing Saskatchewan quarterback Randy Matlinghey, hit Mazurak for the first touchdown of the game. Bird converted to put the Roughriders ahead 8-6.

Lindsey had a pass batted astray in the second quarter and Dirks intercepted the ball and ran 25 yards for a touchdown.

Veteran Ron Lancaster took over at quarterback for the second half and led Saskatchewan to a touchdown on the first series of plays, passing to Easley after a false field goal attempt. Berg's convert was good.

Quarterback Don Jonas brought the Bombers back in five minutes later with a sharp passing attack which ended with Jack's touchdown. McKee's second convert was good and the Bombers held a 20-15 lead going into the final quarter.

A 32-yard field goal by McKee increased Winnipeg's edge. After a steady Bomber march, Bledsoe plunged over from the one for the insurance touchdown. McKee rounded out the scoring with the convert.

McGowan Injured

EDMONTON (CP) — George McGowan, who missed three weeks of the Canadian Football League's pre-season schedule, may be lost to Edmonton Eskimos for the league opener.

The flashy receiver, named outstanding player in the CFL last season, missed Edmonton's first three pre-season games and the CFL all-star game with a pulled hamstring. He reinjured the hamstring muscle at a weekend practice.

Ticats Trade Moro for Phillips

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions completed a one-for-one Canadian Football League player trade Monday with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, obtaining veteran tight end Tony Moro.

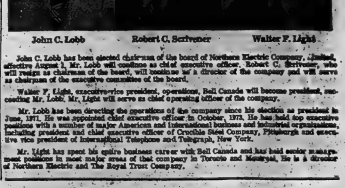
Moro, a Canadian, comes to the Lions in exchange for lesspart defensive end Bubba Bridges.

Moro, 28, is a four-year CFL veteran. He broke in with Toronto Argonauts in 1970 and was named the Angy's top Canadian as a rookie. He was traded to Edmonton Eskimos following the 1972 season but returned to the Argos before the start of the 1973 season.

In four years, Moro has caught 70 passes for 1,264 yards and eight touchdowns.

Hamilton obtained the six-foot 228-pound Moro last January in exchange for the Tiger-Cats' No. 1 draft choice.

Tight Fit



WOODSTOCK (CP) — Al Beckman drew a walk with the bases loaded in the top of the 10th inning Monday to give St. Catharines a 4-3 victory over Woodstock Warriors and a split in their Ontario Fastball League doubleheader.

Woodstock won the opening game 3-1.

Dick Balint went the distance for the victory, striking out 13 and allowing six hits. He lost his shutout bid with two out in the bottom of the seventh when Beckman dropped a fly ball, allowing two Woodstock runs to score and send the game into extra innings.

Remembered by Marilyn

CARD OF THANKS

We the undersigned, would like to thank all Belleville General Hospital staff, Dr. Ross and Dr. Wilson, for their kindness and attention during Mrs. Ethel Cox's stay in hospital. Also Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Bessey and the Rev. Vesey for their visits. Also for the cards and telephone calls. Also Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Bessey and many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our husband, father and Uncle George Cox.
Mrs. Ethel Cox and family.

I would like to express my thanks to all who remembered me with cards, gifts and visits during my stay in hospital. Also to the nurses and staff of 3 East for their kindness and attention to me and thanks — and to nurses of the Emergency Ward for their prompt care.
Mrs. Florence Bryan, R.R. 2, Roslin.

We Still Have

10%

Mortgages Available

A good variety of houses are now nearing completion, each of which with a 10% mortgage can save you up to $35.00 monthly on a comparable house financed at newer rates. Not only that but the cost of the house will be considerably lower than one to be contracted for now. Surely it is obvious, with these savings the time to buy is "NOW".

New Interest In Sport

HALIFAX (CP) — Interest in women's field hockey is increasing, particularly in the area where seven teams have registered for a summer league. Activity has been spurred by the selection of five players from the province to Canada's national team in the last three years and the success of a touring provincial team. The Nova Scotia team won five games, tied one and lost one during a recent visit to Bermuda.

Canadian Movie Hit in New York

NEW YORK (CP) — The unfortunate thing about the award-winning Canadian film, The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz, is that Paramount Pictures didn't tell New Yorkers how good it was much earlier.

Paramount's method of United States distribution rights and planned an extensive promotional campaign, but theatre managers complained about the lack of promotion before the movie opened at two New York theatres today with relatively small audiences.

By Monday, however, the New York movie critics, with the exception of the heavily-read tabloid New York Daily News, were giving the film outstanding reviews.

The movie wasn't drawing on Rosemary at the Forum Theatre, which can seat 1,002 comfortably, and on the posh East Side, it filled about half the 411-seat Baronet Theatre for some performances. But the Baronet manager said he expects the reviews will help immensely and he expects the Canadian film to run possibly a couple of months.

The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz is an ethnic drama about Jews in Montreal, written by one of them, produced by one of them and directed by a Toronto Bulgarian.

"In a time when Hollywood is fiddling around with suspense thrillers, and oddities from the worlds of crime, sex and the occult, here comes the Canadians with a very down-to-earth view of people as they are," writes Archer Winsten of the New York Post.

Author Mordecai Richler, producer John Kemeny and director Ted Kotcheff, and all the performers "deserve all the praise they will surely receive for having made one of the best pictures of the year," Winsten writes.

The film is the story of 18-year-old Duddy Kravitz, played by Richard Dreyfuss, a pusher who wants to get ahead, make the money by hook or crook.

There are a half-dozen performances of award calibre, or better, Winsten says. Dreyfuss is "simply great" in the title role.

Vincent Canby of the New York Times says the film "is a funny, fantastic and often moving story" of Duddy's adventures.

. . . The manic, fragmented structure of the film is an almost perfect reflection of Duddy's state of mind as he goes barging from one get-rich-quick scheme to the next. . . ."

Jay Gould Boyum, in the Wall Street Journal, says the film has the humor characteristic of the gladly self-irony with Jews laughing at the Jews with an affectionate toleration.

Gene Shalit of the Daily News writes that "the movie is so crowded with people, props and twists of plot that its portrait of a potentially interesting young

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, July 17

Aries (March 21-April 19) Someone younger or less experienced whom you feel protective toward will be coming to you for advice. Don't tune her out. ?

Taurus (April 20-May 20) This is a good day for you to catch up on correspondence or paper work. Mentally, you'll be alert and creative.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You'll get much more mileage out of what you have to spend today than you will tomorrow. Shop while you have an eye for bargains.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22) You'll be more productive today serving your personal interests, rather than halfheartedly trying to please others.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You need some time to yourself. Avoid noisy friends or groups. They'll have a disturbing effect upon you at present.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Start looking ahead a little so you can extend your present efforts comfortably into your future hopes.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your words carry a lot of weight now. Be sure what you say in front of others leaves the type of impression you want.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Spend more time on mental projects as opposed to those of physical nature. Your strength is in your head, not your back.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Digging beneath the surface and getting to the root of problems will be a snap for you if you apply your mind.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's to your benefit to listen attentively to any suggestions offered by your mate or partner regarding joint interests.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Give a little attention to health matters, particularly if your eating habits have been poor lately.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) If you associate with people who act and think mature it will have a beneficial effect on your own present outlook.

Win at Bridge

By Oswald and James Jacoby

The game was match point duplicate. West's opening two-spade bid was one of those weak two-bids that have become quite popular in tournaments and arouse rubber bridge circles.

Opening lead—♥9

The bid would have worked out very well if East had not been greedy. Two spades would not make and with normal play three clubs would have been down one. East elected to make one of three match-point doubles designed to pick up 700 points if lucky.

He wasn't lucky; West opened the nine of hearts. The queen was played from dummy and East overtook with the king and hit hold. South led a trump from dummy and East played low mechanically. Now, however, South believed the double and trapped his 18. After this it was a simple matter for South to cash his top diamonds; ruff the last one; cash his ace and king of trumps; and eventually wind up with nine tricks and the top score East had hoped for.

East should have passed. Not opening and continuing with the Rule of Two Defense would not have worked either provided South played East for both club honors as he surely would have against whatever line of defense was used against him.

High Uric Acid Level Means Gout

By G.C. THORSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband, in his 30s, has been going to a doctor for a bad back, and recently had a blood test. The report showed his uric acid was 9.6, while the doctor claims even eight is high.

The doctor also says the condition, which has settled in his lower back, is gout. My husband now is on a very strict diet for back pain. The uric acid level down.

Can gout be cured and what dangers are involved with such a high level? I have been told by heresay it can be dangerous to the heart, liver and kidneys. Is this true?—Mrs. L.O.

For whatever reason, a great many folks assume that gout is confined to somebody else — will then get—so forget it. But people do get gout, and when they do they suddenly want to know about it.

Briefly, some folks just don't eliminate as much uric acid as they should. Sooner or later this crystals, in various kinds, and that can be mighty painful.

The stereotyped notion of gout is that of a rotund, testy British general with his foot propped up and hardened. The only correct aspect of that picture is that the big toe is the joint most frequently attacked by gout. But gout can cause trouble in any joint in the body, including the back, although that is not so common.

The primary result of gout is pain, which comes and goes periodically. It doesn't necessarily the heart or liver, but it is notorious for causing kidney stones.

In my experience, moderate attention to diet is advisable, to limit foods containing purines, since they contribute to uric acid. But it is even more important to use one or another of the medications which reduce uric acid and keep it down. There is no "cure" for gout, but in the vast majority of cases, with the medications now available, it is possible to keep the uric acid low enough to avoid the painful episodes which otherwise would occur. In other words it can be controlled.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been to my eye doctor and he said I did not need my glasses changed after he tested my eyes, but I have little black spots. He called them floaters but doesn't know what to do for them, and they blur when I am reading, especially in glaring sun.

Do you know what can be done for them? Then eye spots doctors that would know?—Mrs. L.S.

Ordinary garden-variety floaters can be a nuisance, but they're rarely a sign of anything harmful. And while they sometimes do appear very spontaneously, there is no known way to make them do so. So just don't worry. Most of the time they fade, the more obvious they will be. You were wise to have the eye examination.

Dea r Dr. Thosteson: I am 14 and would like to be a doctor when I am older, but am confused as to what field to specialize in. I would like to know what kind of doctor you are and what you had to take in college and medical school and if you could recommend a medical school.—B.D.

I'm an internist—a specialist in internal medicine. But at 14 it is a bit early for you to try to decide what specialty—if any—you want to choose. All specialists, before studying for a specialty, first have to complete college and then medical school, plus a year as internship. I first have to become licensed physicians first and then spend a year or several years as "residents" before taking certification in specialties.

So take things a step at a time. Talk to your high school counselor about courses to prepare you for college. When you get to college perhaps it will be time enough to apply to a medical school.

CP News Roundup

PC Fears Separatism In West

OTTAWA (CP) — A new feeling threatens Confederation more than Quebec nationalism ever has done, veteran Conservative MP Gerald Baldwin said Monday.

In a strongly-worded news release, the member for the Alberta riding of Peace River said western rights, including the right of provincial self-determination in "proper areas," must be retained "or else."

Mr. Baldwin said in an interview he is afraid that if the new majority Liberal government does not recognize western interests, a demand might arise to marshal separatist sentiment into a viable political force.

Although such feelings are not new in the West, "I've not heard this as generally or as strongly before as I did during the campaign," he said.

In his news release, he said "there is more potential for a dissolution of the bonds of nationalism now in the western provinces than there ever was in Quebec where the economic consequences of separation were always factors which prompted Quebecois to vote to stay in Confederation."

"The economy of the West is viable and could sustain an independent state with ease and this is very obvious to westerners and more of them are openly saying so."

Shoots Self

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Television talk show host Chris Chibbock wrote her own death script and then carried it out by putting a gun to her temple and pulling the trigger as television viewers watched.

The attractive WXLT-TV anchorwoman, 29, died in a hospital 14 hours later.

Her handwritten, blood-spattered newscript read: "Today Chris Chibbock shot herself during a live broadcast."

Bear Attacks

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Cameron Cobel, 18, of Spruce Grove, Alta., and Greg Brown, 17, of Red Deer, Alta., were in good condition in Pincher Creek hospital Monday after being mauled by a bear Sunday near Beaverais Creek, about 60 miles west of here.

Fewer Homes

OTTAWA (CP) — The available stock of new, uncoupled single-family homes continued to drop in May despite steep mortgage rates and increased residential construction, says a Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., CMHC report.

No Horses

LINCOLN, Ont. (CP) — There was nary a nay as council decided Monday night to prepare a bylaw to ban horses from the sidewalks of this town near St. Catharines.

Mayor Delby Bucknall, leading the attack against the beasts, said in an interview later there are too many horses gambolling about and scaring elderly persons.

"These horses might be perfectly tame and perfectly well controlled," he said.

"But I've seen some that I wouldn't want around."

Report Denied

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette Monday denied radio reports that Jacques Lanctot, one of the men involved in the 1970 kidnapping of British trade commissioner James Cross, has returned to Canada.

Exports Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Energy Board announced Monday it has authorized export of 894,228 barrels a day of crude oil and equivalents during August.

The July export level is 898,601 barrels a day and the rate for August, 1973, was 1,181,343.

Award Made

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A board of arbitration awarded increases Monday averaging 7 per cent in 1973-74 and 6.3 per cent in 1974-75 for Windsor's 825 separate school teachers.

Don Knott, chief negotiator for the teachers, said Monday all the teachers' demands, except money, were met.

Baby Doll Dies

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Sarah Becky Doll Cowan, who said last week she was going straight after more than 16 years as a hooker, was found dead in her home, officials said Monday. She was 32.

An autopsy showed that Miss Cowan died of bronchial pneumonia, a coroner said.

DOWNTOWN DAYS

We are demonstrating Polaroid's SX-70 Land camera.

Come have your picture taken free and see the rest of Polaroid's full line of instant picture cameras.

We invite you to come in and see Polaroid's remarkable SX-70 camera system demonstrated and have your picture taken free. And while you're here see the rest of Polaroid's full line of instant picture cameras. One is priced just right for you.

Polaroid's SX-70
This electronic camera does virtually everything for you. Now you can almost wish for the picture and have it. Just focus and press the red electric button. A stunningly beautiful picture develops itself in daylight before your eyes without mess or fuss or anything to throw away. You can take instant photographs of clarity and brilliance unmatched by any other system in amateur photography.

$26.95

Square Shooter 2
An all-purpose 60-second color camera at an amazingly low price. Electric eye and electronic shutter set your exposures automatically, even for flash. Built-in flash uses inexpensive flashcubes. 3-element focusing lens produces sharp pictures. Uses inexpensive square color film so you can save money on every picture you take.

The Model 420
With Focused Flash 63.95 — Without Focused Flash 55.95

The least expensive of Polaroid's folding cameras. Takes big 3¼" x 4¼" instant color or black and white pictures. Uses the Focused Flash system that gives the right amount of light for each shot. It's automatic as you focus. Electric eye and electronic shutter for all other shots. There are other cameras in the 400 line to choose from, each with a special combination of features and versatility.

195

An extraordinarily new Polaroid camera for professionals. Shutter speeds and f-stops you can see and set. Its features include a 114mm, f/5.8 Tominon lens with four elements of the Tessar type; a Seiko SLV between-the-lens shutter and the shutter/lens combination for wide exposure capabilities; uses three types of Polaroid Land pack film: black and white Type 107, Polacolor Type 108 and Type 105 Positive/Negative; a built-in mechanical timer can be set for the correct development time.

The Keystone 60-Second Everflash

The only camera that makes its own pictures. Makes its own flashes, And never needs flash cubes.

Imagine. An instant picture camera with its own permanent electronic flash built right in, a camera that automatically adjusts so that your flash pictures are always perfectly exposed whether your subject is 3 feet away or 10 ft. A camera that saves you more than 10c on every flash picture you take because you don't have to buy any flash cubes for it.

That's the new Keystone 60-Second Everflash.

The new 60-Second Everflash uses regular Polaroid* film and gives you 3 different picture sizes. The standard rectangular and the less expensive square size. You can use both interchangeably because the 60-Second Everflash automatically adjusts for each film size.

If you want an instant picture camera, try the one that makes its own flashes — the Keystone 60-Second Everflash.

Ratification Meeting Planned

Agreement Reached On Nurses' Salaries

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Nurses at Belleville General Hospital could meet by tonight to ratify a settlement, possibly averting province-wide strike action July 22, reached in Toronto Tuesday night.

Kay Lewis, assistant director of employment for the RNAO, the nurses' professional association, said Tuesday that the hospitals had completely met the nurses' wage demands in agreeing to a new 18-month contract which will give the nurses raises of 45 to 56 per cent.

Signed Tuesday night by the Ontario Nurses Association (ONA), the nurses certified bargaining unit, and the hospitals' master bargaining committee, the agreement will increase a nurse's starting salary to $800 a month, retroactive to Jan. 1. By April 1, 1975, it will be $945, 45 per cent more than the current rate.

Dena Plunton, president of the 300-member BGH nurses association, this morning was organizing a meeting to discuss ratification.

The session will be held as soon as possible — perhaps tonight, if a meeting place is available, said Miss Plunton, who arrived back from the Toronto talks early today.

Philip Rickard, BGH executive director, said a special meeting of the hospital's governors or its executive committee would likely be called to discuss ratification.

Miss Plunton said she was "very pleased" with the settlement signed Tuesday night by the Ontario Nurses Association and negotiators for the hospitals.

"We're very happy we don't have to withdraw our services," she added. "That's really more the thing we were concerned about."

Terms of the settlement, she said, closely followed guidelines set out in the nurses' brief to Ottawa, which the nurses had an an Ad objection.

The agreement will increase a nurse's starting salary to $800 a month, retroactive to Jan. 1. By Jan. 1 1975 it will be $945.

The present starting salary at BGH — under a contract which expired last year — is $565.

Maximum salaries for experienced nurses will increase by 38 per cent during the 18-month period.

A nurse with five years experience will be paid a maximum of $915, also retroactive to Jan. 1. As of the first of this month, a nurse with five years experience will be upgraded to $1,010 a month.

Starting April 1, 1975, a nurse with seven years experience will earn $1,045 a month, the top salary provided by the new contract.

The nurses had been seeking originally a maximum starting salary of $850 a month this year and $1,050 in 1975. They had requested annual salary increases of $200 a month over the next two years, which would have brought the starting rate to $950 a month by December, 1975.

The nurses had set a strike deadline for 8 a.m. next Monday if their wage demands were not would be illegal under the Ontario Hospital Labor Disputes Arbitration Act.

Miss Lewis said that the nurses' representatives "thought they were finally talking about money."

"They felt their demands were justified by the Ottawa legislation enacted (on which the new contract is patterned) and by the patient-care study report staff," Miss Lewis said.

"When the discussions were over, the nurses' representatives felt the agreement was fair." It was ratified by 10,000 nurses in 39 hospitals for an 18-month contract giving them salary averaging about 45 per cent over two years.

The nurses had set a strike deadline for midnight Monday, July 22, if their wage demands were not met by then.

Such a strike would be illegal under the Ontario Hospital Labor Disputes Arbitration Act.

Makarios in London

Rebels in Cyprus Tighten Control

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new military regime on Cyprus pushed ahead today with its conquest of the island as President Makarios flew to London after a night of refuge at a British base on Malta.

After consultation with British government leaders, Makarios is expected to fly to New York to appeal to the United Nations Security Council for help in reversing the coup that on Monday ended his 14-year rule of the Mediterranean island south of Turkey.

Radio Cyprus said today that life was returning to normal on the island, the curfew on the Greek-Cypriote ben been lifted from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. and citizens are going about their business openly.

The new regime repeatedly broadcast orders to all persons to turn in any weapons by 2 p.m. The announcement said a search of all homes will begin at 4 a.m. tomorrow and proceed with a week. Those who failed to be a military court and punished severely.

The British forces' radio station on Cyprus went off the air last night for the island, with only occasional rifle shots and automatic weapon fire heard.

Reliable sources in Ankara said Turkey has put 40,000 troops placed its armed forces on a state of alert. They added a large part of its navy to the Mediterranean.

They also said the 39th naval division based in Iskenderun on the northeastern corner of the Mediterranean was on full alert.

But sources close to the military report that the government of President Suleyn Enevit has issued no orders for immediate action.

A pooled news dispatch late Tuesday from Nicosia, the capital, said shooting continued in some areas. The United Nations in Albeni reported the nerves of president Makarios' rival Archbishop Ieronymos of Athens and All Greece had been severed by the coup and he was in a "safe place."

The Security Council met in emergency session in New York on the Cyprus crisis. Wednesday's debate adjourned to await developments. The United States and Britain urged a wait-and-see attitude, but the Soviet Union accused the Greek military junta in Athens of instigating the coup and of "time wasting" in wait." And the UN delegate from the Makarios government appealed to the council to order a ceasefire.

Meanwhile, life appeared normal in Nicosia's Turkish quarter, and the situation was reported the same in other areas in which the Turkish-Cypriots live behind the protection of United Nations peacekeeping forces. Shops were open, People moved about freely, and traffic moved normally.

"We are trying not to get involved," said Rauf Denktash, the leader of the 120,000 Turkish-Cypriots, who are outnumbered more than four to one by the Greek-Cypriots.

Canadians At Posts In Cyprus

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department said Tuesday that Canada's United Nations troops on Cyprus are on the job fulfilling their peacekeeping mandate.

The Canadians working under the hot Cyprus sun, that usual headquarters outpost and first patrol work on inviolable lines between Greek and Turkish-Cypriot enclaves.

But now there are added responsibilities because two factions of Greeks are battling for control of the Mediterranean island of 600,000 they share with Turks.

The Canadian Forces here said some of the Edmonton-based Canadian Airborne Regiment was injured as they conducted a 19-year-old job that has, over the years, involved members of seven other regiments from across Canada.

Cabinet Meets

Sales Tax Off Shoes, Clothing

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, in his first major announcement since the July 8 election, has wiped out the 12 per-cent federal sales tax on footwear and clothing and threatened retailers to pass the benefit on to consumers.

He told a news conference following the first post-election cabinet meeting Tuesday that quick removal of the tax was essential because some retailers have delayed fall purchases and others have run into storage and financing problems with existing stocks.

Elimination of the tax was promised in the May 8 budget that was defeated in the Commons, bringing on the election.

Mr. Trudeau said the uncertainty over the tax forced fast action. "Some manufacturers, other budget promises would have to wait until Parliament is recalled.

He set Sept. 26 as the opening date but said the meeting could be sooner if special circumstances arise.

He told reporters the consumer affairs department has been instructed to monitor prices and ensure that the full benefit of the removal of the levy goes to consumers.

The value of the tax cut has been estimated at $70 million to $75 million a month.

On other subjects, he said:

—Ottawa, Alberta and Saskatchewan are discussing letters that may lead to further negotiations on the controversial topic of oil and gas revenue sharing.

—The next federal budget will have the same general thrust as the May budget. However, "but I wouldn't count on very many being the same."

—Nearly all legislation left on the order paper at dissolution May 8 will be reintroduced, although some might have to wait until after the first session of the new Parliament. Opposed measures include bills to curb profiteering, set up a government oil company and the World Football League from Canada, change competition legislation and provide for approval to the federal oil export tax.

—The government, in general terms, will not use the majority it won July 8 to undo measures approved under opposition pressure in the last minority Parliament.

—Comments on food prices by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan should not be interpreting to mean that prices must rise. Producers don't need skyhigh returns to make a living. The aim should be prices that remain adequate food production.

On economic matters, the government's next major budget may be more or less supplementary to the May 8 budget. It would depend on what was best for the country at the time.

The May budget proposals included stimulus to the start of 1974 of lower tariffs affecting a required Consumer Sector; higher exemptions for tourist purchases brought back from abroad; special taxes to discourage the purchase of high-gasoline-consumption vehicles; and elimination of sales taxes on bicycles and surface transit vehicles.

The budget also contained several income tax measures but these can be made retroactive to the current calendar year if brought back in a new budget.

He declined to answer questions on when he will announce post-election cabinet changes.

Inflation To Eat Up Savings

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of two major Canadian banks said Tuesday that inflation may virtually eliminate any savings provided by the removal of the federal 12-per-cent sales tax on shoes and clothing announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Trudeau.

D. R. Steele, vice-president of merchandising for Simpsons Ltd., said the move will merely "reduce the inflationary factor and lower what prices might otherwise be increased."

For example, he said, a man's suit that would cost $75 more this fall now will cost about $65 more.

W. R. Wilson, consumer affairs manager at Eaton's, also issued a statement saying that merchandise received after the date of withdrawal of the tax will immediately be priced to reflect the lower selling price, and "when 50 per cent of our inventories of the affected merchandise conditions are merchandise we shall mark the price of the old stock to meet the price of the new items.

Banks Refuse To Honor Benefit Cheques

TORONTO (CP) — Some Toronto banks, suspicious of forgery or theft, are refusing to cash routine government-benefit cheques.

"I have a policy I won't cash those cheques even with I.D. identification," said Ken Foster, assistant manager at a Toronto Dominion Bank branch.

"If all these cheques are stolen in the mails or they are forged."

News Briefs

Millions Misplaced

NEW YORK (Reuter) — New York City seems to have misplaced about $47 million recently. An outside auditing firm revealed Tuesday that major banks are holding about $20 million more of New York City's money than the city thought it had on deposit. This news partially offset the revelation Tuesday that a computer has handed out about $7.5 million to people no longer on the welfare rolls.

Toronto Residents Win Top Lottery Prizes

EDMONTON (CP) — It'll take some time for Ontario Lottery Canada officials to track down all the winners of Tuesday night's draw, but it didn't take long for them to start trying.

Two hours after the draw had ended at Edmonton Gardens, officials announced unofficially they had tracked down the 12 tickets, where each of the 12 prize-winning tickets were bought.

Jim MacLean, 25, a $155-a-week Toronto printer, won the $500,000 prize. He said he hoped to fly to Montreal later today to collect the money.

After that, he plans to take his wife and, three-month-old son back to his native Nova Scotia where he will enrol in university.

Draw officials said Tuesday night that the $1-million ticket was also purchased in Toronto. Julien Cote, general manager of the lottery, said that two residents of British Columbia were believed to hold tickets for major prizes.

Paul Rocca of New Westminster, 8th Ave., Apt. 111, won $100,000 with ticket number 5789127, while Douglas J. Martin of North Vancouver, 3801 Rapert St., won $50,000 with number 6361856.

Their names were matched ahead of others because they purchased their tickets by mail, Mr. Cote said in an interview.

The 12 prize-winning numbers were all picked by British Columbia, Ontario, and Quebec.

The lucky numbers were announced during a 60-minute bilingual extravaganza attended by more than 2,000 people, many of them in a festival mood. Klondike music was heard as soon throughout the audience —straw hats, flowery dresses and striped suits providing a taste of the city's Dawson Days exposition, which starts here today.

Co-hosts Alex Trebek and Henri Bergeron kept the show moving smoothly for CBC television and radio network live. In addition to the suspense and excitement of watching a draw for a total of $13,125,000 in prize money, radio, television and live audiences were treated to a variety of entertainment.

Ticket number 6090385, worth $250,000, was purchased in Montreal, while ticket number 4949284, worth $500,000, was bought in Quebec City as was the $125,000 ticket—no. 4949284.

The ticket valued at $150,000— no. 3925639—came from Chicoutimi, Que., along with one of three $25,000 tickets.

The two tickets worth $75,000 and $50,000 numbers 6113913 and 5141729 respectively—were purchased in Toronto. The third $25,000 ticket came from Quebec City.

In the case of each of the 12 winning numbers, 34 people last five digits of the winning number qualified for a $5,000 prize, 211 tickets ending in the last four digits won $1,000 each $1,000 each and 2,150 tickets ending in the last three digits won a winning number will earn $100 each.

Lottery officials during the interview Tuesday night indicated no detailed tabulations were available in the case of ticket holders qualifying in on the digital extensions.

The three $25,000 tickets—P625005, 3837194 and 4361856—were the first numbers announced although they were the last three drawn by the computer.

There were 3.5 million tickets sold for Tuesday's draw, one million more than the for April draw. Total prize money Tuesday, including the extra awarded to tickets bearing the final five digits of major winners, was $12,125,000.

LIP Grant Ends in Trenton

Citizens Bureau Once More Seeks Funds to Stay Open

TRENTON — Citizens Bureau personnel are again making the rounds in search of funding to keep the doors of the consumer help organization open here.

The bureau, originally begun in Belleville, opened offices in Trenton in January under a Local Initiatives Program grant sponsored by the Quinte District Labor Council.

Its almost six months of operation ended Friday with the $9,360 LIP grant.

To date, eight funding sources, both private and governmental, have been approached for money to put the bureau on a permanent footing. Two others can still possibly be tapped.

One such application looks promising.

Bert Gerling, program director, said Monday a grant application to the federal secretary of state department is in the final stages.

"We understand it is being favorably considered," Mr. Gerling said. He understands that the grant will go through, but we don't know when or for how much."

Bureau personnel hope the grant will come through in the next two weeks.

Why, cried the Dundas Street West officer paid till July 31, the bureau will operate with voluntary personnel for another two weeks. It is expected phones will be manned between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily.

Mr. Gerling said opening a new office eats up funds. He estimated approximately $1,000 was used to get the Trenton office underway.

He said three large private companies have been approached for fund. Two have refused, while the third has yet to reply.

The bureau's sponsors have approached Belleville and Trenton municipal councils and met with refusals. The Quinte District Labor Council has also applied for membership in the United Way campaign.

An application is now being prepared for submission to the provincial community and social services ministry.

In reviewing all applications, Mr. Gerling said, "We were much better prepared this time. In Belleville, we fell flat on our faces with an inactive board."

Before the end of LIP funds in Belleville, the bureau directors was forced to seek permanent funding. It dissolved within three months when the Quinte Help Fund took over financing in December.

Bureau's Major Role Is Advising Consumer

TRENTON — Over 3,200 calls from Trenton area citizens have been handled "in one way or another" by the Citizens Bureau in the past six months, program director Bert Gerling estimates.

Help to consumers has varied from minimal to extensive, Mr. Gerling said.

In reviewing the operation of the bureau here, Mr. Gerling said a definite shift has been noted in the kind of calls.

The bureau is acting increasingly as an advisor to consumers.

"There has been a definite shift from people complaining to people inquiring."

Complaints have centred on four main areas, two of which — home improvement and "itinerant operations — were on the "fringes of legality" he said.

Recurring complaints have also been received from used car buyers and those subject to shoddy building practices.

"It's not the established business firms that have prompted the problems," said Mr. Gerling. "If there is a problem with an established firm, then it's generally a misunderstanding."

Presqu'ile's History

A Failed Settlement Fluorishes As Resort

PRESQU'ILE — This resort area once seemed so promising for settlement it was designated a local administration centre.

It happened at the turn of the 1800s.

First settler in the area was Obediah Simpson, who arrived in 1798, and a memorial to him now stands just outside the entrance to Presqu'ile provincial park.

As the settlement on Lake Ontario grew, government authorities decided to separate a district in Northumberland and Durham counties and call it Newcastle. The district town was to be on Presqu'ile and a courthouse actually was constructed.

In 1804, a schooner left the Upper Canada capital of York for the proposed townsite, carrying dignitaries and an Indian who was to be tried for murder, the leaking craft ran aground just off Presqu'ile point and all passengers were drowned. It also was the end of the district of Newcastle. However, nearby Brighton flourished.

In 1849, a lighthouse was built on the southern most tip of Presqu'ile to guide ships around its dangerous shoals and into the natural harbor of Presqu'ile Bay. Originally it had a large oil lamp with a revolving reflector, but in 1880 it was converted to electricity and fully automated.

By 1890 most of those things had ceased to form the shallow, sandy soil had left. Presqu'ile gained new prestige as a summer resort. Cottages and homes were built along the shores but enthusiasm dwindled as his travel gave way to road and rail. The land was designated a park in 1921 to maintain its recreational value. Officially opened as Provincial Park came into being in 1954 and it now a popular location for swimming, picnicking and camping. The park also offers refuge for many migratory birds, and an abundant variety of plant and animal life. It draws ornithologists, geologists, botanists and nature lovers.

A museum of Natural History is now open 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. daily.

A summer program also includes conducted nature walks and developing shows at the amphitheatre.

Provincial Grant to Oak Hills Conservation

A Frankford area official announced here has been granted $24,200 by the provincial government.

The grant is for further capital improvements in the Sager-Oak Hills Conservation Area of the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority.

The project involves 42 acres of land east of Highway 33, about 16 miles north of Trenton.

The work includes erection of a boundary fence and entrance gate, erosion control measures in the drumlin slopes in the area, woodlot management and erection of signs.

The grant was announced by the office of Correctional Services Minister Dr. Richard Potter, MPP Quinte.

Strike Wave Hits U.S.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

National Guard troops watched over prisoners in Ohio and Rhode Island, thousands of San Francisco area commuters were without buses and pickets were posted at two airlines as strikes continued today across the U.S.

Copper miners, liquor store clerks, prison guards, hospital workers and auto workers were among those off the job in scattered areas in a rash of labor disputes federal mediators say is unprecedented since the end of the Second World War.

At the start of the week, there were 600 strikes involving a quarter-million workers.

But I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers, predicted Tuesday there will be fewer strikes in the second half of 1974 because "most of the major negotiations are behind us and the pattern of settlement has been set."

In Ohio Tuesday, about 7,500 striking public employees closed 19 liquor stores and hampered operations at two universities, 14 mental hospitals and eight prisons.

National Guard troops were called up to assist with security and medical services at Lima State Hospital for the criminally insane after pickets barred baseball bats and balls at workers who crossed their lines. Other troops were at the state's largest prison in Lancaster while seven prison guards are on strike.

It's Official

The cornerstone for the city's new Utilities Commission building at College and Dundas streets was laid in a ceremony Tuesday evening. Mayor Robin Jeffrey and BUC chairman, Gerry O'Connor joined forces to lay the stone for the building which was started in early spring and should be ready for occupancy in September. A time capsule was placed inside the stone.

Local Crafts Go on Show

CLOYNE — The annual display of local art and crafts will be held here Aug. 2-4.

The show is presented by the North Addington Guild in co-operation with Loyalist College and the Lennox and Addington board of education. It will be held at North Addington Education Centre here.

On display and up for sale will be wood carvings; cabinet work, pottery, paintings, quilts and hooked rugs.

The Guild keeps 10 per cent of the sale price of each article for its education and student projects.

Less Votes After Count Is Official

TRENTON — All four candidates who ran in the July 8 federal election election lost votes, an official count of election returns for Trenton and Hastings riding showed Tuesday.

However, the outcome has not changed. Flora MacDonald remains the riding's Conservative MP.

Election night returns gave the incumbent Tory 18,407 votes.

Riding returning officer Grace Hall announced Tuesday Mr. Ross had 18,319 votes in the official count.

Total votes awarded the other three candidates by the official count, with election night returns in brackets are: George Cunningham (Lib.) 12,921 (12,921); Harvey Gottfried (NDP) 3,021 (3,761); Bryan Burgess (Independent) 278 (277).

The returning officer said only 177 of the total 35,744 were discarded as spoiled ballots, a substantial decrease from those spoiled in the 1972 federal election.

Gains Made In Battles With Fires

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Improved weather conditions gave firefighters some headway Tuesday in battles with scattered outbreaks of fire in timber-dry northwestern Ontario.

But although the outbreaks were at most temporarily contained, officials warned that fire restrictions will be extended until Monday, July 22, through much of the area.

Dryden, about 71 miles southeast of Kenora, has been a big trouble spot for forecast for the last 10 days. Fires in the area southwest of the town has covered 40,000 acres, although it was not considered an immediate threat to populated areas.

Were Thieves Musical Or Plain Choosey?

TRENTON — Thieves, who broke into Stars and Flat Music Ltd. on King Street, were selective in their choice of instruments, store owner May Edwards said today.

Three electric guitars and part of an amplification system valued at over $2,000 were stolen.

The owner said the thieves bypassed instruments valued at twice the price of missing stock.

One guitar, placed in a far corner of the store's front window, was taken rather than more expensive models more readily at hand.

Police discovered the burglary Tuesday night. Thieves gained access to the store by breaking a plate glass window in a door.

Health Goals

If the Trudeau government finds itself having to reassess some of its policies, one basic advantage of its return is the factor of continuity.

Nowhere should this be of greater advantage than in the field of health where there is much to be done in the interests of a healthier society.

That we are far from being a nation of fit people, much of the fault lying with ourselves, is acknowledged by Health Minister Marc Lalonde in a preface to the Government publication, A New Perspective on the Health of Canadians.

"At the same time as improvements have been made in health care, in the general standard of living, in public health protection and in medical science," he notes, "ominous counter-forces have been at work to undo progress in raising the health status of Canadians.

"These counter-forces constitute the dark side of economic progress. They include environmental pollution, city living, habits of indolence, the abuse of alcohol, tobacco and drugs, and eating patterns which put the planning of the senses above the needs of the human body."

Where tobacco is concerned, and with word that in countries as far apart as the United States and Poland there is increasing recognition of the rights of non-smokers, Canadian reportedly are among the heaviest smokers.

In a Gallup Poll conducted in five countries a higher proportion of Canadians (52 percent) stated that they had smoked a cigarette in the past week — more than smokers in the United States (which had the lowest proportion, 42 per cent), West Germany, Britain, and Switzerland.

Where alcohol is concerned however, Switzerland, Britain and West Germany, in that order, showed higher alcohol consumption than Canada, with the U.S. again the lowest.

The Drinking Driver

If the figures in the foregoing editorial linkage is a lower alcohol consumption in the United States than in Canada, it comes as something of a surprise, especially when various authorities are expressing alarm at the extent of the problem in the U.S.

It has been stated in recent days that alcohol abuse costs the U.S. $25 billion annually, is rising among the nation's young, and may be associated with certain types of cancer.

And a University of California report notes that while legally intoxicated drivers constitute no more than five per cent of U.S. drivers on weekends, and far less on weekdays, they represent more than 33 per cent of the fatalities.

Dr. Forrest McGuire, an associate professor of medical psychology at the university, is quoted as saying that the more he is involved in the study of alcohol and behavior, the more annoyed he is at the dangerous effects of even small amounts of alcohol.

He makes this significant observation: "I am surprised at eventually having to define our legal and social standards about how much a person can be allowed to drink before he becomes a threat to himself and others."

If the rate of consumption in Canada is still higher than in the U.S., according to the Gallup Poll mentions above, then the problem is one which demands greater heed. There is a great deal of evidence to show that the drinking driver is one who seldom learns his lesson, unless perhaps when he is himself involved in an accident or causes injury or death to others. One hears also of drivers getting their licences back because their jobs depend on them. When are the authorities going to recognize that lives are more important?

Swan Song

The Ottawa Journal has been waxing lyrical over Frank Sinatra's hassle with the Australians. The newspaper quotes from some headlines of the day and remarks that little classic, "I Did It My Way," which was Sinatra's swan song at the time of his temporary retirement a couple of years ago, had its beginnings in Australia. It was written by an Ottawa native and popular singer who has gained fame in his own right — Paul Anka.

Warning For Canadians

Other Foreign Commodities Besides Oil Could Up Prices

By JOHN D. HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The breadbasket in Canada is not expected to follow the high-level developments of various world commodity agreements, usually reported in the financial pages or the back pages of newspapers.

From now on Canadian householders are in for shocks during the rest of the '70s if they do not watch foreign commodity price developments. And our governments are performing a disservice by hiding the news of what's going on with them.

What has been happening and will continue to do so with growing momentum, is that producing countries of many of our staples are organizing to control prices themselves, even hold back exports.

This trend began, you might say, with the slow but steady increase in oil prices by the Middle Eastern, African and Latin American member countries of OPEC. That's the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

As a result, the OPEC nations, all members of the so-called third or underdeveloped world, have more of our cash to invest or spend than ever before.

Since last winter's energy crisis, other Third World national producer suppliers or most of the raw materials feeding our affluent world, have attempted to follow the OPEC model.

Canada has forced up the royalty payments for bauxite from $2 million per annum to $200 million a year and is negotiating with other bauxite producers on the raw material from which aluminum and then aluminum are made, to form an association of bauxite producing nations.

Jamaica did not bite the royalties on bauxite merely to squeeze more out of the foreign aluminum companies that mine the product, but because she has her oil, whatsoever and must also pay the same higher prices for petroleum imports which the rich countries must also meet.

West is less for joint effort by producing nations, it coffee with the formation of Café Mundial Ltd., a group made up of Brazil and Colombia, the world's two largest coffee growers, the Ivory Coast and Portugese-controlled Angola.

Café Mundial plans to work directly with the retail trade and oil containing nations. Its moves, here will withhold coffee supplies from world markets until prices are agreed upon satisfactory to the group.

Several Central American coffee producers already have taken up the Café Mundial formula and are suspending exports to the United States and Canada.

Next, on the list could be sugar which has skyrocketed in price in any case, mainly because of increased world demand. With sugar, there are two evening major international agreements, the world sugar agreement and one between Britain and the Commonwealth Caribbean sugar-producing nations.

The international agreement that system is an adaptation of the Canadian heavy water development here in Canada.

And the reason there appears to be every possibility that Britain will probably buy large amounts of Canadian heavy water and equipment and reactors, is a naturally profitable exchange of scientific information.

"Both the British and Canadian governments have an advantage in co-operation, covering the technology and supply of heavy reactors for research and development, and the design and manufacture of components," said the U.K. White Paper.

"In particular the Canadian authorities have provided assurances on the supply of heavy water for our first stations. At a later stage we expect to construct our own heavy-water plant."

Strong arguments had been put forward by the British electrical industry in favor of the U.S.-backed light-water reactor (LWR) system for generating nuclear power.

In carefully chosen words, the White Paper says that the British government "does not imply any judgment as to the validity of the technical doubts expressed" about the safety of the LWR.

But Eric Varley, U.K. secretary of state for energy, stated that his Nuclear Installations Inspectorate would need several years to assess the safety of the American light-water system.

In citing the advantages of the SGHWR, the British White Paper stressed its reliability, its safety, its availability, and the British considerable confidence in nuclear power-supply. Its economics, it said, all of these factors were absent from the American LWR's.

British purchases from Canada will probably start soon. The Electricity Board plans to start work next year on the first SGHWR, with two more megawatt reactors, to be located in Scotland.

Canada's present supply will probably include heavy-water plants to be built in Ontario and Quebec. Current world price is $68 a pound.

Fuel for the SGHWR will be enriched uranium, rather than the natural uranium now used in Canada's Candu reactors.

The potential for Canadian industry will be the co-operation of Britain in selling CANDU nuclear reactors to other countries.

If Britain had opted for the light-water reactor, she and Canada would have been competing against each other for sales running into billions of dollars potentially.

Canada and UK in Nuclear Deal

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Economic Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The Trudeau government's choice of the Canadian nuclear power generating system is a major victory for the Canadian nuclear science.

It ends a long and keenly fought competition, in which the main rivals were the Canadian government and U.S. industry.

With a typically British testing for the system, the London kept its decision secret until just after Canada's federal election.

The political fortunes of two prominent Liberal cabinet members—Energy Minister Donald Macdonald and Finance Minister Alistair Gillespie—were involved. They had headed the Canadian sales drive.

(as it happened, each won re-election by his respective Toronto riding that he had originally made known.)

In a White Paper, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government announced that it had instructed its Electricity Boards to adopt the pressurize heavy-water reactor (SGHWR) for their next nuclear power station orders.

Ottawa Bureaucracy Remains The Real Executive Power in the Land

By RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — Members of Parliament — especially the backbenchers — are climbing this high and leaky wooly Hill for the first time — never fail to learn that while they are of some importance from the house, respected, perhaps occasionally and seldom admired, in the National Capital, individually they are very small cogs in a big machine.

Collectively they count as members of the Commons, even when they close palatial ranks and speak and act as Parliament, they find that the real key to the power which the federal public service has in running the country.

The disillusioned freshman MP quickly discovers that the division of power is unbalanced with the public service — an establishment of nearly 400,000 tightly run by a closely knit group of some 90 departmental deputy ministers and crown corporation chairmen — often having more real leverage.

And they are accepted, while he is the elected representative of the people.

They tell themselves that they, not the public service, process and pass legislation.

But the ultimate power remains firmly in the hands of public service, because it prepares the legislation for cabinet's scrutiny and presentation to Parliament in the first place.

Then after cabinet accepts it and Parliament rubber stamps it, this potent public service establishment puts it into operation.

So, with the public service having first and last crack at legislation, MPs sometimes in reality only as middlemen.

To the freshman MP it could be a little futile power. He realizes that he has no time to say during the way things are.

And worse, if he does speak up, it may be even more disillusioning to discover that people nobody is listening, much less paying any attention.

Even the senators, the freshsenators, mediators into a haven and becomes reconciled to the hard-fact-of-political-life that they do have considerable power in running the country.

The realization comes to him then no matter for whom you may have voted or for this party or against that — you can't change the course of government.

With largely ensuring of who wins or loses, the senior civil servants are secretly on.

From election to election it remains the same. The public servants knowledge that while the parliamentarians and members of elected governments come and go, it prevails as the supposedly non-partisan permanent constant.

Who, in the real political knew, ever has said such an extraordinary thing?

Well, among those who have cried out against enduring supremacy of the senior public service have been former Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker, such former cabinet ministers, Liberal Conservative allies, as Alvin Hamilton, Paul Hellyer, Walter Dinsdale, George Nowlan and Arthur Laing, and Members Gordon O'Leary and Donald Gillies, one a Tory, the other a Grit.

Senator Thompson perhaps was the most critical of them all.

He turned the senior public service into a political issue, campaigning by and proclaimed "civil service right" that began back in the years of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

He has charged that these "faceless men," as he saw them, are the masters, not the servants of the taxpayers and their elected representatives.

And he has warned that they have forged "a self-perpetuating oligarchy" to deal with the whole nation in its grip.

The MP gets to have the feeling that he is the spokesman of the public service too often when he supports their policies from time to time between elections.

Then he suspects that they have the most useful thing he could do for the country is to become a member of the executive grip on the levers of power.

Popular Labor Minister's Defeat

By DON O'LEARY
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — A few flood federal election votes—those are left out—were the only surprises.

In all elections there has to be regard for the overall result and in this federal vote we had a case of particular interest here.

One was a Conservative and the other was NDPer.

At the top of the list, of course, is the Conservative, Jerry Ruston, a man who has been in the legislature for 18 years, the last 14 as a cabinet minister.

Ruston is regarded as a big, fair and sensible man. He is able to say that perhaps even some Liberals, despite their disappointment at the election result, are sorry to have seen the former Labor Minister defeated.

Pam Gunnion was no popular figure personally that there would have been some pretty deeply felt regret at his loss.

And now he's gone, a question being asked is about his future.

Will he come back? Will he seek another seat?

There will eventually be a by-election in the provincial seat he vacated and it is assumed that of particular interest here.

But does he want to come back? Others have in similar circumstances but he is a proud man.

With Bob Lumley win, incidentally, the Liberals may have lost a potential future provincial leader.

This potential is regarded as big. Bob could be a future Premier of Ontario Bill, at least for the present.

The two NDP victors were Terry Grier and John Harvey, both in Toronto ridings.

Grier had been executive assistant to Donald MacDonald as party leader and Harvey had run one of the provincial NDP campaign buses. So both were well known and respected around those buildings.

Harvey also, of course, ran a campaign against Stephen Lewis for the national party leadership.

It was considered that both probably had bright political futures ahead of them.

They probably both will do.

Grier is a personable, bright and hard workers, and a keen party in their careers won't kill them.

It will, however, slow them up and may be a big help in interesting to see the impact of their defeats on their futures. Particularly in the case of Harvey who has some people's crystalgy brilliant.

Salvation Army Work for Humanity

"Trudel" urged Dr. J.A. Faulkner, Liberal candidate for West Hastings, in an informal talk to members of the Belleville Labor Association on the occasion of the regular weekly meeting in the YMCA. rooms last evening. "The duty of every citizen is to think for himself at the coming election; to vote according to the dictates of his own conscience, and only after careful consideration of the question before him. The people are the government of the country. And if the ignorant man had a chance to express himself through his vote more often perhaps there wouldn't be a demand for so many politicians."

LETTERS

A Look at Election Result

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Canadians can breath again — they have not elected a Tory government. Those who made the change to the Tory government proved to be far from as gullible as the Tory leader thought.

Canadians were just not ready to hand over the reins of office to a party whose leader could not explain his own policy and to many supporters who were none the wiser.

Mr. Trudeau read the cards he dicovered. He knew what the government which had power. His party, at the time, held its highest number of seats in the house. Mr. Lewis did himself, his party and the country a disservice when he sat. He will be missed as he was a competent and effective politician but like Mr. Stanfield he did not have the stomach for the responsibility of gaining the country.

Locally Mr. Ellis received action that was due to him. I expect to date he will be the only one able to find a safe seat for the Conservatives.

All we need now is a provincial election to complete the picture. Then who knows, the results of the votes proved to be far from as gullible as the Tory Leader thought.

Shake The Summer Heat with Cold Soup

The joy of cold summer soups.

If you haven't yet experienced it, make one of these chilled soups for supper or lunch when the weather is hot.

Some involve prior cooking before chilling, so that preparation the evening before is advisable. Others require simply a cutting of raw vegetables and other cold ingredients, and can be done immediately prior to serving.

In most cases, a blender is essential, unless you have the skill and the will to puree "by hand".

In all cases, the finished dish will be cooling, filling, and nutritious — and in any way or at getting compliments from family and friends on a steamy day when most appetites wane.

Nothing is so refreshing as ice-cold Gazpacho, garnished here with croutons.

Iced Parsley Soup

2 ounces parsley
1 pound potatoes
1 onion
ns. butter
1½ pints chicken stock
½ pint milk
lt to taste
freshly ground black pepper
¼ pint light cream

Thoroughly wash parsley, then remove and discard the coarse ends, of stems. Chop the remainder with a knife.

Scrape the potatoes and slice them into large pieces. Melt butter in a large sauce pan, and add the onion. Cover the pan, and fry until the onions are soft. Add the potatoes and chopped parsley and fry a few more minutes over low heat. Stir in the stock and milk. Season with salt and pepper and bring to a boil. Cover again, and simmer gently for one hour.

Take the pan off the heat. Puree the hot mixture in a blender and set aside to cool. Stir in cream, check the seasoning, and if necessary thin the soup with more stock. Chill well before serving. (This makes about six servings.)

Melon and Potato Soup

¼ cup imported olive oil
1 small onion, chopped
potatoes, peeled and diced
2 cups diced, peeled canta-loupe
1 cans condensed chicken broth (or or 2 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups water
2 cups milk
¼ cup flour
salt and pepper

In a saucepan heat the olive oil and saute the onion until golden. Add potatoes, melon and chicken broth. Cover and simmer until potatoes are tender, about half an hour.

Puree in a blender until smooth and then pour back into sauce pan.

Pour milk and flour into blender, and blend until smooth. Stir mixture into saucepan, and stir over low heat until soup thickens slightly. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and serve chilled. Sprinkle with chopped chives or floating melon balls. (Makes about six servings.)

Beet and Orange Soup

1 one-third cup imported olive oil
1 small onion, chopped
2 cups diced, peeled beets
1 cup (1 pound) diced beets with juice
2 cups orange juice
2 cups plain yoghurt
1 can mandarin oranges, drained

In a saucepan heat olive and saute onions until golden.

Add beets and orange juice. Beat in yoghurt. (Cottage cheese or sour cream may be used if desired.)

Chill until very cold. Spoon into bowls and top with an additional dob of yoghurt. Makes four to six servings.)

Cucumber and Cream Soup

½ cup cucumber, peeled and diced
1½ cups of diced cooked meat (chicken, beef, pork or lamb)
½ cup diced cooked ham
1 bunch green onions, sliced
½ green pepper, diced
2 tbs. chopped parsley
1 cup buttermilk
½ cup sour cream
salt, pepper, garlic powder

Combine the first seven ingredients and chill for 30 minutes. Stir in buttermilk and sour cream. Season with salt, pepper and garlic. You may like a dash of vinegar, or a dash or sugar as well. Put back in refrigerator and chill until very cold. Serve garnished with chopped hard-cooked egg, slivered anchovies or olives.

Gazpacho Andaluz

6 ripe tomatoes
2 green peppers, seeded and cored
1 small onion, peeled
1 cucumber, peeled
2 slices stale white bread
1 clove garlic, peeled
2 tbs. wine vinegar
5 tbsp. olive oil
4 cups tomato juice

Gazpacho is a Spanish summer soup that has tomatoes and cucumbers as the main ingredients. There are several variations of Gazpacho, and you can feel quite safe experimenting with this recipe, as the finished soup is always a matter of individual taste. Some cooks add green olives, others use chicken broth instead of tomato juice, others use fresh thyme and parsley . . . you'll find differences as you go, but taste it as you make it.

Place the ingredients (except the tomato juice) in the blender. Blend at low speed, either to create a slightly crunchy soup, or puree to make a thick liquid, depending on your preference.

Pour the soup into a large bowl and add the tomato juice. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Refrigerate until very cold, serve garnished with slices of pepper, tomato and cucumber.

Crabmeat and Yoghurt Soup

2 cups plain yoghurt
1 can crabmeat
2 green onions, chopped
1 large green pepper, finely diced
½ cup fresh chives, chopped
½ cup fresh parsley, chopped
2 tbsp. fresh basil (optional)
salt and pepper to taste

Gently stir all ingredients together and refrigerate. If the soup seems too thick, add a little sour milk (a drop or two of vinegar in the milk will sour it nicely) to achieve the consistency you desire. Serve chilled, garnished with slivers of green pepper.

Loses 90-lbs.

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — Mrs. Shirley Toner, 36, whose jaws were clamped together for more than five months in an attempt to cut weight, lost about 90 pounds as a result of her forced reduction in food consumption. But she discovered after removal of the clamp that she couldn't move her jaws. Doctors believe it will be two months before she'll be able to eat in ordinary fashion.

Ann Landers

Junior the Third Won't Make Son Fourth in Line-Up

Dear Ann Landers: Never thought I, a grown male, would wind up on your couch, but there I am.

We are expecting our first child in about eight or nine weeks. If it's a boy my wife wants to name him after me. This would make him Harvey Whitelaw the Fourth (fictitious name, but the number is correct).

I have had it with the "Junior" bit and I want to break the chain for my son's sake. All my life I've lived in my father's shadow and I am doomed to this punishment as long as my dad is alive.

The confusion between us is a pain in the neck, and the constant comparisons are a pain somewhere else. I can't understand why my dad did this terrible thing to me, because his own father did it to him and he should have known better.

Now my wife wants to do it to our child and I say "Nonsy." She has it in her head that there is something very classy about a fourth-generation name. I say it's a lot of garbage. I want my son to have his own identity and I can start with a name of his own.

What do you think? — What's-his-name The Third

Dear Whatsit: Some Juniors — and Thirds, Fourths and Fifths — are very proud to be in the line-up. Others don't like the idea. If you feel so strongly about this, I believe your wife should respect your wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: Two ladies with a wet noodle for a brain have stirred up a storm in the love of his life. After he accomplishes his mission he may stick around and he may not. But he sure as hell doesn't have to treat her the same as he did here, because she's already been had.

What I'm saying is, the dame who loses the guy because she goes in never had him in the first place. Modern morality no longer labels a girl who has premarital sex as a "tramp." Bolder I said premarital, not promiscuous.

The problem exists only in the heads of those dames who starved women and men, too. They confuse a little stimulation with true love.—Ex-Swinger

Dear Ex: Sorry, Buster, but an awful lot of girls jump into bed, thinking it's the way to enhance a man's interest. This error in judgment is not uncommon among the unsatisfied, the lonely and the insecure—which includes a large segment of the female population, both married and single.

I firmly believe that bed is no place to get acquainted. Once the relationship is pegged on the bed level there is little (or no) interest in exploring a girl's ideas, character or anything else. It's "Hello. Let's go. . . . Goodbye."

Dear Ann Landers: I'm one guy who reads your column every day, admits it, and doesn't hide it under the sports page. Several years ago you printed your own definition for success. I carried it in my wallet but it has become tattered from age. Will you rerun it, please?—Lawyer In Manhattan

Dear Friend: With pleasure; Success is that place in the mind where preparation and opportunity meet. But too few people recognize it, because too often it comes disguised as hard work.

Helen Allen Finds Homes for Thousands

TORONTO (CP) — What began as a three-week experiment 19 years ago has become a lifetime passion for Helen Allen, the reporter whose Today's Child column has found homes for thousands of children.

The adoption picture in Ontario has been altered in the 10 years since Andrew MacFarlane, then managing editor of the old Toronto Telegram, asked Miss Allen to write a trial run of columns designed to acquaint the public with hard-to-place children available for adoption.

Today, older children, handicapped children and those with mixed blood are routinely adopted.

The Telegram stopped publishing in 1971 but Today's Child continues to appear in 34 daily newspapers and 155 weeklies. Conservative estimates place the number of children the columns found homes for by the end of 1973 at about 6,500.

"Nothing I have ever done has given me the satisfaction that I receive from Today's Child," says Miss Allen, who now is employed by the Ontario ministry of community and social services.

"The most satisfying experience of my life and highlight of my career in adoptive work," said Miss Allen, was the adoption of Mark—a four-year-old born with neither arms nor legs. Mark's parents decided only an institution could provide him with the care and attention they felt they could not provide in a family setting.

Miss Allen featured Mark in her column and 50 couples offered to adopt him. Today at 6, Mark is attending kindergarten, settled in his new home with two older brothers and a sister.

More than 100 persons also replied to a call for a family to adopt a group of seven sisters.

Retarded children have found homes through the columns since in 1972. Recently, a child with Down's Syndrome (mongolism) found a family.

Miss Allen's description of each child is frank and personal.

"I try very hard of tell the story so that the child will emerge as an individual.

"People say a child shouldn't be labelled, but in the early days of Today's Child, our descriptions weren't extensive or honest enough.

"In one instance 40 or 50 families applied to adopt an attractive, mixed-blood boy, but all fell by the wayside when they learned he was a slow learner."

Public honors also have come her way. Ten months after the column began she was awarded an Ontario government special citation by former premier John Robarts. In 1971, the federal government recognized her contributions after she was awarded the Medal of Service of the Order of Canada.

Successful Living

Send a Little Love

By DORIS CLARK

When I was off to college and stepped up on sending mail back home, my father would say to me, "If you would just write my address on a card and sign your name, and send it, that's all I'd need to keep me happy."

At the time, I listened, open-mouthed. But then I realized that his main concern was for me, that I was all right, and that I did give him at least a thought.

Too many of us think we have to make it a whole composition when we write a letter. So that is the reason so many letters never get written, because it seems as if we haven't got the time.

I have a friend whose artistic hands mean that all notes, I get are tapped out on the typewriter by the one extended finger of a doubled-up fist, painfully. He is full of ideas, and when I have communicated to me in this painful way because he thinks what he has been through will help someone else.

Sometimes he will take three weeks to write these paragraphs. But they are good paragraphs.

If don't be too sorry for yourself if you think you haven't the time to write a letter as concise you care about. A good way to start is to address and stamp the envelope. Write down a little good cheer, send a little love, maybe a message about a high spot or happening, and get it in the mail.

Dear Doris: I was shocked by the advice you gave about a man marrying his daughter-in-law. Why, they are no blood relation whatever. I have a sister married to her former uncle by marriage — no blood relation.

The fine says we should not judge according to appearances but to "John right-eous judgement," and's laws are much higher than those made by man. They could be two people completely suited for one another.

The man should point out to the licence bureau that they are no blood relation. I would like to encourage those people to go to higher authorities. — Opposed.

Dear Opposed: It is hard to beat old hall. The check who issues licences is just carrying out orders; and the orders follow the laws of Canada.

Almost the same table of kindred and affinity used in our Statutes is used by the Anglican Church and other Christian churches. A clergyman tells me that the Biblical reason for this is a sociological attempt to keep the generations apart.

Times have changed since Biblical days; but if you want to change the laws those "higher authorities" are the MP's in Ottawa who make them.

Talk it over with Doris by writing to her in care of this newspaper. This Canadian author worker can shed new light on your problem.)

Beef Prices Rise 10 to 30 Cents

TORONTO (CP) — The price of choice cuts of beef increased between 10 and 30 cents a pound in Metropolitan Toronto supermarkets Tuesday but a spokesman in the beef industry said there might be "an easing off" toward the end of the summer.

Dominion Stores Ltd. increased its prices 20-25 cents Tuesday for steak and, for prime cuts of beef by 20 cents a pound. On Monday Canada Safeway put its prices up 10 cents to market.

A Dominion official said "beef prices have advanced at the wholesale level to 92 cents a pound from 87 cents and this forced up the retail price."

Keith Leckie, general manager of the Meat Packers Council, said in an interview that prices might ease off by the end of the summer because there still are lots of beef cattle to come to market.

Mr. Leckie said two factors had driven the livestock prices up recently. First there is a strike of meat packer unions in Alberta and second there is the ban on beef cattle imported from the United States because that country uses a growth hormone which is suspected of causing cancer, he said.

Charles Gracey, general manager of the Ontario Beef Producers Association, said he has never known a greater range of prices between front quarters and hind quarters of beef.

"If people want to eat nothing but steaks, then they're going to have to pay for it," he said.

Mr. Gracey said the whole sale price range between front and hind quarter cuts is about 45 to 50 cents a pound.

Sam Crystal, vice-president of public relations for the Oshawa Group, which operates the IGA and Food City chains, said increases on hind-quarter cuts are caused by steadily rising live cattle prices.

Steer prices on the Toronto Livestock Exchange have increased about 10 cents a pound since last month. On Monday live steer prices were $55 a hundredweight.

Scouts Diligent

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Since May, 1970, members of El Paso Boy Scout Troop 21 have been raising the United States flag each Saturday morning in the downtown area. At least one patrol from the troop handles he assignment regardless of weather conditions, says the El Paso Times.

Kingston Housewife Protests Hydro Rates

TORONTO (CP) — A housewife from Kingston, bearing a 4,000-name petition, went before the Ontario Energy Board Tuesday to plead against a proposed 15-per-cent increase in Ontario Hydro wholesale power rates.

Irene Mooney, representing the Calarwood, Frontenac and St. Lawrence Wards Ratepayers' Association, told the board that people on fixed incomes cannot afford the increase in retail rates which, she said, would inevitably result if the board approves the Hydro proposals.

"Hydro has gone as high as these people can afford to pay," she told the board. "If hydro goes up, everything else goes up with it."

Mrs. Mooney said there have been two hydro rate increases in Kingston in the last year. Hydro officials at the hearing said the Kingston Public Utilities Commission increased its rates 8.6 per cent last August and 7.5 per cent in March, 1974.

"You people are talking in terms of millions and billions," Mrs. Mooney told the board. "We have to talk in dollars and cents."

Meanwhile, the Ontario Municipal Electric Association (OMEA), representing about 340 of Ontario's 364 municipal electric utilities, said Hydro rates to direct industrial customers are lower than the cost of power to municipal utilities.

The OMEA said in a brief that the low rates to Hydro's direct customers has resulted in "widespread complaint and dissatisfaction amongst municipal utilities."

Physics, Archeology Tracing Human History

VANCOUVER (CP) — The combination of physics and archeology is being used to help trace human history and sometimes the results are revolutionary.

A physics professor at Simon Fraser University is using x-rays to trace the trade routes of Indians living in British Columbia 5,000 years ago.

Eric Nelson uses x-ray fluorescence analysis to trace the few Pacific Northwest varieties of obsidian, a cutting tool which Indians traded everywhere.

R. E. Haering, University of British Columbia physics head, said that with proven application of Mr. Nelson's technique, "we may be able to determine the evolution of trade patterns."

"In time, we may even be able to tell whether or not man did come to North America from Siberia."

Mr. Nelson has used x-ray analysis to produce atomic "fingerprints" of obsidian samples from Mount Edziza, near Telegraph Creek and Anahim Peak, near Obsidian Creek—the only B.C. sources of obsidian—as well as the few locations in Oregon where the volcanic material may be found.

He then checks the fingerprints of obsidian artifacts found elsewhere to determine where the obsidian came from.

The detective work already has produced patterns of obsidian trade which show the route Alexander MacKenzie used to reach the Pacific in 1793 was one of the main Indian trading routes for many years.

Older artifacts dating back 5,000 years have confirmed trade routes, Mr. Haering said.

He said that Mr. Nelson's technique eventually may be applied to other sciences, to history and perhaps to criminology because many objects have definite x-ray fingerprints.

"It looks extremely promising," Mr. Haering said.

Baldwin Says Democracy Never Been Tried in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer James Baldwin says the United States system of government and economy cannot last.

"The system which permits subservience of man to man is doomed," said the 50-year-old author of essays, short stories, plays and such celebrated books as 'Go Tell It on the Mountain, Notes of a Native Son' and his latest novel, 'If Beale Street Could Talk.

"Black people are much more independent than they were a while people's imaginations," he said.

The white man tries to impose on the black man images he would like to see him have and he wants the black man to live by his images.

"During the civil rights adventure of the '60s, something happened which nobody noticed. White Americans were stripped naked and forced to look at themselves. They found they could not be respected.

"Democracy has never been tried here. By my definition, democracy means no one is penalized for color or class or forced down to the lowest common denominator.

Baldwin advocates "the highest form of socialism." So, replace what he calls the "dying" American system of democratic government and capitalist economy.

"I don't mean a socialism like Hitler's or Stalin's, but the purest kind, where the world's wealth and resources will belong to the world."

The writer said he has devoted his professional life to bettering the lot of black people. He sees in their freedom the freedom of all men.

Baldwin's prowess as a prognosticator was noted when he received the Centennial Medal of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, an award honoring "the Artist as Prophet. He demonstrated his prophetic powers in 1963 with the publication of 'The Fire Next Time, a collection of essays which forewarned of the intense summer race riots of the late 1960s.

Some literary critics have criticized Baldwin for hammering at the theme of racial injustice that pervades his work. They complain that his preoccupation with the topic has made his work dated.

CP News Roundup

Bill Davis Will Meet Pope Paul

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis will meet Pope Paul, place a wreath at a cemetery of Canadian war dead in Sicily and take part in Ontario Day at the Bari international trade fair this September.

A tentative itinerary released by the premier's office indicates a busy schedule for Mr. Davis' two-week visit to Italy beginning Sept. 15.

The premier will be accompanied on the charter flight by more than 100 Italian-Canadians on the trip, sponsored by the Federation of Italian Canadian Clubs.

Italian-Canadians from Toronto, Hamilton, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Kingston and Windsor will be included on the flight.

Rejects Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan rejected Tuesday a proposal to build houses on the federal experimental farm here.

He said prior to a cabinet meeting that 1,500 acres farm is unprofitable.

The suggestion was made by Dr. R. F. M. Fullerton, former chairman of the National Capital Commission. He proposed that a 75-acre section be used to alleviate housing shortages.

"I was surprised that a man of Mr. Fullerton's stature would make as ridiculous a suggestion," Mr. Whelan said.

Payments Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment payments totalling $202 million during May were the first drop since January 1973 when payments totalled $203 million, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

The average weekly payment Monday was $74.34, up 10 per cent from the weekly average of $67.59 in May, 1973. The April weekly average was $71.34.

Posts Opposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of handicapped people is campaigning for the removal of signal . . . posts from supermarket entrances.

"They are a fire hazard and a handicap for people in wheelchairs and mothers with baby carriages," says Charlie Sweeney, president of Serving Of Mind and Needs of the Disabled (S.T.E.P.S.D.).

Pay Raised

OSHAWA Ont. (CP) — An arbitration award released Tuesday gives Durham regional police an across-the-board increase of 13.5 per cent over one year.

The brings the annual wage of a first-class constable with four years' experience to $13,836. The old rate for a first-class constable in the former Oshawa police department was $11,778.

St. Kitts Students Are Safe in Cyprus

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Six Brock University students on an archaeological dig in Cyprus are in no immediate danger following a weekend coup, the university said Tuesday.

External affairs department officials have been in touch with the six, part of a 16-member group working in the area of Famagusta, where fighting has been reported in connection with the coup.

The Brock students, who arrived in Cyprus July 3, are on the dig as part of their classical studies course. . . . They were scheduled to return to Canada Aug. 13.

However, the university said it now hopes to get the students out as soon as possible.

Jury Told It Could . . . ard Tape

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Stanley Hogg said Tuesday he took an unprecedented step in telling a jury it might disregard tape-recorded evidence if it found the way in which the evidence was obtained repugnant to its sense of fairness.

Judge Hogg made the comment before sentencing Raymond Horace Opotowski, 31, of Toronto to six years in penitentiary for conspiring to commit armed robbery.

The jury found Opotowski guilty June 25 and Judge Hogg said the jury also saw fit not to disregard the evidence to which he had referred.

Gets 3 Years

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Barry Leif Pruner, 47, of Spencerville, Ont., was sentenced in Ontario Supreme Court to three years in jail Tuesday after being convicted of manslaughter.

Pruner was charged with the shooting death of his wife, Gwendolyn, Anne Rose, 38, March 21 at the family home.

He was earlier charged with non-capital murder after the deaths of his wife and son Timothy, 16, who was shot at the home the same night as Mrs. Pruner.

Pruner was acquitted of his son's death and the 13-count jury reduced the charge to manslaughter in connection with his wife's death.

Speared

SUTTON, Ont. (CP) — A man who found his wife naked in bed with his best friend punched holes in the man with an African hunting spear, police said Tuesday.

The former best friend survived. The husband has been charged with assault causing bodily harm.

Coal, Scrap Costs Pushed Steel Up

TORONTO (CP) — N. J. Higher costs for both coal and scrap in May of 1974 Broner, vice-president of finance for the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. (Stelco), told the steel profits inquiry Tuesday that Stelco sets scrap prices at the beginning of every month on the basis of supply and demand.

The Stelco purchasing dep rt ment meets with the scrap broker, and examines market conditions, he said. The price is then set at a level that will ensure Stelco obtains the necessary scrap for that month's production.

Stelco President J. Peter Gordon told the inquiry several weeks ago that a review of the company's performance in mid-March indicated "principal increases in expected costs at this time arose from dramatic

U.S. scrap prices moved back up again as the July price was pushed back to $100 a ton. The price varies somewhat according to the grade of scrap.

Scrap is of much greater significance to Stelco than either of its two major competitors, Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. (Dofasco) and Algoma, he said.

Dofasco and Algoma have a greater furnace capacity to handle iron ore than Stelco.

Stelco receives 450,000 to 500,000 tons of scrap annually, he said.

A. R. McMurtrich, Stelco's marketing vice-president, told the inquiry that the May price increases were merely following increases introduced earlier by several competitors.

He said that Stelco's price for steel bars before the increase were, anywhere from $30 to $65 lower than competitors.

The decision to increase a product's price is dependent on many factors Mr. McMurtrich said.

Trudeau Reluctant To Veto Quebec Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government would be reluctant to strike down legislation that would make French the official language in Quebec, Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday.

Instead, it would prefer to use the power of persuasion to change any objectionable sections when the bill is approved, he told a news conference.

The prime minister said he would not rule out use of the federal power to disallow provincial statutes in special circumstances. But it was not a course he preferred to take.

The legislation, given approval in principle by the Quebec national assembly Monday, would make French the working and official language in Quebec.

Rather than overrule the bill, Mr. Trudeau said, Ottawa would be more likely to wait for a private court action contesting the legality of the legislation, and then appear to argue the federal case.

He said federal officials are studying the bill and it will be discussed by cabinet when it becomes law.

Scoop!

Our ice cream is the quality story of the year.

Ken Green, Assistant Manager Jennie Jukes, Cashier

"Last year Dominion's own smooth Richmello ice cream outsold the leading brand in our stores. Now that's quality you can taste,—by the scoop, in an ice cream soda, a banana split or a sundae topped with nuts and cherries.

Of course, our Richmello ice cream is specially made for us to meet our rigid standards of quality by leading dairies. So you know it's quality ice cream at Dominion's own special savings.

We keep all our ice cream products in modern, easy-to-choose-from freezers. It keeps everything we sell fresh."

North Dakota Water Project Meets Canadian Opposition

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — For nearly 100 years, men have dreamed of making North Dakota's semi-arid plains bloom.

For the last 18 years, the United States bureau of reclamation has been working to make it a reality.

But, environmentalists fear the dream may turn into a nightmare and the Canadian government agrees. Now an irrigation project in North Dakota has become an international controversy.

The project, called the Garrison Diversion Unit, has faced criticism in North Dakota for years, though nearly every major organization and all of the state's top political leaders endorse it.

Opponents label Garrison Diversion as "one of the biggest water development disasters in history."

The project's supporters say it will make North Dakota one of the most fertile farm areas in the country.

Last year, the Canadian government entered the argument when it learned self-polluted irrigation waters could end up running into the international boundary.

The Canadians found a treaty signed in 1909 which forbids both the United States and Canada from polluting the waters that cross the boundary.

Then, the Canadian government issued three formal diplomatic notes to the U.S. state department calling for a moratorium.

The controversy in North Dakota surrounds a plan to transfer water from Lake Sakakawea, created by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in 1955 in an effort to tame the Missouri River, for irrigation of farm lands in north-central and eastern parts of the state.

Construction of the project, due to deliver the first water in 1977, calls for chopping 1,800 miles of canals and waterways through North Dakota.

Environmentalists and the Canadian government are now trying to change the bureau of reclamation's "when" to "if completed."

The leading critic of Garrison Diversion has been the Committee to Save North Dakota, a group supported by farmers whose land lies in the path of the bureau of reclamation claims of environmental benefits as "an outright hoax."

Both U.S. and Canadian sides have agreed in a carefully-worded joint communique to creation of an international committee to monitor the project and to review efforts aimed at preventing salt pollution of Canadian waters.

Sidney Green, Manitoba minister of mines, resources and environmental management, told North Dakota state officials:

"We are frankly unable to see how the Garrison Diversion can be proceeded with without causing pollution to Manitoba waters. We are, however, willing to let your officials demonstrate to ours how you intend to do this."

Green's message was clear: Canada expects the United States to abide by the 1909 treaty which prohibits pollution of waters crossing the international boundary.

Ominous rumblings began coming from Washington.

A letter to North Dakota Gov. Arthur A. Link from Under Secretary of State William J. Casey said:

"The available data do suggest serious problems for our relations with Canada if the Garrison Unit is continued as at present proposed."

It began to appear that Canadian officials would succeed where American environmentalists had failed.

Indian Brotherhood to Study Proposed Indian Act Changes

EDMONTON (CP) — ... think it is right."

... Among the proposed changes are greater economic sovereignty over development on land lands and graduated control over Indian education.

"We have to give more economic development powers to the bands. We work with industry now, but we want the word to go out that we are no longer interested in just supplying labor for outsiders ...

"We want economic development systems that will be controlled by Indian people, for Indian people."

Among the economic development schemes envisaged by the IAA, said Mr. Cardinal, is a province-wide economic development fund which would be either provide loans for Indian projects directly or provide the 20-per-cent equity required for loans from the federal government to Indian bands.

"They're telling bands that they will have control, using their system, and that the department will even lend the bands the staff to run the schools.

"We have maintained for a long time that their staff is largely incompetent. We certainly don't want to take them on if we're running the system."

He said the draft amendments will also extend the age at which the government will pay education costs for Indian children.

At present the government is committed to pay for education until the child is 16 years old, said Mr. Cardinal.

"We have kids who want to go on in school but the department says it just doesn't have enough money to let them continue. We have a lot of kids who never finish their education because of the present policies."

The department's goal of total Indian control of education by 1983 is "unrealistic."

"If we are going to do it right we have to train teachers, administrators and school boards to run their own systems," he said.

"That will take a long time, but we want to do this right."

Stocks Could Make Expensive Wallpaper

EDMONTON (CP) — Twelve years ago, Micheline Masse of Montreal came up with the idea of papering a wall with ornamental stock certificates.

She never carried out her plan.

When friendof heard of the idea, they supplied her with old certificates. But as Micheline examined them she began wondering if they might be worth anything, despite their age.

From her curiosity sprang Stock Market Information Services Inc., based in Montreal, with Micheline as president, and a staff of analysts, researchers and secretaries.

Seventy per cent of her business comes from women, she said in an interview.

"Most men are quick to write off (an old stock certificate) and forget about it. Out of sheer curiosity, the women will press for information."

Many inquiries involve stock bought in the Depression when many investments, including insurance, went by the board, she said.

Old oil stocks are promising. The company has found that many original small companies were taken over by large corporations, but the certificates remained valuable.

One of the top recovery decisions involving Micheline's company was for a Florida man who had a bundle of old uranium stocks from five different firms. One of the firms was found still alive under a new name and the stock was worth $36,000.

The stock information company has done business in Europe as well as North America.

Since beginning operations five years ago, it has recovered about $500,000 for its clients.

Fire Pumps Dig For Live Embers

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — "You have to dig down with high-pressure fire pumps to get at all the embers in the roots and crevices."

That's how Lloyd Myllynen, supervisor of Camp 27 at the Dryden 18 forest fire site, described his crew's job Tuesday.

The camp, a turbulent 10-minute helicopter ride from the main operation behind 32 miles southwest of Dryden—lies in an actual part of the Dryden 18 fire.

Although the popular image of a forest fire is a spectacular mass of flame, the flight to Camp 27 provides a new viewpoint.

Instead of the anticipated walls of clouds and flame, the only visible signs of smoke are apparently innocuous plumes and wisps of white rising from stretches of green forest.

Along the way, wide swaths stretch desolately beneath the aircraft, trees fallen like burnt match-sticks or standing forlorn and charred, crowned by the perimeter.

clumps of singed brown needles.

Since its birth June 29, the fire has been feeding on piles of trees and brush felled by a wind storm a year ago and has quickly crowned into huge flames among the treetops.

Most of the trees are only partially charred, with the tops merely singed. The damage to 32 square miles, however, is usually enough to kill the tree.

On the map, the fire is an irregular blot, more than a hundred square miles in area and about 30 miles across at the widest point Tuesday.

Inside that perimeter, however, are scattered fireliners with crews working to extinguish the hot spots.

The line camps are needed to squelch the fire. Water bombing and chemical drops, as well as backfires, and clearing operations, serve only to contain the flames within a given area.

It is the line crews who beat the fire to death from within.

Sweaty, grimy and weary men manhandle miles of hose and using 300-pound high-pressure pumps, blast the smouldering fire with streams of water from nearby lakes. The area is criss-crossed by lakes and streams, easing the task of the firefighters.

Mr. Myllynen's own crew returns to the fire with him from their base in Sudbury.

They lost all their personal belongings and equipment when the fire backlashed last Sunday and nearly trapped them. A wind they were lifted to safety by a helicopter.

'Pot' in Home

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP) — RCMP seized six marijuana plants Tuesday at a greenhouse at North Centennial Manor, a home for the elderly.

An RCMP spokesman said that one of the manor staff became suspicious of the 18-inch-high, individually potted plants.

The spokesman said no charges will be laid.

Church Spokesman Sees Rent-a-womb Society

TORONTO (CP) — The reported birth of three babies in Europe after scientists fertilized eggs from the mothers' ovaries with male sperm inside test tubes may be a first step towards "a rent-a-womb society," a spokesman for the United Church of Canada said Tuesday.

A British researcher says that after growing in the test tube for about a week, the eggs were replaced in the mother's wombs.

Commenting on the report that the three babies have reached toddler stage, Rev. Clarke MacDonald and two other church spokesmen expressed reservations about the social implications of conducting such experiments.

"There is some uneasiness as to where this whole thing is heading and what are the moral and legal implications," said Mr. MacDonald, deputy secretary of the United Church's mission division in Canada.

A spokesman for the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Wayne Smith, said his first reaction to the news was one of "bewilderment and amazement . . . but also one of sympathy with doctors and scientists trying to grope their way through this."

"It raises a lot of questions," said Archbishop Edward Scott, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada.

Officials Like Flexible Hours

OTTAWA (CP) — Overwhelming approval has been given by government officials to flexible working hours tested here recently and the agencies involved plan to continue their programs.

In recent weeks, departments employing 46,000 public servants in the capital district have been reporting on a three-month trial by the treasury board.

The results show "a very positive picture" of easier urban transportation and work times that adjust easily to different life-styles, a treasury board spokesman said in a recent interview.

The concept of flexible hours, started when the government was approached by the Ottawa-Carleton regional bus service, OC - Transpo, has also been [illegible] private companies, including Sell Canada Ltd., [illegible]on Life Insurance Company.

The tests followed trials among small groups in departments such as communications and consumer affairs which proved to be successes in that both staff and department officials were pleased with the results.

In March, treasury board announced that 37 departments and agencies including 30,000 employees in the downtown core and 16,000 outside the core would be involved in a three-month experiment.

Reports to treasury board show most people feel it now is easier for them to get to work in the morning.

However, the largest number of employees stuck to their old arrival times between 8:15 and 8:45 a.m.

About 37 per cent of 19,000 employees surveyed chose to report between 8 and 8:30 a.m., 26 per cent chose starting times between 7:30 and 8 a.m., 22 per cent between 8:30 and 9 a.m., and nine per cent between 7 and 7:30 a.m. and eight per cent between 9 and 9:30 a.m.

Under the rules all employees must be at work during the core period of 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. But they can report as early as 7 a.m. and leave as late as 6 p.m., as long as they work the required 7½ hours daily. They can also vary their lunch break between 30 and 90 minutes.

A treasury board spokesman said he foresees a greater trend toward greater flexibility, subject to the requirement to have people on duty at various times.

A Statistics Canada report predicts Canada's population could grow by as much as 13 million between 1971 and 2001. The report makes four projections representing a plausible range of future population growth. The most dramatic — the high-growth projection — shows Ontario's population almost doubling to 14.7 million while Quebec would increase by less than 12 million. Western Canada would increase to 9.5 million from 5.7 million. Saskatchewan is the only province for which a decline is projected — from 926,000 in 1971 to 492,000 in 2001. (CP Newsmap)

Nixon Says He Would Quit If Watergate Charges True

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon, terming Watergate "the thinnest scandal in American history," says that if the charges against him were true, "I wouldn't serve for one minute."

The president's comments were made in a broad-ranging interview with Rabbi Baruch Korff, a Nixon supporter from Providence, R. I. in the interview, recorded at the White House on May 13, Nixon said:

"I wouldn't serve for one minute if they were true. But I know they are not true and therefore, I will stay here, do the job that I was elected to do as well as I can and trust to the American constitutional process to make the final verdict."

The interview with Korff, chairman of the National Citizens' Committee for Fairness to the Presidency, Inc., was published Tuesday in a paperback volume called, The Personal Nixon: Staying on the Summit.

Royalties from the book, written by the rabbi, will go to the committee, Korff said.

In the interview, the president criticized the news media, accused subordinates of Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski of abusing the investigative process and declared, "It would be extremely difficult for anyone to get a fair trial" in the District of Columbia in a Watergate-related case.

In assessing the historical impact of Watergate, Nixon told Korff that he considered it "the broadest but the thinnest scandal in American history."

The president said that if he had bugged out of Vietnam," which he said the news media advocated, "Watergate would have been a blip. They wouldn't have cared, but it is because I have not gone down the line with them that they care."

Glimmer of Hope Is Seen for Elms

OTTAWA (CP) — A new glimmer of hope for saving valuable elm trees from Dutch elm disease appeared Tuesday when the Canadian Forestry Service began a program to train commercial operators in a new system of treating the disease.

The program is restricted and experimental. Only four commercial tree service companies and six public bodies are taking the training at Carleton University in Ottawa this week.

The treatment involves injecting diseased trees with a new chemical fungicide called CSP-1020 by means of pressure hoses attached to severed roots or drilled into the trunk of the tree.

Cost estimates have ranged up to $300, but forestry service scientists say they do not know how much the treatment will cost when offered commercially. They estimate it will cost no more than it would cost to remove the dead tree after the disease has run its course.

Of the purposes of the experimental program this summer is to determine the commercial cost and practicability of the treatment.

The scientists warn, however, that the treatment cannot be expected to eradicate the disease.

But it would be useful in saving selected trees considered to have high value because of their location on private property, in parks or along elm lined driveways.

"What we have developed here is nothing more than another tool in Dutch elm disease management," said Dr. E. S. Kondo, a pathologist who, since its inception in 1970, has worked on the scientific team that devised the treatment.

"This is strictly a treatment for expensive trees, trees of high value," he said.

Dr. Kondo described the new treatment as a "booster shot."

The program involves commercial tree services in Ottawa; Roxboro, Que., near Montreal; Stouffville, Ont., near Toronto, and Cobourg, Ont.

Other agencies involved include the National Capital Commission in Ottawa, the Niagara Parks Commission in Niagara Falls, Ont., and the cities of Ottawa, Hamilton, Kingston and Orillia, Ont.

Pringle Will Open Raid Probe July 22

TORONTO (CP) — A public inquiry into the May 11 drug raid at a Fort Erie motel will begin in St. Catharines July 22, a spokesman for Solicitor-General George Kerr said Tuesday.

The hearing, before Norfolk County Judge John A. Pringle, is expected to last a minimum of two weeks and about 50 witnesses are expected to testify.

Controversy arose over the May raid at the Landmark Motel when police searched more than 100 patrons to uncover drugs. Many had to submit to body searches.

Just for Fun

The Quinte Kiwanis Club of Belleville recently held their picnic for family members of the club at Zwicky's Island. Besides the usual hot dogs and soft drinks there were races for the kids and grown-ups as well. Newly chosen Quinte Kiwanis Club president, Dick Hurst, gets help from his daughters, Jennifer, left and Melanie to compete in the wheelbarrow race.

OPP Crime Prevention Program Will Involve Whole Community

The Ontario crime rate has risen 31 per cent in the last five or six years and the Ontario Provincial Police is doing something about it.

The crime prevention program began July 1 with the appointment of community services officers in most detachments across the province.

"At one time, the people were the police," says Constable Brian Turner, community services co-ordinator for OPP district 9. "Then they hired people to do it full time and gave them uniforms so you could spot them. Now we want to get back to the old way."

Augmenting the police with thousands of citizen's eyes will begin with an approach to businessmen in the area. Community services officer for Belleville and Maitre detachments of the OPP, Constable Rene Brownlee, is calling on all businessmen in the area, more than 300 of them. He is compiling a register of what they carry, their working hours and protection measures. At the same time, the OPP is offering objective advice on crime prevention measures and alarm devices to all area businessmen.

Community services officers will attend a course in August to bring them up to date on locks, lighting, and alarm systems.

The OPP community services officers will complement their safety work with school children in the county, and hope eventually to carry their prevention program to all segments of the community.

Provincial police serve throughout Hastings county, excluding Belleville, Deseronto, Tweed and all municipalities that have their own police forces.

In Japan, says Constable Turner, police officers go from door to door, introducing themselves to housewives and family members, so that personal contact is made with everyone in the community. The OPP's approach to businessmen is the beginning of a program to increase personal contact between the police and the citizens they serve.

One of the first businessmen to be approached on the new crime prevention program is Manfred Koechlin of Auto Haus Bach-Toy, an automobile dealership on Highway 2 just west of the city limits.

"I'm a greenhorn at what constitutes crime prevention," he says. "I have a big investment sitting here and if the OPP can tell me of better ways of safeguarding it, I'll do what they say."

Mr. Koechlin credits the OPP with preventing major crime on his lot during the more than four years he has operated at his present location.

"We had a major theft, of wheels a day or two after we moved here, but that's all," he says. A few times I have come back to the lot late at night, and there's always ways an OPP officer at my door almost immediately to check out what I'm doing there. Their surveillance is excellent."

Constables Turner and Brownlee are available to speak on crime prevention to any interested group, club or association.

"We want people to know who we are, and who to call if they see anything suspicious," says Constable Turner.

Tracey Harrison shoots volleyball toward playmates at city day camp in Colonel Vanderwater Conservation Area. It's one of the recreation activities in which youngsters also learn to socialize, form new friendships.

City Kids Get Break At Vanderwater Park

THOMASBURG — Fresh air is part of a campaign being sold young Bellevilleans for $25 a week here.

It's no blatant ripoff of innocents.

Plenty of fun and serious social trimmings also are being served daily at the banks of the Moira River in the Colonel Vanderwater Conservation Area.

Now in full swing is the community day camp program involving city youngsters in the experience of outdoor living.

A joint venture of the city's recreation department and Belleville YMCA, the program is aimed at young folk 8-12 years of age, based daily to the conservation site.

For nearly five hours a day, they're involved in swimming, crafts, field trips and basic orienteering.

Now in its third year, its open-air environment has special appeal for youngsters from urban neighborhoods which, these days, include apartment living, say its organizers.

Over the total eight weeks some 30 free memberships also are allotted for city families who may not be able to afford the $15 weekly fee.

Clifford Belch, deputy recreation director believes most of the response is serious, although he admits some parents may view the facility.

"It's not a baby-sitting service. We're programming for participation," he says.

There is also serious purpose underlying the fun and supervised frolic, indicates Becky Holway, 19-year-old camp director, who heads the subsidiary staff of five.

"There's room to run here, she says "but the main thing is they learn how to get along with other kids and make new friendships as they go."

Special events also emphasize the social aspect. Once during the two-week program, the young campers spend the night at Camp Sagonaska on the conservation site....they also are taken on a fifty mile out, their home area.

The camp is not meant to pay its way, Mr. Belch points out. Both the YMCA and the city subsidize the project, picking up any deficit at shutdown in mid-August. Without such an arrangement, he estimates, the registration fees might run to $25 — so high it would defeat the community - availability basis for the program.

Quiet interlude in camp activities see young Bellevillians taking recreation break on Moira River. Becky Holway, 19-year-old camp director, supervises craft work of Steve Goyer, (left), Scott Campbell, both 8, and Richard Watkins, 10.

Downtowners Frustrated Says Alderman Porter

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

According to Belleville alderman Roger Porter, downtown merchants may not be as wise shoppers as they are sellers.

The alderman says the downtowners aren't getting the most out of their city core, redevelopment dollars because the money — raised through a special tax levy on only the business section — "can't be spent."

He says $11,000 gathered through the special 15 per cent levy is sitting in the bank rather than being invested in downtown improvement projects.

Alderman Porter said the idea of turning the downtown into an improvement area some three years ago and has since acted as chairman of the board of management administering the funds.

Original plans for the money included planting of trees, regular and more frequent cleanup of the business section, placement of garbage containers and provision of more shopper parking. Invested to make the downtown, "a better place to shop."

So far — after the collection of $2,000 downtown tax dollars — courtesy nickels have been placed in parking meters for overdue shoppers, a handful of signs placed pointing shoppers to the downtown and 19 trees have been planted, which according to Alderman Porter "isn't good enough."

Two tax years have passed since the program began — bringing $25,000 each year into the board of management's coffers — but the biggest problem is spending it.

The money is rolling in but through problems in hiring, cooperation and manpower, the money is sitting in the bank.

"Some merchants aren't getting anything for their money," Ald. Porter said.

He said the board had an $11,000 surplus after Dec. 31. This was after the board gave $6,000 to the downtown merchants association for promotional purposes.

That $11,000 will be added to the $25,000 gathered this year and "we can't spend it," says the alderman.

Ald. Porter said through lack of time, co-operation or manpower," the money can't be spent.

Tree planting scheduled for this month is "jeopardized as city work crews are busy in other established parks and the $6,000 originally earmarked for this summer has been cut to $1,000 "provided a tree planting program can be started in the early fall," said Ald. Porter.

Ald. Porter's board of management also asked to go into a co-operative venture with the city's parking authority. The board proposed turning a metered parking lot on the river bank into an attendant lot.

The alderman predicts a $20,000 surplus this year — following the $2,000 grant to the Belleville Downtown Association, but says "there's nothing too much we can do."

"If there isn't time or manpower to get the work done, it will just have to be put on a smaller scale," he said.

But, "with surpluses like this, it will be pretty hard to get more money out of the merchants next tax time," he said.

Though sister boards in other communities look to Belleville's board of management as a progressive body, making headway, Mr. Porter says he is "frustrated."

"Maybe they should be looking for someone with a little more patience than I've got," he said.

"We're not producing — merchants aren't getting results for their money," he said.

Scholarship Winner

Glen Stratton (right), of RR 6, Belleville, was presented with an Ontario Agricultural College Alumni Foundation scholarship of $1,000 and an Alma Mater scholarship of $150 at the beginning of spring semester at the University of Guelph. The scholarship was presented by Neil Darrach, chairman of the 1974 Alma Mater Fund and executive vice-president of Continental Can Company.

Dundas Widening Delayed a Year

Because of delays in completion of required property acquisitions, reconstruction of Dundas Street East to four lanes between West Street and Bleecker Ave. will not get under way until early 1975.

"It is now the middle of July — and we have to be realistic. The work cannot go ahead this year," City Manager Wilbur Purcell said today.

Mr. Purcell said that although property acquisitions were now almost complete or the city had the right to enter properties, it would now be too late to call tenders and expect to get much more than a construction start this year.

Also, contractors are now busy and tender prices would be high.

"Costs are coming in terribly high" he said.

By waiting until next year with a tender call in March, and a construction start for May 1, it is hoped better prices would be obtained, and barring poor weather, the work could be completed in one season.

This week city council gave bylaw approval authorizing the purchase of one of the major properties required for the Dundas Street widening. The property being purchased is the 76' service station at the corner of Dundas and Dundas Streets at a cost of $8,000.

About 10 feet of the service station property is required for a turning lane but the reduced property width would leave the service station with too little room, so the city is purchasing the entire property.

Service station property not required for street widening will be sold by the city.

Electronic Control Rebuilding Delayed

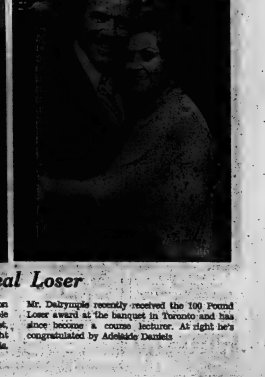
Delayed shipments of building materials are holding up progress on the reconstruction of Belleville's Electronic Controls plant.

Fire destroyed a large portion of the plant earlier last winter and company spokesman Raymond Heath — in charge of plant reconstruction — estimated it would cost about $50,000 to get back into the Hanna Street, northwest industrial park location.

Mr. Heath said local contractors have all been lined up to complete the reconstruction — the major holdup being the delivery of steel panels used in roof construction.

While the fire was retained in the back shop area by a firewall, office space at the front of the building has been stripped by vandals, said Mr. Heath.

According to the company official, "drywall has had been kicked through it, every door in the place has been broken and all the lock sets have been taken."



"Everything is going as well as expected," said Mr. Heath, referring to construction.

He said the company expects to move back into its building by the fall.

In the interim, the plant's parent company in the United States has been handling business commitments and "it will depend on how fast the business comes back when we will hire back the 30 employees displaced by the fire," said Mr. Heath.

"It's all up in the air," he said.

A Real Loser

Loser, in this contest, may be a contradiction of terms. Cedar Street resident Don Dalrymple has gained a lot more than the pounds he lost, made possible through counterweight, weight reduction program headed by Adelaide Daniels.

Mr. Dalrymple recently received the 100 Pound Loser award at the banquet in Toronto and has since become a course lecturer. At right he's congratulated by Adelaide Daniels.

Reds On Move

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cincinnati Reds built a 10-0 lead in the second inning. He and Joe Morgan each drove in two runs.

Jim Rooker collected eight hits and Ed Kirkpatrick drove in two runs as the Reds base-loaded single during a four-run third inning for the Pirates that erased a 2-1 Houston lead.

Billy Williams drove in two runs with a double and two singles for the Cubs, who have beaten Atlanta eight times in 11 tries this season.

San Diego overcame a 4-1 Philadelphia lead in the ninth, tying the game on back-to-back homers by Nate Colbert, Willie McCovey and Dave Winfield and winning it when Dave Roberts reached base on an error and Glenn Beckert and Bobby Tolan singled.

Two-run triples by Chris Arnold and Gary Maddox highlighted a six-run fifth inning for the Giants.

Kingston OFL All-star

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Burlington's Ancaster Provincers and Oshawa Tways will make up the bulk of the East and West divisions teams when the two Ontario Football League groups meet for their all-star game here Saturday.

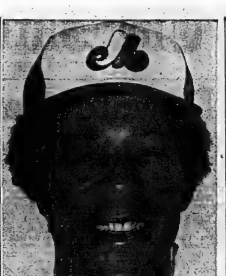
Burlington has six of the nine starters on the East Division team coached by Wilf Roberts of Newmarket while Oshawa coach Gerry Brooks will have four of his players in the West lineup.

The all-stars were selected by players, coaches and managers

Dukes Blank Woodstock 1-0

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London Dukes scored their only run on a delayed double-steal attempt in the seventh inning Tuesday to defeat Wgoodstock Warriors 1-0 in the four-team Football League game scheduled.

First baseman Bob Mogesch started the inning with a triple off losing pitcher Don Bester, 3-8. Bill Fairbairn, the next London batter, was hit by a pitch.



Fairbairn then took off for second base. The throw by catcher John Sibley caught Fairbairn but the relay back to the plate was not in time to get Mogesch.

Joe Adam raised his record to 3-3 in pitching a four-hitter. He struck out five.

London play resumes tonight with Toronto at Hamilton.

Bobrov Replaced

MOSCOW (AP) — Vsevolod Bobrov, who coached the Soviet hockey team to two world championships, has been replaced by Boris Kulagin, the news agency Tass announced Tuesday. No reason was given. Bobrov took over in 1972. The following year saw the team he coached capture the the world championship from Czechoslovakia and won again in the 1974 tournament. Kulagin was assistant coach for the Central Army club team and first assistant to Bobrov on the the national team.

Willie Davis – Five Base Hits

Yogi Adds Pitchers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger right-handers Andy Messersmith, 10-3, and reliever Mike Marshall, 11-4, were among eight National League pitchers named today by manager Yogi Berra, for next Tuesday's all-star baseball game at Pittsburgh.

Only Messersmith and Philadelphia left-hander Steve Carlton, 11-7, have been on previous all-star squads.

Messersmith was on the 1971 American League team but did not pitch. Carlton pitched in the 1965, 1969 and 1972 games and got credit for a 9-3 victory in 1969.

Other selections by Berra, the New York Met manager, were left-handers Ken Brett of Philadelphia Pirates, 11-6, and Jon Matlack of New York, 8-6, and right-handers Ross Grimes of Atlanta Braves, 9-4, Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis Cardinals, 12-5, and Steve Rogers of Montreal Expos, 10-10.

Expos Slip By Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Davis' fifth hit tied the game and Ken Singleton produced the game-winner with a sacrifice fly, giving Montreal Expos an 8-7 victory Tuesday night over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Davis singled home pinch-runner Rudy Day and sent Larry Lintz to third base. Singleton then hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Charlie Hough for the winning run.

Ken McMullen's two-run single capped a four-run eighth inning that gave the Dodgers a 7-6 lead. Ron Cey singled home the first run of the rally and Bill Russell walked with the bases loaded for the second run.

Steve Renko blanked the Dodgers on three hits for six innings and held a 5-0 lead at that point. But in the seventh, Los Angeles got four straight singles. Russell's hit with the bases loaded producing two runs. Pinch-hitter Manny Mota singled home a third run in the seventh.

Montreal had knocked out starter Don Sutton in a three-run second inning with a walk and successive singles by Davis, Singleton, Ron Fairly and Bob Bailey.

Coluccio Stirs Things Up

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Every time Bob Coluccio of Milwaukee Brewers stepped into the batter's box Tuesday night, things began to happen around him.

The first three times up, Coluccio singled, scored two runs and drove in a third as the Brewers edged Minnesota Twins 5-4 in an American League baseball game.

The fourth time up, he got in front of a pitch by Ray Corbin, touching off a brawl that one umpire said featured "at least eight good fights."

Corbin's pitch struck Coluccio in the head, dropping him to the dirt and knocking his helmet 10 feet away.

"Everyone was huddled around Coluccio," Corbin said later. "And the next thing I saw (John) Briggs and (George, Scott started after me before you knew it, things were out of hand."

Coluccio was out cold for several moments, but left the field under his own power. He was taken to hospital for precautionary x-rays.

Head umpire Bill Haller could have ejected almost everybody. Instead, he let everybody stay.

"We could have kicked out about 25 players," he said. "There were at least eight good fights. In fact, it was one of the better baseball brawls I've seen."

Even Corbin was allowed to continue. Plate umpire Merle Anthony described the inside pitch as a "fastball that moved in and Coluccio appeared ready frame."

Even managers Frank Quilici of Minnesota and Del Crandall of Milwaukee scuffled briefly.

In Tuesday's other games, California Angels clouted Cleveland Indians 11-2, Oakland A's clipped Baltimore Orioles 4-3, New York Yankees blanked Chicago Rangers 2-0, Kansas City Royals edged Boston Red Sox 6-5 and Chicago White Sox shelled Detroit Tigers 8-0.

Joe Lahoud hit a pair of two-run homers and Frank Tanana blanked the Indians in a six-inning relief stint as the Angels won their fifth in six times after losing their first 16 under new manager Dick Williams.

Rollie Fingers took over for Oakland starter Ken Holtzman and fanned Brooks Robinson with the tying run-in scoring position, then struck out two more in the ninth.

George Medich blanked the Rangers on five hits and Sandy Alomar and Bobby Murcer drove in third-inning runs as the Yankees banded 10-year-old David Clyde his seventh loss in a row.

Steve Busby struggled through the first three innings for Kansas City, giving up all four Boston runs, then shut out the Red Sox on three hits the rest of the way.

Jim Kaat allowed only two singles and Dick Allen, Bill Melton and Brian Downing each homered for the White Sox as they blanked the Tigers.

Howard and Robert Just Two Points Out

Rollins Construction lost their fourth game of the season, and third in a row in the Quinte Fastball League last night, dropping a 5-4 decision to Deveilin Motors, in what could be a costly loss.

Combined with a Howard and Robert Printing win in the second game, a 5-0 victory over Bardon Supplies, it leaves the Constructionmen just two points up on the Printers in their quest for their fourth straight pennant.

Rollins have 26 points on 13 wins, while Howard and Robert check in with 24 points on 11 wins and a pair of ties.

The win, meanwhile, moved Deveilin into a three way tie for third place in the six team loop, with 16 points. The Motormen are deadlocked with Augur's Men's Wear, and the Ellis Printing Juniors, although the other two teams have a game in hand.

The game was not exactly a pitcher's duel, with 24 hits pounded out in the contest, eight of those for extra bases.

And it took a three run rally in the bottom of the seventh to do it for the Motormen.

Down 4-3 going into their last bat, they came up with five base hits to push home the winning run. Don Hole, who started the rally off with a base hit, with Terry Meachor and Rick Rosebush adding singles, two outs later.

John Burnside then stepped in and crunched a double to left field, with Rick Rosebush adding another base hit. Darryl Kramp was the next and he broke the camel's back with a high bounder that went over Ted Walle's head on the Rollins' mound, down the centre for a single, scoring Rosebush to end the game.

Ron Hill started on the Deveilin rubber, going six and one-third innings. He was touched for 12 of the 14 Rollins' hits, striking out two and walking one. Hideway came in to end a rally, which produced one run in the sixth but left two on, allowing two hits. He walked one and did not record a strikeout.

Ken Demille was the starting hurler for-abe Constructionmen, lasting until Burnside came to the plate in the seventh, after the first three hits in the frame. He was tagged with the loss, giving up seven hits. He fanned six and walked none.

Ted Walle was not successful in relief, allowing two hits, including the game-winner. He faced only two batters.

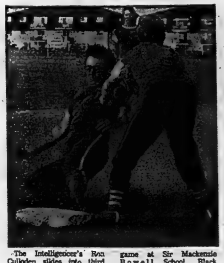
Dizzy Dean Dead at 64

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Dizzy Dean, an Arkansas farm boy, who pitched his way into baseball's Hall of Fame with a blazing fastball, died early today. He was 64.

Dean, who with his brother Paul formed a feared pitching duo known as the "Gashouse Gang" of St. Louis Cardinals in the 1930s, died at St. Mary's Hospital, two days after suffering a heart attack.

Rosebush was the top sticker for the winners, with a triple and single. Burnside had two doubles in four trips to the plate, with Meagher and Kramp each stroking two singles. Other hits went to Hill, Holowny, Jim Harwood, and Bruce Stickle.

Paul Goodfellow had a double and two singles for the losers, while Glen Carlton coming in with three base hits. Carl Boomhower had a double and single, with Wayne McTaggart, Demille, and Dave Lotz each stroking a double. Doug Dafoe rounded out the attack with a single.



A two bit shutout by Bob "Shad" Ethier highlighted the second game between the Printers and Bardon. The stocky southpaw had 18 strikeouts to add to his sparkling performance, walking two batters. Two fly balls and an infield out accounted for the other three outs in the game.

Jamie Hunter went the distance on the Bardon mound, allowing six hits. He fanned six and walked none.

Terry Pope scored both runs for the Printers, adding a triple and single to his already impressive .500 batting average. Alert baserunning by Pope stood out as well. He scored his second run from first base on a single to left.

Other hits by the winners, all singles, went to Mark Hughes, Wayne Woods, Bob Parsons, and Ethier.

Mark Coates and Ted Wallwork were the only Bardon hitters to reach Ethier, both connecting for singles.

The Intelligencer's Ron Culleden slides into third base to avoid the tag by Black Diamond's Bob Henderson in last night's game at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School. Black Diamond won the contest by an 8-3 margin.

Yardmen Stall Posties

The Belleville Yardmen took an important game in the Industrial Softball League last night, defeating the Post Office 3-1, in a game that took less than one hour to play at Queen Elizabeth School.

A win for the Post Office would have lifted them over the TWINmen into third place in the league's Western division, but CNR moved three points up with the win.

Barry Tamlin broke open the game with a three run homer in the top of the fourth, countering a 1-0 Post Office lead they had held since the second.

Tamlin knocked in Jerry Hill, and Martin Walsh with the blast. Both reached base with singles.

Warren Hay had the only other hit for the Yardmen, a double.

The Posties got five hits off winning chucker Wayne Casselman, but could manage only the single marker. Gord St. Louis had a triple to pace the losers, with Bob Whalyka adding a pair of base hits. Tom Wood and Norm Lockhart added the other base hits.

Casselman struck out two and did not walk a man in taking the win. Lockhart struck out six, but walked five in going all the way for the Post Office. He was touched for four hits.

In a battle of the division leaders, at CNRA Park, Brooks Bond came up with seven runs in the top of the third frame to dump the Lenders 9-7.

Tom St. Jules went the distance for the Bondmen, allowing six hits. He struck out four and walked one.

Mark Sheridan started for the Lenders, allowing no runs on one hit. He struck out one and walked three. Terry Murphy came on and was tagged with the loss. He allowed all nine runs on nine hits, he struck out eight and walked three.

Paul Sharp led the winners with a home run, with Ron Strafton and Lou Rivers each stroking three singles. St. Jules had a single to round out the attack.

In the other game in the league, Black Diamond defeated The Intelligencer, 8-1.

Jack Francis started for the Diamond crew, picking up the win. He went four and one-third frames, striking out two and walking none, giving up four hits. Ron Bateman came on to clean up, allowing one hit and fanning two in recording the save.

Reg Pearson gave up seven hits, taking the loss for the Printers. He worked three and two-thirds innings, walking one. Dave Feeney allowed only three hits in pitching the last three and one-third frames, striking out one.

Myles McDonnell had a perfect night at the plate for the winners, banging a home run and three singles in four trips. Rob Jones had three safeties, with Gene Francis adding a pair. Ralph Francis had a triple and single, with Bateman adding a single.

Fred Sickle produced a pair of home runs for the Intell, with Terry Hiddleston also connecting for a circuit blast. Other hits, both singles, went to Ron Culleden and Alan Tebworth.

Liggins Turns Ball Carrier

VANCOUVER (CP) — Granville Liggins romped 15 yards after recovering a blocked kick to give Toronto Argonauts a come-from-behind 21-18 victory Tuesday night over British Columbia Lions in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

Liggins, capping a fine game

at defensive tackle, blocked B.C. punter Eric Guthrie's attempted kick at the 18-yard line, picked up the loose ball and went into the end zone, shaking off Guthrie as he fell over the goal-line.

Tenor Andruniykyn added the convert and the Argonauts were back in the lead for the first time since early in the opening quarter.

In the first quarter, the Argonauts had taken a 7-0 lead, when starting quarterback Mike Rae threw a 30-yard pass to wide receiver Mike Eben. Andruniykyn converted. Lions had the game before the end of the quarter on a 14 - yard pass from Guthrie to Brock Aynsley.

Andruniykyn added field goals from the 28-and 37-yard lines and got a point on a wide field goal attempt to round out the Toronto scoring.

Ivan MacMillan converted Aynsley's score and added field goals from 18 and 28 yards and singles on wide field goals from 31 and 39 yards.

The Lions led 11-7 at half-time and 14-11 at the end of the third quarter.

A crowd of only 15,835 turned out and watched a lackluster game with both teams hampered by rain that fell during the contest.

Rae went most of the way at quarterback for the Argonauts with backup Sonny Shirley seeing action only in the third quarter and part of the fourth.

The Argonauts also used running backs Cleo Hause, Doyle Orange and Ed Shuttleworth.

The Lions rolled up 397 yards in total offence, 225 of them by passing. The Argonauts totalled 256 yards, 134 by running.

Shuttleworth carried 11 times for 58 yards for Argos. His longest gain was 17 yards on the opening play from scrimmage.

Ready for Hockey?—Let Floyd Know

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

There may be some disappointed hockey players in the Quinte area within the next few days.

That summer hockey league being organized by Floyd Crawford is almost upon us.

But many of those who have shown an interest in the program have not confirmed their intentions with Crawford.

Time is running out.

The Tam O'Shanter Hockey School opens Sunday, at Trenton Community Gardens.

Floyd would like to get the evening hockey league started Monday, July 26.

There was good reaction, initially, but many of those who called have neglected to follow up," explained Crawford earlier this week.

It's the same old story. Keep putting it off and chances are the opportunity will slip by.

Some planning must go into formation of leagues. That will take time.

"It looks as if we'll have three and possibly four categories for league play," advised Crawford.

"I realize people are busy at this time of year. Holidays and summer sports take up a great deal of time. But there are those who have players lined up for teams and they've just neglected to let us know.

"If an individual has a team ready to go, we have to know about it. This is the last week before things get rolling so the time to call is now.

Floyd may be reached in the evenings at 962-6776.

The ice has been in at Trenton for some time now.

There is time available in the evenings and Crawford feels it's an excellent opportunity for hockey players to begin preparing for the 1976-77 season.

Lions Top Realtors 11-6

Thurlow Keith Realtors couldn't come up with a base hit when it counted most, Tuesday and went down to an 11-6 defeat at the hands of Peterborough Lions in an Eastern Ontario Baseball Association Midget contest.

Three times Thurlow left the bases loaded. A total of 18 Realtor errors didn't help either.

Rob Peters got the win, striking out 10 while allowing seven hits. Ted Foster was charged with the loss on a five-hitter.

Dale Harrison banged three Thurlow singles and Brad Sullivan had a pair. Foster Doubled and Varley Vader punched a single.

BYBF Chalks Up Win

The Belleville Yardmen, behind the four hit pitching of Sue Morton, romped to a 20-3 victory over Belleville Broadloom in the only scheduled game in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League last night.

Morton struck out two and walked one in taking the win, their 14th of the season, leaving them two points back of league leading Prurisaccites, who hold a game in hand.

Mary Anne Sills went six innings for the Broadloom team. She struck out one and walked two Norma Fuller threw the last inning, not giving up a hit, while striking out one and walking one.

Penny Hughes led the way at the plate for BYBF, slugging a pair of home runs, a triple, and two singles. Sheila Smith had a four bagger, two double and a single, with Joyce McFarlane adding a double and two singles.

Mary Reid had a double and single, with Sue Morton connecting four times for safties. Judy Rappell and Donna Lorne each had three singles with Sharon Alexander and Wendy Cortay both collecting a pair. Shirley Gulliver rounded out the barrage with a lone base hit.

Chris Smith had a home run and single for Broadloom, with Norma Fuller and Linda Cole each striking a single.

Pre-qualifying Round For Canadian Open

TORONTO (CP) — About 120 golfers, including almost all professionals, will have to pre-qualify to reach the qualifying round of the $200,000 Canadian earned exemption open championship at Mississauga Golf and Country Club July 25-28.

It is the first time the Canadian Open has employed a pre-qualifying round. Bruce Forbes, executive director of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, said Forbes said the RCGA-sponsored pre-qualifying round Monday at Toronto Golf Club

Excluded from playing at Lakeview will be the top 20 money winners from the 1971 Canadian Open from the PGA's Tournament Players' Division and 12 more who have been given to the CPGA for use on the Canadian pro circuit. Veteran amateurs Gary Cowan and Nick Weslock get two more.

U.S. pro Don Bies, who Forbes said has been a strong supporter of the Canadian Open, gets another, leaving five spots to fill.

The pre-qualifying round is to be played Friday, July 21, at Lakeview with the top 20 per cent of the field advancing to the qualifying round. Bruce Forbes, executive director of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, said Forbes said the RCGA-sponsored pre-qualifying round Monday at Toronto Golf Club

Excluded from playing at Lakeview are members of the U.S. Open from the PGA's Tournament Players' Division and 12 more who have been given to the CPGA for use on the Canadian pro circuit. Veteran amateurs Gary Cowan and Nick Weslock get two more.

U.S. pro Don Bies, who Forbes said has been a strong supporter of the Canadian Open, gets another, leaving five spots to fill.

Lyle Takes Jimmy Ellis

DENVER (AP) — Ron Lyle staggering his much lighter opponent with repeated combinations, scored a unanimous decision over Jimmy Ellis in a 12-round heavyweight bout Tuesday night.

Lyle won the fight 59-55, 58-55 and 58-56 in the judges' scoring.

Ellis, a former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, never really got untracked in the fight except for the ninth round. He hurt Lyle with a left-right combination to the head, but Lyle hung on.

Lyle's record is now 20-1-1. Ellis is 39-10-1.

ONE SUNNY DAY — Joan Alexander.

In an isloated house on the treacherous north coast of Cornwall, a young man carefully locks all the doors and then turns the key to open a room that has been closed for ten years, since the day of his hated father's sudden death Timothy has planned this day very carefully, and his plan includes his mother Susan who watches him constantly, his attractive cousin, Anne, who is hopelessly in love with him, Lucy the little cleaning girl from the village, and Amanda the golden haired girl who is the object of his obsessive affection, and to whom he embarrassed with him. On this sunny day Timothy plans to bring them altogether in a bizarre fashion, but his plans go astray. This is a suspense novel to keep you reading until the last page.

IN CONNECTION WITH KILSHAW — Peter Driscoll.

Set in Northern Ireland, as Ireland about to burst into civil war, war the authorities in London want to stop at any cost. A former army intelligence officer is recruited to discredit the leader of the ultra-extremist group, Kilshaw. But in the strife and bitterness of present day Northern Ireland, nothing is quite what it seems, and lives are expendable. Harry Flinn had undertaken many dangerous assignments and knew that in the double - dealing and betrayal of his undercover life, his life was most expendable. The pace, ingenuity and suspense of this novel is reminiscent of John Le Carre at his best.

THE VOYAGE UNPLANNED — Frank Yerby.

This is Frank Yerby's 25th novel and has all the ingredients of his previous books; vivid characterization, passion, engrossing plot and remarkable insight into modern history. The story begins during World War II in France, John Farrow gets the French resistance forces and meets and falls in love with Simone Levy. During the last days of the war, Simone disappears after being tortured by the Nazis. Twenty years later, Farrow begins his search for Simone, and is caught up in another conflict, this time between the Arabs and the Jews. His search is also a personal one for his true heritage and a definition of courage. This is a novel about the great events of our time, and yet is touchingly intimate in depicting the personal struggle for self-fulfillment and love.

THE HALF - SISTERS — Cynthia Propper Seton.

Erica and Billy became half-sisters as the result of the marriages of an irresponsible father; spending a few of their childhood summers together. They were complete opposites and soon lost touch with each other until the day came when they discovered they were both in love with the same man. They have passed forty when next they meet for another summer at their beloved country home, each sister has long since formed and been formed by her own sort of world. This novel deals with the moral quandaries into which women may find they have been thrown these last few years in regard to marriage and children.

Quebec Students Here

Thirteen students from Quebec will be staying in the Belleville area until July 25 as part of a student exchange program with area students.

The program, now in its 18th year, is sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and is designed to promote bilingualism and multiculturalism in Canada.

Twelve of the Quebec students arrived here July 11 following a two-week stay by Belleville and area students at the homes of their Quebec counterparts.

The Belleville students taking part in the exchange are: Brenda Fisk, Joanne Theresa Kirby, Lori Lark, Joanne McMullen, Rhonda Smith, Cindy Sobden, Debbie Lynn Thrasher and Clarice Marcella Vanderveide.

The Belleville area student's involved are: Thelma Chapman of Frankford, Janet Hotton and Kathy Inkeep of Brighton, Carol Morris of Corbyville and Susan Schibalan of Carrying Place.

MEMO FROM HELEN GAGEN, CONSUMER ADVISOR MIRACLE FOOD MART

FOR HEALTHY SUMMER EATING

Perishables need extra care in warm, humid weather. Here are hints to protect health during hot months:

Use foods containing meat, poultry, eggs, fish, soups, milk, or salad dressing with egg or milk within 2 hours of preparation — or refrigerate at once. Such foods should be held at temperatures below 40 or above 140 degrees F.

Refrigerate leftovers within an hour of serving. When re-using, eat them cold or re-heat quickly and thoroughly. Boil broths or gravies.

Lunches prepared the previous night must be refrigerated overnight. Small cans of frozen juice or frozen sandwiches in the lunch box act as refrigerants, and thaw by serving time.

Buy ready-to-eat barbecued chicken very hot, and keep them hot or refrigerate quickly.

Keep all working surfaces meticulously clean. Avoid handling food when you have a cut or cough.

Tiny Tim Back Plugging Songs of Forgotten Era

WINNIPEG (CP) — After more than 20 years of rejection, public ridicule, a nationally-televised marriage now on the skids and continued rumors of being "ripped-off" for nearly $1 million, Tiny Tim is back where he started—plugging the songs and recording artists of an all-but-forgotten era.

During his struggle to gain greater recognition for melodies long put on a shelf to gather dust with fleeting memories of old composers, Tiny Tim was in the spotlight only briefly.

At the pinnacle of his success in 1968 and '69, the Manhattan-born pop singer of Polish-Lebanese extraction wedded his way into the hearts of the under-14, owned throughout the world with trembling, falsetto-voiced renditions of old Rudy Vallee-Russ Colombo standards.

Following the phenomenal success of his high-pitched Tip-toe Through the Tulips, Herbert Buckingham Khaury tip-toed through an Alice in Wonderland marriage televised on the Johnny Carson Show, the subsequent birth of a daughter, Tulip Victoria, now three years old, managerial changes, lawsuits and between $800,000 and $1 million.

But he refuses to blame anyone for the loss of his fortune and holds no bitterness for the plunge back into relative obscurity.

"I think what's important is just being there the first time," he said. "It was such a fantastic miracle."

After being thrown out of high school and being forced to find a job, young Khaury ("The reason I never give my age is because I'm trying to forget it") tried his hand at singing.

Through countless amateur shows and various Greenwich Village appearances with fellow then-unknowns Bill Cosby, Bob Dylan, Joan Baez and Phil Ochs, he drew occasional titters and hoots because of his high voice and long hair, but nonetheless pounded the doors of The Pan Alley record companies twice a year for more than 10 years.

"I had long hair then and if I went every day, they'd have thrown me out, so I spaced my moves—Jan. 15 and Sept. 15—just when they came back from the New Year and just when they came back from vacation.

The name Tiny Tim was the creation of one of his managers in 1961 and has stuck ever since although the manager sued unsuccessfully in 1971 for $1 million plus interest.

"He found I had nothing and couldn't get anything so that was it."

His wife, the former Victoria May Budinger of Hadderville, N.J., left him for the second time in January and although the singer denies she took money from him, the rumors persist.

Tiny Tim doesn't travel with a big revue any more, only a musical conductor and road manager. And instead of headlining music festivals and being mobbed in public, he performs mostly in cabaret one-night stands—but his spirit is not broken.

A deeply religious man, never far from a Bible which he often carries in a coat pocket even during performances, he says he doesn't believe in divorce and although a divorce application may be accepted, "this Tiny" will remain his wife in spirit "until death do us part."

"I never wanted to marry . . . but there is a saying our Father who art in heaven, thy will be done . . . and thought that if it's for me to marry, fine.

There's a lot of people probably more religious than I am who never made it. Everyone has a place here on this earth. I feel there's something more to be done, but what that is I don't know. In a sense I'm still a messenger."

His career now is basically the same as when he first was breaking into show business.

"I'm still trying to get out the great songs that have been lost and forgotten as well as the names of the singer like Benny Burr and Billy Murray who I feel have not got their place in the true history of the American record-making. I'm trying to plug the songs and the artists and give them their rightful place."

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, July 18

Aries (March 21-April 19) Your generosity is likely to be imposed upon by one to whom you will give a hand. He won't be satisfied until he has your arm.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) An idea that you have looks very promising on the drawing board. It still has a lot of flaws to be worked out before trying it.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Manage your material affairs wisely now and you are going to come out ahead. If you don't, you will have a big deficit to fill.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) If you don't do things on schedule it's unlikely you will do them at all. Delays give you doubts that are hard to overcome.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) Be very selective as to whom you give sensitive information to. The wrong confidant will misuse what you tell him.

Virgo (Aug. 24 - Sept. 22) It would be a mistake at this time to count upon one who is friendly toward you to pull strings in an area where he can't deliver.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will willingly respond to your directives only if you issue your requests in a congenial manner. Being bossy won't cut it.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It is best you lay everything out in the open in dealings with others. Hard feelings will result if they think you are holding back.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is a little warning for you at this time. Don't become too involved with a person of questionable reputation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Bear in mind, teamwork is only effective if both parties pull together. Be sure your goal is in harmony with your partner's.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not the time to make changes in procedures that have proven their worth and reliability, for something as yet untried.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be luckier and your dealings will go more smoothly if you tackle your big tasks early in the day. Later, confusion set in.

BIRTHS

KAUFMANN—Raymond and Christine (nee Getty) of Pontypool are happy to announce the birth of their daughter Jessica Ann, on Saturday, July 13, 1974 at the Belleville General Hospital. A little sister for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaufmann, Mr. Bancroft. A special thank you to Dr. Hamilton and the nursing staff at the Belleville General Hospital.

MILLER — Brian and Annette are pleased to announce the birth of a son, Ian Robert, July 14, 1974, at Belleville General Hospital.

SNUDEN — Brian and Lynn Snuden are happy to announce the birth of their first child, Ashley Marie, on Friday, July 12, 1974 at Belleville General Hospital, a granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Bill Snuden, Bancroft, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Archibald, Kaladar. A special thank you to Dr. Hamilton, Miss Allen and the nurses and all the nurses on Fifth.

IN MEMORIAM

ELDER — In loving memory of a dear son, Ian Robert, who passed away July 27, 1971.
Sweet memories are all I have
Wonderful memories of a loving boy
Who departed, the strongest, the best, and left the school of life with honour
With the answer he knew his time was near
His struggle he showed deep as a personality.
He bravely, in sorrow by the strife,
While beside him kneeled or hopes and prayer
Unexcelled stood a quiet of life
God heard all about in love noble,
Then gently closed his eyes and whispered that his trouble forever
To rest him to sleep in his grave.
God knew all about him and how he suffered
So he knew the trial must be.
And right through it God knew best.
Nothing known so much before than sorrow.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Mom, Dad and Dad.

CHAPMAN — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Alma, who passed away July 17, 1973.
Treasured memories of one so dear
Treasured still with a love sincere.
Memories kept alive by kindness and love.
—Inserted by daughter Olive and grandson-in-law Gerry.

SMITH — In loving memory of a dear mother, Nancy Smith, who passed away July 17, 1965.
There is a soul but never rests
Where the heart is true
There is a home of kindness
Memories of one so dear
And it remains forever
—Now remembered by daughter Olive and grandson-in-law Gerry.

SMITH — In loving memory of a dear mother, Nancy Smith, who passed away July 17, 1965.
Sweet memories are all I have
Wonderful memories of one so dear
Memories still with a love sincere.
Memories kept alive by kindness and love.
—Inserted by daughter Olive and daughter-in-law Gerry.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my family, friends and neighbours for the cards, flowers and visits while a patient at Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Hamilton, Dr. Bell, Dr. Bancroft, Dr. Fleur, Carrie, Verna and Edwina and the nursing staff on Third floor.
Stanley Coon.

The family of the late Percy Archibald wish to express sincere appreciation to all those who expressed sympathy in any way during our recent sad loss. Special thanks to those serving the recent bereavement, to Rev. Wright, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Reid

WE SELL YOU A BETTER CAR AT A BETTER PRICE

A new or used car must operate superbly from day one. You must have indefinite trouble-free miles. This is the only measure of our success. It begins in our free-delivery 'make-ready' where every engine component and body unit is meticulously inspected and tested. This work is performed at our expense to safeguard your car investment and our reputation. It ends with more money in your pocket.

Makarios Flies to UN

Britain Will Refuse To Recognize Junta

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Armed with promises of British support, Archbishop Makarios flew to New York today, to ask the United Nations to condemn the Greek military junta for the coup that overthrew him.

He told reporters he had British aid's assurance that it will not recognize the new military regime on Cyprus.

"I was very satisfied with the talks I have had with the prime minister and the secretary of state," the bearded archbishop said of his meetings with Harold Wilson and Jaems Callaghan, the British foreign ministers.

"I found a great degree of understanding and I appreciate the British attitude on the situation the people of Cyprus."

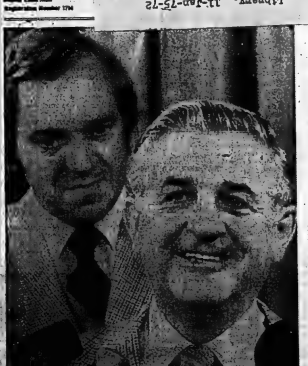
"I appreciate their assurances that under no circumstances will they attempt to recognize the so-called new regime imposed by the junta of Greece upon th people of Cyprus."

The archbishop was expected to appear before the UN Security Council on Friday.

Meanwhile, small-power members of the council were circulating a proposed resolution reported to call for the withdrawal from Cyprus of the Cyprus National Guard's Greek officers who led the coup. It also expressed opposition to annexation of the island by Greece, which is believed to be the object of the coup.

While Makarios pressed his personal crusade, Britain and the United States were trying to ease the threat of an armed confrontation between Greece and Turkey. Even though both the easternmost members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had put their armed forces on emergency alerts, American military officials in Washington said they believe an armed clash between the two ancient enemies is unlikely.

President Nixon sent state undersecretary Joseph Sisco to London today for talks with British and Turkish officials. But in contrast to the British government's assurance to Makarios that it considered him the only legitimate president of Cyprus, the state department said the situation was unclear "and therefore, in our view, the question of recognition does not arise now."



Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit brought his defence and interior ministers to London, conferred late Wednesday night with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Foreign Secretary James Callaghan, and prepared to fly back to Ankara today for an emergency session of the Turkish parliament. There was no indication of what the Britain told him they would do to prevent the 115,000 Turkish Cypriots being brought under the Greek rule.

No more fighting was reported on Cyprus. The rebellious National Guard and its Greek officers apparently were in full control, and the international airport at Nicosia, the island's capital, reopened today to regular traffic for the first time since the outbreak of fighting.

The Cypriot rebels were reported building new defences along the northern coast against attack from southern Turkey, 61 miles away. Reports from Turkey said 50,000 Turkish troops had been ordered to the south coast.

Reports to the U.S. defence department said the Turks had armed some of their F100 fighter-bombers based in southern Turkey and put the pilots on a one-hour alert. Naval movements also were reported along the southern coast. But officials in Washington interpreted this as a demonstration of concern for the safety and welfare of the Turkish minority on Cyprus. The minority lives in enclaves separated by United Nations forces from the Greek Cypriot majority and was not affected by the fighting.

U.S. officials acknowledged, however, that there might be some trouble if Greece or Turkey tried to reinforce the military garrisons of fewer than 1,000 men each that they maintain on Cyprus.

Rebels Hunting Leftists

NICOSIA (Reuter) — Greek Cypriot rebels say they have taken effective control over their Mediterranean island and launched a manhunt for left-wing and pro-Makarios politicians.

More than 1,000 people already have been arrested since Sunday's abortive coup.

Soldiers began house-to-house searches in Nicosia and other towns Wednesday.

All but token resistance to the new regime of Nikos Sampson soon ended with the fall of Paphos, the last stronghold of Archbishop Makarios on the west coast of the island.

Shooting reported today in the countryside, but the regime's new information chief, Spyros Papageorghiou, told reporters: "The shots you hear are merely the rejoicing of national guardsmen. Our revolution is a complete success and there is no organized resistance."

Papageorghiou's predecessor, Minister Georghios Georghiou, arrested Wednesday. He was one of the closest colleagues and closest advisers and an outspoken opponent of the Greek junta in Athens.

Barbara Lysarides, the American wife of a prominent Makarios confidant, Dr. Vasos Lysarides, was captured in a mountain village. She is well known here as a writer and journalist.

Her husband still being sought. Both worked for the Centre Union party of Cyprus.

Glafkos Clerides, chief negotiator for Archbishop Makarios with the island's Turkish minority, was one of the first arrested. He was later freed but is being kept under close surveillance.

Papageorghiou said: "All arrested will receive humane treatment—the days of tyranny are over."

'Discipline' Forecast By Spinola

LISBON (AP) — Tougher and more decisive government appeared to be in store for Portugal today as military men took over several cabinet posts, including the key ministries of interior, labor and information.

"The political life of the country is going to go through a new phase of discipline," President Antonio de Spinola said in a statement broadcast Wednesday night in which he announced the new cabinet headed by Col. Vasco Goncalves as premier.

Although nine of the 16 cabinet members are civilians, including the heads of the Communists and Socialist parties, it was apparent that the shape of about 300 young officers who overthrew the heirs of the Salazar dictatorship on April 25 here was going to dominate the day-to-day operations of the government.

Rebels Hunting Leftists

MIAMI (AP) — A young abortionist was paid $50,000 ransom by his wealthy boss shot the executive and his wife to death then phoned "to shoot!" before surrendering to authorities, the FBI said.

Slain Wednesday were Sydney Gans, 64, the owner of a prosperous paper bag company, and his 60-year-old wife, Lillian, who had been held hostage by the gunman. Authorities said the man taken into custody was an employee of Gans' firm, but they knew of no animosity between the two.

Police arrested Thomas Knight, 23, of Miami, and charged him with two counts of first-degree murder.

The special agent in charge, Ken Whitaker said Gans went to a bank to get the money demanded by the kidnapper after he was struck for his wife.

Gans told the bank president his wife was being held by a gunman, and the bank officer called the FBI who rushed to the scene.

Whittaker said Gans told him his wife was forcing the lock in the couple's car while the gunman held a semi-automatic carbine to her head.

Gans placed the $50,000 in a paper bag and then picked up by the abductor and Mrs. Gans. They later drove to Gans' home followed.

Mrs. Gans was forced to drive in a lonely wooded area in southwest Miami. The abductor then shot each in the head and fled into the underbrush as police and agents closed in on him, authorities said.

Two hundred law officers used helicopters, a small plane, tracker dogs and tear gas to flush the gunman from his swampy hideout five hours later.

Police Sgt. Russ Kubik, almost stepped on a man as his investigator patrol edged its way through waist-high weeds after hearing tear gas grenades fired into the undergrowth.

"He was borrowed into sandy soil on his side," said Kubik. "I thought he might be dead. But I put my gun to his head and said, 'Get up, put your hands up.'"

"Don't shoot!" the man cried. Police said they found nearby the $50,000 in ransom and a gun.

Yeti Yanks Yaks From Sherpa Girl

KATMANDU (Reuter) — A 18-year-old yak herder in the Everest region of Nepal has encountered an abominable snowman. It was reported here.

Police said the girl claimed that after she raised consciousness she saw the Yeti kill five of her yaks by breaking their legs by their horns and twisting.

The young woman said the snowman was about the feet tall and had thick black hair on the waist and brownish hair above. She said it had long fingernails on thick fingers and sometimes walked on all four limbs and sometimes on its hind feet.

Officials are attempting to verify her story by finding footprints, which she said she marked off with stones.

Hospital Technologists Seek Salary Parity With Nurses

TORONTO (CP) — About 400 Toronto hospital technologists signed with the 60,000-member Canadian Association of Radiologists (CSAO) following two meetings Wednesday night called to discuss the technicians' demands for wage parity with nurses, CSAO members.

At one meeting, Wilfred Peel said he attributed the large turnout to the 45-to 50-per-cent pay increase now enjoyed by 10,000 Ontario nurses by a newly formed union.

He said the technologists, who have generally been paid about the same wages as nurses, fear they will fall behind if they do not unionize.

"It's a question of economic self-defence," Peel said. "These people don't buy the eggs the mechanics of the profit movement, but they want the nuts and bolts."

At the other meeting, about 250 x-ray technologists were told that they might find themselves helping to pay for the nurses' increase rather than getting parity.

Richard Harmse, an instructor at the Toronto Institute of Medical Technology, told the technicians that "if the hospitals have to cut back, you are going to be the people affected."

The settlement Monday night averted a province-wide nurses' strike due to begin at midnight that Monday. Such a strike by the nurses would be illegal under the Ontario Hospital Labor Disputes Arbitration Act.

However, nurses at 14 Ontario hospitals still are locked into old contracts and one, Peterborough Civic, the 400 registered nurses voted Wednesday to go on strike by Aug. 1 if the administration does not agree to reopening contract talks.

Administrators of seven other hospitals in the province have not signed the memorandum of agreement for the new contract although nurse representatives from those hospitals did sign it.

Anne Gribbon, spokesman for the RNAO, said the seven hospitals will be given until Aug. 1 to ratify the contract.

"If they don't have their nurses free to do what is necessary," she said.

Better Than Printing

Jim MacLean, 25, and his wife Madonna, flew to Montreal Wednesday to collect $500,000 they won in the second Olympic Lottery draw. MacLean, a printer who makes $155 a week, plans to pay bills and then take his wife and 3-month-old daughter to Nova Scotia where he will enrol in university. (CP Photo)

Tweed, Hungerford to Return Funds

Storm Aid Back to Donors

TWEED — This village is returning money donated for storm relief and neighboring Hungerford township has also decided not to organize a help fund.

Because local government appears the hardest hit by the July 9 windstorm damage in Tweed, village municipal finances will suffer dislocation, indicates Reeve Barbara Allen.

Council will absorb the losses in current budgeting.

"We have a good contingency fund, but it will ruin all of our good financial planning," said Reeve Allen.

It will take several years to rebuild the fund again, she said.

Most serious personal losses in the windstorm which hit this area July 9 were believed incurred by farmers in Hungerford.

Several barns, silos, outbuildings, fences and crops were damaged. Many of the rural residents hit by loss had insurance, perhaps inadequate but sufficient to ease problems, indicated Rev. William McCrea.

Organizing and disbursing a relief fund also could mean a complicated task in deciding who qualifies for how much. If an appeal was answered by insufficient funds it would mean "going through the whole exercise for nothing" said the reeve.

"We received only one donation and we will return it."

Reeve Allen said about $1,000 had been subscribed to help both municipalities offset financial losses caused by the storm.

But village council has decided justifying division of donations between the two municipal neighbors would also present difficulties. The funds will be returned to the donors, said Reeve Allen.

The village government has incurred the biggest single expense of the storm. Clearing of trees from village streets and repairs to damaged public utilities are seen as major cost items for the village.

For the moment Tweed will have to wait until there is a clear picture of how much clean-up there is to be done.

"We don't know how much cleanup of brush and fallen trees will be handled by the individual home owner," said the reeve.

4 Injured in 401 Crash As Car Hits Rock Cut

NAPANEE — A one-car accident a half-mile east of the Palace Road interchange on Highway 401 at Napanee sent four young Montreal men to hospital early today.

The car was in the westbound lane about 5:30 a.m. when it left the highway, struck the north shoulder and crossed the road to hit a rock-cut.

Two of the occupants were trapped in the car for an hour as police, passing truckers, and a tow truck crew struggled to free them from the wreckage of their vehicle. Napanee firemen and a town physician stood by until the men were released.

Taken to Lennox and Addington Memorial Hospital here were Andre Blais, 18, with internal and right arm injuries, and Leo Grenier, 21, with a lacerated chin and spinal injuries. Transferred to Kingston General Hospital were Gabriel Rolfes, 20, with fractures in both legs and Joy Desjardin, 19, with head injuries.

Youth Helps Elderly, Disabled In Prince Edward OFY Project

PICTON — Four Prince Edward County girls are participating this summer in the Opportunities For Youth Section service program.

Sponsored by the provincial government the Stat-In Service, known as SIS is a group of girls providing services to the elderly and disabled.

From their Main Street office here they "mainly" on call eight hours a day, five days a week, to assist people in household chores the elderly or disabled cannot accomplish themselves. These tasks include shopping gardening, laundry, cooking and painting SIS also takes people on outings in the area.

Participating in the program this summer in Prince Edward County are Joanne Ritter, Darlene Storms ,Pamela Barrett and Jennifer Hall. All four girls are in their teens or early twenties — feel that by providing a service not offered elsewhere, they are providing considerable help to the seniors and disabled of the county.

Explained a SIS spokesman "The people who call in requesting the assistance of SIS have their work done free of charge. The girls charge no fee since they are paid by the government.

There is no age limit for participation in SIS, and the four girls were selected through application forms. The Opportunities For Youth committee selects those from the applications whom they will most aid the residents of a given area.

Crime Is Rudely Interrupted

PICTON — Passersby interrupted what would be third early today as he attempted a burglary through the smashed side window of Bill's Dairy Store at Main and Bowery Streets here.

Picton police said nothing was stolen in the 12:05 a.m. theft attempt.

Police, called to the scene, were "just a minute too late" to intercept the culprit, said a spokesman for the department.

The Invaders Are Moths

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — An invasion by corn borers might result in a full-scale infestation by about two weeks, Harry Wressell, a chief entomologist formerly with the department of agriculture, said Wednesday.

Mr. Wressell said the large number of moths now being reported in a Lethbridge, Alta., light trap could be the first evidence of a build-up resulting from a low charged Wednesday with insecticide in combatting tornadoes and cereal crop diseases.

Museum to Continue Program of Specials

PICTON — The Prince Edward County museum here is continuing its series of special displays throughout the remainder of this month and next month.

Several county residents have already exhibited their displays of crafts and hobbies, including a weaving demonstration by the Northerners of Cherry Valley and a wax cylinder phonograph and record collection by Whitney Durand of Picton.

July 20 and 21, Bert Robinson, Picton, will give a demonstration of jewelry, including sanding, grinding and polishing gem stones.

Tentatively scheduled for Aug. 14 and 15 is a quilting demonstration headed up by Mrs. Norman Kerr, Big Island. About eight other quilting enthusiasts will also participate.

Ricochet Brings Ban

TRENTON — David Claud Rogers, 20, of 38 College st., Trenton, was convicted in provincial court Wednesday of dangerous use of a firearm and given two years probation.

Judge R. R. Baxter told Rogers he must not own or possess a firearm during the probation period.

Rogers pleaded guilty to a charge arising from a June 25 incident in which he used a .22 calibre gaspowered revolver for target practice in his College Street backyard.

Crown Attorney Glenn Hanna told the court a shot fired from the revolver ricocheted from the target and narrowly missed a neighbor, Harold Loveless.

Wins Award For Driving

MARYSVILLE — For the third year in succession, Mac Tucker, RR1, Marysville, won the annual safe driving award for the Kingston District of the transportation and communications ministry.

He received a trophy and cheque for $50 from district engineer Vern Snell and will represent the district at finals to be held at Downsview in September.

There were 94 competitors. Mr. Tucker has been employed with the Ministry for 13 years, at the patrol yard here.

Gets Go-ahead

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Provincial officials said Wednesday the Ontario cabinet has sanctioned the lone, object blocking construction of a proposed multi-million dollar Petrosar plant near here.

The objection was filed by James Clarkson of Mooretown, Ont., during the 30-day appeal period granted when the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) approved Petrosar's construction proposal June 11.

Petrosar was not informed an objection had been lodged, however, until the 30-day period lapsed.

Merchants Take To Sidewalk

PICTON — Town merchants here are taking to the outdoors this week in a special sidewalk sale.

Commencing Thursday morning and ending Saturday evening, the event will be similar to one held last year at this time. The event is expected to coincide with the tourist season. It is expected that many tourists as well as the local public will be taking advantage of the special bargains offered.

Refreshments are expected to be for sale on the streets and some merchants are scheduling contests and games.

A Capital City Like No Other

Take Away The Bureaucracy and Ottawa Is 'Small-Town'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — While they are sorting it out and shaking it down, let's look at the National Capital.

This is where those $28 billion are lined out of you for federal spending.

It is two cities of 500,000 where you have and your MP has his best chance that all those billions are spent wisely.

Scarcely anyone living below his bootons has a good word to say for it.

To hear both the visiting taxpayers who detour to reach their off-the-beat-traffic-path — place, and the itinerant reporters types from cities just about anywhere else in the country, it is cold-style, voluptuously, a capital like no other.

They resent its power, are appalled by the wasteful ways of its administrative establishment, ridicule it as remote from the rest of the land, and isolated, even insulated from the taxpayers who pour in those billions in taxes to keep it in business.

They concede it is lovely, if hot and humid, as no other place in Canada, during its short June-through-August Summer, and regard it as pretty much a tourist in the backcold, snowbound Winter.

Only the permanent residents — the people who have been here for years and years like it.

But not so much that those who can afford the air ticket and the bed and board do not all try to escape a few of the savage Winter weeks to Florida, the Caribbean or the Mediterranean.

So who is right, the passers-through, or the locals?

Well, perhaps both.

Ottawa — and now, remember, it has been decreed to be a bilingual city — becomes the Ottawa River with a booming tantrum about on the Quebec side — is half capital city, and half, as overdrawn English-French, two-province small city.

Small, certainly, in comparison to Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, but so small slacked up against lesser centres.

But small in self-centered confinement. Like a cocoon.

For the first-time parliamentarian and the tourist it is a place of vivid contrast.

The tax loot of the land has been poured in with hundreds of millions — over the years it has to be billions — best here to erect the kits of federal buildings, lace the region with manicured parkways, and fatten the federal payroll.

This is head office to the nation's biggest business — government — and so it is very much the bureaucracy town.

It is supposed to be representative of all of Canada, but is typical of none of it.

It is both headquarters and home for 100,000 of those career-300,000 public servants.

Those 100,000 are the decision-makers and their rank and file support staff for the other 400,000 out there where the taxpayers live.

Here government is everything.

Take it suddenly all away, and left would be little old Ottawa, an exceedingly small Colonial city on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River, and then a shabby, poverty-blighted little town across and still town on the Quebec shore.

In other and greater capitals, the Washingtons and Londons and Paris's the metropolitan scene, and who notices him or even cares?

It is much different here.

Here is really all that counts, so he's understood, respected, catered to, fawned upon, envied, even feared.

They are like their staff, their army of clerks, stenographers, messengers, office boys, the anonymous thousands in their remoteness from the taxpayers in Everytown beyond the boundaries of this two-city capital in the out-of-the-way corners of Ontario and Quebec.

They are unknowing and perhaps uncaring of the farmers, miners, sales people, oil riggers, merchants, construction crews, lumbermen, and all the other taxpaying working stiffs out there.

The National Capital is a club, and everyone here, with their living dependent on government, is a member.

And you are paying for the membership.

Keep in touch with your MP, the reality of home will refresh him in this tightly closed community when you call or write.

Cypriot Coup Could Lead to Further Trouble

By PETER BUCKLEY ...

WASHINGTON (CP) — The revolt of the National Guard in Cyprus, led by its Greek army officers, has raised fears here that a prolonged disturbance on the island could involve other nations and threaten the uneasy tranquility of the eastern Mediterranean.

Troops in both Greece and Turkey were reported to have been placed on the alert.

The United States state department, in a request that aroused alarm in particular at the military dictatorship in Athens, asked other nations to join the U.S. in supporting the "independence, territorial integrity of Cyprus."

Diplomatic observers expressed surprise at reports that the Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, had been forced out by the army.

Politics in Cyprus has long been marked by bitter rivalries. Byzantine plots and conflicting national goals, not only between the Greek and Turkish communities on the island but also among the Greeks who make up about 80 per cent of the island's 600,000 people.

In his 14 years as president, the 61-year-old Makarios survived a series of attempts to strip him of either his political control, his administrative office or both. But tension had been particularly high recently because of the Cypriot leader's growing feud with Greek colonels who her army officers on the grounds that they were plotting against him.

The chief surprises among diplomats here was reserved for the emergence of newspaper publisher Nikos Sampson as the army's announced choice to replace Makarios.

A brooding and mercurial figure, the 38-year-old Sampson gained a reputation for total unscrupulousness as a terrorist gunman in the Cypriot battle for independence from Britain in the 1950s.

After Cyprus gained statehood in 1960, he maintained a role in politics through his activities as a newspaper owner. Makis (Constant), and later as a key-note member of the Cypriot parliament.

Sampson supported many Makarios policies but, opposed the archbishop's periodic flirtations with the Communist world. The most controversial trial last year to strip Sampson of his parliamentary immunity so he could be prosecuted for libelling Makarios, but the suit was later dropped.

In the description of one unsympathetic but knowledgeable Greek-Cypriot here, Sampson is "a man without a political base whose politics and mood change like the wind."

Instability in Cyprus has always been a concern of Greece and Turkey have been on the verge of warfare at least three times in the last decade in defence of their distant cousins on the island.

The two countries, along with Britain, are guarantors of the continuing independence and integrity of Cyprus under the 1959 Zurich Treaty which ended 80 years of British rule.

Greece and Turkey, each with NATO armies and air forces, face the southern tier of the North Atlantic defence alliance, but between the neighboring countries, despite their historical animosity, is a measure of Western military and diplomatic influence.

The U.S. and its allies can be expected to exert strong pressure to prevent the current Cyprus trouble from dividing Athens and Ankara into a wider end dispute.

Greeks and Turks at Odds

BY JOHN D. HAKEBON

The new and deeper crisis in Cyprus may open an even bigger and deeper conflict in the eastern Mediterranean, the historic hate between Greece and Turkey.

Actually it had reappeared already over a very modern kind of dispute, control of oil-bearing ocean beds in the Aegean Sea which might make either country self-sufficient in a vital product they do not have in their own national territories.

More than once in the past, especially during the efforts by the late Col. Grivas to bring Greek dominion to Cyprus, the armed forces of Greece and Turkey have come close to blows.

The reason for this is the millennium of Greek-Turk, racial-based which Cyprus perennially her mixed population of about two-thirds Greek, mostly Cypriots and one-third Turkish-speaking.

Indeed previous Cyprus internal struggles which brought on one of the original UN peace-keeping forces about 16 years ago, not only resulted in renewed Greek-Turkish difficulties, but have been major impercussions in two NATO nations almost at dagger point.

Both Greece and Turkey with substantial military, establishments have been in confrontation with British and U.S. weapons, aircraft and ships, are supposed to be the eastern bastion of NATO to the Soviet Union.

Turkey remains the traditional guardian of the Dardanelles Straits, which move freely the growing number of Soviet ships in and out of the Black Sea fleet to form their new third Mediterranean squadron fleet.

And Greece, in spite of continuous dictatorial military governments, remains a bastion of NATO as the guardian of the Piraeus, the port of Athens as a staging area and stopping-off point for the U.S. Mediterranean fleet.

Greek-Turkish hatred is aroused again in Cyprus by those still with a vivid memory of union of that island republic with Greece, pre-lost to the long Turkish occupation of Greece when that country was a province of the old Ottoman Empire.

In modern times, it centres on the bitter and brief Greek-Turkish war of 1922-23 when Greek armies invaded Asia Minor and marched their way across what was left of Turkish Asia with the intention of permanent occupation of the Greek-inhabited cities along the Turkish Aegean coast.

The Ottoman Empire in its last throes, shattered by its wartime allegiance to Germany, was ready to be last of a centuries-long list of sultans. But in the wings waited Mustafa Kemal Pasha who would soon change his name to Kemal Ataturk, abandon the ethos of Ottoman monarch, sweep the Greeks back into the sea literally and build the modern Turkey.

As in our own day, the Greek-Turkish feuds of the early 1920s had their own larger setting. Wars scarcely ever, almost brought a halt to the Paris Peace Treaty in the eastern mediterranean. Any further partitioning of the rump of the Ottoman Empire was at an end with Ataturk's great victory.

Everything would be forgotten in the 1930s except Turks themselves. The extension of their historic revulsion to the ongoing crisis of Greek and Turkish speaking communities in Cyprus.

That divided island-state which has given the world the longest lasting and outwardly successful experiment in use of external UN peacekeeping machinery, and a great power role in the eastern Mediterranean.

Kawarthas Skipper Retires

Peterborough Examiner

Capt. Harold J. Young presents quite a picture at the wheel of the Kawartha Lakes district than most of us are accustomed to.

"Cap" Young, as he is known, has just been given the boot — firm. The Stoney Lake Navigation Company, formed by his great grandfather Patrick Young 91 years ago. Now, Mr. Young, 65, has to step back and watch from the sidelines as the company he has spent much of his life building sets sail for Kawarthas by steamer.

He was 17 years old when the steamship Stoney Lake opened the Peterborough Lift-Lock to ship traffic. He was standing in the bow when the Stoney came through the lock.

Three years later, Cap Young was also aboard the Stoney when it struck a rock off Bird's Creek Lift-lock.

In the intervening years, Cap Young has seen a lot of changes on the lakes.

The story he told to Examiner Features Writer Jack Davis was that of a steamship company in navigation, tourism, farming and logging, and of the quiet and leisurely cruises from Peterborough to Lindsay.

A 52-hour flight with the steamed Gannon's Narrows and a 30-hour flight to Bobcaygeon figured it took a captain three days to complete the trip. Now we gave him a boat in Stony Lake's are a far cry from the rapid travel by road and rail.

Cap Young can "now take it easy for the next 30 or 30 years," as he says, but his steamships won't disappear entirely from the Kawartha Lakes.

Cap Young and his steamships certainly had a lot to the area's history. His stories will make an interesting contrast to the modern tourist trade and seemingly endless stream of cottage-bound traffic now plying the Trent Canal and the Kawarthas.

Thanks to the steamships and their crews, the lakes have changed.

Mortgages

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

While Mr. Hockley in his submitted certificate of indebtedness points out that a $30,000 mortgage over 25 years costs about $70,000, he neglects to mention that investing $30,000 at 10per cent over 25 years would produce over $260,000 in the end.

The actual cost of money is the difference between the mortgage interest rate and investment rate. Therefore, Mr. Hockley's figures are a pretty one-sided figure of reasoning.

A Warning

Dr. Morton Shulman is correct in warning that U.S.-style violence could spill into Canada. He says if Canada is to remain relatively free of violence we must gun laws must remain strict and close loop must be kept on immigration. The recent revelations of crime syndicates operating in Peel County represent another warning of actual and potential crime in Ontario. Once this kind of thing begins to spread, it is very difficult to stop. The American experience is indicative of this. Control must take place in Canada, but if the authorities don't act now it could very well become a factor here too.

Check Those Brakes

How often are brakes checked? And especially on those vehicles such as trucks that are in constant use?

A tragic accident in Montreal, in which a runaway truck brought death to one man and injury to 26 others, including a vacationing American family, raises these questions.

Brakes, especially on older vehicles, should be checked regularly.

Next Provincial Vote Likely Will Be Close

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Toronto Star Syndicate

TORONTO — Nobody can say for sure when the next provincial election will be. The most likely date would be late September or early October of next year.

But one can say now that when it does come it almost certainly will be the fiercest, and probably the most closely contested election in the province's history.

There are several good reasons for saying this. Among them are:

That politics has now become a two-route affair between the parties and their leaders.

That probably not since 1945 has there been a realistic chance of a government being ousted.

That 1975 election will be cidedly the one on which George Drew led his minority government into power over the CCF and the Liberals.

Which should be enough to whet the campaign itself was thrilling.

In terms at least of effort and probably fierce fighting our next one looms very close to it.

This should be true, as mentioned, because politics now is a two-route business.

There is a matter of laying off in the years between elections.

All leaders now are continually at work on politics, usually spending at least a couple of days a week visiting in the ridings and backing up those they have full-time hard-working organizations.

In the old days only the Communists ever played politics so persistently.

Then there will be three good leaders.

Over the years there have been better leaders than Premier Davis. Bob Nixon and Stephen Lewis.

But in no election have there been three men of their calibre leading their parties in the campaign.

The biggest difference of all, however, should be that in this election there will be the scent of blood.

It's a scent that's already there.

Opponents believe that Davis can be beaten.

They believe it on evidence and they hold their belief with whole hearts.

Which should mean a rousing of a campaign.

Sexist Adverts Draw Criticism

The Christian Science Monitor

The long age in this space there was a reference to a prefemale-stirring "good news." A young woman could be greatly task for slipping into the kind of exclusionary sexist stereotyping that must be erased if women are ever to have an equal break in the job market. She and the letter writer across the page turned out to be ahead of a group of presidential advisers now urging the media to get rid of "unnecessary sexspecific terms."

Think of the current radio commercial in which a young lady tries in little girl to climb a tree and she skins her knee. An American quality for such a commercial with the roles reversed?

Years ago the then president of Radcliffe College, Mary Bunting, suggested that only her intellects may have been lost to the sciences through an accumulation of such sensible but needlessly gender-specific terms. She says as asking a little boy what he wants to be when he grows up, and telling him that's just what a pretty dress she has on.

The pretty dress is not incompatible with being scientific when you grow up. It's hard to snap out of the sexist clichés of the language, and the feminists may have been lost to the sciences through an accumulation of such sensible but needlessly gender-specific terms.

Hospital Patient Wins Prize

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Max Metelitch, 54, a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital here, has won $1 million in the Olympic Lottery.

Mr. Metelitch, a district manager here for Thomas Adams Distillers Ltd. who is under doctor's orders to undergo "no stress whatsoever," learned of his win from his hospital bed Wednesday.

Bruce Owens, Mr. Metelitch's lawyer, said Wednesday his client was "elated; he just couldn't believe it at first."

Mr. Owens, who said he has been given Mr. Metelitch's power of attorney, said lottery officials in Montreal "are making arrangements for me to pick up the money."

He said he would place the funds in trust certificates for his client.

Pact Reached

OTTAWA (CP) — A tentative contract agreement providing wage increases of 10.5 per cent retroactive to Sept. 24, 1973, and an additional 10 per cent, effective Sept. 24, 1974, to federal welfare program workers has been reached between the treasury board and the Public Service Alliance of Canada.

The 27-month agreement, which expires Dec. 24, 1975, will bring the pay range to the most numerous category of 1,200 employees in between $13,638 and $15,598 by Sept. 23.

Boy Killed

TORONTO (CP) — A seven-year-old boy was killed Wednesday when a heavy picnic table apparently was tipped over and hit him on the head in a North York borough park.

Deedee Morelli was found pinned under the table by other children. Another boy was seen running from the scene.

Won't Return

TORONTO (CP) — Ferry Gutsden, who gave up his Ontario legislature seat before running unsuccessfully in the July 8 federal election, said Wednesday he will not return to provincial politics.

"I have no intention of seeking the Sizemont seat," the former Ontario labor minister said in a statement sent away from Cornwall. "I made up my mind when I left that that was it."

Right to Die

TORONTO (CP) — A survey on euthanasia conducted by Modern Medicine magazine shows Canadian doctors believe patients have the right to reject life-prolonging treatment.

The survey showed that 92 physicians said terminally-ill patients should not be required to endure further treatment when their cases are hopeless.

Brawl Erupts

OSHAWA (CP) — Durham regional police took at least eight persons into custody Wednesday following a near-riot at the Genosha Hotel here. Police said a fight developed into a full-scale brawl involving more than 100 persons.

Summer Shake-up

Skiers race against one another recently in a German river as onlookers urge them on in their skiers, who prefer skiing over snowy slopes, must practice their favored sport on the water during summer months to keep in shape. Committee Suggests Degrees Without University Registry

TORONTO (CP) — An open educational system that would allow an individual to get a university degree without attending university has been recommended by a government committee.

The select committee on the utilization of educational facilities recommended the program at a news conference Wednesday.

Dr. Charles McIlveen, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Oshawa and chairman of the committee said the system could use such methods as tape cassettes and counsellors for teaching.

He said the open education system would not necessarily aim at a university education for everyone who participated but would be geared to people who wanted to upgrade themselves in any field.

"In an isolated community in Northern Ontario, for instance, it might be to teach an individual to skin muskrats better," he said.

The two New Democratic Party members on the 11-member committee offered a dissenting opinion on the report.

James Foulds (Port Arthur) and Floyd Laughren (Nickel Belt) said the roots of the problem of openness in our society are economic rather than educational," and the committee did not recognize this.

Ethylene Export Plans Not Cause of Shortage

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans by Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd. to export major quantities of ethylene, principal ingredient of anti-freeze, will increase, not reduce, long-term anti-freeze supplies in Canada, a spokesman for the company said Wednesday.

The primary cause of threatened anti-freeze shortages this winter is inadequate refining capacity for ethylene production, he said. The situation did not indicate a shortage of oil and natural gas, the raw materials used to produce ethylene.

Automotive dealers and distributors have assured that anti-freeze shortages are likely in some areas this winter and that prices might be triple or more the 1973 average cost of a gallon last winter.

The spokesman said the current ethylene shortage would disappear if expansion projects by Dow and other companies are approved by the National Energy Board (NEB).

Puerto Rican Freed Of Charge of Murder

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Humberto Pagan, an activist of Puerto Rican independence from the United States who fled to Canada in 1971, was cleared Wednesday of murder and firearms charges against him.

Pagan, 34, had been charged with killing a police officer in a March 11, 1971, riot on the main San Juan campus of the University of Puerto Rico.

He then jumped bail and fled to Canada.

A San Juan superior court judge ordered a first-degree murder charge, along with a related firearms violation charge, be dropped.

On May 31, the Puerto Rican supreme court found no probable cause to try Pagan on the murder charge. That finding resulted from court doubts about the validity of an identification made of Pagan by a key police witness. That identification was crucial to the original murder-charge against Pagan.

Pagan had been free on bail ever since he returned to San Juan from Canada last December. He came back to the island, Pagan explained in an airport interview, to participate directly in the Puerto Rican independence movement.

The return to Puerto Rico followed a Barrie, Ont., court in Canada refused a U.S. request for Pagan's extradition.

Red Lake Breathes Smoke —

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP) — pall of smoke hung over the forest in the west of this northwestern Ontario town Wednesday and the smell of burning trees reached the town itself.

Earlier, forest officials collated the results of the latest mapping of the large forest fire to the west and found that it is now stretched across more than 80,000 acres.

Border conditions have hampered recent surveys, causing the blaze to be underestimated at 30,000 acres.

The fire, known as Red Lake 21, is the result of four lightning-spawned fires that merged under windy conditions a week ago.

And rising winds Wednesday drove some of the blaze crews out of the fire area.

From the air, the wind's effects on the fire were clearly visible.

In an hour between flights, the wisps and plumes of white smoke gave to hues from dull brown and white cloud, towering thousands of feet above the forest flames.

Fire crews at several fire camps, working to control the spread in their areas, eyed the rising wind with dismay.

F. J. Vallee of Thessalon, Ont., a fire boss, said the winds, if they continue, might force some of the crews to evacuate the area.

Two weeks ago, a similar flare-up caused firefighters to flee and some crews had to abandon all their equipment.

Parliament Opening Date Is Set Back

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau announced the proposed opening date of the 30th Parliament Wednesday to Sept. 30 from Sept. 25.

In a brief announcement, his office said that after announcing the date as Thursday, Sept. 25, at a news conference Thursday following the first cabinet meeting after the July 8 election, the prime minister failed to note that Sept. 25 was Yom Kippur, an important Jewish holiday.

The announcement said the date could not have been moved earlier because of other previous commitments, including the meeting here of Commonwealth finance ministers.

NO OTHER WAGON HAS ALL THIS, OR IS LIKELY TO, NOT FOR YEARS.

Volkswagen calls it the perfect station wagon for its time. Dasher is powerful and gets about 28 miles per gallon*. It's small enough to be a cinch to park, big enough to come with 5 doors and a special rear suspension for towing big loads. It has rear wheel drive for better road handling plus Stabilomatic which forces the car to break in a straight line, while breaking when one side of the car is sliding on wet or slippery surfaces. It needs regular maintenance only once every 20,000 miles and is covered by The Volkswagen Owner's Security Blanket. The Dasher wagon is ahead of its time. Ed Broadbent Selected As NDP Interim Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — Ed. Broadbent was elected interim parliamentary leader of the New Democratic Party Wednesday, but immediately tried to cool speculation his job is a springboard to the party leadership.

Unanimous election of the former university professor by the NDP caucus was announced by party leader David Lewis who suffered personal defeat in the July 8 election and will step down at the next national convention.

Mr. Lewis told a news conference Mr. Broadbent's new position may be a disadvantage rather than an advantage as far as his leadership prospects are concerned.

"It's always easier to shoot at the person with responsibility."

Mr. Broadbent, 36, MP for Oshawa-Whitby since 1968, increased his margin of victory substantially in the election while NDP Commons ranks were trimmed to 16 from 31 MPs.

However, he said he has not decided to seek the party's top job at the next convention, scheduled for July, 1975, in Montreal.

"I've not said I'll be running. I've been candid in saying I'll give the subject serious consideration."

But dealing with Trudeau and his Liberal government is my present crucial task."

Chairman in the last Parliament of NDP caucus subcommittees on housing, trade and commerce, bilingualism, regional economic expansion and citizenship, Mr. Broadbent said he intends to pursue thereby the living costs and housing problems which the NDP pushed in the election campaign.

During the new Parliament there might be some changes in emphasis in, but not in party policy.

Mr. Lewis said the over-riding factor in selection of a parliamentary leader was that "it is necessary for a younger person to take over."

T. C. Douglas, 69, a former NDP leader, and Andrew Brewin, 66, MP for Toronto Greenwood, also were nominated for the post, but declined the nomination.

"It's time for the Douglas-Lewis generation to give over," Mr. Lewis said.

Defeated by Liberal Ursula Appollonl in the Toronto riding of York South, Mr. Lewis said he will help Mr. Broadbent and the caucus in any way he can before giving up the leadership.

Mr. Broadbent's selection came during a day-long meeting involving New Democrats who sat in the last Parliament and those elected to the next one.

The new parliamentary leader said he thinks three or four of the caucus members might be interested in the leadership, but he did not know if the convention date might be moved up to speed selection of a new leader.

Max Saltzman (Waterloo-Cambridge) has said he is considering running for the job.

Any change in the July date for the national convention would be made by the party's national council which is to meet in Halifax Oct. 4-6.

Neither Mr. Broadbent nor Mr. Lewis would give any details of the caucus deliberations over the election which devastated the NDP and returned a majority Liberal government.

Irving Family Ordered To Sell Moncton Papers

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Irving Interests have been ordered to sell two of their five New Brunswick English-language dailies, The Times and The Transcript of Moncton.

Mr. Justice Albany Robichaud of the New Brunswick Supreme court said in his order issue Wednesday that their acquisition by the Irving family of Saint John in 1946 "is when and where the process of forming a monopoly, combine and conspiracy, as charged, actually took place."

Four Irving companies were convicted last January of forming a monopoly of English-language daily newspapers in New Brunswick.

Fines totalling $150,000 were levied at that time. An appeal against the conviction is to be heard in the fall.

The three Irving sons were not available Wednesday for comment.

New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving built the newspaper empire and then turned it over to his sons when he moved out of the province several years ago.

Mr. Justice Robichaud rejected a Crown request that the Irvings be forced to sell their two Saint John papers, The Telegraph-Journal and The Times Globe, purchased in 1944, which are the most widely-distributed papers in the province.

He said "the public good of the New Brunswick people would be jeopardized" by such a move.

The combined circulation of the Saint John papers is about 71,000 while the Moncton papers have a circulation of about 33,000.

Mr. Justice Robichaud's order calls for the sale of the Moncton newspapers within 12 months of the final determination of any appeals.

Mr. Justice Robichaud said in his order he agreed with the Crown's assignment that the division of ownership of the newspapers among Mr. Irving's sons in 1972 was not a dissolution of the monopoly.

'The Pill' Said Cause Of Cancer –

HULL, England (Reuter) — A leading British surgeon warned Wednesday that women—and especially younger ones—are risking breast cancer by taking contraceptive pills.

Challenging the latest research findings on the safety of the "pill," Ian Burn, head of the breast clinic at London's Charing Cross Hospital, said:

"I personally fear that the hazard may be much greater than we would all like to believe."

He dismissed as premature the recently published in-depth study of pill safety by Britain's Royal College of General Practitioners, which virtually cleared it of major health charges. It might be 20 years before the full long-term effects are realized, Burn said at a conference here of the British Medical Association.

"There is too much loose use of the pill for the contraceptive purposes in the young," he said. "We should discourage young women from taking it for long periods of time."

Burn said the assembled doctors that "recent pronouncements by statisticians on the safety of the pill carry a hollow ring."

"The data are premature to make any decision about breast cancer."

Indications are that the disease is occurring at an earlier age than before and that its incidence in Western countries is increasing.

Housing Programs Seen As Aid to Exploiters

OSHAWA (CP) — The Ontario government's housing action programs won't change the province's housing situation, Barbara Moore, chairman of the Oshawa-Durham Anti-Poverty Coalition, said Wednesday.

Instead they will help private enterprise to continue "exploiting" the public, she said.

The government's answer to the "near-crisis" housing situation is "setting up a ministry and a minister to create the illusion of change," Mrs. Moore said.

She said Housing Minister Sidney Handleman knows more about public relations than housing problems.

Mrs. Moore said the housing minister's real job is pe-

Chained Women Block Bill Debate

QUEBEC (CP) — Nine Montreal-area women, chained together in their chairs to protest the government's controversial official languages bill, disrupted the national assembly's education committee Wednesday, eventually forcing it to adjourn at least until today.

The protest forced the committee studying the legislation to adjourn twice in the afternoon and again just after the evening session began, thus bolstering the faltering Parti Quebecois filibuster of clause-by-clause study of the legislation.

The women said Bill 22, which would make French the sole official language of Quebec, is being adopted too hastily and, in its present state, is an injustice to French-speaking Quebecers.

"Down with Bill 22, Have Pity on Quebec, do you want to assassinate Quebec?" chanted the women.

They also engaged in impromptu debates with Liberal committee members and Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer.

Solange Lecourt, leader of the group, said their demonstration was just the beginning and that "conservers all over the province were mobilizing for similar protests.

They want the government to send the committee around the province to hold hearings on the legislation. They also want the adoption of the legislation delayed until fall.

The security dressed women remained chained through two adjournments, despite warnings committee chairman Michel Gretton (L—Gatineau) and bad-hearted attempts by security guards to remove them.

"So this committee does not turn into a circus, I am obliged to adjourn the committee until new orders from the assembly," Mr. Gretton announced after members returned from a 2½-hour evening break.

The women, including Laure Chaloult, wife of cabinet minister Francois Cloutier who is sponsoring Bill 22, then tearfully unlocked their chains.

Parti Quebecois members Robert Burns and Claude Charron then kissed and embraced the women, thanking them for the opportunity to get a good night's sleep.

The six-man PQ caucus is beginning to show the signs of the gruelling 10 a.m.-to-midnight schedule they are forced to follow under end-of-session rules while they filibuster the bill.

In the two days of clause-by-clause study, the languages bill has been blocked by a series of Parti Quebecois motions and procedural wrangling.

Wednesday's motion called for the committee to change its hours and call witnesses, notably constitutional expert Edward McWhinney, a member of the Gendron commission which investigated the status of French in Quebec.

Mr. Charron said Prime Minister Trudeau has indicated the federal government is studying the legislation to see if it is unconstitutional.

Mr. Charron said the committee should ask Mr. McWhinney where the legislation might run counter to the British North America Act

Having Fun, Working Hard

"I'm really amazed at myself," says Lorraine Fargey as she sets down her axe to talk about her summer working on Thurlow township's Nature's Playthings project.

Lorraine, who just finished Grade 13 at Central Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, had never had the opportunity to work with carpentry tools before.

Now, after two weeks on the project, she has become adept at handling the saw, hammer and axe that are part of her job, helping to build the Shelter-Fort at Hamilton Park. That's more, she is thoroughly enjoying the work.

"I never thought I could do things like this," but I can! At first, I sat back and let the boys (Roger Huffman and Ron Lee, Centennial Secondary School students), take over.

"But they showed me how to do things, and now, except for the very heavy work like lifting logs, I can do my share. They expect me to! "I really feel much better than I did when I started. Using your muscles and working outside is a great way to spend the day."

Coordinator of the Thurlow Fun and Fitness Program, Lorraine also travels to the 12 parks in the township which are offering supervised recreation to local children this summer.

She worked as playground supervisor last year, a position she applied for "because I really like children" she says. This year she was offered the job of co-ordinating the playgrounds, helping to offer and distribute supplies, arrange for supervisors and assistants, and train the staff of 36.

The Fun and Fitness program takes only two days of Lorraine's week, and the Nature's Playthings project takes the rest.

"The idea is to create play areas out of natural things," Lorraine explains.

"Children seem to prefer to climb and swing on wood, for example, rather than metal or plastic. It's more like 'playing out in the bush' than on a playground.

"Here at the Hamilton Park we're building this structure to serve as shelter from sun or rain, and also as a playing area for the children. They'll be able to climb all over it, and pretend that it's a fort, or whatever they want it to be."

The Shelter-Fort has been designed by Lorraine, Ron and Roger and should be completed by the middle of August. They have also built a balance beam and will make a wooden climbing approgus as well.

"This will be play equipment the kids can really use," says Lorraine, who will be attending Queen's University when her summer of carpentry is over.

Happy and healthy as a result of her newly-discovered talent for outdoor construction work, Coordinator of the Thurlow Fun and Fitness program Lorraine Fargey is benefiting from her summer helping to build playground equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Allen Minnie

Raking, sawing and chiselling, Lorraine Fargey, Ron Lee and Roger Huffman work hard at building the Hamilton Park shelter that will also serve as a fort and climbing place for children using the playground. The project began two weeks ago, will be completed in August.

Let's Get Rid Of Our Kids

Children should be abolished.

Really, I mean it.

Not that I am advocating infanticide. Far from it.

What I've got in mind is a whole new freedom for human beings between the ages of two and twenty.

Babies and people — that's all this world needs. Tots 'n teens we can do without.

For without the label "children", what would we have? Little people and big people.

And possibly an end to the dreadful discrimination that today's children suffer at the hands of adults, simply because they're children.

Being able to see a four-year-old as a little person, as an intact identity in his or her own right, is an ability many parents sadly lack. Instead, the child is pushed, pulled and pummelled into what the parents want: a flawless copy of themselves.

You've seen those scenes on Front Street as I have — the irate mother hissing between gritted teeth as she shakes her three-year-old: "S-top acting so childish!"

On the other hand, I know parents who have splendid, friendly relationships with their four and six-year-olds, simply on the basis of regarding them as people like themselves.

They wouldn't dream of degrading their family with baby talk, spankings, bribery, bossy domination or, perhaps worst of all, speaking about their son and daughter in their presence as if they weren't there.

It's all a matter of respect. I think, a matter of taking young human beings as seriously as old human beings.

There seems to be a convenient belief that before the "age of reason" people need not be dealt with as equals.

In fact, I believe it's simply that they're smaller and more easily bullied.

You don't ask a child what he'd like for supper because he's only a child and would say something silly like "Ice cream", right?

Well of course he's going to say something silly if he's not used to being asked to participate.

Treating "children" like "little people" doesn't mean taking away their youth or burdening them with the decision-making problems of adults.

It's just the recognition that although their bodies and attention-span are shorter, and their command of language less complex, they needs are as valid as any grown-up's. Her need for love, for security, for a sense of worth in a boy or girls who's been treated like a child for years.

Imagine the difference between the daughter who is asked from an early age, "What do you think, Sally?" and the one who is told "Don't interrupt, you're only a child!"

And of course, the problems of teenagerism are a whole other column — but they often stem from the divisions set up between children and adults. Actually, the concept of "teenage" is a fairly recent one in our society, and hasn't been a particularly useful one except for the manufacturers of blue jeans and soft drink.

If the term "young people" were used in its best sense, wouldn't many teenage kid family problems disappear?

Of course, it's all in the tone of voice. That nauseating sweetness of those kindergarten teachers who clapped you on the head with their pencils and said "Hands on desks, little people" negates the whole idea.

But maybe that what this is all about — attitudes, not labels.

Minnie — Lessard

The June 15 wedding of Barbara Delia Lessard and Larry Allen Minnie took place in Actinolite United Church in a ceremony conducted by Rev. T. E. Lewis and Rev. F. Carty.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lessard of Tweed, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Minnie of RR 3, Tweed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of crepe over sharkskin with a bodice of lace, trimmed with ribbon and ruffles. The long-sleeved gown featured a high neckline and an attached train, and a skirt trimmed with lace and ribbon. Her two-tier lace edged veil was caught by oval headpiece, and her bouquet was of red roses and mums.

Diane Tracey was matron of honor in a yellow lace gown with a low neckline, short sleeves and ruffled cuffs. She wore a floppy hat and carried yellow roses and green foliage.

The bridesmaids, Dorothy Hughes, the groom's sister and Debbie Nugent, the bride's cousin, were gowns and hats similar to the matron of honor and carried identical bouquets.

The junior bridesmaids, Vicky and Christine Tracey, nieces of the bride, were identical gowns of pastel green knit over slow-thread slips of white. Both had yellow and green flowers entwined in their hair, and carried baskets of yellow roses.

The best man was Douglas Minnie, the groom's brother, and the ushers were Gerry Hughes, the groom's brother-in-law, and Wayne Tracey, the bride's brother-in-law. The junior usher was Greg Hughes, and the ring bearer, Christopher Stephen, both nephews of the groom.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served in St. Edmund's Hall with a reception and dance in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Minnie will reside at RR 3, Tweed.

Pressures, Harassment Irritate Physicians

Dear Ann Landers: I read that view as money-hungry, uninterested and often insensitive. This harassment leads to a deterioration of the doctor-patient relationship.

with great interest. Here's your recent article in Prism magazine with great interest. Unfortunately, you are correct when you say physicians frequently fail to give enough time to patients who need to be listened to. In self defense, I would like to point out a few facts that make it virtually impossible for most doctors to "listen."

As your poll and other polls have shown, the vast majority of patients regard their doctors as honest and sympathetic—not Cadillac-driving, golf-playing, vacationing money-machines.

The average doctor works between 55 and 70 hours a week. Ten to 15 hours a week are spent on a deluge of paperwork, foisted on us by various government agencies, insurance carriers, attorneys, etc.

I would be happy to spend an additional 15 hours a week with patients who need to be listened to, but there is a limit to the physical endurance of any man. So long as we are tied up in this morass of paperwork, we cannot possibly be the "Dr. Schweitzer and Albert Schweitzer and Marcus Welby" you wish we were.—Anthony J. Cresci, M.D., of N.J.

Dear Dr. Cresci: I agree, the load of paperwork forced on physicians today is outrageous. Moreover, as you say, it deprives valuable time that could be better spent taking care of sick people.

I wish I had some answers. But alas, I have none. Medical insurance plans are here to stay and the paperwork will most assuredly go on. It's one of the built-in curses that comes with social change and bureaucracy.

Not all doctors are as dedicated as you, however. Some do not give the patient more than a minute and don't feel that they should. I hear plenty about them from my readers.) But please know-I'm in there pitching for the thousands of fine physicians who are doing a wonderful job under extremely difficult circumstances. Their patients adore them.

Dear Ann Landers: May I respond to Alice Heart (and not too smart), whose heart aches for a sister who is losing her husband to the office serpent? She said, "She is intelligent and attractive, an immaculate housekeeper, a great cook, an example of motherhood's truest flower. She even shines her husband's shoes."

Shoes ain't where it's at, honky. I'm married to a woman who has all those qualities. The only thing this paragon of perfection lacks is the willingness to be an active participant in that one, very significant aspect of marriage which distinguishes a wife from a paid housekeeper.

It doesn't take a sexpot to hit my switchboard. Willing and uninhibited lovers do. Cheers to you, Ann, for telling her so.—Sincerely,

Dear Hungry: And cheers to you for an on-target letter. I hope your wife recognizes herself and opts in favor of expending less energy waxing the floor and channels it into more rewarding endeavors.

New Cuban Family Code Will Make Sexes Equal

HAVANA (Reuter) — Cuban women soon may have a legal obligation to wash dishes and share other domestic chores with their wives under a "family code" now being debated by the Cuban people.

The new code would replace antiquated laws governing family relations, inherited from the Spanish colonial era. It aims, among other things, at implementing the full equality of the sexes.

Although Cuba has undergone dramatic social changes since the 1959 revolution which brought Fidel Castro to power, family relationships are still often governed by the old concept of male superiority.

The draft code is being discussed and argued at meetings called by the island's mass organizations and trade unions. The committee of judicial studies, which drafted the code, invited the people to propose amendments if they did not agree with its contents.

But if the authorities' bid to turn every Cuban into a legislator. All new laws are debated by the entire population before being returned with modifications before their normal approval.

The Castro government has gone a long way towards emancipating this Caribbean island's female population, and about half a million women have joined the labor force in the last six years.

But the government still is meeting strong resistance from traditional Cuban husbands who consider themselves the masters of their homes.

In the old civil code, marriage was considered as a "contract" which implicitly recognized the husband and father as lord and master in his own family. The new family code declares that the two partners are totally concerned unless of a man and a woman legally joined to live their lives in congress."

"One aspect of the new code is that a man and woman will be able to get married without written consent.

The legal age for marriage has been lowered to 16, for girls—12 in certain cases which the code does not spell out—and 18 for boys. However, a boy of 16 will be able to get married under certain exceptional conditions.

But if, on the whole, it will be even easier than hitherto to get married in Cuba, divorce will be more difficult. Since the revolution, it has required only a few days and procedures that all simple formality and the Cuban must be considered equal.

authorities are probably alarmed at the divorce rate.

The fact that one of the parties to the divorce will be able to claim alimony from his or her estranged spouse is a novelty in revolutionary Cuba. The payment of alimony, however, will in no case be allowed to exceed a period of one year.

The children, if any, will not automatically be entrusted to the mother. The decision on custody will rest with a tribunal.

The draft code also eliminates all former distinctions between legitimate and illegitimate children and proclaims that all

Margaret Trudeau Speaks for Herself

OTTAWA (CP) — What Margaret Trudeau is going to do in the wake of her husband's electoral success seems to be a mystery to the prime minister, but she hinted Tuesday it may involve more politics.

"I have no plans for my wife," Mr. Trudeau told a news conference. "It's quite possible she has plans for herself and I'd be incredulous to find out about them."

Mrs. Trudeau, who campaigned vigorously on behalf of Liberal candidates in the July 8 election, was not present at the news conference.

Asked if she has any plans, Mrs. Trudeau laughed and replied: "But I really like politics."

As she and the prime minister waited to walk across Sweetheart Wellington Street, Mrs. Trudeau was asked if she knew why she appealed to some official position.

Laughing, she exclaimed, "I want to win on style."

Daughter of James Sinclair, a former Liberal fisheries minister, Mrs. Trudeau did the recent campaign on her own initiative after staying off the hustings during the 1972 campaign which saw the Liberals reduced to a minority in the Commons.

New Feature

Business news is most often called advertising — but not always.

Beginning today, a new Intelligencer feature will offer a different slant on the local business world, taking readers behind the scenes — or city retailers.

"Around the Town" will appear on Tuesdays and Fridays and concentrate on business firms.

Lana Robinson, former Montreal Gazette women's editor and now Loyalist College public relations instructor will report on what's new in Belleville business.

ALL DRUGS COSTLY

Yes, introduced to Europe in the 17th century, was originally used as a medicine and sold in England for several pounds sterling a pound.

These Soothers May Be Unsafe

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer affairs department has released the names of baby pacifiers that do not meet government safety standards under the Hazardous Products Act.

The department said in a news release Tuesday its inspectors are notifying the banned brands, which "may do harm to a baby by obstructing the breathing passages or otherwise causing physical injury," and urged stores to remove them from shelves immediately.

The unsafe brands listed by the department: Algy Gale Baby Gem; Baby Mood Soother; Baby World Orthodontic Pacifier; Bedford Industries Ltd. Orthodontic Soother, 3 piece set, Ora Orthodontic and Soother (various model numbers); Canbest Baby Ring; E. P. Chester Angel Wear, 3-piece set; Evenflo Evenflo; Regimond Baby Soother; Rigo Baby Glen; Petite Baby Soother; Ajuneta; Grip Tight; Baby Tip; Cuno Anatomic Soother.

EYECATCHING

There's a new traffic-stopper at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge streets — but it isn't the lights. D. C. Richards, owner of Trudeau Optical, designed and painted the window of his optometrist's office himself. That, he said, he did it to draw attention to the store — and it does! But the outside of his store is not the only eye-catching thing in sight. His appearance is also spectacular, the fact that, as the only independent optician in town, he has a great knack for picking the newest of styles.

Richards, proprietor of an appointment, are major reasons to stop in. And don't be shy about coming in, Mr. Richards beckons. He has a complete shop for their glasses the same as those who buy a car or a stove. And, better, combine you'll like the prices best. Call 962-2511, or just drop in.

REALTOR RELATIONSHIPS

Gord Roblin of Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St., cleared up a few of those real estate mysteries for Jear but perhaps don't really understand. Salesmen who sell real estate have to work for a broker and must be licensed to do so after they have passed an exam of the Ontario Real Estate Board. They belong to the Belleville and District Real Estate Board. Real Estate Board, and are only allowed to use the term "realtor" if they belong to it. Gord Roblin is a "realtor" and so is Gord Roblin, you know you have the standards and ethics of a professional association right there helping you. Call Gord at 968-8475.

WHAT'S IN A CARD?

A good deal, if you visit Wray's. Wray is the talking card any salesperson at Wrays, your home furnisher can give you. You don't get the usual sales pitch from someone who has made that should comfort any shopper of home furnishings. Wrays have been in business in Belleville and Trenton for 50 years for fifty years. The price of every item is plainly marked and comes with a frame that makes it stand on the table or bed. Besides, Wrays guarantee the price you pay to be the lowest obtainable anywhere in the area. Furthermore if your purchase can be bought for less elsewhere under the same terms and conditions within 30 days of purchase . . . that's a valuable card.

DATSUN DELIGHT

Writing this column isn't all deadlines. When I went to visit Don Vallen at Vallen Datsun, 1 Front St., everyone I met there was busy — which is nice to know isn't it? But Dale Vedder was busiest of all. He was busy with a Datsun 610 that he kept to one of the new Datsun 260 Z 2+2s, and told me to continue on my way and he'd be with me shortly. The new Datsun is a variation on the sports car history Datsun made a few years ago with its 240 Z. Vedder was busy with the 2+2, in comparable to Racquel Welch with two inches more of everything. Vedder was busy with the 2+2 because it's new. It was all I really needed — and a lot more. Why not go and try it yourself?

WATER: NEW AND IMPROVED

The people at Main Schaefer Ford, 17 South Pinnacle St., have been helping their customers with their cars for years and they can also supply you with clean, safe soft water, for as little as 25 cents a day. Water softeners are the newest and sooner fico is AQUAPINE, which does just as its name implies — conditions water. Main Schaefer boast "the largest display of refiners, a 20,000 grain unit size which will serve the needs of 15 people, and a 30,000 grain unit which will serve up to 20 people. And of course, there are sizes for commercial use. With an AQUAPINE water softener, you'll have no more iron, conditions or dish deterrents. Good old soap, with the help of soft water, will do the job. Call 962-2201 between 8-5:00.

CORNER CONVENIENCE

Sidney Ina is located at the corner of Metro and North Sidney streets, just a stone's overpass. If you're in summer in a corner store, that particular location of the corner store is not a bore going for it than its location. It's open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. and has a full line of fresh fruits and vegetables, has a snack bar which has great hamburgers and fries and a full line of groceries and meats. For a speedy selection to match, so you can get that last minute item for that meal you're cooking, Sidney Ina is the place in Whitney, who has been at this same location for fifteen years. And when you're in a hurry and don't want to shop around, his store is very visible. When you need it, you can't miss it.

NO FISH TOO LITTLE

And no job too small for Bob Outrim and all of Bob's Sports Shop, at South Front St. Bob describes his business as "the place to buy bait." Bob sells all kinds of bait, including worms and minnows himself. Did you know that you have to have a license in order to catch minnows? Bob supplies the fish hatchery at Glenora with the breakfast, lunch and dinner fish that they serve people there, so everyone knows anyone who would like to join the creepy crawler set on the local golf course. Bob himself is welcome to fish in the pond. A little different sight Mr Bait can give you some money instead of taking it.

LOCAL TALENT

Being a local who was born here, left and then returned, I like to meet others who have done the same. Does the name Paul Bernard of Bernard Interiors, 374 Campbell St., be one of those. He was raised in Toronto and returned after four years at the Ontario College of Art, returned to work in Belleville in 1970 and opened his own business in April of '72. He is a professional interior designer who can provide a complete package, including drapes, carpets, wallpaper, furniture and commercial decorating problems. We discussed some of the furniture in the store and I found a lot of people have good ideas but they don't have the confidence to carry them out. Paul can help you. "Sometimes you have to make it work". Let Paul help you. Call 962-6878. Summer business hours are 1 p.m. - 6 p.m.

SELLING SERVICE

If you asked Harry Outrim, owner of the Quinte Sewing Centre in the Mall and in Picton, how he would best describe himself, he would say, "I'm a mechanic". And he is. He believes the service his company provides in sewing machine repairs is a key factor in their business. He even repairs portable machines. He also, however, sells new machines and he feels that the Elna White and Janome machines are the two that are the best sewing machines you can buy. Consumer reports back him up. Consumer reports says that Janome are found in over 40 school on these machines, Mr. Outrim has supply and service contracts with three school boards. Sewing machine prices have increased as of July 1. But you can still get one of these fine machines at the Quinte Sewing Centre while the supply of stock lasts. Visit Quinte Sewing Centre in the Mall or call, 968-1800.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Congratulations to Belleview Glass & Mirror, 254 Pinnacle St., who this month are celebrating 25 years of being in business in Belleville. And judging by the amount of business they are doing now, another 25 years are assured. Bob Cockburn and He talked to Bob McCallum, son of owner E. C. McCallum about the range of services Belleview Glass provides. They're proud of the fact that he started working part-time for his father when he was 12 and that he has been associated with the only independent company in the area offering the complete line of services they do, from glass and mirrors to complete tabletops to even grinding down those nice crystal round glasses you have so much trouble with. Bought you could never use again. Bob says there is no shortage of glass in Canada so if you're thinking of improving, think glass , . . and call Belleview Glass at 962-2242.

NEW LOOK TO A FAMILIAR PLACE

Since Simons Jewellers and Mansion purchased the building Reid Scivetors, 328 Front St., five years ago they've made quite a few changes and are now getting more ready for today, a new bar area, and most recently, the Henry VIII Room. They're very proud of the latter room and the fact that you no longer have a men's beverage room, but an eating and drinking area in which men can feel most comfortable. The John Cabot Lounge features live entertainment every night, and the Henry VIII Room is open lunch hours unless the public demands otherwise and the entertainers can stay. Simons Jewellers is also the place to go for your local and western or modern music. And that's just what the Entertainers try to give them. Call 962-2242 and brought to the 7th, Cliff Carol and his group are appearing.

WHY A TRAVEL AGENT?

This was the question we asked Tony and Deirdre Warren of Davison and Davison Travel, 152 Front St. Some of their answers: "We are a one stop saver." "We offer a total package of all the components necessary to travel and we know what not to buy." Deirdre emphasized the confidentiality of dealing with a travel agent. Your business with them is treated the same as your business with your doctor or lawyer and, of course, the national and international associations with which people like Tony and Deirdre are affiliated. Next time you're thinking of travel, drop in for a while a professional contributed to making your travelling easier and more enjoyable. Call them at 962-2484.

Summer Is Best

West Indians See Summer As Best Time to See Isles

ST. JOHN'S, Antigua. (CP) — West Indians consider summer to be the best time of the year for visiting the Caribbean Islands and are puzzled by the winter influx of tourists from the north.

Their puzzlement is understandable, however, because not only are hotel accommodations cheaper, but the islands are at their prettiest, with colors and bloom wintier visitors never see.

Summer also is mango time, with mangoes selling for a dime at street stalls and markets on the many duty-free items and if you decide to visit the season is called "potioes" time by Caribbean housewives who turn their cooking pots upside down while everyone eats mangoes.

Hotels that usually insist on jacket and tie for dinner in the winter relax their rules during the summer, the off season.

During the summer months, it is also cheaper to rent a boat or hire a guide for mountain climbing or jungle exploring.

Shops aren't as crowded and clerks have time to give advice on the many duty-free items.

Adding to the natural beauty of the Caribbean, this pretty vacationer mans the wheel of a boat at Little Dix Bay on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands. Natives of the Caribbean consider summer to be the best time of the year, and are puzzled by the influx of tourists during the winter. (CP Photo)

Shops aren't as crowded and clerks have time to give advice on the many duty-free items and if you decide to visit the next island, getting a plane reservation and hotel accommodations is simple.

The sea is its ever in the summer and somewhat for boating, skiing, snorkeling and skin diving.

A summer holiday, of course, means you would miss out on carnival time in Trinidad or Martinique and most other islands, but Antigua stages a carnival in August with contrived groups, steel bands and calypso singers.

Horse racing has been revived here, too, particularly in Barbados and Trinidad.

Cairo Genies Can Prove Interesting but Expensive

CAIRO (CP) — Pause in a Cairo street, permit an expression of bewilderment or puzzlement to flicker across your face and nine times out of 10, like a genie out of a bottle, a helpful Arab will materialize at your side.

Succumb to his offer of assistance and 10 times out of 10 it will cost you money.

Maybe it will be money well spent. Aside from his knowledge of the teeming city of Cairo, he's a plausible interpreter and a credible historian if you are not too much of a stickler for facts. The philosophy, the wit are thrown in gratis.

There is a thriving industry in this city of many jobless—made up of neatly-dressed entrepreneurs, men seemingly busy but with nothing so pressing that they cannot delay themselves for hours in the arid of wayward visitors.

Money, certain the thought, is never uppermost but probably they get their income in the form of straight-forward tips or kickbacks from local merchants they help steer guide would-be customers.

There are ragged amateurs, who attract little but the greatest nuisance, but also semi-pros and full professionals, such as Hassan Abdel-Halim Fayed, "a student of archaeology," according to his business card, and No. 1 in tourist guide self-attached to a well-furnished hotel.

He gives a milder service in offering directions and deconstricts, has-beens and the mere suggestion of a tip, but thus in his deck, he rounds the visitor mercilessly to avail himself of one of his services—the shopping tours around Cairo, lower and upper Egypt or Sinai.

More of the sot-sell variety, with strings attached, is Gamal, who has an instant, social welcome for the visitor with the problem of obtaining passport photos for press accreditation, especially when the established studios are expensive and the job takes time.

Over a bridge of the Nile, Gamal leads the way to an unlikely free-shaded spot where an obstinate photographer, behind his fingernails mahogany-stained from the chemicals of his trade, quickly produces six copies of a passport photo, using only an ancient camera on wobbly wooden legs.

A tip to Gamal seems appropriate. But wait," as a final service he will provide the required directions to the Central Television building. The strings are tightening.

Suddenly Gamal is enlightened. After all, he is only a "poor school teacher."

"We go to buy brother, he is very smart." Especially about selling perfume.

Then in a narrow passage, into a tiny carpeted shop, there is the brother-astrologer in a vast red velvet armchair. Such shops abound and the pressure to buy is as heavy as the ear-suffocating scent of mingling Double Jasmin, Queen Cleopatra, Heliotrope, Christmas Night and Scent of "Araby," to name but a few.

A young Canadian captain from the nearby United Nations base of Camp Ghezira fell under the spell of not such shop and sent off a consignment to his wife. One sniff, he says, and she wrote back: "Get to be kidding."

Brother Kamal, smiling, appears. "It is the custom to offer a drink, tea, coffee, cola? No, no, surely you would not offend custom . . . would give such pleasure to a poor merchant."

Kamal, a nervous, fidgety man of middle-age, wearing a plaid sport-shirt and precise gold-rimmed glasses, presses a button. A boy appears, Coke is ordered. Orange is delivered.

No matter, the subject now is perfume. From this little shop, could you believe, goes the essences that make many of the top perfumes of Paris, there to be diluted with alcohol, beautifully bottled and sold in Canada for as much as M Canadian dollars an ounce? But, here and now, one may buy a whole bottle of the stuff for only 15 Egyptian (about $35).

Maybe another time.

"Ah, but alas, only tomorrow the shop closes for 10 days. Today is a great feast day. "We must go to the desert to harvest our specially-grown flowers for the essences and perfumes." It's now or never, alas.

Well, maybe just a little then—ah, Secret of the Desert. "Until only 20 years ago it was illegal for Arab women to use this."

"Too dangerous," Kamal confides wickedly, explaining that it was created for the first wife of the late King Farouk and reserved only for the first wife.

Finally we are discussing an insignificant L2 variety. Things are not going well. The smile grows thin. Kamal yawns and uncrosses his legs, snaps at the boy who upset a box of labels.

"Because you are the first customer of the day two bottles only L5.50." And a little later, thrusting his hand forward to shake on the deal, "Because of the great friendship of the Arab peoples for the Canadians, only L5 the two bottles."

And so, although the service was fast, the passport photos were expensive.

But one departs wealthy in experience of the "Secrets of Cairo genies and perfume merchants."

Eight Plan 10,000-mile Junk Trip

HONG KONG (Reuter) — Eight men in a painstakingly built replica of a 13,000-year-old Chinese junk plan to sail 10,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean to prove that ancient Chinese seafarers could have landed on the American continent as long ago as 1,200 BC, nearly 2,500 years before Columbus.

The craft, named Tai Ki, is a replica of a 75-foot boat whose rock found near Canton in a grave of the Han Dynasty estimated from 200 BC to 220 AD.

It is made of seven solid logs lashed together by bamboo pegs, a perfect copy of junks built by centuries ago.

Skippered by Kuno Knobl, a 36-year-old Austrian adventurer, journalist and student of philosophy, the Tai Ki's seven-man crew will stick to the traditional Chinese sources's food of rice and fresh fish.

A traditional Chinese compass will be used for navigation and the only concession to the 20th century is a radio, to be used only in extreme emergencies.

The voyage is expected to take six months. The Tai Ki expects to pass within 100 miles of San Francisco and make its first landfall at the Gulf of Tehuantepec in southern Mexico.

The voyage will try to trace ancient Chinese crossings of the Pacific and the theory that Asian seafarers could have landed on pre-American continent nearly 1,000 years ago and influenced the cultures of Central and South America.

The junk is 36 feet long and 12 feet wide and its hull is secured by 4,000 wooden pegs and bamboo nails. The living quarters are bamboo huts on deck, but if they run into typhoons or hurricanes, the crew can move below with the provisions and ballast.

The navigator is Carl Frederik Grange, a 43-year-old Dane, who sailed from Denmark to Greece at the age of 19 and was chosen for his compatibility with Knobl, the leader.

Knobl and fellow-Austrian Arno Dammert, 25, have been planning the voyage for eight years. An agricultural engineer, Dessing has traveled through the Middle and Central Asian ports collecting data for the expedition.

The fourth member of the eighteam crew is also a Dane, Mogens Odi Allan Frandsen, 24, pilot and navigator. The other four berths are yet to be filled.

Videotapes Available

There will be a display of videotape equipment, available for free home use, at this year's Downtown Sidewalk Sale, July 18, 19, 20. The exhibit is sponsored by Videoaction, a provincial non-profit organization that is endeavouring to make this service known to the public. The display will be held in front of Walker's Department Store.

Computer Assists Fortress Restoration

LOUISBOURG, N.S. (CP) — A computer is helping recreate the Fortress of Louisbourg, once the pride of France, built to guard the St. Lawrence route to her North American colonies.

Louisbourg's fortifications have been on top of the other, obliterating most of the architectural traces, Louisbourg was relatively undisturbed until restoration began in the 1960s.

For 150 years the ruins were quarried for their stone and used for foundations in Halifax, 200 miles to the south. Not until 1928, when the Canadian government declared the area a national historic site, were serious attempts made at reconstruction. Organized archeological excavation of the largest building, the King's Bastion, was started in 1961.

While archeologists were excavating the King's Bastion and other buildings, historians searched for information about the fortress and adjoining town. They accumulated more than 500,000 pages of documents and more than 500 maps, as well as plans of the Fortress and colony.

The team studied the documents to try to unearth information about the appearance, function and structural details of buildings within the fort and town.

The task of cataloguing documents so designers may obtain information about a particular building was assigned to a young archeologist, Jason Henderson.

He was struggling with the cataloguing plans when it was suggested a computer might provide the solution. The computer was suitable for the crossreference file anticipated by Henderson.

When he suggested to his superiors that a computer could help, they were skeptical.

"Historians are traditionally wary of computers," he said. "I had to sell my idea to them. It wasn't easy, but they were absolutely fascinated by the results."

Henderson approached Carl Thiele, data processing instructor at the Nova Scotia Eastern Institute of Technology (NSEIT), and between them they developed a low-cost cataloguing system.

Since 1965 about 20 buildings inside the fortifications have been designed.

Cars to Parade

Saturday, July 20 at 1 p.m., the Downtown Street Festival will feature an antique and hot rod car caravan. The cars are owned and driven by members of the Belleville Car Club.

Belleville's Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps will be featured at this year's Downtown Summer Street Festival. The festival will be held Thursday and Friday evening, July 18 and 19, at 7:30 p.m.

Beam Shooting Popular in Japan

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan's ranges, but electronic beams latest sports craze is turning are used, not bullets.
bowling alleys into shooting Japan more than a year ago and there now are about 30 ranges.

The Japan Rifle Association said that an all-Japan beam shooting championship will be held for men and women in Tokyo Aug. 10-11. The sport also will be included among the official events in the 1975 national athletic meeting (Kokutai) at Mie, western Japan. (Kokutai, an annual national sports festival, was founded in 1946.)

Rifles and pistols used in beam shooting are the same size and weight as real fire-arms. They cannot fire bullets. They do not cause Japan's strict anti-fire arms law which prohibits civilian ownership of weapons.

Beam shooting includes rifle and pistol, trap and skeet and hunting. Stationary or moving animal replicas are used as targets.

Hits or misses are recorded electronically and there also sound effects. Shooters learn whether they have hit the target by watching a screen showing an enlarged image.

The first beam shooting range was established at Milano, Ibaraki, an entertainment centre in western Tokyo, in March, 1973.

Its popularity grew, with most of the ranges installed in bowling centres after a recent decline in popularity of bowling.

The Japan Rifle Association can only sanction rifle and pistol shooting, including beam shooting—as a sport. Trap and skeet shooting come under the Japan Clay Pigeon Shooting Association.

Some 10,000 people are members of the association. The association's director, Toshimitsu Okada, says beam shooting is being developed in the hope of introducing more people to pistols and rifles. Gun enthusiasts include mostly members of the self defence forces and the police because of gun restrictions laws.

Competitive events scheduled for this summer include 10-metre beam pistol, 20-metre beam centre fire pistol and 50-metre beam rapid fire pistol.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Q: Although we have lived in the Belleville area for some years, we have never explored much of Prince Edward County. We are now having some friends come to visit us and they say that they are particularly interested in seeing "Outside's Isle". Can you make any suggestion about a good way of doing this, Incidentally, is Prince Edward County really an "Isle"?

A: To answer your last question first, yes, the County is an island. Some manmade: The Murray Canal at Carrying Place was constructed across the neck of land that originally joined the County to the mainland. This canal is one of the links in the Trent-Severn Waterway System and provides a short-cut between the south end of Trent River and the open Lake Ontario for pleasure craft.

As to so often the case, we are inclined to travel miles away from home to see places of interest or beauty, completely ignoring that which is right on our doorstep.

A suggested trip, which, done in a leisurely manner, will provide a pretty complete cross-cutting of the varied aspects and charm of the County, is one of more or less circumnivigation it by road.

From Belleville, take the Highway 14 Causeway across the Bay to Rossmore. From there, follow the Bay shore west on County Road 3 through Rednersville to Carrying Place, with the view on the way, from the top of Goderich's Hill, looking north across the Bay up the Trent Valley.

At Carrying Place, take Highway 33 south, rounding the head of Weller's Bay to the village of Consecon. A side trip at this point can be achieved, taking the road east from the north end of Consecon Village along the south shore of Consecon Lake. By keeping to your right, you swing around the east end of the Lake, and on to County Road 1 along the south shore back to Highway 33 at Consecon Village.

Take Highway 33 south past Seaman Bay, through the villages of Bloomfield and Rose Hall and along the Lake Ontario shore, with a view to the southeast of the Sandbanks area, into Wellington. Here, a visit to the Wellington Historical Museum, located on Main Street in what was formerly a Society of Friends (Quaker) meeting house, is well worth while.

From Wellington, continue east on Highway 33 to Bloomfield, and here, take County Road 12 south, past West Lake, to the entrance to the Sandbanks Provincial Park. Turn left at this point (a four-way stop intersection) as I follow along the shore to the junction of County Road 18, turning right on it, past the entrance to Outlet Provincial Park and up the east side of East Lake to the village of Cherry Valley. Here, take County Road 10 east to the village of Milford and, from there, south on County Road 9 to South Bay.

At this point, a very worthwhile jaunt is to carry on east along Road 9, through the villages of South Bay, along the Prince Edward Bay shore of Long Point to the southernmost tip of Prince Edward at Point Traverse. This is a 'rough as a cob' backtracking as far as South Bay, but the variety of view makes up for it to some extent.

A pause at South Bay to investigate the Mariner's Memorial Lighthouse Museum can be rewarding, before continuing north on County Road 13 past the Black River Cheese Factory, up the heavily wooded hill and along the ridge with its magnificent view over Smith's Bay to the junction with County Road 8.

Continuing east on County Road 8, you go through the village of Waupoos, along the shore of Prince Edward Bay, and finally, across to Prinyer's Cove. On the way, you can visit the Waupoos Marsh, through Waupoos II Waupoos.

From Prinyer's Cove, County Road 7 will take you west along the shore of Adolphus Reach to the Lake-in-the-Mountain and Cherry Valley, at which point you pick up Highway 33 into the town of Picton.

At Picton, take Highway 49 north along the high shore of Picton Bay and Hayward Beach with superb views across the Hay Bay area. By taking County Road 11, you can continue along the shore of the Reach rather than cutting inland on the Highway. This County Road will take you under the Highway bridge and along the shore of the Bay of Quinte through Northport to Demorestville.

From there, follow County Road 14 west to its junction with Highway 14. Turn north on Highway 14 past Mountain View Airfield and on to Rossmore and Belleville.

To complete your tour of museums in the County, a short side trip on this last leg of your route will take you to the Ameliasburgh Museum. By turning west off Highway 14 onto County Road 2 about two miles after passing Mountain View Airport, following this road to its junction with County Road 18 and then on 19 to Ameliasburgh. You will come to the Museum located in a former church building in the village.

From Ameliasburgh you can either retrace your route to Highway 14 at Mountain View, and so into Belleville, or take County Road 23 to Rednersville and east along the shore to Rossmore.

Auguste Piccard Being Re-fitted

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — The largest non-military submarine in the world is undergoing an expected year-long reconditioning before starting a new career exploring oceans floors.

The 57-foot Auguste Piccard, originally used for sightseeing during the National Exhibition in 1954, is owned by Horton Maritime Explorations Ltd.

"The inside is being stripped down and, we're putting in new systems, also a diesel-electric power plant," said Paul Howard, operations manager.

"And we're fitting her out to a crew can stay aboard at sea."

He said the refit will have only a three-man crew with special space taken up with experimental equipment. When used as a sightseeing vessel, the sub carried about 48 passengers.

The diesel-electric installation will allow the vessel to recharge its batteries at sea. Previously they had to be charged from shore power.

Mr. Howard said the submarine originally cost the Swiss government $120,000 but the major refit will bring cost up to an estimated $2.5 million. She was built in 1953 at a cost of one million.

He said the first work for the refurbished sub is expected to be a survey through Jervis Inlet, geographical and geophysical survey of the ocean bottom—with a

CBC Programs Slight West

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — A University of Lethbridge political science professor writing his doctoral thesis on the history of the CBC says the corporation must begin developing more regional stations where local shows can be produced.

Roger Rickwood added that criticism that CBC network programming tends to ignore much of the regions of Canada is justified.

"With time and increased expertise, more western productions should be broadcast on the eastern networks, instead of the imbalanced eastern-to-western exchange now occurring."

Prof. Rickwood added that the "centralized news" now presented by the CBC would be improved by increasing regional stations.

Gasoline Supply and Price Influence Vacation Decisions

By GERRY BOURDEAU
The Canadian PRESS

The easing energy shortage and ever-increasing costs are expected to be important factors this summer in the travel habits of both Canadians and foreigners.

While gasoline supplies are expected to be abundant, especially in Western Canada, higher prices should affect travel plans, a Gone-Gone-Around Survey by The Canadian Press shows.

Provincial spokesmen say they expect an increased number of United States visitors but guess they will use other modes of transportation than cars.

Long-distance travel also is expected to decrease, with most visitors finding a cottage, hotel or camping site and staying nearby.

The picture by province:

ONTARIO

Resort operators expect a substantial increase in the number of vacationers, although accommodation rates will be increased 10 to 15 per cent.

Some operators predict rates will increase more than anticipated because of inflationary factors.

A provincial government spokesman said holiday spots in central Ontario are already booked for July and August and inquiries to government tourist offices near the United States border have increased 10 to 20 per cent.

The spokesman said this is a sure sign U.S. travellers are feeling the pinch of the energy problem and are looking for areas with good supplies.

The lure of plentiful supplies of fuel in Ontario was to have been emphasized in tourism advertising in the U.S. but the idea was dropped when it was suggested it might cause political embarrassment.

But despite high supplies, the government spokesman said, more tourists are using public transportation to get to holiday spots.

Night life, cottages, swimming and fishing are the major drawing cards for the Ontario tourist industry.

QUEBEC

Tourism is big business in Quebec, second only to the pulp and paper industry, said Claude Simard, provincial tourism minister.

It generated about $1.4 billion in direct receipts in 1973 and promoted economic activity worth $2.5 billion, he said.

About 80 per cent of visitors to Quebec travel by car and Robert Prevost, deputy minister of tourism, does not expect that trend to change.

"No one can know what the situation will be for August but all indications in the past few weeks show we should not suffer from the energy crisis."

Mr. Prevost feels tourists are attracted to Quebec because of its different culture and the variety of natural scenery.

Montreal is the big attraction. About five million people visited the city in 1973—23 per cent of them Canadians, 42 per cent from the U.S. and 35 per cent from other countries. They spent an estimated $250 million.

Quebec now is in the process of making a concentrated effort to attract U.S. tourists in the next two years during its bicentennial celebrations.

PRAIRIES

The Prairie provinces expect one of the best tourist years on record. All are placing emphasis on abundant gasoline supplies and lower prices than elsewhere.

They expect a large increase in U.S. visitors and officials predict that some Canadian travellers who usually head east for their holidays will turn west this year because of lower gasoline prices.

Alberta spokesman say Expo 74 in Spokane, Wash., will attract many travellers who will head to the fair by way of the Prairies.

Bob Finlay, a spokesman for the Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce, said the department has "received more enquiries about Saskatchewan and all of Western Canada as a result rather than we usually receive in an entire year."

He said more tourists are turning to the northern regions and many residents are buying camps in the north because it offers alternatives to vacationing.

More than three million tourists are spent about $150 million in Manitoba last year and more are expected this year, said Will Organ, director of the provincial tourism branch.

Like the other Prairie provinces, Manitoba emphasizes its northern region and hopes to attract an increased number of U.S. and Eastern Canadian visitors.

British Columbia expects about 10 million tourists this year, a five-per-cent increase over 1973. Tourism has become the No. 1 industry in Vancouver and region and is third provincially, behind forestry and mining.

"We still have more tourists from other parts of Canada visiting us. They will not wish to chance gasoline shortages in the U.S.," said Hugh Main, general manager of the Greater Vancouver Visitors and Convention Bureau.

Camping and outdoor recreation are big incentives for vacationers who decide to visit the coastal province.

Tourist organizations have started a new advertising campaign designed to attract visitors from Pacific-rim countries.

THE MARITIMES

Although expecting the usual influx of U.S. and central Canadian travellers, the Atlantic region has traditionally relied on Eastern Canadians for a large proportion of its tourist traffic.

All four provinces boast scenic wilderness parks.

Earlier this year, the New Brunswick government announced an advertising campaign expected to boost tourism by five per cent over 1973.

New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia have decided to stay in the bordering U.S. states but they also have been using national television in Canada to promote Atlantic-region travelling.

About 50 per cent of the tourists who travel in Newfoundland by automobile come from Nova Scotia, Ontario and other eastern provinces while 39 to 35 per cent originate in the U.S.

Camping visitors in Newfoundland increased 19.9 per cent in 1973.

TERRITORIES

For those looking for something different and willing to pay more for gasoline and other services, the Yukon and Northwest Territories offer a variety of outdoor activities.

From mountain climbing or travelling by train or foot over the gold-rush trail, the territories have enjoyed a recent increase in the number of tourists.

Camping, hunting, fishing, boating and the call of true frontier country are beginning to lure vacationers from southern regions and the U.S.

Tourism added more than $25 million to the Yukon economy in 1973 with 213,374 visitors counted, compared with a resident population of only 20,000. The largest number of visitors came from California—13.4 per cent.

On the other hand, 79 per cent of the visitors to the Northwest Territories were Canadians.

Panhandling Is Hard Work

TORONTO (CP) — It's a rare person who can make $20 a day at the panhandling game, but Rick Turner, 18, says "If I was really serious about it, I suppose I might make $30 a day. It's hard work and I figure a job would be a lot easier."

Rick came to Toronto from Timmins, Ont., and began panhandling.

He became part of a team, when Susan Foley, 17, and John Boden, 18, of Sault Ste. Marie, met Rick and decided to pool resources.

They often split up to approach people for money, claiming this method is less intimidating than if they approached as a group.

"Panhandling is a drag," John said. "We're so busy getting money to eat that we don't have time to look for a job."

"I always stay away from businessmen," said Susan. "They could be lawyers or cops and I'm scared of getting busted."

She said she never tries mothers or women who look like mothers. "They are usually on tight budgets."

Goony Golf Makes Madcap Morning

Anything is possible in Belleville - - - even to the point of turning Front Street into a seven-hole golf course. Using clubs and beach balls, early birds putted, dribbled and kicked their way down Front Street stopping every now and then to let a city bus "play through." The golf game served as a kick or "put-off" for the downtowner's sidewalk sale that begins today.

BGH Nurses Expected To Approve Contract

By early this afternoon nurses at Belleville General Hospital are expected to have ratified the first uniform settlement reached between nurses, and hospitals in Ontario.

In all, three meetings were called between duty shifts at BGH to ratify the agreement.

Meetings Wednesday afternoon and again at 8 a.m. today saw the nurses approve the settlement which averaged pay increases of 6.50 per cent. The final two-hour session was set for 1:30 p.m. today.

Dora Fluxston, president of the 280-member BGH nurses association, said Wednesday's meetings - which drew about 100 nurses to Education Hall - "voted overwhelmingly" to accept the award.

For both nurses and administration at BGH, the negotiations marked the end of long-drawn, fatal negotiating that started late last year. Contract talks eventually went to conciliation without result. Arbitration was set for mid-June when the nurses united with colleagues at other hospitals throughout the province and started a province bargaining through the newly-certified Ontario Nurses Association.

The settlement increases a nurse's starting salary to $520 a month, retroactive to Jan. 1 By Jan. 1, 1975, it will be $610 and by Jan. 1975, it will reach $640.

Maximum salaries for experienced nurses will increase by 50 per cent during the 18-month contract.

Last week, when 90% an award was first suggested, BGH administration officials estimated such a settlement might cost the hospital about $460,000.

The settlement was based on a recent arbitration award at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Carey Robinson, executive director of St. Catharines General Hospital and spokesman for the hospitals' bargaining committee, said later: "While we consider the Ottawa award to be excessive, we nevertheless support the system of arbitration as being the most reasonable method of settling differences.

An official of one hospital estimated the agreement would exceed $30 million over the contract's 18 months.

In an interview, however, Health Minister Frank Miller pledged there would be no increase in the cost of Ontario Health Insurance Plan premiums. He said he did not expect any increases in 1975 either.

"The money for this increase will have to come from general revenue," he said.

Most significant part of the agreement was the breakthrough the nurses achieved in bargaining for a uniform wage contract, said Anne Gribbon, director of employment for the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario.

"There are still a lot of tag ends to be sorted out, but we're on our way to a totally uniform procedure," she said.

Besides setting a uniform pay scale, the agreement also provides fringe benefit improvements. These include higher night shift differentials, improved overtime pay, an holiday bank and four weeks paid vacation after five years.

Some Nurses Not Included

PETERBOROUGH — Nurses at Peterborough Civic Hospital voted Wednesday to strike by Aug. 1 if hospital administrators refuse to bargain their contract which expires Jan. 31, 1975.

The hospital is one of 14 in Ontario where registered nurses are locked into contracts with hospital boards.

The nurses may not benefit from a pay settlement reached Wednesday unless the boards agree to re-open the contracts.

A spokesman for the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario RNAO, the nurses' professional association, said nurses at another seven Ontario hospitals are in a similar position with regard to the contract settlement which averaged 19,000 nurses pay increases of 45 to 50 per cent.

Anne Gribben, RNAO director of employment, said in an interview that although there was a representative from the nurses' association at each of the seven hospitals in Ontario throughout the negotiations, administrators from these hospitals did not attend and did not sign the agreement.

"There's the fellas I want to put the pressure on," she said.

Miss Gribben said that while most of the hospital boards did not participate in the negotiations have indicated they will follow the agreement, they will be given until Aug. 1 to officially ratify the contracts.

"That will leave their nurses free to do what is necessary," she said.

The seven hospital boards who did not participate in the negotiations, which began June 21, are from the Sarnia General, the Sydenham District Hospital at Wallaceburg, the Welland County General the Oshawa General, the Leamington District Hospital, Dryden District General and the Alexander Marion in Goderich.

Hospitals still locked into the terms of current wage contracts include those in Bay Civic, the Sault Ste. Marie General, St. Joseph's and Cheddoke Hospitals in Hamilton, three Sudbury hospitals, Brockville General, Peel Memorial, North York General, Windsor Western and Peterborough Civic.

Humane Society Shelter for Sale

Quinte Animal Shelter on Avonlough Road will be sold.

The 64-acre property is already in the hands of a real estate agent. The property includes a large barn, once used by the area artificial insemination unit for its bulls' and a house now occupied by regional Humane Society Inspector Harry Brown.

News of the sale was received here Monday by Quinte Branch Humane Society president, Mrs. Mary Hughes. She called an emergency meeting Wednesday night to inform the board of directors.

In the letter, a copy of one sent to Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey, Tom Hughes, executive vice-president of the Ontario Humane Society, said a small modern shelter will be built to replace the present one.

"I have been notified by the executive (of the Ontario Humane Society) to place the building for sale," said Mr. Hughes in his letter. "I cannot see any hope of regional support for the regional shelter in the near future. In the absence of that support, the present building will be sold. I regret to say, some years, completely uneconomical."

The Quinte shelter, the largest in the province, has been used by the society to accommodate large farm animals taken in seizures by society inspectors.

In addition to regional inspector Harry Brown, the staff includes shelter manager Mrs. L. S. Price, six full-time workers and one part-time.

The staff is inadequate to properly maintain the shelter, said Mrs. Helen McDougall of Peterborough, president of the Ontario Humane Society. She said the exercise "very reluctantly" made the decision to sell it.

"There is not the population in the area to support so large a shelter," she said. "It was increasingly hard to keep up proper standards and the property was going downhill."

Money realized from the sale will be used to build a smaller shelter that the staff can maintain properly, Mrs. McDougall said. The society has no prospective buyer and no location in mind for the smaller new shelter.

"There will be no change in the service to the community," said Mrs. McDougall.

Council Monday night agreed to up the price it pays for animal control from 75 cents per person to 75 cents.

Belleville is, the only municipality in the Quinte area contracting with the society for animal control.

Tourist Injured

An American motorist was admitted to Belleville General Hospital Wednesday afternoon following a three-vehicle collision on Highway 62 near the exit to the Shannonville Motor Tourist Road.

David Thomas Bamford, of Baltimore, Maryland, received fractured ribs and concussion in the 2:45 p.m. accident.

Ontario Provincial Police say the Bamford car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Jacob Kruyssendam of Montreal and was knocked through the median, into the other lane, where it was struck by a transport driven by Thomas Fraiger of Ramsay. The tractor-trailer was flipped on its side by the impact and one vehicle caught fire. No estimate of damage is available.

Atmosphere, Scenery Attract Art Students

ACTINOLITE — In the premises of Quinte country are being busily transformed to canvas broadcasts by artists from around Ontario.

The creativity centres once again on the Schneider School of Fine Arts, now into another summer as a retreat for talent seeking its perpetual twin quest—inspiration and improvement.

It's the 19th year for the schools for the country. They've recurringly as ever Mary Schneider, "The Polish-Born artist of international repute started the school with her husband, Roman, Today, she believes, their creation is among the best summer art schools in the country. There may be bigger—like Banff — but the Actinolite centre has a unique character that's kept it growing, says Mrs. Schneider.

The description she gives is "homey" — an environment that makes for total involvement of both students and instructors in pursuit of refining their art.

The centre was deliberately designed for that effect. Folded into the banks of a picturesque reach of the Skootamatta River, it's facilities are housed in log cabins — some of them restored pioneer originals. It's a refreshing setting that makes for warm relationships and inspiration, says Mrs. Schneider.

So much so, she has trouble convincing some students when to quit.

"They'll work until 3 a.m. at night. I can't make them go to sleep, says Mary Schneider. "That's something you can't find somewhere else."

Then there's the surrounding Quinte countryside, with its diversity of stream, lakes, rock formations and forests.

"I'm in love with this country," says Anita Carson, painter and art teacher at Ottawa University, currently instructing at Actinolite. "When I've finished instructing, I'm going to stay on and do some sketching of my own."

Instruction at the school is excellent, says Mary Kellock, who is an instructor in Montreal but comes here every summer.

"There's always something new to learn."

Not everyone, apparently, here agrees so reasonably of the school.

"Someone once said there are two kinds of people, the fascinated," says Mary Schneider. "Of course, they come to enjoy themselves. But these are serious artists."

The Ontario Arts Council apparently agrees. Recently, in recognition of the school's cultural contribution, the council awarded the centre 1,500 for instruction purposes.

Many of the students are leading artists in their own right, with exhibitions to their credit. This week - the school's instructors included artist from Ottawa, Sarnia, St. Catharines, Oshawa, as well as the Quinte area.

"What has happened is that, over the years, people coming here get so involved in art, they eventually become artistic leaders in their own communities," says Mrs. Schneider.

The Talk Is Art

Mary Schneider (right) discusses work of Flo Nisbet, past-president of St. Catharines Art Association, as Audrey MacLean, Oshawa, continues at work in background. Impromptu exchanges are part of intimate atmosphere shared by students and instructors at Actinolite art school.

Protests Tie Up Hydro Project

BATH — A labor dispute at the Lennox Generating Station here continues into the third day causing work slowdowns and some traffic confusion.

At issue, said Norm Manning, public relations officer with Ontario Hydro, Eastern Region, is a "jurisdictional dispute" involving three sections, a Toronto construction firm, the laborers' union and the pipefitters' union."

The exact number of people off work is not known but 331 pipefitters are off the job. They feel the laborers are doing their job," said Mr. Manning. The other trades are refusing to cross the picket lines set up.

Work is carrying on among the 1,500 Hydro employees at the station but there is a lot of confusion and inconvenience, admitted Mr. Manning.

The dispute began Tuesday morning when bus or three private vehicles carrying unutilized, said Mr. Manning, were voted with hard hitters signs saying that a Toronto construction firm was unfair to local trades.

This resulted eventually in a heavy traffic jam on Highway 33 and Airport Road in the area.

Pickets likewise were in front of the station Wednesday morning. "Such a situation resulted in few trade people coming in to work," said Mr. Manning. "We had OPP and our (Hydro) security forces escorting order to the traffic jam that resulted," he added.

"From the Ontario Hydro point of view this is an illegal strike," said Mr. Manning.

Some of the pipefitters travel to the station by bus from Toronto and by today no one was on the bus, said Mr. Manning.

The local trades affected by the pipefitters' walk, besides the pipefitters, boilermakers, carpenters, electricians, iron workers, millwrights, laborers and operating engineers.

Mr. Manning noted that today he noticed more people at work than on the other six days. "This could be because today is payday. There are more cars here today than before and traffic is back to normal."

Mr. Manning said he was not sure what would happen next. "We get all our Hydro workers working here and there is a lot of inconvenience," he said.

The Toronto construction firm has the contract for work on five protected, is not all storage area. They are all working since their work is in a different area of the station than the other trades.

Convenience Food Chain Building Head Office

Expansion is an all-round affair for Belleville's Dixie Lee Company Ltd.

According to a company spokesman, sales are steadily increasing numbers of stores operating and 10 per cent increase in head office staff has made necessary construction of a new Belleville head office in the city's northwest industrial park, off Wallbridge Road.

Norm Morrison, advertising manager for the company said Dixie Lee's 180th outlet will begin operation in Kitchener next week. Located in a mall, the store marks a first for the company, which until this time took over only free standing buildings.

"Our growth has been successful we'll move into more mall complexes," said Morrison.

Dixie Lee, launched by brothers Ramon and Douglas Walmsley of Belleville in 1964, now has outlets from the Maritimes to the Yukon and "south" into New York State, Seven of the stores are company-owned.

Mr. Morrison said the company intends moving into its new head office by September 1.

The head office will not serve as an outlet, but will incorporate a warehouse facility for storage of prepackaged supplied to each of the company's stores.

Dixie Lee manager Bill Hunt said the building is expected to cost about 200,000 and be styled in a Georgian look, spanning 5,000 square feet.

The company — on a three-expansion trail — is looking for a more concentrated franchise network in Ontario, according to Mr. Morrison, and particularly studies are being carried on in Ireland and England.

Time Runs Out on Four WFL Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although the clock told a different story, time ran out on the Hawaiians, Jacksonville Sharks, Detroit Wheels and New York Stars Wednesday night. As a result, all four suffered World Football League losses.

The Hawaiians, losing 23-0 after three periods, scored 21 points in the fourth quarter but wound up, 38-31 losers to the Southern California Sun at Anaheim.

Chicago's Chuck Ramsey kicked a 28-yard field goal with six seconds remaining to give the Fire a 25-22 triumph over the Sharks.

Florida's Tommy Reamon scored on a five-yard run with 1:37 remaining, then the Blazers stopped Detroit on the one-yard line with 10 seconds left to save an 18-14 decision over the Wheels at Ypsilanti, Mich.

And in New York, Birmingham quarterback George Mira, formerly with Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, connected with wide receiver Dennis Homan for a 73-yard touchdown with 2:15 left, then the Stars missed a 35-yard field goal with 36 seconds remaining and lost 32-29 to the Americans after leading 29-3 at halftime.

In Wednesday night's other game, Houston Texans blanked Philadelphia Bell 11-0. Portland Storm visits Memphis Southmen in tonight's game.

Attendance was lower in the league's second week of competition. Last week's block-buster figures of 168,978 for five games dropped to 87,000 for six games Wednesday night.

O'Hara Upsets Stone

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Unseeded Jane O'Hara of Toronto defeated second-seeded Susan Stone of Vancouver 4-6, 6-2 and 6-4 in a first-round upset in women's singles competition at the Ontario open tennis tournament Wednesday.

In men's singles action, all top seeds, including top-seeded Eric Pebbicker of France, advanced.

Miss O'Hara, 22, a University of Toronto student, said after the upset that she has not played in organized tennis for about a year and a half.

Miss O'Hara has won every national Canadian junior-age championship in the under-12, 14, 16 and 18-year-old categories.

Wings Stung

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Gaylord Powless scored three goals and picked up two assists Wednesday night to lead Syracuse Stingers to a 10-4 win over Philadelphia Wings in a National Lacrosse League game.

A crowd of 3,946 saw the Stingers keep the Wings from scoring in the third period, the first time all season any team has failed to score for a full period.

Debbicker defeated Rejean Genois of Quebec in two straight sets—7-6 and 7-5.

In other men's singles action, Robert Chaves of Mexico defeated Les Sallay of Vancouver 6-1, 6-0, and Louis DeMarteaux of London downed Keith Carpenter of Toronto—one of the top Canadian players and a former Davis Cup performer—6-4, 7-6, and 6-3.

Miami Blanks Toronto 3-0

TORONTO (CP) — Warren Archibald set up the first Miami goal and scored the third himself unassisted as the Toros blanked Toronto Metros 3-0 Wednesday night in a North American Soccer League game.

A crowd of 2,372 saw Archibald set up Ralph Wright for the only goal of the first half.

Ronnie Sharpy scored on a play started by Esteban Arguinzi in the second half and Archibald completed the Miami scoring three minutes later.

The win moved Miami into second place in the NASL East Division while Toronto remains in fourth in the North Division.

Alouettes Whip Tiger-Cats

Sweet Ties CFL Record

HAMILTON (CP) — Montreal Alouettes played in mid-season form Wednesday night while running over Hamilton Tiger-Cats 41-10 to finish their Canadian Football League exhibition schedule with a 4-0 record.

Kicker Don Sweet's 23 points, including a record-tying six field goals, led Montreal's win. Sweet, who converted touchdowns by rookie wide receiver Brian Baines, tight-end Howard Hilts and defensive halfback Phil Price, who returned an intercepted pass 55 yards for the score.

Sweet's field goals equalled performances by Ottawa Rough Riders' Gerry Organ last season in a league game at Lansdowne Park, Sept. 22, against Edmonton Eskimos and Dave Cutler of the Eskimos in a league game against Saskatchewan Roughriders at Edmonton, Oct. 22, 1972.

Sweet also kicked two singles, one on a missed field goal and the other on an 85-yard kickoff following Price's major score.

Dave Fleming, on a 30-yard toss from Bill Ebker, on the final play of the third quarter, accounted for the Hamilton touchdown.

Ian Sunter kicked the convert and added a 26-yard field goal.

Neither team was able to finish its plays around the goal line in the first half, but the Alouettes defence put enough pressure on Hamilton to give the Montreal-ers possession of the ball most of the time.

The Alouettes got in close enough for Sweet to kick his first three field goals as they opened a 9-3 lead at the half and carried a 20-10 lead into the final 15 minutes when the roof fell in on Hamilton rookie quarterback Jim Stowell.

Coach Jerry Williams was forced to go with the youngster after regular quarterback Chuck Ealey went down with a hip injury in the opening quarter and Bill Ebter was knocked cold after throwing for the score by Fleming.

With the Alouette front four and linebackers pursuing Stowell on every play, the 22-year-old signal caller had little opportunity to generate any sort of attack and was forced into costly mistakes.

The more than 20,671 fans at Ivor Wynne Stadium started for the exit gates soon after Price's interception when the Montreal player jogged in for the score with only three or four of his team-mates keeping pace and not a Tiger close.

It was all Montreal in the statistical review as they led in first downs, 21-11; yards rushing, 255-55 yard-s passing, 198-136; and net offence, 362-185.

In addition, the Alouettes came up with four interceptions in the game and returned them another 134 yards.

Gibson Passes the 3,000 Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Gibson has more strikeouts than any major league baseball pitcher except the great Walter Johnson whom he trails by 505.

Gibson reached the 3,003-strikeout plateau Wednesday night during the St. Louis Cardinals' 8-4 13-inning loss to Cincinnati Reds. Only Johnson with 3,508 has struck out more batters.

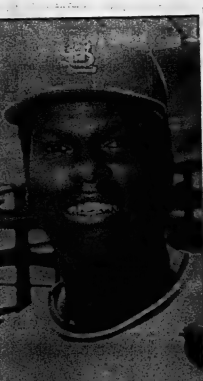
The Cardinal right-hander got his 3,000th strikeout by fanning Cesar Geronimo in the second inning and added three more before departing after seven innings with the score tied at 4-4.

"I thought he was getting a little tired," St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst said of Gibson, 38, who is in his 16th major league season.

In other National League games, San Francisco Giants beat New York Mets 6-2, Pittsburgh Pirates routed Houston Astros 11-3, Atlanta Braves turned back Chicago Cubs 7-2, San Diego Padres blasted Philadelphia Phillies 12-1, and Montreal Expos nipped Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4.

Long after Gibson had gone, George Foster's two-run double in the 13th inning gave the Reds their victory. A walk to Darrel Chaney and a single by Dave Concepcion preceded Foster's game-winning hit.

Willie Davis hit three singles and Mike Jorgensen knocked in the decisive run with a sacrifice fly, helping Montreal to Los Angeles.



Bobby Bonds drove in three runs with a home run and a sacrifice fly, powering San Francisco over New York. Larry Maddox collected three hits, scored twice and stole three bases for the Giants.

Richie Zisk had a hand in six Pittsburgh rung and rookie Larry Demery pitched his first major league victory in the Pirates' rout of Houston.

Demery, who had been 0-4 in six previous starts, also had a run-scoring triple in the third inning, his first major league hit. He was relieved in the eighth by Ramon Hernandez after Houston scored three runs.

Dusty Baker's double snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the seventh inning and Reverend Offie followed with a two-run single, sending Atlanta over Chicago.

Bobby Tolan hit a pair of three-run homers and Fred Kendall added a three-run blast as Cincinnati swept over Philadelphia. The long-ball attack Pete Rose, Johnny Bench, Tolan, who pitched a seven-hitter.

Expos ½-game Behind Phillies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Davis laced three singles and Mike Jorgensen knocked in the decisive run with a sacrifice fly, helping Montreal Expos stop the staggering Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4 Wednesday night in a National League baseball game.

The victory moved Montreal to within one-half game of first-place Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East while the Dodgers' advantage in the West Division was shaved to 2½ games over Cincinnati Reds. The loss was the Dodgers' sixth straight.

The Dodgers lost pitcher Tommy John early when he suffered a muscle in his left side while making a pitch in the third inning.

John was working with a 4-0 lead when he encountered trouble in the third. Davis, who had five hits in Tuesday night's doubleheader, singled and Bob Bailey walked.

John then injured his arm while pitching to Hal Breeden and was replaced by Geoff Zahn.

In the fourth inning, successive singles by Larry Lintz, Davis and Bailey produced the tying run.

Knuckleballer Charlie Hough then took over for Zahn and was tagged for Jorgensen's sacrifice fly to deep right field which scored Davis with the tie-breaking run.

Zahn struck out Breeden but a single by Ron Woods scored two runs and Woods later scored himself on a single by Barry Foote.

Pitchers Named

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, winner of 15 consecutive games, and Kansas City's Steve Busby, who has pitched the only no-hitter in the major leagues this season, headed an eight-man pitching staff named Wednesday for the American League all-star team.

In addition to Perry and Busby, American League Manager Dick Williams of California Angels selected Jim Hunter and Rollie Fingers of Oakland A's, John Hiller of Detroit Tigers, Luis Tiant of Boston Red Sox, Wilbur Wood of Chicago White Sox and Mike Cuellar of Baltimore Orioles.

The combined over-all record of the staff that will face the National League's best hitters Tuesday night in the all-star game at Pittsburgh was 98-58 through games of Tuesday.

Humidity Helps Wilbur's Knuckler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"He had a great knuckleball because it was hot, and humid," catcher Ed Herrmann said after Wilbur Wood won his 19th game of the season, a three-hitter in a 7-1 Chicago White Sox victory Wednesday night over Detroit Tigers.

"Don't ask me why, but when it's hot and humid the ball breaks real good."

Just one point, Wood retired 10 consecutive batters.

In other American League games, Oakland A's beat Baltimore Orioles 3-0, Boston Red Sox topped Kansas City Royals 6-3, California Angels defeated Cleveland Indians 7-1, Minnesota Twins pounded Milwaukee Brewers 10-5, and Texas Rangers blanked New York Yankees 2-0.

"It was another good game," said Wood, who did Catfish Hunter, Gaylord Perry as the wreslegest pitcher in the major leagues.

Ken Henderson, who had three hits, drove in two runs and Sal Bando in the eighth. The win was Wood's 10th straight in seven games.

Boston rammed to a 1½-game lead over second-place Baltimore in the East behind the sixhit pitching of Roger Moret.

Carl Yastrzemski and Tommy Harper hit leadoff homers in the fourth and fifth innings, respectively. Yastrzemski's homer tied the game 2-2, and the Red Sox went ahead to stay later in the fourth when Doug Rich Burleson drove in Rico Petrocelli with a sacrifice fly.

Lee Stanton singled in two runs in a four-run eighth inning and then singled in two more in a three-run ninth as California overcame a 5-0 deficit. Stanton's single in the ninth came after Bobby Grich had hit the tying run.

The Indians, who fell two games behind Boston, scored twice in its fourth inning and then Buddy Bell hit a three-run homer in the fifth to give Jim

Warriors, Globals Edged

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A squeeze bunt by Walt Sigfriend in the top of the seventh inning scored Norm Headley home with the winning run Wednesday as Niagara Falls Sphinxmen blanked Woodstock Warriors 1-0 in Ontario Football Association action.

In the 3rd softer game, Hamilton nipped Toronto Globals 1-0.

At Woodstock, pitcher Bob Ed Neubert combined to limit Woodstock to two hits, striking out eight batters.

Bill Fiddis went the distance for Niagara, striking out seven and surrendering two hits.

Old Diz Always Ready To Help

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Dizzy Dean was in his prime, he was stingy with his and loved to laugh batters out of the field after he struck them out. But mindful of his lean years as a cotton picker in the Arkansas hills, he encouraged kids his pocket to help fellow players.

Only two weeks ago while Dean was being interviewed in Mississippi, he heard that Marshall Bridges, a former Yankee pitcher now living in Jackson, Miss., had been invited to the Yankees' old-timers game but had fallen on hard times.

Dean whipped out a $100 bill and handed it to Bridges' wife, John Stamm of the Jackson Clarion Ledger.

"You need something, podnah, I'll make sure he gets checked out," Dean told Stamm.

Dean, a member of the St. Louis Cards' Gashouse Gang, died Wednesday of a heart attack at 63 in Reno, Nev.

Dizzy Dean not only was one of baseball's most colorful characters," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "He was one of the game's greatest pitchers."

Jim Mooney, who was in the Cards' rotation in 1934 and 1934, said:

I recall during the 1934 World Series with Detroit that Hank Greenberg was having a tough time hitting St. Louis pitching. Greenberg finally got a single. Dizzy said Greenberg laughed at him on the way to first base.

The next time Hank got up, Dizzy struck him out with three straight fast balls. Dizzy stopped in his tracks and walked to the dugout on them, laughing at Greenberg all the way."

But Terry Moore, who played centerfield for the Cards during Dean's last three seasons with the club, remembered:

"If he liked the fellow batting against him, he'd let him have a hit if he were ahead," said Moore.

"He was always ready and willing to go to the bullpen," said Bill Hallahan, a St. Louis team-mate of Dean's from 1931 until he was said to be finished at Reds in 1936.

"One day during the World Series . . . said Hallahan, now 71 and living in Binghampton, N.Y., "before Frankie Frisch could find a pitch running . . . Diz, was halfway to first base volunteering to run."

Dean's way with words was praised by Buddy Blattner who teamed with Dean in baseball telecasts from 1953 to 1960.

"Diz became a legend in literally thousands of people who didn't know if he threw right-handed or left-handed. And didn't care."

For Clarke Newton, Racing Is A Business

By ALAN TESWORTH
Staff Sportswriter

Clarke Newton is a horse racing person. And that's in the strictest sense of the meaning, for Clarke earns his living at the game, and enjoys it.

A veteran horseman, Newton has had some good times and bad. He's been at the game for some 25 years now, and has been paying his way with shares of horses and training mostly his own. He's about 15 of the quarter century.

He got started with the horses when he was about nine or ten.

"I used to come around the fair here in Belleville, being born and raised here, but rather than hang around the midway like the rest of the kids, I used to get a few horses onto the track.

Back although not into racing like Clarke, held the trainer's license with Clarke doing the driving.

Newton remembers his first drive, in a Stake race in Kingston. He had some good results, finishing fifth out of 18 horses in the final tally.

Another driver not entirely familiar to local racing fans, Larry Zebedee, took hold to Clarke with some baseball memories. Larry was taken in the first race he drove in by Newton, being too young at the time to hit the reins himself.

In the present scheme of things, Newton has three horses he looks after.

He handles Hilltop Bill for Colbourne Hess of Orono.

"He's starting to straighten himself out," Newton says, "he should be coming along."

A five year old gelding, Trend River George, is the one Newton is highest on. A half brother to R. Yankee Wann, the fastest pacer ever bred in Canada, Clarke is a trotter that has yet to run a race.

"He got a little ugly when he was a stud", and it seemed nobody could handle him. He's quieted down some now since he was gelded, and should be racing by this fall, we hope."

The third horse, "just a good, old, kind horse," according to Newton, Ron Way, is the one horse in the stable that has raced, although never for anything too big.

"He's just a Friday night horse, nothing too flashy, but steady for the Belleville track," adds Newton.

The 10 year old gelding has a lifetime mark of 3:12:4, not bad considering the rough life he has had. The veteran pacer has been almost more than once in transport, and even experienced a fire in a barn he was stabled in once. Newton says "He's actually lucky he's alive."

The horse, owned by Margaret McCarthy, will start out of the seventh post position in the second race at the Belleville oval Friday night, hoping to improve on last week's fifth place finish.

The feature race of the night will see six horse facing the starting gate in the ninth, when they go for $800 in the Corby's Select Invitational.

Zorro Groton, with Hugh Wemp in the sulky will have the rail position, with Jimmy Berg, along side, with Guy La Rush driving. David Johnston will guide Third Son, with Gary Filson up with Prima Blossom. Blake Cameron will start out of the five hole with Doug Brown the driver...with Al Vance's Johnny Command rounding out the six horse field, out the six horse field.

The race could be the fastest one of the year so far at the local track, with the six starters all capable of breaking the existing track mark of 2:02.4, held by Early Lake's John, set in 1968. Vance's Johnny Command went over the five-eights Provincial Down Track last Sunday in 2:01:4.

Post time for the first race on the 10-heat card is 8 p.m. The card will feature five quinelas and five exacters.

Trent River George, a half brother to R. Yankee Wann, the fastest pacer ever bred in Canada, is high on Clarke Newton's list of priorities to get into top racing form. Here, at the Belleville barns, Clarke shows off his favorite. He hopes to have the five year old trotter ready to race by the fall.

Bayview Orchards Edged in Eight

It took them eight innings to do it, but Wannamaker and Boily Stables edged Bayview Orchards 3-2 in one of two games in the Prince Edward North Shore Softball League last night. In the other game, Palmer Fuels defeated Reserve, 4-1.

The Stablemen got two runs in the fourth inning to counter singles by Bayview in the first and fifth, but squeezed in a marker with two out in the bottom of the eighth for the winning margin.

Harold Werkhoven fired the win for W and B, touched for seven hits. He struck out one and walked none. Don Bonjer took the loss for Bayview, allowing nine hits. He whiffed six and walked two.

Doug Findlay had a double and single for the winners, with Gerry Vincent, Bill Cannons, and Werkhoven each stroking two singles. Art Burkholder rounded out the hitting with one safety.

Rick Rodrigues had three hits, including a double for Bayview, with George Daniels adding a pair of his. Gerry Inglis and Doug Mason also had singles for the losers.

In the nightcap, Palmer's scored a pair in the first inning and went on to shath Reserve by the three run margin.

Earl Cohen was on the mound for the win, allowing six hits, striking out five and walking three. Pat Maracle, Sr., worked for Reserve, giving up only five hits. He fanned five as well.

Lyle Johnston paced the winners with a triple and double, with Rod Wyatt, Bill Hubbs, and Chuck Kemp each adding safeties.

Maracle aided his own cause with a pair of singles for Reserve, with Lyell Shaver, Carman Selman, Doug Green and Clare Sero each bagging one bit.

Garvin and Wood Lead Simpsons-Sears

Simpson's—Sears recorded their second win of the season in the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League last night, dumping Robert Leonbert Construction 14-8. The team has 15 losses.

Joanne Garvin picked up the win, allowing only six hits. She fanned five and walked only two. Sue Fobert pitched for Construction girls, picked for 10 hits. She whiffed four and walked five.

Lynn Wood, Simpson's catcher, was the outstanding player in the game, socking a pair of home runs, one each in the sixth and seventh innings. Roseanne Coughlin also punched a four bagger, with two singles going to Nancy Bond.

Chris Paquet, Debby Johnston, and Brenda Wood each had singles to round out the Simpson's hitting.

Nancy Birch had a homer and single for the losers, with Mary Scanlan stroking a pair of safeties. Sandra and Pat Robson had one base hit each.

Elliott Tykes Win

PORT HOPE (Special) — Scoring at least once in every inning except the sixth, Brantville's Elliott Motors topped Port Hope 21-12 in an Eastern Ontario baseball Association tyke division contest here, Wednesday.

Included in the winners' potent attack was a five-run explosion and three four-run frames.

Three pitchers shared the hurling duties for Belleville, Rory MacLeod, Steve Taylor and Mike Leger combined to hold the home side to seven hits while striking out 11 and walking eight.

Bernard Beemus went all the way in defeat. Touched for 15 hits, he fanned 11 and walked nine.

Rick Manderville led the Belleville hitters with a triple, double and single. Stu Emerson and Rob Revoy each checked in with three singles.

Tops for Port Hope were Gerge Daniels with a double and a single, and Paul Sutton, two singles.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, July 19

Aries (March 21-April 19) It's to your advantage to press for a close on issues that are of importance to you at this time. Then you can move on to new projects.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Today will offer some surprises. They'll cause you to alter your course a bit. The changes will later prove to be favorable.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) An unusual act of conditions will develop that will enable you to wipe out an old obligation over the coming month.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) An interesting challenge is in store for you. It will take you off in a new direction. Give it your best—it'll be worth it.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Discard without looking back commitments that you've learned from experience benefit neither you nor those you've tried to help.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Over the next few weeks you'll be giving lots of your time to an interest you've felt was beyond your reach until now.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're entering a favorable achievement cycle. Before it ends, a goal that is important to you will be attained.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something will occur that will change your outlook considerably. The new perspective will allow you to see a broader picture.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a good time to check up on those who owe you old obligations. Let them know you'd like them cleared up now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A condition will be eliminated that has held you back lately. It has prevented you from getting something you've wanted badly.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you were to start on an exercise program now, you'd be likely to stick with it until you got the results you want.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 22) Someone you'll be meeting socially will become more than just a casual acquaintance. An interesting bond will develop.

Win at Bridge

By Oswald and James Jacoby

There are none so blind as they who will not see. Today's first appears to have been outstanding in that respect.

His blindness started with the bidding. He didn't have even one jack in his hand, but he wasn't vulnerable and he did hold 11 cards in two suits and a void in spades.

Probably he should have bid right away over South's four-spade bid. Certainly he should have acted after East doubled four spades. A four-notrump call at that spot would clearly mean asked East to bid a suit he could not be Blackwood. East would have obliged with five diamonds and made either five or six depending on the opening lead.

Anyway, West passed and spaded it, East "redoubled" and promptly led the nine of diamonds.

At this point West's blindness really showed up. He did not see that East had made a very unusual play and that he had a chance to win the trick with his 10 spot and lead a club to give East a ruff and set the contract. He just let East hold the trick.

After this there was no defence. South lost a trick to the ace of trumps, but that was all.

V-CARD-O

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 N.T.	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 9 5 4 ♥ A Q 8 3 ♦ 5 4 ♣ A K 6 2

What do you do now?

A—Bid four spades. What else?

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has bid four hearts over your three hearts. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Anything But Taxes

FREDERICKSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Residents here prefer work to taxes when it comes to raising the volunteer fire department. They put together proceeds from numerous social events over a two-year period to provide $38,000 for a new pumper. Since paying for a fire truck in 1968 by similar efforts, the community has obtained tankers in 1958 and 1961 and an emergency truck in 1967—all without tax levy.

Inflamed Heart Has Many Causes

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell the cause and cure of pericarditis. Inflammation of the fluid around the heart.—Mrs. G.L.

The cause? That's like asking the cause of a new flagpole. There are lots of causes.

To straighten this out for you, remember that pericarditis is usually the result of some infection which affects the pericardium, or lining around the heart.

It could be infection set up by viruses, fungi, parasites or bacteria. It may or may not be associated with other heart disease. Sometimes kidney or thyroid disease may play a part in it. Or one of the collagen diseases, such as lupus or rheumatoid arthritis. Or it may develop because of such diseases as tuberculosis or syphilis. Infrequently, injury as from a knife or bullet wound causes pericarditis.

In other words, pericarditis is inflammation. It can start from one or another, of the lining around the heart. As with inflammation anywhere, fluid is likely to collect around the inflamed area, and if enough fluid accumulates, it can exert enough pressure to interfere with full and proper filling of the heart.

So, obviously, pericarditis should be brought under control or promptly as possible to prevent added strain on the heart. But there is a secondary reason for effective treatment. As the damaged lining heals, scar formation can occur, and if too much scar again can limit expansion of the heart and thus the filling of it.

I'm sorry I can't give you a "cure for pericarditis," but I'm sure you now understand that, with so many possible causes, treatment appropriate to the specific cause has to be the answer—quite often it means treatment of the underlying disease which has led to the pericarditis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a kidney-stone attack. The stone was too large to pass. The doctor said next time it starts down and gets stuck they will operate on the kidney to remove the stone.

"Everyone" we've talked to says there is medicine to dissolve the stones or break them up so one small enough to pass. One was a nurse and another was a man whose father has had kidney stones.

Our doctor says there is no medicine to dissolve kidney stones. I'd sure like to find out before he resorts to an operation.—Mrs. J.M.
